LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY,
Washington, D. C., July 1, 1946.

SIRS: In accordance with the provisions of section 333 of the United States Revised Statutes, I have the honor to submit the following report covering the activities of the Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency for the year 1945.

Respectfully,

PRESTON DELANO,
Comptroller of the Currency.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

ANNUAL REPORT

The Comptroller of the Currency has the honor to present herewith his Eighty-third Annual Report to the Congress of the United States. The period covered by this report, the calendar year 1945, witnessed the close of formal hostilities in the Second World War. The scars of this conflict will long remain. Civilization is now only beginning to assess the damage and to repair its broken structure. During the long struggle which culminated in the surrender of the Japanese in August of 1945, the national banks of the United States contributed generously and efficiently to the war effort. Despite depleted staffs, they successfully shouldered the heavy burdens placed on them in connection with the financing of the production of war materials and in spearheading the Government's bond drives. Their contribution to the effective functioning of many other wartime activities, including ration banking, deserves recognition.

The national banks have emerged from the war in sound condition, and are participating vigorously in the domestic reconversion program. It is generally realized by the executives of these institutions that in order to preserve a stable economy the banks must wholeheartedly cooperate in those measures designed to restrain within reasonable limits loans made either for the purchase of consumer goods or for the purpose of purchasing or carrying listed stocks. They also appreciate the importance of restraining credit for speculative rather than productive purposes, and of avoiding basing loans on inflated values, especially in the real estate field.

Today the national banks are undertaking the difficult task of counseling ex-servicemen with respect to business opportunities and are aiding them financially in reestablishing themselves in the economic system. The care taken in this effort should result in a lessening of the percentage of failures which as a matter of experience may be expected to occur in such new ventures. Loans to veterans based solely on sentiment can not be advantageous either to the institution or to the veteran himself.

The reconversion problem for banks has been relatively simple but nonetheless real. Their employees who were in the armed services or engaged in other war activities are returning in large numbers and are being fitted back into their organizations. Their absence has necessitated a retraining period and an adaptation to the world of today. Many banks are adjusting salary schedules in the light of changed conditions. Many of them have inaugurated retirement and health benefit systems. These measures will work toward safer and sounder institutions. An underpaid or economically underprivileged employee is not a safe custodian of depositors' funds.

At the end of 1945, the 5,023 national banks with their 1,670 branches held approximately 51 percent of all bank deposits in the country, the total national bank deposits being $85,243,000,000, an increase of $13,114,000,000 during the year. This tremendous volume of deposits is one of the economic consequences of war financing, and therefore is in one sense more volatile and more hazardous than normal growth.

The net profits for the year were substantial but not excessive. They amounted to $490,000,000, equaling 10.97 percent of average capital accounts. Over two-thirds of these net profits, approximately $334,000,000, were retained to build up capital structure. The cash dividends paid to shareholders during the year constituted only 31.76 percent of the net profits available for that purpose, a return of slightly less than 3.48 percent on average capital funds. This is significant, in view of the increasingly high ratio of deposits to capital funds, and indicates sound conservatism.

The capital funds of all national banks at the end of 1945 amounted to $4,656,000,000, representing an increase during the year of $381,000,000. It was not to be expected that the banks could match the increase of deposits with proportionate increases of capital during the war years, nor was it necessary in view of their large holdings of government bonds. They have done well in building up capital through earnings, although it is obvious that generally speaking this increase is not sufficient for operation in a peacetime economy. It is probable that we have now reached the leveling-off period for deposits. There was a considerable decrease in the first half of 1946. Following this decrease caused by drawing down war loan accounts there may be some increases followed by further declines; there is certain to be a shifting of deposits as our economic geography reorients itself. In view of this, banks are urged to reexamine their individual situations with respect both to the character and permanency of their deposits and the degree of risk in the assets which they will hold during the next few years.

The need for new capital is emphasized by some of the trends in banking today. More and more, the banks are reentering their proper field of commercial loans. Some are adventuring in this field to an extent which renders difficult an appraisal of the risks involved. In some instances, term loans are being made to business enterprises for the retirement of preferred stock, refunding of existing debt, plant expansion, and liquidation of closely-held common stock. Occasionally, such loans—replacing, at one extreme, funded debt, and at the other, equity securities—are on a long-term, low-rate basis, with little or no amortization during the first few years, slightly more during the next 4 or 5 years, and a heavy payment at maturity. Such practices are virtually a substitute for orthodox long-term investment banking procedures, and as such merit most thoughtful study. Consumer financing is being engaged in extensively, in some instances by banks which have had little practical experience in that field, and with recently trained employees. Entrance into such fields is not to be criticized provided a proper degree of intelligence and sound banking standards are applied, for the time has arrived when the commercial banks must meet all legitimate credit needs. However, consideration should be given to the character of business being done in weighing the adequacy of existing capital structure, and management is of equal importance with adequate capital. Fortunately, with few exceptions, the quality of management in our national banks merits every confidence.

The 1944 Report to the Congress by this office discussed briefly the question whether commercial banks should depart from their traditional role of meeting current credit needs and follow a policy of long-term accommodation to business which on occasion might lead to the assumption of heavy risks. At that time the conviction was expressed that banks should show the utmost vigor and ingenuity in meeting all legitimate demands for credit accommodation, but their activities should stop short of any involvement which might approach ownership. This view was expressed despite recognition of the fact that a sustained high level of employment and production requires a ready source of funds for the establishment of new enterprises and the expansion of small business concerns, and that the source of such funds in the past—direct investment of individual savings—had been comparatively unproductive for over a decade and might continue to be insufficient.

It is gratifying to note, therefore, that during 1945 the public began once more to furnish venture capital in substantial amounts. During the year new corporate stock issues exceeded $1,300,000,000, an amount greatly in excess of any year since 1930. Half of this amount was issued for the purpose of providing new capital, and during the first months of 1946 equity securities to provide new corporate capital have been purchased by the public at a rate over twice that of the preceding year. It is to be hoped, of course, that we shall avoid repetition of the speculative excesses of 1928 and 1929, and it is believed that the controls which have come into existence since that time, plus the somewhat more mature judgment of the American people in this field will furnish the necessary curbs. Be that as it may, it is encouraging to observe this resurgence of confidence among investors in the expansion possibilities of our country, and that new enterprises can still gain support from the savings of the public, rather than from Government funds or from commercial banks which might otherwise feel obligated to step into the breach.

The extension of credit by banks in the field of security loans presents special problems. Generally speaking, the utmost good faith has been displayed in this field, although in a relatively small number of instances our examiners have noted a tendency on the part of national banks to furnish speculators with credit for "free riding" in Government bonds, and to accept without question borrowers' statements that loans were not for the purpose of purchasing listed stocks, in circumstances which should have put the banks on notice that in reality this was the function of the loans. To the extent that such practices are indulged in, they nullify the salutary effect of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 as carried out through Federal Reserve Regulations T and U, and thus add fuel to the flames of inflation. In the nature of things, the solution of these problems must rest upon voluntary restraints and enlightened self-interest of the banking system, but while inflationary pressure continues, this office will use all its powers to discourage and restrain the extension of credit by national banks for speculative purposes, whether in the fields of commodities, securities, real estate, or elsewhere.

In view of the increased flow of applications for bank charters, branch permits, authorizations for conversions of state banks into national banks, consolidation of national banks or of state banks with national banks, and in view of the likelihood of an even greater number of such applications in the near future, it seems appropriate to discuss briefly some of the problems and principles involved.

Since its creation in 1863, the Bureau of the Comptroller of the Currency has chartered over 14,000 national banks, issued more than 2,600 branch permits, and authorized many hundred consolidations. In conducting these operations, many widely divergent factors must be taken into consideration. In addition to compliance with specific statutory requirements such as those relating to the creation of a surplus, qualifications of directors, and the prohibitions of affiliations with firms dealing in securities, careful study is given to such intangibles as the experience and skill of the existing or proposed managements, the future earnings prospects of the banks, the convenience and economic needs of the communities to be served, and the adequacy of the capital structures in view of the geographical location.

The Comptroller is not charged with and does not undertake the enforcement of the antitrust laws, but he is obligated to exercise his discretionary power in the light of the purposes which the statutes in this field were designed to achieve. A monopoly in banking, even more so than in some other activities, is singularly dangerous because of the influence banks exercise over their communities through control of credit.

The primary obligation of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency in exercising the discretion vested in him with respect to the chartering of new banks, the granting of branch permits, and the authorizing of conversions or consolidations, is the maintenance of a safe and sound banking system, able and willing to meet the banking needs of the people in a manner which will safeguard their deposits and justify their confidence. In passing upon such applications, consideration is given to the undesirability either of hampering entrance into, or mobility within, the banking field. It is also important to avoid the opposing dangers of creating an overbanked condition in any community on the one hand, or losing the benefits of effective competition on the other.

With respect to bank holding companies, it is the opinion of this office that they should be subjected to more adequate supervision and regulation.

A bank holding company should not be able to expand by buying stock control of additional banks without the consent of a Federal supervisory agency. The same standards which are applied by this office in passing upon applications for bank charters or for branch permits should be applied in granting or withholding authority to a holding company for such expansion.

Any legislation in this respect should be couched in terms which will not unduly extend Federal control over persons or businesses which hold bank stocks only temporarily or incidentally, and not for the purpose of exercising control. However, means should be provided by which any group of banks under unified control would be subject to regulation, regardless of the form of the organization or the technique utilized to gain and maintain such control.

Since the beginning of World War II in 1939, we have lived in a period of shortages, economic expansion and maximum production; in other words, a business climate of the most stimulating character. During the war period itself, we retained a realization of the essentially artificial and unbalanced nature of this feverish activity, but when the same conditions continued to prevail after the cessation of active hostilities, there took place a natural psychological reaction which has caused many to forget that the origin of current conditions has changed, and that it will require most careful and intelligent planning, energy and restraint to maintain in future years a free economic system which will conduce to high levels of employment, production and distribution.

The obligations of the banking system in this respect are obvious. To a large extent, the banking community has power to divert the stream of credit into one channel or another, and thereby to exercise some control over the direction in which the energies of the American economic system are projected. Wise decisions in this field can best be made—in fact, can only be made—by the informed intelligence of the bankers dealing with their own local or regional problems. The function of bank supervision in this respect is that of assembling a coordinated picture of trends and developments throughout the nation, and to encourage or restrain the banks in the light of a broad observation and objective study.

Many thoughtful students of finance expect that the experience of the war years and the conditions prevailing in the latter half of 1945 may lead to a period of overoptimism in banking as well as in other sectors of our economic system. In one sense, it is possible for too many years to elapse without substantial losses to serve as warnings to the banking world. It is only necessary to recall 1919–22 to realize the dangers—not only to banks but to the entire business community—of loans made to enable borrowers to pile up excessive inventories in the hope of realizing speculative profits late in the inflationary phase of a postwar cycle.

For several years banks have been furnishing credit, particularly to war activities, with the protection of governmental commitments in whole or in part. Such governmental participation was necessary and justifiable because the exigencies of war demanded production, and production sometimes required credit along lines not entirely consistent with conservative banking practices. Even in those cases, however, losses proved to be infinitesimal, and the governmental guarantee or commitment seldom had to be utilized. There is a possibility that this experience may lead to the belief, in some quarters, that similar loans can be made with profit to banks, with safety to their depositors, and with benefit to the country, in peacetime, and without governmental protection. Although the Comptroller of the Currency strongly advocates that under peacetime conditions, governmental protection should be withdrawn and the banks placed upon a more independent footing, it must be realized that such a course carries with it risk as well as privilege. It demands of bank management an increased vigilance.

At the end of 1945, the National Banking System was composed of 5,023 active national banking associations operating 1,670 branches, making a total of 6,693 banking offices.

A comparison of the assets and liabilities of the banks in the National Banking System as of December 30, 1944, March 20, June 30, and December 31, 1945, reported pursuant to calls for condition statements by the Comptroller of the Currency, is shown in the following table:

EARNINGS, EXPENSES, AND DIVIDENDS OF NATIONAL BANKS
FOR YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1945

The net profits of national banks after income taxes in the year ended December 31, 1945, were $490,000,000, or $78,000,000 more than those in the preceding year.

The net operating earnings before income taxes were $532,500,000, an increase of $51,500,000 in the year. Adding to the net operating earnings profits on securities sold of $141,800,000 and recoveries on loans and investments, etc., previously charged off of $118,300,000, and deducting therefrom losses and charge-offs of $132,000,000 and taxes on net income of $170,600,000, the net profits before dividends for the year 1945 amounted to the $490,000,000 mentioned above, which at an annual rate amounts to 10.97 percent of average capital accounts for the year.

The gross earnings in 1945 were $1,349,000,000, or $143,000,000 more than in 1944. The principal items of operating earnings for 1945 were $651,600,000 from interest on United States Government obligations and $93,000,000 from interest and dividends on other securities, a total of $744,600,000, which was an increase of $112,000,000 over the corresponding period in 1944; and interest and discount on loans of $374,100,000, an increase of $14,200,000. The principal operating expenses were $372,000,000 for salaries and wages of officers and employees and fees paid to directors, an increase of $34,600,000 over 1944; and $124,600,000 expended in the form of interest on time and savings deposits, an increase of $26,800,000. Total operating expenses were $816,700,000 as against $725,200,000 for 1944.

Profits on securities sold during 1945, aggregating $141,800,000 were $72,800,000 more than in the preceding year, and losses and depreciation on securities in 1945 totaling $74,600,000 were $7,000,000 more than the year before. Losses charged off on loans and discounts of $29,700,000 were $11,300,000 less than in the previous year. Taxes on net income, Federal and State, in the year 1945 totaling $170,600,000 exceeded the amount of such taxes paid in the preceding year by $49,800,000.

Cash dividends declared on common and preferred stock in 1945 totaled $155,600,000, in comparison with $144,300,000 in 1944. The annual rate of cash dividends was 3.48 percent of average capital funds. The cash dividends to stockholders in 1945 were 31.76 percent of net profits available, the remaining 68.24 percent of net profits, or $334,000,000, was retained by the banks in their capital accounts.

Interest and dividends on securities were 55 percent of gross earnings in the year ended December 31, 1945, with the banks in Federal Reserve district No. 11 showing the smallest ratio of 44 percent and those in district No. 3 the largest ratio of 63 percent. Interest and discount on loans accounted for 28 percent of the gross earnings, varying in ratio from 23 percent in district No. 7 to 37 percent in district No. 11. Salaries, wages, and fees were 28 percent of gross earnings, ranging from 25½ percent in district No. 3 to 31 percent in district No. 10. The net operating earnings before income taxes were 39 percent of gross earnings, with averages ranging from 35 percent in district No. 4 to 44 percent in district No. 2.

Interest and discount on loans to the average total of loans in the year was 3 percent and varied from almost 2 percent in district No. 2 to 4 percent in district No. 12. Interest and dividends on securities was nearly 1½ percent on average total securities held, the banks in district No. 10 showing the lowest ratio of nearly 1⅓ percent, while the banks in district No. 3 showed the highest ratio of almost 1¾ percent.

Net operating earnings were 12 percent of average total capital accounts, the lowest ratio being 9 percent in district No. 4, and the highest ratio 16 percent in district No. 12. The net profits before dividends for the period were 11 percent of average capital funds, the ratios ranging from nearly 9 percent in district No. 4 to 13 percent in district No. 6.

STRUCTURAL CHANGES IN THE NATIONAL BANKING SYSTEM

The authorized capital stock of the 5,028 national banks in existence at the close of business on December 31, 1945, including 5 inactive banks, consisted of common capital stock aggregating $1,588,340,810, a net increase during the year of $112,952,032, and preferred capital stock aggregating $72,636,366, a net decrease during the year of $20,746,829.

During the year ended December 31, 1945, in addition to 17 applications with proposed capital stock of $2,390,000 carried over from the previous year, 63 applications were received to organize national banks and to convert State banks into national banking associations, with proposed capital stock aggregating $9,455,000. Of these applications, 41 with proposed capital stock aggregating $4,895,000 were approved; 12 with proposed capital stock aggregating $2,210,000 were rejected; and the remainder were still pending or had been abandoned on December 31, 1945. From the applications carried over from the previous period and the 41 applications approved during the current year, 39 national banking associations with common capital stock aggregating $5,110,000 were authorized to commence business. Of the 39 charters issued, 17 with common capital stock aggregating $2,545,000 were the result of the conversions of State banks.

During the year ended December 31, 1945, 12 national banks and 2 State banks were consolidated into 7 national banking associations, under authority of the act of November 7, 1918, as amended, the common capital stock of the consolidated banks being $69,100,000. Additional assets of approximately $32,514,668 were brought into the national banking system by reason of the State banks consolidated with the national banks. Also, during this period national banks reported the purchase of 16 State banks, with aggregate capital stock of $1,205,375 and aggregate assets of approximately $27,662,193.

During the year ended December 31, 1945, 43 national banks with common capital stock of $2,913,413, among which were 7 with preferred capital stock aggregating $599,587, went into voluntary liquidation in the manner provided by sections 5220 and 5221, U. S. R. S. Of these banks, 2 with common capital stock of $80,000 and assets of $1,308,401 paid their depositors and quit business; 25 with common capital stock of $1,777,500 and assets aggregating $78,326,310, including 4 with preferred capital stock of $87,500, were succeeded by other national banks; and 16 with common capital stock of $1,055,913, and assets aggregating $53,940,059, including 3 with preferred capital stock of $512,087, were succeeded by State banks.

Changes in the number and capital stock of national banks during the year ended December 31, 1945, are shown in the following summary:

BRANCHES

On December 31, 1945, 226 national banks were operating a total of 1,670 branches. This total includes 4 branches temporarily discontinued for the duration of the emergency and 5 seasonal offices.

During the year ended December 31, 1945, 57 branches were brought into the national banking system. Of the 57 branches entering the system, 36 were authorized to operate in places other than the city in which the parent bank is located. During the same period 1 branch was closed through voluntary liquidation of the parent bank.

Of the 57 branches authorized 52 were operating on December 31, 1945. One branch authorized in 1944 did not begin operations until 1945. As a net result of these operations there was a gain for the system of 52 branches during the year.

NATIONAL BANK NOTES OUTSTANDING

There were as of December 31, 1945, $118,380,650 of national bank notes outstanding.

DISTRIBUTION OF ALL BANKS

On December 31, 1945, there were 14,598 commercial and savings banks in the United States and possessions with deposits of $166,530,093,000. Of these banks 13,494, or 92 percent, with 95 percent of the deposits, were insured banks. The 5,017 national banks, members of the Federal Reserve System, represented 34 percent of all banks and held 51 percent of the total deposits. The 534 mutual savings banks, of which 192 were insured banks, held $15,354,540,000 of deposits.

REPORTS FROM BANKS

National banks in the continental United States, Alaska, the Territory of Hawaii, and the Virgin Islands of the United States were, in accordance with the provisions of section 5211 of the Revised Statutes, called upon to submit three reports of condition during the year ended December 31, 1945. Reports were required as of March 20, June 30, and December 31. Summaries from all condition reports, by States, are published in pamphlet form. National banks were also required by the statute to obtain reports of their affiliates and holding company affiliates other than member banks and to submit such reports to the Comptroller as of the three dates for which condition reports of the banks were obtained.

Under the general powers conferred upon him by law, the Comptroller required from each national bank during the period indicated semi-annual reports of earnings, expenses, and dividends; also reports of condition of foreign branches of national banks as of December 31, 1945.

National banking associations authorized to act in a fiduciary capacity were called upon to submit reports of their trust departments as of the close of business on December 31, 1945.

In accordance with section 298 of the Code of Law for the District of Columbia, banks other than national in the District were required to make to the Comptroller condition reports and reports of earnings, expenses, and dividends identical with those obtained from national banks during the year. Building and loan associations and credit unions in the District of Columbia under the supervision of the Comptroller were required to submit reports of their assets and liabilities as of December 31, 1945, and reports of receipts and disbursements for the year ended December 31, 1945.

Detailed figures for reports of condition and earnings and dividends will be found in the appendix of this report.

AFFILIATES AND HOLDING COMPANY AFFILIATES OF NATIONAL BANKS

The Federal statute requires each national bank to obtain and submit to the Comptroller periodically reports of its affiliates, as defined in sections 2 (b) and (c) of the Banking Act of 1933, as amended, unless waived by the Comptroller. At the end of December 1945, 880 of the national banks reported 11,931 affiliates and holding company affiliates, of which 10,186 were duplications reported by 280 banks. The actual number of affiliates, or 1,745, included 24 holding company affiliates which controlled 187 active national banks, varying in number from 1 to 49 associations. Under the waiver of requirement for reports of affiliates, it was necessary for only 355 banks to submit and publish 426 reports of affiliates and holding company affiliates. Of the latter number 175 were duplications of reports of affiliates and holding company affiliates.

EXAMINATION OF NATIONAL BANKS

The National Bank Act requires that each national bank be examined at least twice each year in order that the Comptroller may be kept currently informed of its condition and require such corrections as are deemed necessary with a view to maintaining each bank in sound condition. In addition to the regular examinations, special examinations are conducted of banks the condition of which is regarded as unsatisfactory.

During the year ended December 31, 1945, 9,184 examinations of banks, 2,902 examinations of branches, 1,822 examinations of trust departments, and 70 examinations of affiliates were conducted. Nineteen State banks were examined in connection with conversions to or consolidations with national banks. Investigations were also conducted in connection with applications for 37 new charters and 121 new branches.

LIQUIDATION OF INSOLVENT NATIONAL BANKS

During the year ended December 31, 1945, there were no failures of national banks. The liquidation of 4 insolvent national banks was completed during the year, leaving a total of 13 receiverships in process of liquidation as of December 31, 1945. Of such 13 banks, 8 were in charge of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation as receiver. Of the remaining 5 banks, 4 were involved in litigation and 1 had remaining assets to be liquidated before a final dividend could be paid.

ISSUE AND REDEMPTION OF NOTES

One thousand two hundred and eighty-three shipments of Federal Reserve currency were made from Washington, D. C., during the year ended December 31, 1945, to Federal Reserve agents and Federal Reserve branch banks, aggregating $5,924,200,000; and in addition, twenty-three deliveries were made to the Treasurer of the United States aggregating $97,800,000.

Four thousand seven hundred and eight lots of unfit Federal Reserve currency were received for verification and certification for destruction consisting of 340,200,795 notes aggregating $3,340,551,160.

Forty lots of national bank notes were received for verification and certification for retirement and destruction consisting of 379,507 notes aggregating $5,608,487.

Seventeen thousand five hundred and ninety-seven fragments or charred Federal Reserve and national bank notes aggregating $214,088 were presented by the Treasurer of the United States for identification and approval.

ORGANIZATION AND STAFF

On December 31, 1945, the personnel of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency consisted of 896 persons. Of these 247 were located in the Washington office, including 82 persons in the Division of Insolvent National Banks. There was a net increase of 8 persons during the year in the total number employed.

During the calendar year 1945, 15 national bank examiners and 65 assistant national bank examiners left the service. Of these, 6 assistant examiners were placed on military furlough. In the same period 10 assistant examiners were promoted to examiners and 7 examiners returned from the military service. The number of assistant examiners appointed was 47, and an additional 48 returned to duty from the military service.

As of December 31, 1945, 160 field employees and 25 Washington office employees, a total of 185, were still serving in the armed forces, representing a net reduction of 78 in the number on military furlough, during the year.

EXPENSES OF THE BUREAU

The expenses of the Office incident to the supervision of banks are met largely by fees assessed against the banks. This figure for the calendar year 1945 was $3,771,391.79.

This amount was supplemented by Congressional appropriations totaling $296,918.44.

The expenses of the Division of Insolvent National Banks are paid from assessments against the banks in process of liquidation. Such expenses for the calendar year 1945 were $327,637.20.

The expenses of the Division of Federal Reserve Issue and Redemption are paid by the Federal Reserve banks. This item for 1945 was $45,146.99.

NOTES

Act of Feb. 25, 1863, provided for reports of condition on the first of each quarter, before commencement of business.

Act of June 3, 1864—First Monday of January, April, July, and October, before commencement of business, on form prescribed by Comptroller (in addition to reports on first Tuesday of each month showing condition at commencement of business in respect to certain items; i. e., loans, specie, deposits, and circulation).

Act of Mar. 3, 1869, not less than 5 reports per year, on form prescribed by Comptroller, at close of business on any past date by him specified.

Act of Dec. 28, 1922, minimum number of calls reduced from 5 to 3 per year.

Act of Feb. 25, 1927, authorized a vice president or an assistant cashier designated by the board of directors to verify reports of condition in absence of president and cashier.

Act of June 16, 1933, requires each national bank to furnish and publish not less than 3 reports each year of affiliates other than member banks, as of dates identical with those for which the Comptroller shall during such year require reports of condition of the bank. The report of each affiliate shall contain such information as in the judgment of the Comptroller shall be necessary to disclose fully the relations between the affiliate and the bank and to enable the Comptroller to inform himself as to the effect of such relations upon the affairs of the bank.

Sec. 21 (a) of the Banking Act of 1933 provided, in part, that after June 16, 1934, it would be unlawful for any private bank not under State supervision to continue the transaction of business unless it submitted to periodic examination by the Comptroller of the Currency or the Federal Reserve bank of the district, and made and published periodic reports of condition the same as required of national banks under section 5211, U. S. R. S. Sec. 21 (a) of the Banking Act of 1933, however, was amended by section 303 of the Banking Act of 1935, approved Aug. 23, 1935, under the provisions of which private banks are no longer required to submit to examination by the Comptroller or Federal Reserve bank, nor are they required to make to the Comptroller and publish periodic reports of condition. (Five calls for reports of condition of private banks were made by the Comptroller, the first one for June 30, 1934, and the last one for June 29, 1935.)
