DIGEST OF DECISIONS RELATING TO NATIONAL BANKS.

[The following Federal cases were reported in vol. 245, United States Reports, and vols. 244 to 250, Federal Reporter. Five State cases, one each from Kentucky, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and Vermont, are also given.]

CHECKS.

Checks—Deposits.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) In the absence of any special agreement between the depositors and a bank, title to checks deposited will pass to the bank, and it becomes merely a debtor for the amount thereof. (In re Jarmulowsky et al. Petition of Wilson. Petition of Bortz. 249 Fed. Rep., 319.)

Deposit of checks—Effect.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Whether there was any special agreement taking a deposit of checks out of the general rule, under which title would have passed to a bank and it would have become a debtor to the depositors for the amount thereof, is a question of fact. (Ib.)

Bills and notes—Indorsement—Effect.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where checks deposited were indorsed in blank, any lawful direction might be written over the blank indorsement. (Ib.)

Collections—Proceeds.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) When a bank, collecting checks as agent for a depositor, gets the money on the checks, the relation of debtor and creditor arises. (Ib.)

Deposit of checks—Effect.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where their passbooks provided that deposits of checks should not be drawn upon until collected, the checks so deposited belonged to the depositors until collection, even though they were indorsed in blank and commercial depositors were allowed to draw on deposits of checks, for the banker might have written any lawful direction above the blank indorsement, and the privilege in favor of commercial depositors, which was without consideration, might have been withdrawn at any time; so, where the checks were not collected until after a receiver took charge of the affairs of the banker, the depositors were entitled to the proceeds as against the receiver. (Ib.)

COLLECTIONS.

Pledges—Loss of title.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) A pledgee of promissory notes, residing in a city other than that where the notes are payable, does not, the notes being payable at the bank of the pledgor, lose title by sending them to the pledgor for collection, where the pledgor received them for that purpose only, unless they are assigned in due course, for value, before maturity, and without notice to a bona fide purchaser. (Stockyards Nat. Bank of St. Paul, Minn., v. First Nat. Bank of Towner, N. D., 249 Fed. Rep., 421.)

Bills and notes—Bona fide purchase of property of pledgor—Rights.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Plaintiff, which had received notes as collateral for a loan made to a bank at a distant city, transmitted the notes, which bore a blank indorsement on the back, to the pledgor bank for collection. The bills receivable register of the pledgor bank showed that all such notes had been erased, while the collection register showed that the notes were held by the pledgor bank for collection for plaintiff. Held, that a purchaser of the property of the pledgor bank, not being a bona fide purchaser within the law merchant, was not entitled to the notes as against plaintiff, for due diligence would have disclosed plaintiff's ownership. (Ib.)

Evidence—Bank registers.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where a pledgee of notes delivered them to the pledgor bank for collection, and the bank transferred its assets to defendant, who collected the same, the exclusion of the bills receivable register and the collection register of the pledgor bank, in an action by the pledgee to recover against the purchaser, was error. (Ib.)

Evidence—Judicial notice.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) That every bank keeps bills receivable registers and collection registers is so well known that courts may take judicial notice of the fact. (Ib.)

DEPOSITS.

Certificate of deposit—What constitutes.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Plaintiff and her husband had on deposit in a State bank a sum of money in excess of $15,000. On that date, in a conference between plaintiff and her husband and the cashier, it was agreed that $10,000 should be thereafter payable to plaintiff, whereupon an entry was made in one of the ordinary passbooks of the bank on the pages at the top of which were the words: "In account with ———, Avoca, Texas." "Avoca State Bank, Dr. in acc't with ———, Cr." At the left-hand side were the words, "April 1st amount $10,000.00 described on following page," while on the opposite page were the words, "Amount at interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum interest payable monthly to the credit of" plaintiff, and following which was a notation, "Interest paid April 1st," signed by the cashier without the addition of the word "cashier" after his name. Thereafter, the bank became financially embarrassed, and a special agent named by the commissioner of banking of Texas took possession, and as a result defendant agreed, in consideration of the delivery of the assets of such bank, to assume and pay all depositors the balances due them as shown by the books of such bank, also all unpaid certificates of deposit, cashiers' checks, etc. Held that, though the books of the bank did not show plaintiff's claim, yet the passbook, being signed by the bank and by the cashier, amounted to a certificate of deposit, and the plaintiff was entitled to recover thereon against defendant. (Citizens National Bank of Stamford, Tex., v. Pigg et al, 246 Fed. Rep., 902.)

Certificate of deposit—Action on—Parties.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In such case, as defendant assumed the debt of the bank to plaintiff and took over the assets to which she had a right to look for payment under a contract made by a State officer for her credit, she was entitled to sue at law without the intervention of a trustee. (Ib.)

Certificates of deposit.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In such case, the statement that the amount of $10,000 was at interest was sufficient to show a consideration for the obligation of the bank to pay it. (Ib.)

Certificate of deposit—Action on—Pleading.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In such case, as the certificate of deposit was signed by the bank, although the notation as to interest was signed by the cashier, liability was fixed by the signature of the bank, and no allegation was necessary to show that the cashier who did not add to his name the word "cashier" signed the interest notation in his official capacity. (Ib.)

Contracts—Impeachment.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where, a Texas state bank being in financial difficulties and in the charge of a special agent of the commissioner of banking, defendant another state bank, entered into an agreement with the special agent to assume the liabilities of the embarrassed institution in consideration of the transfer of its assets, defendant can not thereafter defeat an action by a creditor of the embarrassed bank on the ground that the special agent had no authority to make a contract; defendant not undertaking to return the assets and restore the embarrassed institution to its former condition. (Ib.)

Presumption of debts—Evidence.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In such case, evidence of subsequent agreements made between defendant and the directorate of the embarrassed institution are inadmissible to affect its liability to a creditor of the embarrassed institution. (Ib.)

Actions—Evidence.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In such case, evidence of deeds of trust made by certain directors of the embarrassed bank to secure defendant in repayment of losses arising out of the transaction is admissible in an action by the holder of a certificate of deposit payment of which defendant assumed. (Ib.)

FORGED OR ALTERED PAPER.

United States—Acceptance of bill—Repudiation.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) The United States can no more repudiate its acceptance, and recover what its Treasurer paid on a bill with the drawer's name forged, than can a private person. (United States v. Chase Nat. Bank, 250 Fed. Rep., 105.)

Bills and notes—Forged bills—Bill payable to bearer.

(U. S. C. C. A. 1918.) Where a sergeant, who assisted a disbursing officer of the Army, forged the officer's name as drawer and indorser of a draft made payable to the order of such officer, a bank, which received the draft in due course from the institution which cashed it, did not guarantee the forged indorsement of the officers name, for under Negotiable Instruments Law, N. Y. (Consol. Laws, N. Y., c. 38) sec. 28, subd. 3, such draft was payable to bearer, as it was payable to the order of a fictitious or nonexisting person, and such fact was known to the sergeant, who made it so payable. (Ib.)

INSOLVENCY AND RECEIVERS.

Receivers' Liability for Taxes on Assets.

Receivers—Authority of—Instructions.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Receivers are officers of the court, and may properly ask instructions concerning the administration of the property in their charge, and so it is their duty, if they believe a tax to be unlawful, to apply for instructions whether to pay the same. (Scott Collector of Internal Revenue v. Western Pacific Railroad Co., 246 Fed. Rep., 545.)

Receivers—Instructions—Enjoining taxes.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Despite Rev. St. § 3224 (Comp. St. 1916, § 5947), declaring that no suit for the purpose of restraining the assessment or collection of any tax shall be maintained, receivers, as officers of the court, may, where they deem the property or income from the property in their charge not to be subject to tax, as contended by collecting officials, apply to the appointing court for instructions as to payment. (Ib.)

Internal revenue—Income taxes—Property in charge of receiver.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Act Oct. 3, 1913, c. 16, § 2, A to N, inclusive, 38 Stat. 166, making detailed provision for the imposition and collection of income taxes from individuals and corporations, joint-stock corporations, or associations organized for profit and having a capital stock represented by shares, omitted the word "receivers." Prior to the adoption of such statute it had been held, under Corporation Tax Act Aug. 5, 1909, c. 6, § 38, 36 Stat. 112, which also omitted reference to receivers, that excise taxes could not be imposed upon a receiver of a corporation. Held, in view of such construction, and of the fact that Income Tax Act Sept. 8, 1916, c. 463, pt. 2, § 13, subd. "c," 39 Stat. 771 (Comp. St. 1916, § 6336m), provided for payment of income taxes by corporate receivers, that no income tax could be assessed on income collected by receiver of an insolvent corporation, the reference in Act Oct. 3, 1913, § 2, subds. "d" and "e," to receivers showing that the term was used with respect to receivers of individuals. (Ib.)

INTEREST AND USURY.

Usury—President of bank—Liability of bank.

(Okla. Sup., 1918.) Where the president of a bank, having full power to make loans for the bank takes more than the legal rate of interest, the bank is liable for usury, although the president charges the excess over the legal rate as commission and retains it as his individual property. (McCarthy v. Liberty National Bank, 7 Okla. Appellate Court Reporter, 226.)

Usury—Change of bank.

(Okla. Sup., 1918.) Where a bank is reincorporated as a national bank under a new name, but the personnel, officers, management, and business remains the same, the new bank is liable for usury charged and collected by the old bank. (Ib.)

LIQUIDATION.

Voluntary liquidation—Transfer of business and assets—Construction of contract.

(U. S. Dist. C., 1917.) A resolution of the directors of the Commercial National Bank provided for its liquidation by and consolidation with the American National Bank of the same city, and the transfer of its business and all of its assets to the American to secure the latter for all advances made in the payment of the liabilities of the Commercial, which it was to assume. It was also to liquidate the assets of the Commercial, without charge for its services, and account to the stockholders for any surplus. By a complementary resolution of its directors, the American agreed to accept the proposal if, "in the estimation of the officers" of the American, the assets of the Commercial were sufficient in value to protect and secure it for payment of the debts of the Commercial. The transfer was made and accepted by the American, and afterward a memorandum contract was entered into between the two banks, reciting that it was to carry out the purposes of the resolutions of their respective directors. By this contract the American agreed to pay the indebtedness of the Commercial, which was definitely stated, and hold its assets as security, and to liquidate the same in accordance with the prior resolutions. The Commercial agreed to secure a ratification of the liquidation by its shareholders, which was done and approved by the Comptroller. Held, that the contract must be construed as a whole, and in the light of the resolutions which it was intended to carry out, and which measured the rights and obligations of the parties; that, so construed, it created no relation of debtor and creditor between the two banks, but was in effect a purchase by the American of the business and assets of the Commercial, in consideration of the payment of its debts and the accounting for the excess of assets, if any. (American National Bank of Macon v. Commercial National Bank of Macon et al., 246 Fed. Rep., 721.)

Liquidation agent—Authority.

(U. S. Dist. C., 1917.) A loan to a liquidation agent of a national banking association cannot make stockholders individually liable under Rev. St. § 5220 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9806), and section 5151. (American National Bank of Macon v. Commercial National Bank of Macon, 248 Fed. Rep. 187.)

Liquidation contracts—Ratification by stockholder.

(U. S. Dist. C., 1917.) The directors of defendant national bank recommended by resolution that it was expedient to go into voluntary liquidation, under Rev. St. §§ 5220, 5223 (Comp. St. 1916, §§ 9806, 9810), providing that any association may go into liquidation and be closed by the vote of its shareholders owning two-thirds of its stock, and declaring that an association which is in good faith winding up its business for the purpose of consolidating with another shall not be required to deposit lawful money for its outstanding circulation, and that the question of a consolidation with complainant bank by a sale of the assets of the bank should be submitted to stockholders. Though the directors of the defendant bank had authorized its officers to transfer to complainant all of its assets as cash or as collateral for its notes, the assets had been turned over, but no notes had been taken indicating any indebtedness. Defendant's stockholders ratified the resolution of the board of directors, transferring and assigning the assets of their corporation to complainant. Complainant by resolution assumed defendant's debts, and authorized its directors to contract with the directors of defendant, or such liquidating agent as might be appointed. Held, that as the contract submitted to and ratified by the stockholders was plainly a sale, and created no debt, and all of the stockholders did not participate in the ratification, they cannot be held liable individually as stockholders by complainant, which assumed the obligations of the defendant bank, particularly as a loan to a liquidating agent could not make the stockholders individually liable. (Ib.)

Dissolution—Stockholders.

(U. S. Dist. C., 1917.) In such case, the acts and conduct of the directors of defendant cannot bind the stockholders, who had a right to rely on a written resolution of liquidation; the acts of the directors not being a practical construction by the stockholders. (Ib.)

Construction—Acts of parties.

(U. S. Dist. C., 1917.) In such case, a subsequent stockholder's resolution authorizing the sale of a portion of the property of defendant national bank, had two years after they ratified the agreement with the directors, is not admissible as the construction of a contract between the two banks. (Ib.)

NEGOTIABLE PAPER.

Bonds—"Negotiable instruments"—What constitutes.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Bonds issued by an irrigation district under Act, Cal., March 7, 1887, section 15, providing for election for submitting question of bonds, and declaring that such bonds shall be negotiable in form, are "negotiable instruments." (Rialto Irr. Dist. v. Stowell. Stowell v. Rialto Irr. Dist., 246 Fed. Rep., 295.)

Alteration of instruments—"Material alteration"—Filling blank—"Material particular."

(Vt. Sup., 1917.) A renewal note having a blank line before the words "after date" was delivered, but the old note was not surrendered because the payee was told that the note was given to prevent protest of the old one, but that if it was desired to run the note through the books of the payee bank the blank could be filled in. A few days short of four months after the note was given the cashier inserted the words "four months" in the blank, canceled the old note, and entered the new one in its stead on the books of the bank. Held, that the insertion of the words in the blank was not a "material alteration," rendering the note unenforceable, in view of negotiable instruments act (Laws 1912, No. 99), section 14, providing that if the instrument is wanting in any material particular, the person in possession thereof has prima facie authority to complete it by filling in the blanks therein; the term "material particular," as used, not meaning such as may be necessary to make the instrument a negotiable note, but including any particular proper to be inserted. (Howard Nat. Bank v. Arbuckle, 102 Atlantic Rep., 477.)

OFFICERS.

Bonds of Officers.

Indemnity bond—Construction of policy.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Under surety bond guaranteeing plaintiff against losses on account of defalcations of employes. Held, despite rider extending provisions of bond to losses occurring previous to bond, and not covered by bond issued by another company, defendant was liable only for one aggregate sum, though losses during each period amounted to that sum. (Maryland Casualty Co. v. First Nat. Bank of Montgomery, Ala., 246 Fed. Rep., 892.)

Indemnity bond—Construction of policy.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where surety bond for given term was renewed, Held, that defendant, though liable to amount of principal sum for defalcations occurring during first term, might be held liable in that sum for defalcations occurring during second term. (Ib.)

Indemnity bond—Statement of losses.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Statement of losses by national banking association through defalcations of employee held sufficient, stating with sufficient particularity to sustain judgment against insurer the losses sustained. (Ib.)

Powers of and Representation of Bank by Officers.

Transactions between banks—Representation by officers.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Officers of bank A executed their individual notes to each other, which they indorsed and, attaching a guaranty by the bank, discounted them with a correspondent bank, B. Although bank A did not own nor indorse the notes, it was agreed that their proceeds should be placed to its credit by bank B, and that the greater part of such credit should remain untouched until the notes were paid. The greater part of the amount of the notes was subsequently charged to the account of bank A. The only entry of the transaction on its own books was the charge of the amount of the deposit to bank B, and the same amount was placed to the credit of the individual officers or others designated by them. The guaranty of the notes was not authorized by the directors of bank A, and sufficient appeared in the transaction to charge bank B with notice that it was for the personal benefit of the makers of the notes and not of their bank. Held that, on a subsequent settlement, bank B could not enforce such charges against bank A, which derived no benefit therefrom, on the principle that, where one of two parties must suffer from the fraud of a third, the loss must fall on him who by his imprudence or cooperation enabled such third party to commit the fraud. (Wagner et al. v Central Banking & Security Co., 249 Fed. Rep., 145.)

Representation of bank by officers—Indorsement or guaranty.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) An officer of a bank without express authority from the directors has no power to bind the bank by an accommodation indorsement or guaranty, and an attempted guaranty of notes that the bank has never owned is illegal, unless for the benefit of the bank in the conduct of its business. (Ib.)

Representation of bank by officers—Individual interest of officer.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) There is a dead line between the area of official representation of a bank by its officers and the area of their personal interest, and when they cross that dead line, to the knowledge of one with whom they are dealing, they leave behind all power of representation. (Ib.)

Knowledge of officials—Imputation to principal.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where the president of a bank introduced a stockman to plaintiff, another bank, which was the metropolitan correspondent of the one of which he was president, and induced plaintiff to make loans to him on chattel mortgages, the notes being signed, not only by the stockman, but by the president, the president's knowledge that funds deposited in the bank of which he was an official to the credit of the stockman were the proceeds of sales of mortgaged cattle is not, by reason of his official position, imputable to the bank of which he was president, so as to impress such funds with a trust in favor of plaintiff; it appearing that the president induced the stockman to dispose of the mortgaged cattle without notifying plaintiff, or delivering the proceeds, and was a party to a scheme, with reference to the disposition of the cattle, which, if not criminal, was fraudulent and bordering thereon. (Interstate Nat. Bank of Kansas City, Mo., v. Yates Center Nat. Bank of Yates Center, Kan., et al., 245 Fed. Rep., 294.)

Liability of bank—Representations of president.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Regarding liability of a bank for fraudulent representations of its president in sale to plaintiff of stock of the bank owned by Y., requiring restoration of plaintiff to his prior situation, the president was acting for it, and not for Y., his acts, with the approval of its governing board, being for the purpose of complying with the direction given it by the comptroller of the currency to reduce Y.'s indebtedness to it, and Y., when approached, stating that, if the bank would advance money to redeem such stock which he had pledged, and would sell it and apply the proceeds on his indebtedness to it, he would sell other securities and reduce his indebtedness with the proceeds; and this though after such sale was made Y. failed to keep his agreement as to further sales and reduction of his debt. (Salter v. Williams et al., 244 Fed. Rep., 126.)

Rescission of stock purchase—Insolvency—Double liability.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Double liability under Rev. St., section 5151, of a holder of full-paid stock in a national bank, does not prevent the stockholder, after insolvency of the bank and appointment of a receiver, rescinding his purchase thereof for fraudulent representations of the bank's president acting for it in the sale of the stock; the stockholder paying his assessment under such statute, and disclaiming intention to sue for its recovery. (Ib.)

Rescission of stock purchase—Insolvency—Subscriber to stock.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) A purchaser of fully paid stock of a national bank is not a subscriber to its stock, liable for an uncompleted contract of subscription, as regards his right to rescind, after insolvency of the bank, the purchase, for fraudulent representations of its president, acting for it, though it loaned him part of the money for the purchase, and he is still indebted to it therefor. (Ib.)

Rescission of stock purchase—Insolvency—Priority of claims.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) No liability to creditors of a national bank preventing, a purchaser of stock therein may, after appointment of a receiver for it, rescind his purchase for prior fraud of the bank, with right to redress out of the funds in the receiver's hands like that of an ordinary creditor whose claim was contracted before the receivership. (Ib.)

Authority of vice president—Usual course of business—Antagonistic interest.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) While the vice president of a bank intrusted with the general transaction of its business has authority to bind it in any matter which in due course of business falls under the authority of an executive officer of a bank, yet if the transaction with him is so out of the usual course of business as to put on notice the one dealing with him that he is using the bank's name and credit in his own business, or that he is representing his own or any antagonistic interest, he stands before the person dealing with him stripped of his representative capacity, and powerless to bind the bank. (First Nat. Bank of Sutton, W. Va., et al., v. Drovers' & Mechanics' Nat. Bank of Baltimore, Md., 244 Fed. Rep., 135.)

Fraud of vice president—Usual course of business—Antagonistic interests.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) D., treasurer of F., a bank, as such applied to B., a bank, for a loan to F., and on forged resolution of F.'s directors authorizing borrowing, B discounted note of D. to F. indorsed by D. in name of F., taking as collateral a note indorsed by payee and another, then by D. individually, and thereafter by him in the name of F. After F. had merged in N., a bank which assumed certain of F.'s liabilities, but not the discounted note, of which it did not know, D., who had become vice president of N., on forged resolution of N.'s directors, authorizing payment in such manner, procured B. to take in payment of the note a note of D. to N. indorsed by him in its name, the discount being paid by check drawn by D. as vice president to himself individually, and by him indorsed. Held, as regards liability of N. on the substituted note, that the transaction was so out of the usual course and so showed the antagonistic interests of D. as an individual and as treasurer of F. and as vice president of N. as to put B. on notice. (Ib.)

Trust companies—Knowledge of agent—Imputable to principal.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where a trust company, which was trustee under a mortgage securing bonds, conducted the usual business of such an institution by departments having to do separately with banking, trusts, mortgages, etc., knowledge of a teller in the banking department of the mortgagor's default in the payment of interest coupons on the bonds secured is imputable to the trust company as trustee. (Browning v. Fidelity Trust Co., 250 Fed. Rep., 321.)

Acts of cashier—Liability of bank therefor.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where the cashier of defendant bank represented to plaintiff, who had previously rediscounted paper for defendant, that a note was part of the assets of the defendant, and plaintiff discounted the note, defendant, having received the proceeds, can not escape liability on the ground that the note did not in fact belong to it. (Meyer & Chapman State Bank v. First National Bank of Cody, 248 Fed. Rep., 679.)

OFFICERS' CIVIL LIABILITY OF.

Directors—Liability.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Until some special necessity for action on their part is brought to their attention, directors of a national bank are entitled to rely on the cashier to guard against deficiencies in methods of bookkeeping which would enable subordinate employees to appropriate the bank's funds, and need not interfere independently. (Dresser v. Bates. Gale. et al. v. Same. Bunker et al. v. Same, 250 Fed. Rep., 525.)

National bank directors—Authority.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) A by-law, adopted by the first board of directors of a national bank, requiring semiannual examinations by a committee of the board, may, in the absence of circumstances showing that it was inconsistent with good judgment and prudence, and without charging them with negligence, be waived by a later board; the by-law having been adopted before the amendment of 1874 (Act June 20, 1874, c. 343, 18 Stat., 123) to the National Banking Act (Act June 3, 1864, c. 106, 13 Stat., 99), which permits directors to allow incidental powers necessary to carry on the business to be exercised by officers or agents. (Ib.)

Insolvency—Liability of directors.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Though the by-laws of a national bank provided for semi-annual examinations by a committee to be appointed by the board of directors, whose duty it should be to examine into the affairs of the bank, count its cash, and compare its assets and liabilities with the balance on the general ledger, the failure of directors to regularly make such examinations, coupled with the fact that in those examinations made the cashier's ledger was accepted as showing the amount due depositors, can not be deemed negligence, rendering the directors liable for the defalcations of a bookkeeper, where there was nothing to put the directors on inquiry, and the bookkeeper so skillfully concealed his peculations that he deceived the national bank examiners. (Ib.)

Directors—Liability—Negligence.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) The question whether the directors of a national bank were negligent in failing to discover defalcations by a bookkeeper must be determined in view of the circumstances surrounding the directors at the time of their alleged negligence, rather than by reference to the situation afterwards discovered and exposed by expert accountants. (Ib.)

President—Liability.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) It is the duty of the president of a national bank, who practically manages the institution, to use reasonable diligence to know the character and habits of the bank's employees, and where he was warned that a bookkeeper, who in fact was stealing the bank's funds, was leading a fast life, and should be watched, his failure to make any inquiry, in view of the fact that there were other suspicious circumstances, which could hardly have escaped his notice, was negligence, rendering the president liable for the bookkeeper's subsequent peculations. (Ib.)

Notice—What constitutes.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where the president of a national bank, who managed the institution, was warned that a bookkeeper was leading a fast life, and should be watched, he is, the notice and other circumstances being sufficient to attract attention and call for an inquiry, chargeable with knowledge of everything to which the inquiry might have lead. (Ib.)

President—Liability.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where the president of a bank, who was also one of the largest stockholders and a director, assumed management of the institution, and the other directors acquiesced, he is liable for a negligent failure to inquire into the habits and acts of an employee against whom he had been warned, even though the president received no compensation for such services. (Ib.)

Insolvency—Liability of directors.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) Where national bank directors, when they discovered an apparent shrinkage in deposits, were advised by the cashier that it was due to business conditions, they can not, having had no reason to believe that a bookkeeper was despoiling the bank, be deemed negligent in failing to investigate the books, which would have shown that the apparent reduction in deposits was the result of the bookkeeper's manipulations and intended to cover his peculations. (Ib.)

Directors—Liability.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) The failure of defendant, a director of a national bank, to act on a statement made to him by the president of another institution that it was reported an officer of defendant's bank was frequenting bucket shops and living pretty fast, can not, where no name was mentioned, be deemed negligence on the part of defendant, rendering him liable for the peculations of a bookkeeper of his institution, which were being carried on at that time. (Ib.)

Repayment of loans—Acceptance of bank's stock.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) A bank, although without power to purchase its own stock, may lawfully accept such stock in repayment of a loan which the directors deem precarious. (Noyes v. Wood et al., 247 Fed. Rep., 72.)

Illegal purchase of stock—Liability of directors.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Evidence held insufficient to establish the good faith of the directors of a bank and exonerate them from personal liability for misappropriating the bank's funds, where, although it was without power under its charter to purchase its own stock, its funds were in fact used, although indirectly, to pay for the stock of a stockholder. (Ib.)

Misappropriation of funds—Purchase of stock from capital.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) A writing by which a member of a partnership, whose business was taken over by a newly organized bank, agreed to take stock in the bank for his share of the firm's assets, held to bind him as a stockholder, and a transaction by which he was paid cash in lieu of the stock, after he had served as cashier of the bank and knew that he was carried on the books as a stockholder, held an illegal diversion of the funds of the bank, which a subsequent receiver was entitled to have set aside. (Ib.)

Liability of directors—Adverse interest in transaction.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) The receiver of an insolvent bank held entitled to recover from the directors damages sustained by the bank by reason of the purchase from a partnership, of which two of the directors were members, at face value, of assets which proved to be worthless, and which were known by the directors at the time to be of doubtful value. (Ib.)

Liability of directors—Misappropriation of funds.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) The payment by a bank of accrued interest on notes purchased from a partnership, not provided for by the written contract between the parties, held an illegal diversion of the funds of the bank, for which the directors participating were liable. (Ib.)

Liability of directors—Misappropriation of funds.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) A bank bought stock of another bank, and at the same time gave an option to another to purchase the stock within a year at the same price. At the end of the year the option was exercised by the holder and another, both of whom were then directors, and with the concurrence of the other directors the stock was transferred to them without the payment of any interest to the bank, which in the meantime had received no dividends on the stock. Held, that all the directors participating were liable to the receiver of the bank for legal interest on the investment so carried by it for the sole benefit of the purchasing directors. (Ib.)

Misappropriation by cashier—Liability to depositor.

(Pa. Sup., 1917.) Where a depositor desired to transfer certain funds on deposit in the savings department of a bank to her husband, and the bank's cashier prepared a receipt for an amount which the depositor signed, and entered credit in the pass book of the depositor's husband for an equal amount, and entered on the books of the bank a withdrawal of that amount from the account of the depositor, and withdrew from the bank the amount of the receipt and misappropriated it, the bank was liable to the depositor's husband for such amount. (Gonder et al. v. Farmers Nat. Bank of Somerset, 102 Atlantic Rep., 510.)

Misappropriation by cashier—Action—Evidence.

(Pa. Sup., 1917.) In such case the exclusion of defendant's offer to put in evidence its loose-leaf ledger sheet showing the omission of such item was not error, as the bank could not relieve itself from the payment of the money because its officers failed to make a proper entry on its books. (Ib.)

Misappropriation by cashier—Liability.

(Pa. Sup., 1917.) Where a certain amount was withdrawn from plaintiff's account by defendant's cashier without any evidence that he was authorized to make such withdrawal, the jury were properly instructed to allow plaintiff to recover such amount. (Ib.)

Principal and agent—Agency—Evidence.

(Pa. Sup., 1917.) Where the cashier of a bank withdrew a certain amount from a depositor's account, his deposit with the bank's papers of a receipt signed by himself for the plaintiff did not establish his agency to withdraw the amount or justify the submission of the question of agency to the jury. (Ib.)

Misappropriation by cashier—Action—Evidence.

(Pa. Sup., 1917.) The exclusion of the bank's ledger sheet showing the withdrawal of several amounts from a depositor's account by its cashier was not error, as it could not escape payment of the money by showing a charge of such withdrawals to plaintiff without evidence of authority to make such charge. (Ib.)

Witnesses—Privilege—Attorney and client.

(Pa. Sup., 1917.) In action against bank to recover amounts misappropriated from an account by its cashier, testimony of plaintiff's counsel as to his conversation with plaintiff in the presence of the cashier after his relation with bank had terminated was privileged and inadmissible. (Ib.)

OFFICERS' CRIMINAL LIABILITY OF.

Offenses—Evidence—Sufficiency.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In a prosecution for misapplication of the funds, moneys, and credits of a national bank, in violation of Rev. St. § 5209 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9772), evidence held insufficient to sustain a conviction on a particular charge of abstraction of moneys. (McCallum v. United States, 247 Fed. Rep., 27.)

Embezzlement—Evidence—Hypothetical charge.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In a prosecution for misapplication of the funds of a national bank, in violation of Rev. St. § 5209, where the prosecution contended that defendant, the assistant cashier, failed to enter on the proper books $110.80 interest allowed the bank by a correspondent bank, and that, as the cash balance subsequently showed a shortage of $5.53, he must have abstracted the $110.80, the action of the court, interrogating the cashier, a witness for the prosecution, as to a hypothetical case of embezzlement of a deposit not entered on the books, was prejudicial, not being warranted by the evidence and tending to mislead the jury and prejudice them against defendant; this being particularly true as the cash showed a shortage, and, had defendant merely failed to enter the $110.80 interest on the proper book, the cash would not have balanced. (Ib.)

Instructions—Credibility of testimony of accused.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In a prosecution for misapplication of the moneys, funds and credits of a national bank, in violation of Rev. St. § 5209, declaring that any officer of a national banking association, who embezzles, abstracts, or willfully misapplies any of the moneys, funds, or credits of the association with intent to injure or defraud the association or any other company, body politic or corporate, or any individual person, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, the court denied requested charges that in order to justify a conviction of defendant, who was assistant cashier of the bank alleged to have been defrauded, the jury must be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant intended by his acts to defraud the bank. The general charge instructed the jury on the presumption of defendant's innocence, the necessity of proof of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, that there was an allegation in the indictment that the acts charged were done with intent to injure or defraud the bank, that the intent charged might be proven by the act done, that one may be presumed to have intended the natural and probable consequences of acts done, though such presumption is rebuttable, and that if a man knows the act he is about to commit will naturally or necessarily have the effect of injuring or defrauding another, and he voluntarily does the act, he is chargeable in law with the intention to injure or defraud. The court then summond up its charge in these words: "So the question for you to determine from all the evidence in this case is whether his intention in these different acts was to injure and defraud, by taking into consideration what the natural effect was and whether willful or lawful." Held, the charge minimized too much the testimony of the defendant as to his intent, and restricted the jury in determining his intent too closely to the consideration of the rebuttable presumption of law that one may be presumed to have intended the natural and probable consequences of his acts intentionally done. (Ib.)

Offenses—Indictment.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) An indictment charging a misapplication of the moneys, funds, and credits of a national bank, in violation of Rev. St. § 5209, which contained no averment that a credit which it alleged defendant unlawfully took with the bank ever injured the bank or caused it loss, is defective. (Ib.)

Offenses—Indictment.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Under Rev. St., sec. 5209, an indictment charging misapplication of the moneys, funds, and credits of a national bank is defective, where it did not charge that the moneys, funds, and credits were misapplied with intent to injure and defraud the banking association or any other company, body politic or corporate, or any individual person. (Ib.)

Criminal law—Review on appeal—Harmless error.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) The admission of evidence is not ground for reversal in a criminal case, where the same facts were afterwards shown by defendant's testimony. (Garanflo v. United States. Duncan v. Same, 246 Fed. Rep., 910.)

Prosecution—Evidence of intent.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In a prosecution for willful misapplication of the funds of a national bank by defendants, who were its managing officers, evidence was admissible to show that in their reports to the directors defendants did not mention a large overdraft by a corporation of which they were the principal stockholders. (Ib.)

Pleas in abatement—Irregularity in drawing of grand jury.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) The right to file a plea in abatement for irregularity in drawing the grand jury, months after the indictment was returned, is not absolute, but subject to the sound discretion of the court, and its refusal to rule on such a plea, filed without leave seven months after the indictment was returned, and after two prior pleas had been ruled on, was not error. (Matters v. United States, 244 Fed. Rep., 736.)

Evidence—Relevancy.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) On the trial of an indictment charging a violation of the national banking law (Rev. St., section 5209 (Comp. St. 1916, section 9772)), by aiding and inducing the president of a national bank to issue a certificate of deposit without consideration to the bank, which defendant used in part payment of an indebtedness of his own, evidence showing the entire transaction between defendant and his creditor, who was a widow, and tending to show that he attempted to defraud her, was irrelevant to the issue, and its admission was prejudicial error. (Ib.)

OFFSETS.

Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction of bankruptcy court—Adverse claim to property.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) A bank can not acquire the right to set off against an indebtedness to it money deposited by a bankrupt after the filing of the petition against him, so as to require a plenary suit by the trustee for its recovery, but he may proceed by petition for a summary order in the bankruptcy proceeding. (Reed v. Barnett Nat. Bank of Jacksonville. In re Long, 250 Fed. Rep., 983.)

Assignments—Actions by assignee—Defenses.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) All defenses and set-offs available against an assignor of a chose in action are available against his assignee. (Wagner et al. v. Central Banking & Security Co., 249 Fed. Rep., 145.)

POWERS.

Corporations—Ultra vires note—Right to urge defense.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1918.) In an action by a bank on a note of a corporation indorsed by another, where it was contended that the note was ultra vires, the corporation, having received from the original and primary debtors, who used the note, full satisfaction of the amount, is not entitled to urge the defense of ultra vires. (Burke Brick Co. et al. v. First Nat. Bank of Cape Girardeau, Mo. Burke Bros. v. Same. Burke et al. v. Same, 249 Fed. Rep., 607.)

Power to negotiate loans for others.

(Oreg. Sup., 1917.) National banks have no power to negotiate loans for others. (Pollock v. Lumbermen's National Bank of Portland, 168 Pacific Reporter, 616.)

Action against national bank—Defense.

(Oreg. Sup., 1917.) A national bank's want of authority to act as broker in negotiating a loan for another is available as a defense to the bank, in an action against it by the lender, for whom it acted, for damages from its failure to lend on sound security. (Pollock v. Lumbermen's National Bank of Portland, 168 Pacific Reporter, 616.)

SHAREHOLDERS.

Right of Shareholder to Inspect List of Shareholders.

Stockholder in national bank may inspect list of stockholders.

(Ky. Appeals, 1913.) A bona fide stockholder in a national bank is entitled to inspect the list of stockholders under the statute and take such memoranda therefrom as he may wish without regard to his motive for making the inspection. But one who is not a stockholder in good faith is not entitled to such inspection, and will not be aided by injunction to obtain it. (Murray et al. v. Walker, 156 Ky., 536.)

Assessments.

Stockholders—Double liability.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where a person, with full knowledge of the fact, becomes a record shareholder in a national banking association, the double liability imposed by Rev. St., section 5151, continues until by his act he removes his name from the record, and a transfer of his shares without a change in the corporate records does not free him from liability. (Williams v. Vreeland, 244 Fed. Rep., 346.)

Shareholders—Liability—"Ratification."

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where a person becomes and for a time continues to be a registered shareholder in a national banking association without knowledge of that fact, he does not incur the double liability imposed by Rev. St., section 5151, unless he approves the transfer by a ratification which implies an intended approval with full knowledge, and until such ostensible shareholder does or assents to some act of the party creating the alleged relation, no estoppel can arise. (Ib.)

Shareholders—Prima facie liability.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Proof that defendant was a shareholder of record in a national banking association and that she did nothing to remove her name establishes a prima facie case of the liability to assessment for the double liability imposed by Rev. St., section 5151. (Ib.)

Suit against stockholder—Burden of proof—Shifting of burden.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where a bank receiver suing to enforce an assessment against a shareholder makes out a prima facie case, the burden of proving nonliability shifts to the shareholder. (Ib.)

Shareholders—Liability—"Ratification."

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where a husband without her knowledge transferred to his wife on the books of a national banking association stock owned by him the wife's indorsement of a check payable to the husband and indorsed by him, which was drawn in payment of a dividend declared before the transfer, does not amount to a ratification rendering her liable as a shareholder; the check not indicating that she was the holder of the shares. (Ib.)

Stockholders—Liability—Evidence—"Ratification."

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) In suit by the receiver of a national bank to enforce an assessment against defendant, who appeared on the books of the association as a shareholder, where defendant denied liability on the ground that the shares had been transferred to her by her husband without her knowledge, and that she had never ratified the transaction, the fact that defendant, at the request of her husband, who, in answer to questions, merely informed her that he had made a mistake, indorsed a power of attorney on the back of the certificates to such stock, did not, where she was not informed that the certificates were in her name, establish a ratification of the transfer, rendering defendant liable as a shareholder, and a contrary finding was warranted. (Ib.)

Evidence—Presumptions.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where a wife indorsed certificates of bank stock which had been transferred on the books of the banking association to her by her husband without knowledge, there is a presumption of law that she knew the nature of the transaction. (Ib.)

Evidence—Presumptions—Effect.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) A presumption stands in lieu of evidence of the fact, and may support a finding if not rebutted. (Ib.)

Appeal and error—Review—Verdict.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) Where the presumptions and evidence are conflicting, a verdict of the jury thereon is conclusive. (Ib.)

Trial—Binding instruction—Effect of request.

(U. S. C. C. A., 1917.) A prayer by each party for binding instructions in his favor is equivalent to a joint request for a finding of fact by the court, and does not amount to a submission without the intervention of a jury within Rev. St., sections 649, 700 (Comp. St. 1916, sections 1587, 1668); hence the direction of a verdict by the court is conclusive. (Ib.)

Comptroller has discretionary power to withdraw assessment.

(U. S. Sup., 1917.) Comptroller of Currency has discretionary power to withdraw assessment on shareholders before it is paid, or when partly paid. (Korbly v. Springfield Inst. for Savings, 245 U. S. R., 330.)

When second assessment is void.

(U. S. Sup., 1917.) Where sums paid by savings banks to receiver of national bank in which they held shares were intended to be applied against their liabilities under National Bank Act, to enforce which an assessment was then outstanding, second assessment, exceeding difference between their statutory liabilities and amounts so paid, is void. (Ib.)

TAXATION.

Taxation—National banks—"Capital stock."

(U. S. Dist. Ct., 1917.) Rev. St. § 5219 (Act June 3, 1864, c. 106, § 41, 13 Stat. 111, as amended by Act Feb. 10, 1868, c. 7, 15 Stat. 34 [Comp. St. 1916, § 9784]), empowers states to tax shares of stock of national banks by including them in the valuation of the personal property of the owners, subject to the restriction that shares owned by nonresidents shall be fixed in the city or town where the bank is located. Act Dec. 23, 1913, c. 6, 38 Stat. 251, providing for Federal Reserve Banks, by section 2 (Comp. St. 1916, § 9786), requires national banks to accept its provisions under penalty of forfeiture of franchise, and provides the percentage of subscriptions to the stock of Federal Reserve Banks, while section 7 (section 9791) declares that Federal Reserve Banks, including the capital stock and surplus therein, shall be exempt from taxation. Held that, as the "capital stock" of a corporation differs from the shares of stock and is the property or funds contributed by stockholders as a basis for the business, section 5219 was not modified by Act Dec. 23, 1913, and taxes assessed against an Ohio National bank under Gen. Code, Ohio, §§ 5408, 5410, 5411, 5412, 5672, on account of the bank's ownership of shares of stock in a Federal Reserve Bank, are collectible, and no exemption can be allowed because the capital stock of the Reserve Bank is exempt. (First National Bank of Cincinnati v. Durr County Auditor et al., 246 Fed. Rep., 163.)

NOTE.—Specie payments were suspended from Jan. 1, 1862, to Jan. 1, 1879. During the greater part of that period gold and silver coins were not in circulation except on the Pacific coast, where it is estimated the specie circulation was generally about $25,000,000. This estimated amount is the only coin included in the above statement from 1862 to 1875, inclusive.

NOTE 2.—The Director of the Mint recently made a revised estimate of the stock of gold coin, and as a consequence of such revision the estimated stock of gold in the United States and of gold coin in circulation has been reduced $135,000,000 in the figures for 1907.

NOTE 3.—There was a reduction as of June 30, 1910, of $9,700,000 of subsidiary silver coin as a result of the revision of stock by the Mint Bureau.

[1] This amount represents the net amount due from banks as shown by the reports of those banks whose balances due from banks exceed the balances due to banks and must be deducted from the amount in the second column in order to prove the apparent amount of liabilities upon which reserve is required.

[2] Made a reserve city Jan. 1, 1918.

[Chartered by Congress in 1816, for 20 years; renewal of charter denied; in consequence, reorganization was effected by means of authority of the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania. The bank assigned in 1841, the affairs being finally liquidated in 1856, and resulted in the payment in full, interest and principal, of liabilities to depositors and noteholders; the shareholders, however, received nothing on their investment in stock of the bank.]

[1] Includes gold held in the Treasury for the redemption of outstanding gold certificates ($1,026,631,669 and Federal reserve gold settlement fund $1,205,082,010 on July 1, 1918) and standard silver dollars held in the Treasury for the redemption of outstanding silver certificates and Treasury notes of 1890 ($381,062,582 on July 1, 1918). Amounts of Federal reserve bank notes and national-bank notes are amounts issued by Treasury to banks.

[2] Includes the gold reserve fund held against issues of United States notes and Treasury notes of 1890 ($152,979,025.63 on July 1, 1918), and the gold or lawful money redemption funds held against issues of national-bank notes, Federal reserve notes, and Federal reserve bank notes ($116,997,647 on July 1, 1918). Does not include deposits of public money in Federal reserve banks, national banks, and special depositaries ($1,608,651,692.73 on July 1, 1918), nor does it include funds held in trust in the Treasury for the redemption of outstanding gold and silver certificates and Treasury notes of 1890. (See column I, ante.) For a full statement of Treasury assets and liabilities see daily statement of the United States Treasury and monthly financial statement.

[3] Includes the gold reserve held by banks against issues and gold or other funds deposited by banks with agents to retire Federal reserve notes in circulation and own Federal reserve notes held by Federal reserve banks.

[4] Amounts of various kinds of money in circulation determined by deducting from the appropriate item in the general stock of money (column I, ante) the amount held in the Treasury as assets of the Government (column II, ante) and the amount held by Federal reserve banks or Federal reserve agents against issues of Federal reserve notes (column III, ante). Gold and silver certificates and Treasury notes of 1890 in circulation are represented in the general stock of money by equal amounts of gold coin or bullion and standard silver dollars held in Treasury for their redemption. (See column I, ante.) Amounts of Federal reserve bank notes and national-bank notes are amounts of issues by Treasury to banks less amounts held in Treasury as assets of the Government.

[5] Includes $671,172,450 credited to Federal reserve agents in the gold settlement fund deposited with Treasurer U. S.

[6] Includes $533,909,560 credited to Federal reserve banks in the gold settlement fund deposited with Treasurer U. S.

[7] Includes own Federal reserve notes held by Federal reserve banks.
