The following personal property is exempt: The tools of a mechanic necessary for carrying on his trade. The agricultural implements of a farmer necessary for two male laborers. The arms and accouterments of each person of the militia of the State. All globes and maps used by the teachers of schools, academies, and colleges. A householder having a family, residing in a city, town, or village, entitled to $250 worth of personal property to be selected by him, or the other articles specified and enumerated above. No property exempt as against purchase money, but the same liable to seizure at the suit of the vendor while in the possession of the first vendee. Nor is any property exempt from taxes, or for labor done or materials furnished or in case of judgment on a forfeited bail bond or recognizance.

Foreign Corporations may do business and sue and be sued as in case of domestic corporations. But contracts against the laws or policy of this State are void. (See Corporations.)

Fraud and Fraudulent Conveyances. (See Attachment, Bills of Lading, Limitations, Creditor's Bill.)

Garnishment may be issued on judgments or in attachment. Officer holding an attachment writ may also issue garnishments. Binds debts or property of debtor in garnishee's hands from the time of service.

Grace. (See Days of Grace, and Notes and Bills.)

Holidays. New Year's Day, Fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

Husband and Wife. The disabilities of coverture are abolished, as are dower and curtesy. Husband and wife may contract with and sue each other, but contracts for compensation for services rendered to each other are void. If husband rents wife's land, mules, etc., and does business in his own name, it will be deemed the business of the wife as to those without notice, unless the contract be recorded. Transfers between are void as to third persons unless recorded. (See also Married Women and Wills.)

Injunctions. In chancery court, issued on sworn bill after bond given.

Insolvency. No general insolvent laws, but insolvent estates of decedents are divided among creditors pro rata. Personal property sold on credit may be seized while in the hands of the first purchaser for non-payment of price. In case of insolvency partnership property is applied first to partnership debts, and e converso.

Installment Leases of personal property may be made. Title may be reserved by seller until payment of purchase money. Such reservation not required to be in writing or to be recorded. Good against third persons even without notice. No statute on the subject.

Interest. The legal rate of interest is 6 per cent per annum, but parties may contract in writing for 10 per cent; when more is stipulated for or collected, all interest is forfeited, and, if paid, may be recovered.

Judgments when enrolled in circuit clerk's office become liens on defendant's property within the county, and lien may be extended to other counties by filing certified abstracts of the judgment. A junior judgment creditor may obtain priority as to property levied on by him, if, after ten days' notice, the senior judgment creditors fail to issue executions and point out the property. Lien of judgment continues seven years. (See Executions.)

Licenses. (See Privilege Taxes.)

Liens. Statute provides for various liens, as the lien of an enrolled judgment, of mechanics and material men, of landlord and laborer on agricultural products, innkeeper's and stablekeeper's lien. The seller of goods may enforce a lien for the price of the same, provided the goods are still in the hands of the purchaser. The procedure is by affidavit, filed at the commencement suit, stating that the purchase money is due and unpaid. On this a writ of seizure issues, and the goods are taken. Title to personal property may be reserved by the seller as security for the price, and this is good even as against a subsequent bona fide purchaser, without any writing or record. (See Mortgages and Trust Deeds.)

Limitations of Actions. Open accounts, accounts stated and verbal contracts, express or implied, three years; all other contracts, six years; awards of arbitrators, six years; judgments and decrees rendered in another State against resident of this, three years; rendered in this, seven years; real actions, ten years. Actions to recover property sold under order of chancery court must be brought within two years, where possession is taken and purchase money paid in good faith. When the legal title to property or right in action is in an executor, guardian, or other trustee, beneficiary, though under disability, is barred when trustee is barred. Statute does not apply to suits on notes or evidences of debt of banks or other moneyed corporations. An acknowledgment of the debt or new promise must be in writing. Statute does not run during fraudulent concealment of cause of action, nor against infant or person non compos mentis, nor against a convict in actions for assault, etc., until after release, nor against State, county, municipality, or any political subdivision of State.

Limited Partnership. (See Partnership.)

Married Women retain their estate, real and personal; common law disabilities of coverture abrogated; have same capacity to make contracts and do all acts in reference to property which single women have. Dower and curtesy are abolished. If husband or wife dies intestate, leaving no children nor descendants, survivor inherits entire estate; but if deceased have child or children, or descendants of same, survivor inherits a child's part. Husband and wife must join in conveying or encumbering homestead. (See also Husband and Wife and Descent.)

Mortgages and Trust Deeds do not take effect as to creditors or purchasers in good faith and without notice until they are delivered to the clerk for record; with power of sale are foreclosed by sale in pais; without power of sale, by suit in chancery court, and after foreclosure there is no redemption. Chattel mortgages must be recorded, or possession of the property must pass, in order to charge purchasers or other third persons with notice. But not so as to conditional sales. (See Chattel Mortgages.)

Notes and Bills of Exchange must be protested and notice of non-payment given substantially as at common law, to bind parties entitled to notice. Promissory notes, unless indorsed, are not required to be protested; demand and notice are necessary to fix liability of parties secondarily liable. There is no law defining commercial paper. All notes, bills, drafts, etc., are assignable, and suit may be maintained in the name of the assignee; defendant can make all defenses which he had against payee before notice of assignment; but this does not apply to paper payable to bearer, or payable in another State or country where a different rule obtains. Foreign bills of exchange payable out of the United States, protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, draw 10 per cent damages and legal interest; bills drawn payable in the United States, protested for non-acceptance, draw damages at the rate of 5 per cent, besides legal interest. Checks, drafts and notes payable on demand, are not entitled to any days of grace; while notes, bills and drafts, foreign as well as inland, are entitled to three days of grace, and in this respect are the same as by the law merchant. Where a bank check is expressly made payable on a future day, or where, by the way it is drawn, it takes the character of a draft or bill of exchange, the weight of authority is that it is entitled to days of grace. Domestic bills of exchange drawn on and payable in this State for $20 or upward must be protested for non-acceptance, or, if accepted for non-payment; they are governed by the same customs and usages as foreign bills of exchange, but no damage accrues. When the day on which any bill or note would be by its terms presentable for acceptance or payment, according to its terms shall fall on Sunday, New Year's Day, Fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day, or Christmas Day, it shall be presented on the day before.

Partnership. Few statutory provisions. Governed by general law. In case of insolvency, partnership property must go to pay firm debts, and e converso. Provision made for limited or special partnerships.

Powers of Attorney. May be acknowledged or proved and recorded as deeds. May be revoked in like manner. Conveyances of land or other property under powers of attorney are valid.

Privilege Taxes. Merchants and others required to pay. If sufficient tax is not paid, contracts growing out of the business can not be enforced by the person in default. Non-residents selling goods in this State and commercial travelers not required to pay.

Probate Law. (See Estates of Decedents.)

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Redemption. No redemption from sales under mortgage, execution, or other judicial sale. Two years allowed for redemption of land sold for taxes, saving to minors and persons non compos mentis a like period after removal of disability.

Replevin lies to recover personal property wrongfully withheld from the owner. The property may be restored to defendant on bond. If he declines to bond, plaintiff may do so. If neither does, a claimant of the property may give the bond and receive possession. Damages may be assessed for wrongful taking or detention.

Savings and Loan Associations. (See Building and Loan Associations.)

Savings Banks. No statutes. (See Banks.)

Suits. (See Actions.)

Surety Companies. Domestic or foreign, allowed to do business. May make bonds for executors, administrators, guardians, and other trustees, and official bonds.

Taxes. Personal property is assessed once a year; real estate every four years, and taxes constitute a prior lien. Taxes are due on or before December 15th of each year. Land of delinquent is sold on first Monday of March following. The owner or any one interested may redeem within two years after the day of sale, on the payment of all taxes, costs, 25 per cent damages, and 5 per cent on amount paid by purchaser. Infants and persons of unsound mind may redeem within two years after removal of disability, on paying the value of permanent improvements put on the land after two years from date of sale.

Transfer of Corporate Stock is made by endorsement and delivery of stock certificate, and registry of transfer in the books of the company. (See Corporations.)

Trust Companies. Act passed in February, 1897, authorizing the organization of such companies or their doing business in this State, with general powers—to administer all trusts, make bonds and the like. But there is a question whether this act became a law, and no action has been taken under it.

Trust Deeds. (See Mortgage and Trust Deeds.)

Warehouse Receipts. (See Bills of Lading.)

Wills may be executed by anyone twenty-one years old, of sound mind. As to land, if not wholly written and subscribed by testator, execution must be attested by two subscribing witnesses. A nuncupative will (of personalty) may be made during last sickness of testator at habitation, or where testator has resided ten days next before death, or where person is taken sick from home and dies before return; must be proved by two witnesses that the testator called on some person to take notice that such is his or her will, or words to that effect. Soldiers and sailors in actual service may bequeath personalty free from statutory restrictions. A will may be probated in common or solemn form; if in common form, it may be contested within two years, and an issue is made up to be tried by a jury; if in solemn form on summoning all parties in interest probate is final. No restriction upon the power to dispose of property by will except in case of religious or charitable trusts or bequests. Provisions made for renouncing will by surviving husband or wife in certain cases.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF MISSOURI

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. Gage, Ladd & Small, Attorneys at Law, Kansas City. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Acknowledgments. Acknowledgments, if taken within this State, shall be taken by some court having a seal, or some judge, justice, or clerk thereof, notary public, or some justice of the peace of the county in which the real estate conveyed or affected is situated; if taken without the State and within the United States, by any notary public, or by any court of the United States, or of any State or Territory having a seal, or the clerk of any such court, or any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State to take the acknowledgment of deeds. If taken without the United States, by any court of any State, kingdom, or empire having a seal, or the mayor or chief officer of any city or town having an official seal, or by any minister, or consul, or officer of the United States, or notary public having a seal.

Administration of Estates. The probate court in each county has jurisdiction of the settlement of the estates of deceased persons. Claims presented to the court for allowance within one year after the grant of letters testamentary or of administration are preferred over those presented later. Claims not presented within two years from the grant of letters are barred.

Aliens. No person not a citizen of the United States, or who shall not have declared his intention to become such, nor any corporation not created under the laws of the United States, or some State or Territory thereof, shall acquire, hold, or own real estate, or any interest therein in this State, except such as may be acquired by inheritance, or in good faith in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts. This provision does not apply in cases where the right to own real estate is guaranteed by treaty between the United States and any foreign nation.

No corporation, more than 20 per cent upon the stock of which is owned by persons, or corporations, not citizens of the United States, shall hereafter acquire, or hold, or own any real estate hereafter acquired in this State. The act of 1897 provides that nothing in the alien law shall be construed to prevent any person or corporation from acquiring an interest in any real estate as cestui que trust or mortgagee in any deed of trust or mortgage taken in good faith to secure money lent upon such real estate, nor as assignee of such cestui que trust or mortgagee, nor to prevent such person or corporation from purchasing such real estate at its sale upon foreclosure of such deed of trust or mortgage, when the amount for which such property is sold at said sale does not exceed the amount due under such deed of trust or mortgage at the time of such sale and the costs of such foreclosure; but all interest acquired by such person or corporation at such sale shall be forfeited to the State unless such person or corporation shall, in good faith, sell all such interest to a citizen of the United States within five years after the person or corporation so purchasing shall have held the possession of such real estate.

Appeals. (See Courts.)

Arbitration. Parties to a controversy may in writing submit the same to arbitrators. The award must be in writing, subscribed by the arbitrators and attested by a subscribing witness. The award may, upon motion, be confirmed by the court designated in the submission, fifteen days' notice of the motion having been given. Provisions exist for the vacation of the award on various grounds. Upon the confirmation of an award judgment is rendered which may be enforced as other judgments.

Arrest. No person can be arrested under civil process.

Assignments and Insolvency. Every voluntary assignment must be for the benefit of all the creditors of the assignor in proportion to their respective claims; must be proved or acknowledged and certified or recorded in the same manner as prescribed by law for the conveyance of the real estate. The assignee must within fifteen days file with the clerk of the circuit court a sworn inventory of the property assigned. The appointment of appraisers by the court may be made either before or after the filing of the inventory. The bond of the assignee is approved by the court, or judge, or clerk in double the amount of the estate assigned. The assignee appoints a day within three months after the assignment, and a place when and where he will proceed to adjust and allow demands against the estate. Four weeks' notice of the hearing is published in a newspaper and notice given by mail to the creditors if their residence be known. The assignee sits for three days for this purpose. A creditor failing to present his claim at the appointed time on account of sickness, absence from the city or other good cause, may afterward obtain its allowance. Appeal from the decision of the assignee upon any claim lies to the circuit court, which proceeds to hear the matter de novo. Within one month after the allowance of claims the assignee must pay out the money in his hands upon the allowed demands, and as often thereafter as a dividend of 5 per cent can be paid. The assignee in the administration of the trust is subject to the orders and directions of the circuit court. In no case does an assignment operate as a discharge of the assignor from liability for his debts. By the act of 1897 the assignee is declared to be a trustee for the benefit of the creditors of his assignor, and shall have power and authority to prosecute such actions for property, and make such defense to claims against the assigned property as a trustee in a deed of trust, or an attachment or execution creditor with a writ levied on such property could prosecute or make.

Attachments. The plaintiff in any civil action may have an attachment against the property of the defendant in any one or more of the following cases: 1. Where the defendant is not a resident of this State. 2. Where the defendant is a corporation, whose chief office or place of business is out of this State. 3. Where the defendant conceals himself so that the ordinary process of law can not be served upon him. 4. Where the defendant has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode in this State, so that the ordinary process of law can not be served upon him. 5. Where the defendant is about to remove his property or effects out of this State with the intent to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors. 6. Where the defendant is about to remove out of this State with the intent to change his domicile. 7. Where the defendant has fraudulently conveyed or assigned his property or effects, so as to hinder or delay his creditors. 8. Where the defendant has fraudulently concealed, removed, or disposed of his property or effects, so as to hinder or delay his creditors. 9. Where the defendant is about fraudulently to convey or assign his property or effects, so as to hinder or delay his creditors. 10. Where the defendant is about fraudulently to conceal, remove, or dispose of his property or effects, so as to hinder or delay his creditors. 11. Where the cause of action accrued out of this State, and the defendant has absconded or secretly removed his property or effects into this State. 12. Where the damages for which this action is brought are for injuries arising from the commission of some felony or misdemeanor, or for the seduction of any female. 13. Where the debtor has failed to pay the price or value of any article or thing delivered, which by contract he was bound to pay upon the delivery. 14. Where the debt sued for was fraudulently contracted on the part of the debtor. Attachments may issue on a demand not yet due in any of the above actions except the first, second, third, and fourth. An affidavit must be filed by the plaintiff stating the amount of his debt, and that he has good reason to believe, and does believe, in the existence of one or more of the causes for attachment above specified. Bond to the State of Missouri, executed by the plaintiff or some responsible person as principal, and one or more sureties, resident householders of the county, in double the amount of the debt, is required in every case, conditioned that the plaintiff shall prosecute his action without delay and with effect, refund all sums of money that may be adjudged to be refunded to the defendant, or found to have been received by the plaintiff and not justly due him, and pay all damages and costs that may accrue to any defendant, garnishee or interpleader by reason of the attachment, or any process, or proceeding in the suit, or by reason of any judgment or process thereon, and pay all damages and costs that may accrue to any sheriff or other officer by reason of acting under writ of attachment, following the instructions of the plaintiff. The bond is approved by the clerk of the court in which the action is brought. During the pendency of any civil action commenced by summons, plaintiff may, upon filing such affidavit and bond, obtain a writ of attachment. In the service of the writ the officer may levy upon real estate, and personal property or credits, and summon as garnishees persons who may owe or have in their possession property of the defendant. Property levied upon may be retained by the defendant or other person having possession of the same, by giving to the officer a bond in double the value of the property attached, conditioned that the same shall be forthcoming when and where the court shall direct. Property perishable, or the keeping of which would be attended by much loss or expense, may be ordered sold by the court. When notes, bills, accounts, or other evidences of debt are attached, a receiver may be appointed charged with the duty of their collection. Successive attachments on the same property enjoy precedence according to the priority of the levies. At the return term of the writ the defendant may file a plea in the nature of a plea in abatement, under oath, denying the existence of the facts alleged in the affidavit for the attachment. The issue thus raised is tried like other cases and is first disposed of. On this issue the plaintiff is bound to prove the existence of one or more of the causes alleged in his affidavit. If he fails, the attachment abates and is dissolved, but he may proceed with his action upon the merits and obtain a general judgment. From the determination of the issue raised by the plea in abatement, the unsuccessful party—the plaintiff or defendant—may appeal. Pending the suit the attachment may be dissolved on motion in behalf of defendant in the following cases: 1. When the affidavit on which the same was founded shall be adjudged by the court insufficient; but no attachment shall be dissolved in such case, if the plaintiff shall file a good and sufficient affidavit, to be approved by the court, in such time and manner as the court shall direct; such affidavit may embrace the same ground of attachment set forth in the previous affidavit, or any other grounds, or both, at the option of the affiant. 2. When the defendant shall appear and plead to the action, and give bond to the plaintiff, with good and sufficient security, to be approved by the court, in double the amount of the property, effects, and credits attached, conditioned that such property, effects and credits shall be forthcoming, and abide the judgment which shall be rendered in the cause, when and where the court shall direct. 3. When the defendant shall appear and plead to the action and give like bond and security in a sum sufficient to satisfy the amount sworn to, in behalf of the plaintiff, with interest and costs of suit, conditioned that defendant shall pay to plaintiff the amount which may be adjudged in favor of the plaintiff, interest and all costs of suit, on or before the first day of the next term after that at which judgment shall be rendered.

Banks are organized under a general law. Any five or more persons may associate themselves for the purpose of establishing a bank of deposit, or discount, or both, by filing articles of association. The cash capital must not be less than $10 000, nor more than $5,000,000. In cities having a population exceeding 150,000 inhabitants, the capital stock shall not be less than $100.000. The entire capital must be subscribed and one-half thereof actually paid up before corporate existence can be acquired, and the other half within one year. No person can be a director who is not a resident of this State, nor at the same time a director in two State banks, or in a national bank. Sworn statements of the condition of the corporation must be filed in the office of the secretary of State, whenever by him required, but not less than twice in each year. False statements, as well as the receipt, or assent to the reception of deposits, with knowledge of the fact that the bank is insolvent or in failing circumstances, are punishable by a fine or imprisonment. Loans of more than 25 per cent of its capital stock to any individual, corporation, or company are forbidden.

Examinations under the supervision of the secretary of State are provided for. Upon the impairment of the capital or misconduct in the management of the bank, the attorney general may institute proceedings for the removal of directors or the appointment of a receiver and the winding up of the business.

No person, or company of persons, may engage in the business of banking as private bankers without a paid-up capital of not less than $5,000.

Trust companies with the usual powers may be organized by three or more persons. One-fourth of the capital stock authorized by the articles must be subscribed, and one-half of the amount subscribed be paid up in cash. Actual subscriptions must not be less than $100,000, and the amount of authorized capital shall not exceed $10,000,000. The directors shall not be less than five, nor more than twenty-five in number, and a majority of them must be citizens of this State.

The system of examinations, and many of the penal provisions above mentioned, apply also to trust companies and private bankers.

Bills of Lading. Bills of lading and warehouse receipts are negotiable by written endorsement thereon and delivery in the same manner as bills of exchange and promissory notes. The issue of receipts by a warehouseman, except for property actually received into his store and under his control, is forbidden. A second receipt issued for the same property must have written across the face of the same duplicate. The statutes contain various provisions for the protection of persons holding warehouse receipts, and a violation of them by the warehouseman subjects him to heavy fines and imprisonment.

Chattel Mortgages. No mortgage on personal property is valid as against any other person than the parties thereto, unless possession of the mortgaged property be delivered and retained by the mortgagee or unless the mortgage be acknowledged or proved and recorded in the county in which the mortgagor resides in the same manner as conveyances of real estate, or unless the mortgage or deed of trust, or a true copy thereof be filed in the office of the recorder of deeds or the county where the mortgagor or grantor resides, or where the mortgagor is a non-resident of the State, then in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county, or city, where the property mortgaged is situated at the time of the execution of the mortgage. Every such mortgage shall cease to be valid as against the mortgagor or the person making the same, or subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith, after the expiration of five years from the filing of the same.

Conveyances. Conveyances of lands or any estate or interest therein must be subscribed by the party granting the same or by his lawful agent and acknowledged. Seals are abolished. Conveyances are to be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds in the county in which the real estate is situated. Until such record, the conveyance is not valid except as between the parties thereto, and such as have actual notice thereof. Powers to convey real estate must be executed with the same formality as a conveyance. Husband and wife may convey the real estate of the wife, and the wife may relinquish her dower in the real estate of her husband, by their joint deed. In the case of natural persons a certificate of acknowledgment to a deed may be in the following terms:

State of..... } ss.
County of..... }

On this.....day of....., 19.., before me personally appeared A. B. (or A. B. and C. D.), to me known to be the person (or persons) described in and who executed the foregoing instrument and acknowledged that he (or they) executed the same as his (or their) free act and deed.

When a married woman joins her husband in the execution of any deed, she must be described in the acknowledgment as his wife; no other change in the phraseology of the certificate being necessary. In the case of natural persons acting by attorney, the certificate may be as follows:

On this .....day of ...., 19.., before me personally appeared A. B., to me known to be the person who executed the foregoing instrument in behalf of C. D., and acknowledged that he executed the same as the free act and deed of C. D.

In the case of corporations or joint stock associations, it may be as follows:

On this .....day of ...., 19.., before me appeared A. B., to me personally known, who, being by me duly sworn (or affirmed), did say that he is the president (or other officer or agent of the corporation or association) of (describing the corporation or association), and that the seal affixed to foregoing instrument is the corporate seal of said corporation (or association), and that said instrument was signed and sealed in behalf of said corporation (or association), by authority of its board of directors (or trustees), and said A. B. acknowledged said instrument to be the free act and deed of said corporation (or association). No witnesses to the signatures of a deed are necessary.

Corporations. All corporations must be organized under general laws, the creation of them by special act of the legislature being prohibited by the constitution. Any three or more persons desiring to organize a manufacturing or business corporation may execute and acknowledge articles for that purpose. The amount of capital stock of such corporation must be not less than $2,000 or more than $10,000,000. Before a certificate of corporate existence issues, the whole of the capital stock must be subscribed and one-half thereof actually paid up in lawful money of the United States, and in the custody of the persons named as the first board of directors. The articles are filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of the county in which the corporation is to be located, and a certified copy thereof in the office of the secretary of State, who issues a certificate of incorporation. At the time of filing the articles, there must be paid into the State treasury $50 for the first $50,000 or less of capital stock, and the further sum of $5 for every additional $10,000. The directors must be not less than three nor more than thirteen in number; three of them must be citizens and residents of this State. The president, treasurer, and secretary must keep their offices at the general office of the company in this State, and all meetings of the board of directors must be held at such general office. No note or other obligation, whether secured or unsecured, shall be accepted as payment of any part of the capital stock. The capital stock of the corporation may be increased or diminished by a vote of the stockholders at a meeting of which sixty days' notice shall be published. An increase may be accomplished by the vote of the larger amount in value of all the shares, but no such increase shall take effect until at least one half thereof shall be paid up in lawful money of the United States; if it is desired that the increased stock, or any part thereof, shall be preferred, the proposition both for the increase and that it be preferred must be approved by all the shares of stock of the company. Manufacturing corporations whose objects and business are of the same general nature may consolidate by the action of the boards of directors and with the assent of the owners of at least three-fifths of the capital stock of each of the corporations. The bonded indebtedness of a corporation can not exceed its capital stock. No increase of its bonded indebtedness is valid without the consent of the persons holding a majority of the stock expressed at the meeting called for that purpose, notice of which must be published for sixty days. Stockholders having paid up their stock are not liable for any of the debts of the corporation. The circuit court has jurisdiction to compel directors and officers to account for their conduct in the management of the company, and to suspend or remove them for misconduct, and if necessary to order an election to fill vacancies caused by their removal. Special provisions exist for the organization and government of railroad, telegraph, and telephone, mutual building, mutual savings, booming and rafting, and benevolent, religious, scientific, educational, and miscellaneous corporations. Whenever the directors or a majority of the stockholders shall discover that the property and effects of the corporation have been so far reduced that it will not be able to pay all just demands against it, or afford security to those dealing with it; or whenever stockholders holding two-thirds in value of the stock shall adopt a resolution favoring a dissolution of the corporation, whether it be indebted or not, or whether its stock has depreciated below its par value or not, the corporation may, upon a petition therefor by the president and secretary or a majority of the directors, be dissolved, by decree of the circuit court of the county in which its principal office is located.

Courts. The circuit court in each county is a court of general jurisdiction. At least two terms are held in each year and in some of the more populous counties three or four terms annually. There are two courts of appeal in the State: the St. Louis court of appeals, and the Kansas City court of appeals. The former has jurisdiction over the eastern half and the latter over the western half of the State; one sits at St. Louis and the other at Kansas City, and two terms of each court are held annually. The supreme court sits at Jefferson City and holds two terms in each year. There is a probate court in each county which has jurisdiction of the settlement of estates of deceased persons and the care of minors and persons of unsound mind. Justices of the peace have jurisdiction where the amount in controversy does not exceed $250; in counties and cities having over 50,000 inhabitants, jurisdiction extends to controversies involving $300. Appeals lie from judgments of the probate court and justices of the peace to the circuit court. Appeals lie from the circuit courts to the supreme court in all cases where the amount in dispute exceeds the sum of $2,500; cases involving the construction of the constitution of the United States, or of this State; cases where the validity of a treaty, or statute, or the authority exercised under the statutes of the United States is drawn in question; cases involving the construction of the revenue laws of this State, or the title to any office under this State; cases involving title to real estate; cases where a county or other political subdivision of the State, or any State officer is a party, and in all cases of felony. In all other cases appeals lie to one of the courts of appeal, whose judgments are final in cases where they have jurisdiction.

Depositions. Depositions may be taken on notice served at least three days before the day of taking the depositions, and one day additional for every fifty miles for the first three hundred miles, and beyond that one additional day for each one hundred miles of distance from the place of serving the notice. On application the time may be shortened by the court. If they are to be taken outside of the State a commission issues from the office of the clerk of the court in which the suit was pending. They may be taken within this State by some judge, justice, justice of the peace, notary public, or clerk of any court having a seal, mayor, or chief officer of a city, or town having a seal of office; if taken without this State by some officer appointed by authority of the laws of this State to take depositions, or by some consul or commercial or diplomatic representative of the United States, having a seal, or mayor, or chief officer of any city, town or borough, having a seal of office, or by some judge, justice of the peace, or other judicial officer, or by some notary public within the government where the witness may be found. Depositions may be taken upon written interrogatories, but this is not customary. The names of witnesses to be examined and of the officer before whom the testimony will be taken need not be mentioned in the notice. When notice has been given for the taking of depositions in a suit pending in a city which has a population of more than 50,000 inhabitants, the court will, upon application of the adverse party, appoint a special commissioner to take them. Objections to the competency or relevancy of the testimony need not be noted at the time of taking the depositions, but can be made when the same are offered at the trial.

Descent and Distribution of Property. The real and personal estate of an intestate descends and is distributed as follows: 1. To his children or their descendants in equal parts. 2. If there be no children or their descendants, then to his father, mother, brothers, and sisters, and their descendants in equal parts. 3. If there be no children or their descendants, father, mother, brother or sister, nor their descendants, then to the husband or wife; if there be no husband or wife, then to the grandfather, grandmother, uncles, and aunts, and their descendants in equal parts. 4. If there be no children or their descendants, father, mother, brother, sister, or their descendants, husband or wife, grandfather, grandmother, uncles, aunts, or their descendants, then to the great-grandfathers, great-grandmothers, and their descendants in equal parts, and so on, in other cases without end, passing to the nearest lineal ancestors and their children, and their descendants in equal parts. Posthumous children inherit. When there are collaterals of the half blood, they inherit as much as those of the whole blood. Lineal descendants in equal degree take per capita; but where part of them are dead and part living, the issue of those dead take per stirpes. When a wife shall die without any child or other descendants in being, capable of inheriting, her widower shall be entitled to one-half the real and personal estate belonging to the wife at the time of her death, absolutely, subject to the payment of the wife's debts.

Divorce. When a marriage has been or shall be solemnized between two persons, and either party at the time of the contract of marriage was and still is impotent; or had a wife or husband living at the time of marriage; or has committed adultery since the marriage; or has absented himself or herself without a reasonable cause for the space of one year; or, during said marriage shall have been convicted of felony or infamous crime; or shall have been addicted to habitual drunkenness for the space of one year; or shall be guilty of such cruel or barbarous treatment as to endanger the life of the other; or shall offer such indignities to the other as shall render his or her condition intolerable; or when the husband shall be guilty of such conduct as to constitute him a vagrant within the meaning of the law respecting vagrants; or where, prior to the contract of marriage, or the solemnization thereof, either party shall have been convicted of a felony or infamous crime in any State, territory or country without knowledge on the part of the other party of such fact at the time of such marriage; or where the intended wife at the time of contracting marriage, or at the time of the solemnization thereof, shall have been pregnant by any other man than her intended husband, and without his knowledge at the time of such solemnization—the injured party, for any of the causes above enumerated, may obtain a divorce from the bonds of matrimony. The petition must be accompanied by an affidavit that the facts stated are true, and that the complaint is not made out of levity or by collusion, fear, or restraint between the plaintiff and defendant for the mere purpose of being separated from each other, but in sincerity and truth. Action must be brought in the county where the plaintiff resides, and plaintiff must have resided in the State one whole year next before the filing of the petition, unless the offense complained of was committed within this State, or while one or both of the parties resided in this State. There are statutory provisions regarding alimony. The guilty party forfeits all rights and claims by virtue of the marriage.

Dower. Dower in real estate is as at common law. The widow may convey her dower, although unassigned. If the husband shall die leaving a child or children, the widow is entitled absolutely to a share in the personal estate belonging to the husband at the time of his death, equal to the share of a child of such deceased husband; if he dies without any children living, his widow is entitled to one-half of the real and personal estate belonging to the husband at the time of his death. These provisions are subject to the payment of the husband's debts. In order to succeed to one-half of the real estate the widow must make her election so to do within twelve months after the grant of letters of administration. Where there are children, the widow may also instead of dower, elect to take a child's part in the land of her deceased husband, subject to the payment of debts. She must make her election within fifteen months after the grant of letters. The statute contains adequate provisions for the recovery by the widow of her dower.

Exemptions. The homestead of a housekeeper or head of a family is exempt from attachment and execution; in the country it shall not include more than one hundred and sixty acres of land, or exceed in value $1,500; in cities with a population of 40,000 or more, it shall not include more than eighteen square rods of ground, or exceed in value $3,000; in cities with a population of 10,000 and less than 40,000, it shall not include more than thirty square rods, or exceed in value $1,500; in cities, towns and villages with a population of less than 10,000, it shall not include over ten acres of ground, or exceed in value $1,500. Any sale, mortgage or alienation of the homestead by the husband in which the wife does not join, is null and void.

The following personal property, when owned by the head of a family, is exempt from attachment and execution: 1. Ten head of choice hogs, ten head of choice sheep and the product thereof in wool, yarn or cloth; two cows and calves, two plows, one ax, one hoe, and one set of plow gears, and all necessary farm implements for the use of one man. 2. Two work animals, and feed of the value of $25, for the stock above exempted. 3. The spinning wheels and cards, one loom and apparatus necessary for manufacturing cloth in a private family. 4. All the spun yarn, thread and cloth manufactured for family use. 5. Any quantity of hemp, flax and wool, not exceeding twenty-five pounds each. 6. All wearing apparel of the family, four beds, with usual bedding, and such other household and kitchen furniture, not exceeding the value of $100, as may be necessary for the family, agreeably to an inventory thereof to be returned on oath with the execution by the officer whose duty it may be to levy the same. 7. The necessary tools and implements of trade of any mechanic while carrying on his trade. 8. Any and all arms and military equipments required by law to be kept. 9. All such provisions as may be on hand for family use, not exceeding $100 in value. 10. The Bibles and other books used in a family, lettered gravestones and one pew in a house of worship. 11. All lawyers, physicians, ministers of the gospel and teachers, in the actual prosecution of their calling, shall have the privilege of selecting such books as shall be necessary to their profession, in the place of other property herein allowed, at their option; and doctors of medicine, in lieu of other property exempt from execution, may be allowed to select their medicines. The head of a family, at his election, in lieu of property mentioned in the first and second subdivisions, may select any other property, real or personal, not exceeding in value $200. No property of a defendant other than the head of a family is exempt from execution or attachment, except the wearing apparel of any defendant, and the necessary tools and implements of trade of any mechanic whilst carrying on his trade.

Garnishments. An officer with a writ of attachment or execution in his hands may summon garnishees. A notice is delivered to the garnishee requiring him to appear at the time named to answer under oath such interrogatories as may be filed by the plaintiff in the writ touching his indebtedness to the defendant, or any property belonging to the defendant which may be in his custody or under his control. A garnishee may discharge himself by delivering up the property or paying the debt to the officer under the orders of the court. Provisions exist under which any person claiming property, money, effects, or credits attached in the hands of a garnishee may interplead in the case and assert his right or title to them. No person can be charged as garnishee on account of wages due from him to the defendant in his employ for the last thirty days' service if the employe is the head of a family and a resident of this State. No officer charged with the collection of money prior to the return day of the process in his hands can be summoned as garnishee; nor can any county collector, treasurer, or municipal corporation or officer thereof, or any administrator or executor of an estate prior to order of distribution be summoned as garnishee. The court makes a reasonable allowance to a garnishee for his trouble in answering.

Holidays. The first day of January, the twenty-second day of February, the thirtieth day of May, the fourth day of July, the first Monday in September, any general State election day, any Thanksgiving Day appointed by the governor of this State or the President of the United States, and the twenty-fifth day of December are public holidays. When any such holiday falls upon Sunday, the Monday next following is considered such holiday. In cities having a population of more than 100,000 inhabitants, every Saturday after 12 o'clock noon is a half holiday.

Interest. When no other rate is agreed upon, 6 per cent per annum is allowed on all moneys after they become due and payable on written contracts, and on accounts after they become due and demand of payment is made; for money recovered for the use of another, and retained without the owner's knowledge of the receipt, and for all other money due or to become due for the forbearance of payment whereof an express promise to pay interest has been made. Parties may agree in writing for the payment of interest not exceeding 8 per cent per annum. In actions for enforcement of liens upon personal property pledged or mortgaged to secure indebtedness, or in any case where the validity of said lien is drawn in question, proof that a higher rate than 8 per cent was received or exacted renders the mortgage, pledge, or lien invalid. If a defense of usury is sustained in any case, judgment is recovered for the money loaned with 8 per cent interest, and the court order the whole interest set apart for the use of the common schools, and defendant recovers his costs. Parties may contract in writing for interest upon interest, but the interest shall not be compounded oftener than once in a year.

Judgments. Judgments and decrees rendered by a court of record are liens on the real estate of the person against whom they are rendered situate in the county for which the court is held. Transcript of a judgment filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of any other county becomes a lien upon real estate in such county. The lien of a judgment continues for three years, and may be revived at any time within ten years from its rendition. Execution may issue at any time within ten years from the rendition of a judgment. When two or more judgments are rendered at the same term as between parties entitled to the judgments, the liens shall commence on the last day of the term at which they are rendered. Judgments bear interest at 6 per cent, but if upon contracts bearing more than 6 per cent, the judgment bears the rate of the contract.

Limitations. Actions must be commenced within ten years: 1. An action upon any writing, whether sealed or unsealed, for the payment of money or property. 2. Actions brought on any covenant of warranty contained in any deed of conveyance of land shall be brought within ten years next after there shall have been a final decision against the title of the covenanter in such deed, and actions on any covenant of seizin contained in any such deed shall be brought within ten years after the cause of such action shall accrue. 3. Actions for relief, not herein otherwise provided for. Within five years: 1. All actions upon contracts obligations or liabilities, express or implied, except those previously mentioned, and except upon judgments or decrees of a court of record, and except where a different time is herein limited. 2. An action upon a liability created by a statute other than a penalty or forfeiture. 3. An action for trespass on real estate. 4. An action for taking, detaining or injuring any goods or chattels, including actions for the recovery of specific personal property, or for any other injury to the person or rights of another, not arising on contract and not herein otherwise enumerated. 5. An action for relief on the ground of fraud, the cause of action in such case to be deemed not to have accrued until the discovery by the aggrieved party, at any time within ten years, of the facts constituting the fraud. Within three years: 1. An action against a sheriff, coroner or other officer, upon a liability incurred by the doing of an act in his official capacity and in virtue of his office, or by the omission of an official duty, including the non-payment of money collected upon an execution or otherwise. 2. An action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, where the action is given to the party aggrieved, or to such party and the State. Within two years: An action for libel, slander, assault, battery, false imprisonment, or criminal conversation. If at the time the cause of action shall accrue, the person entitled to bring such action be less than twenty-one years of age, or insane, or imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution under a sentence of a criminal court for less term than for his natural life, or a married woman, such persons shall be at liberty to bring such actions within the times mentioned after such disability is removed. If, when the cause of action accrues against a person who is a resident of this State, he is absent therefrom, such action may be commenced within the times limited, after the return of such person into the State; and if after such cause of action shall have accrued, such person depart from and reside out of this State, the time of his absence shall not be deemed or taken as any part of the time limited for the commencement of such action. No acknowledgments or promise shall be evidence of a new or continuing contract whereby to take the case out of the operation of the provisions of the statute, unless such acknowledgment or promise is in writing. Every judgment is presumed to be paid after ten years. Actions for the recovery of lands must be brought within ten years. A saving clause excepts infants and married women. Whenever a cause of action has been fully barred by the laws of the State, territory, or country in which it originated, such bar shall be a complete defense to any action thereon brought in this State.

Married Women. A married woman is deemed a femme sole so far as to enable her to carry on or transact business on her own account, to contract and be contracted with, to sue and be sued, to enforce or have enforced against her property such judgments as may be rendered for or against her, and may sue or be sued at law or in equity, with or without her husband being joined as a party. Her real estate and personal property can not be taken by any process of law for the debts of her husband. Neither the rents, issues, or products of her real estate, nor the interest of her husband in her right in any real estate, can be levied on for his debts.

Mortgages. The common form of real estate security is a deed of trust, with power of sale in the trustee upon default in the payment of the debt. Sale is at public auction upon twenty or thirty days' public notice as may be provided in the deed of trust. The trustee executes deed to the purchaser at the sale. There is no redemption from the sale unless the holder of the debt is the purchaser; in which case a year is allowed the maker of the deed of trust in which to redeem. He must, however, immediately after the sale, give security to the satisfaction of the circuit court for the payment of the interest to accrue, and all damages and waste which the property may suffer. Transfer of the note secured by the deed of trust carries the security and it is not customary, or necessary, to record an assignment of the security. The trustee receives, as compensation for making the sale, a commission of 2 per cent on the first $1,000, 1 per cent on all sums over that amount and under $50,000, and ½ per cent on all sums over that amount. Recitals in a trustee's deed are made prima facie evidence of all the facts therein stated. No foreign corporation, or individual, shall act as trustee in any deed of trust or conveyance whereby any property, real or personal, in this State, is conveyed in trust for any purpose whatever, unless in such conveyance there shall be named, as co-trustee, a Missouri corporation or an individual citizen of this State. No suit shall be brought to foreclose such deed or trust unless a resident trustee shall be a party plaintiff.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. The acceptance of a bill of exchange must be in writing signed by the acceptor. A promise in writing to accept a bill before it is drawn has the effect of an actual acceptance in favor of every person who on the faith thereof shall pay value for the bill. Every person on whom a bill is drawn and to whom the same shall be delivered for acceptance, who shall destroy it or refuse within twenty-four hours to return it, shall be deemed to have accepted it. Bills drawn or negotiated within this State and protested draw 4 per cent damages, if drawn on any person within this State; if on any person out of this State, but within the United States, 10 per cent; if on any person at a place without the United States, 20 per cent. Such damages are only recoverable by the holder of a bill who shall have acquired the same for a valuable consideration. No damages are allowed if the bill be paid within twenty days after demand. Promissory notes are governed by the same rule of damages. Days of grace are as at common law. If the last day of grace falls on a holiday or a Sunday, the paper shall be considered as falling due on the next succeeding day, unless such succeeding day be a holiday or Sunday, in which case it shall be considered as falling due the day previous.

Replevin. If the plaintiff claim in his petition the possession of specific personal property, he may, at the time of filing his petition, or at any time afterward, before the rendition of judgment in the cause, file his affidavit, or the affidavit of some other person in his behalf, showing: 1. That the plaintiff is the owner of the property claimed, sufficiently describing it, or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof. 2. That it is wrongfully detained by the defendant. 3. The actual value thereof. 4. That the same has not been seized under any process, execution, or attachment against the property of the plaintiff. 5. That plaintiff will be in danger of losing his said property unless it be taken out of the possession of the defendant, or otherwise secured. Upon the filing of the affidavit the court or clerk issues an order requiring the sheriff to take the property and deliver it to the plaintiff. The sheriff requires from the plaintiff a bond with two sureties in double the value of the property stated in the affidavit, for the prosecution of the action with effect and without delay for the return of the property to the defendant, if a return thereof be adjudged, and in default of such delivery for the payment of the assessed value of such property, and for the payment of all damages for the taking and detention thereof, and all costs which may accrue in the action. The defendant may retain possession of the property by giving to the sheriff a bond in double its value for the delivery of the property if possession shall be adjudged to the plaintiff or for the payment of its assessed value and damages. Defendant may not retain possession of the property if the plaintiff shall state in his affidavit that the property was wrongfully taken and that his right of action accrued within one year.

Wills. Every male person twenty-one years of age may, by his last will, devise all of his estate, real, personal, and mixed, and every male over the age of eighteen years may bequeath his personal estate. Women of eighteen years of age and upward, married or unmarried, may devise their real estate and bequeath their personal property. A will must be in writing, signed by the testator or some person by his direction in his presence, and must be attested by two or more competent witnesses subscribing their names to the will in the presence of the testator. If after making the will the testator shall marry and die leaving issue of the marriage living at the time of his death, or born to him after his death, the will shall be deemed revoked. The will of an unmarried woman is revoked by her subsequent marriage. If a child or children, or the descendants of such child or children in the case of death, are not provided for in the will, the testator is deemed to have died intestate. Wills must be presented for probate to the probate court of the county in which was the place of abode of the testator. Wills may be contested within five years after the probate thereof by petition to the circuit court of the county. Real estate in this State may be devised by last will executed and proved according to the laws of this State. Personal estate may be bequeathed according to the laws of the State or country in which the will shall be made.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF MONTANA

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. Clayberg, Corbett & Gunn, Attorneys at Law, Helena. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. An itemized statement of an open or standing account should be sent to the attorney in case suit is to be brought on the same. The original instrument should be sent in case the demand is in writing. The proof of accounts depends upon whether the defendant denies the same or not. Unless the defendant denies the same by a verified answer, the genuineness of the account or the execution of the note or written instrument is deemed admitted. In case of a denial, proof by witnesses or by deposition must be made. The full name of the firm and the full name of each member of the firm, and, if a corporation, the name of the corporation and where organized should always accompany the itemized account when suit is to be brought. In all cases where attachment is desired, refer the attorney to two responsible parties or to some bank in the county who will become proper sureties.

Acknowledgments. (See Conveyances.)

Actions. There is but one form of civil actions, which is the same in law as in equity. Actions in the district court are instituted by the filing of a complaint with the clerk and the issuance of a summons; and in justice's courts by the filing of a complaint or a copy of the note, bill, account, or other instrument upon which the action is brought. In cases for the recovery of the possession of, quieting the title to, or for the enforcement of liens upon real property, or affecting real property, the action must be commenced in the county where the real estate, or any part thereof, is situated, and generally, in other cases, in the county where the defendants, or any of them, reside at the commencement of the action. If the action is brought in the wrong county, the venue can be changed upon statutory cause being shown. Twenty days are allowed the defendant to answer after service of summons. Publication of summons may be had where property is attached or the action is one in rem. Any person having an interest in the subject-matter of litigation with or against either or both parties may intervene before trial by filing a complaint in intervention. Leave of court must first be obtained and a copy of the complaint served upon all parties or their attorneys. If the action is brought by a non-resident or a foreign corporation, security for costs can be ordered by the court upon a showing by the defendant, and the same must be furnished within thirty days. All further proceedings are stayed until such security is furnished.

Administration of Estates. Letters of administration on the estates of deceased persons dying intestate are issued by the district court in the following order: 1. To the surviving husband or wife, or to some competent person whom he or she may request to have appointed. 2. To the children. 3. To the father or mother. 4. To the brothers. 5. To the sisters. 6. To the grandchildren. 7. To the next of kin entitled to share in the distribution of the estate. 8. To the public administrator. 9. To the creditors. 10. To any person legally competent. A surviving partner must in no instance be appointed administrator of the estate. No person who is not a resident of this State, or who is under the age of majority, shall be appointed administrator. A married woman can be appointed administratrix. When an unmarried woman marries, her authority continues. An administrator must give a bond, the penalty of which must not be less than twice the probable value of the estate. Administrators must render an account within six months after appointment and whenever required by the court or judge. Every executor, or administrator, must give notice to the creditors of the estate, which notice shall be published not less than once a week for four weeks. The time in which claims must be presented is ten months after the first publication of notice to creditors when the estate exceeds in value the sum of $10,000, and four months when it does not. If not presented within time, it is barred forever. If a claim is secured by mortgage, same need not be presented, and on foreclosure of mortgage, which may be had as in ordinary case, no deficiency judgment will be allowed, but if claim is presented against estate a deficiency judgment may be taken. The debts of the estate must be paid in the following order: 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Expenses of last sickness. 3. Debts having preference by the laws of the United States or of the State. 4. Judgments rendered against the decedent in his lifetime and mortgages in the order of their date. 5. All other demands against the estate. Mortgages, pledges, attachments, or judgments have a preference upon the property to which they may attach. Property of decedent is liable to an inheritance tax, if estate be of value of $7,500 or more.

Affidavits. Affidavits taken in other States or Territories of the United States shall be taken before a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, a notary public, or a judge or clerk of a court of record having a seal; if taken in a foreign country before an ambassador, minister, consul, or vice-consul, or consular agent of the United States, or before a judge of a foreign court of record having a seal; when taken before a judge of a court in another State or foreign country the genuineness of the judge's signature, the existence of the court, and the fact that the judge is a member thereof, must be certified by the clerk under the seal of the court.

Aliens. Resident aliens may take in all cases by succession as citizens. Non-resident foreigners must appear and claim succession within five years or be barred. Aliens shall not be appointed or elected to office. Aliens may acquire by purchase or otherwise, and hold patented mining property and real estate connected therewith.

Appeals. Appeals lie from the justice's court to the district court, and from the district court to the supreme court. An appeal from the justice's court must be taken within thirty days after the rendition of the judgment, and is taken by filing and serving a notice of appeal and an undertaking on appeal in double the amount of the judgment. The matter in dispute is tried de novo in the district court. An appeal from the district court to the supreme court must be taken within one year after judgment, and is taken by filing and serving notice of appeal and an undertaking in the sum of $300, unless stay of execution is required when the undertaking must be double the amount of the judgment; it is taken upon the judgment roll alone. Appeals must be taken within ninety days from a judgment rendered on an appeal from an inferior court. Appeals from orders of the district court from which an appeal lies must be taken within sixty days.

Arbitration. Persons capable of contracting may submit in writing to arbitration any controversy which might be the subject of a civil action except questions of title to real property. A submission may be entered as an order of the district court and the award filed with the clerk where it may have the effect of a judgment. The court has power to vacate the award and order a new hearing or not at its discretion. The court may also modify or correct the award.

Arrest. Arrest in civil cases may be had in all cases of fraud, or where the action is for willful injury to person, or character, or property, if the property belongs to another; also in an action for a fine, or penalty for money or property embezzled, or fraudulently misapplied or converted by a public officer, or officers of a corporation, or by an attorney, or other agent, or one acting in a fiduciary capacity; also in case where the defendant is about to depart from the State, or has removed, or disposed of his property, or is about to do so with intent to defraud his creditors. Before the order of arrest is so issued a proper affidavit must be filed, together with an undertaking in at least the sum of $500, with two sufficient sureties. The defendant may be discharged upon giving bail or depositing the amount of the claim.

Assignments and Insolvency. An insolvent debtor (a person unable to pay his debts from his own means as they become due) may execute in writing an assignment for the benefit of creditors. The wages of the employes, earned within sixty days and not exceeding $300 to each person, are preferred claims. All preferences must be absolute. Joint creditors are paid out of joint property, individual creditors out of separate property. An assignment is void against a creditor not assenting thereto if it give a conditional preference, if it tends to coerce a creditor to release or compromise his demand, if it provides for false or fraudulent claims or for more than is due on a claim, if it reserve any interest in assigned property to the assignor before the payment of his debts, if it give the assignee power to delay the conversion of the property to the uses of the trust, if it exempts the assignee from liability for misconduct. The assignment must be accompanied by the affidavit of the assignor and assignee that the same is made in good faith, without any design to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, and the assent of the assignee must accompany the assignment. It must be acknowledged or proved and certified and recorded the same as a conveyance of real property. One partner has no power to make an assignment, unless his co-partners have abandoned the business to him or are incapable of acting. The assignor must, within twenty days, file an inventory with the county clerk of the county in which the assignor resided at date of assignment, giving the names of all the creditors, their place of residence, amount due and owing each, nature of claim, consideration therefor, mortgages, judgments, etc., and what property exempt and what not exempt. Assignments must be recorded within twenty days after date of the assignment. The assignee must give bond, and may be removed upon application of one or more creditors showing incompetency. After six months from date of assignment assignee may be required, on petition of any creditor, to account before district court. The assignee must account within six months. Partial assignments allowed.

Attachments. At the time of the issuance of the summons or at any time thereafter the plaintiff may have all the property of the defendant attached not exempt from execution. Attachments issue upon the filing of an affidavit showing that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff upon a contract, express or implied, for the payment of money or other property then due, not secured by a mortgage, lien, or other pledge of real or personal property, or if originally so secured that the security has become valueless without the act of plaintiff, or the person to whom the security was given, and that the attachment is not sought and the action is not prosecuted to hinder, delay, or defraud any creditor of the defendant. Before any attachment is issued the plaintiff is required to give an undertaking with two or more sureties in a sum not less than double the amount claimed by the plaintiff, if such amount be $1,000 or under, or if in excess of $1,000, then in a sum equal to such amount, but an undertaking shall in no case exceed $10,000. Debts due the defendant and property in possession or under control of third party may be garnished. Public officers can not be garnished. Attachments are satisfied according to their priority. Property covered by chattel mortgage can only be attached by first satisfying chattel mortgage. An attachment may be procured upon any debt for the payment of money or specific property before the same shall have become due when it shall appear by the affidavit in addition to the above requirements: First, that the defendant is leaving, or is about to leave the State, taking with him property, moneys, or other effects, which might be subjected to the payment of the debt, for the purpose of defrauding his creditors; or, second, that the defendant is disposing of his property, subject to execution, for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. In such case the judgment recovered shall be with rebatement of interest from date of judgment until maturity of debt; and defendant may by plea put in issue matter alleged in affidavit required, and if plaintiff fails to substantiate some one of the causes required to be alleged in the affidavit, the suit for debt or debts not due shall abate.

Banks. Any number of persons, not less than three, nor more than thirteen, may associate together to establish a bank of discount and deposit and become incorporated upon the terms and conditions prescribed by statute. The capital stock shall not be less than $20,000. It must be paid into the treasury in cash, and a certificate to that effect under the oath of the president and cashier filed in the office of the State auditor and in the office of the county clerk where the bank is located. The bank shall be authorized by certificate under the hand and official seal of the State auditor to commence banking business. Such authorization and certificate of incorporation shall be published at least four times in a newspaper in the town where the bank is located. Such bank has the power to buy and sell bonds or stock of the United States, and any State or Territory; also the bonds of any county, city, or school district in this State; but it can not purchase its own stock or the capital stock of an incorporated company, unless such purchase shall be necessary to prevent loss upon a debt; such stock can be held no longer than six months if it can be sold at cost price or at par. Bank is given lien on stock for indebtedness of holder, and no transfer can be made until lien discharged except by consent of a majority of directors. The usual powers of receiving deposits and loaning money are given by statute. Banks may hold such real estate only as is necessary for the transaction of its business, and such as it may acquire in the enforcement and collection of its debts. Every conveyance of real estate must be authorized by the board of directors. Dividends must be declared from the net earnings on the first Monday in January and July, or oftener, but a full statement of the bank's condition on the day after declaring such dividend must be made to the State auditor. Neglect to transmit this statement for one month renders the directors personally liable for all debts of the corporation contracted previous to and during the period of such neglect. Officers and stockholders are individually liable for all debts, equally and ratably, to the extent of their stock. This liability ceases six months after the sale of their stock. Banks must keep a book, accessible to stockholders, containing a list of stockholders and the number of shares held by each. Banks must also post in a conspicuous place a notice, signed by the president and secretary, giving the names of the directors and the number and value of shares held by each. Every director must own at least ten shares. Directors must be citizens of the United States and three-fourths of them residents of the State. A refusal or neglect for sixty days to comply with the requirements of the statute works a forfeiture of its franchise. The limit of liability by any person, firm, or corporation to a bank shall not exceed 15 per cent of the capital stock. A bank must keep 20 per cent of immediate liabilities in available funds. Bank stock is taxable, whether held in this State or not. Any number of persons, not less than three, may associate together to form a corporation for trust, deposit, security and loaning business. The capital stock must be at least $100,000 and no more than $500,000, the shares to be of the par value of $100 each; can not do business until $100,000 is subscribed for and paid in cash; the requirements, powers, and duties are more enlarged but are similar to those prescribed for banking associations; may accept and execute any trust for any lawful purpose. Any number of persons, not less than three, may associate together to form a savings bank. No savings bank must have a capital stock of less than $100,000, but such bank may organize on a basis not exceeding $500,000 capital stock. The requirements of savings banks are the same as banks of discount and deposit, except that savings banks must make full reports, under oath, of their condition to the State auditor on the first Mondays of January, April, July, and October, and at such other times when the auditor may call for it.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. Any interest in personal property capable of delivery may be mortgaged. A mortgage of personal property is void against creditors of mortgagor, and subsequent purchasers and incumbrancers of the property in good faith, unless the possession of the mortgage property be delivered to and retained by the mortgagee, or unless the mortgage provides that the property may remain in the possession of the mortgagor and be accompanied by an affidavit of all the parties thereto, or, in case any party is absent, an affidavit of those present and of the agent or attorney in fact of such absent party, that the same is made in good faith to secure the amount named therein, and without any design to hinder, delay, or defraud the creditors of the mortgagor, and be duly acknowledged and filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder of the county where the mortgagor resides, or if a non-resident in the county where the mortgaged property is situate. The validity of a chattel mortgage continues until the maturity of the debt and sixty days thereafter. The entire period of time must not exceed one year and sixty days unless the chattel mortgage is renewed at or before the maturity of the debt or obligation, or any part thereof, by filing an affidavit showing the date of the mortgage, the names of the mortgagor and mortgagee, date of filing the same, amount of the debt and amount due at the time of filing the affidavit, the time to which extended, which should not exceed one year, and that the debt was neither made, nor renewed, nor extended to hinder, delay, or defraud the creditors, or subsequent incumbrancers of the mortgagor. This affidavit must be filed where the chattel mortgage is filed. Any subsequent mortgagee may pay the amount of the prior chattel mortgage and be subrogated to all the rights of the prior mortgagee. Chattel mortgages may be foreclosed by an action in the district court, or without action if mortgage so provides. A chattel mortgage is discharged by the acknowledgment of satisfaction signed by the mortgagee and filed as aforesaid. Deeds of trust of real and personal property executed by an incorporated company are governed by the law relating to mortgages of real property, but the corporation may retain possession of the mortgaged property, provided the mortgage or deed of trust is accompanied by an affidavit of the president, or secretary, or managing agent of the corporation in the same form as provided for chattel mortgages.

Conveyances, Deeds, Acknowledgments, etc. Every conveyance in writing of or affecting real estate must be acknowledged, or proved, and certified. If acknowledged in the State the acknowledgment may be taken before a justice or clerk of the supreme court, judge of the district court, clerk of a court of record, county clerk, notary public, or justice of the peace; without the State, but within the United States, by some justice or clerk of any court of record of the United States or of any court of record of any State or Territory, a notary public, any officer of a State authorized by the laws of that State to take acknowledgments, or a commissioner appointed by the governor of the State for that purpose; without the United States, by a notary public or a United States minister, commissioner, charge d'affaires, consul, vice-consul, consular agent, judge of a court of record, or commissioner appointed by the governor under special statutes. If a deed be executed by a corporation the certificate should state that the officer executing the same was personally known as such and that the corporation executed the same. Any married man, whose wife has never resided in this State or Territory, can by deed or mortgage convey full title to property by his signature.

Certificates of acknowledgment must be in the following form:

STATE OF..... } ss.
County of..... }

On this the ...day of....., in the year....., before me (here insert name and quality of officer) personally appeared..... ..... known to me to be the person whose name is subscribed to the within instrument and acknowledged to me that he executed the same.

Corporations. Three or more persons may incorporate a company by making, signing, and delivering a certificate giving the name of the company, its object, capital stock, number of shares, and by whom; if the stock is assessable it must be so stated; term of existence, not exceeding forty years, the locality where the business is to be carried on, and the names of the trustees for the first three months, which shall not be less than three nor more than thirteen. The certificate must be filed with the clerk of the county where the business is to be done and a certified copy thereof with the secretary of State. Corporations organized outside this State are deemed to be foreign corporations. Such corporations are required to file with secretary of State and with the county clerk of the county where they desire to do business, an authentic copy of their certificate of incorporation and a verified statement of assets, liabilities, etc. There shall also be filed a consent to be sued in the courts of this State, designating a resident agent upon whom process may be served. A failure to do this renders the contracts of such foreign corporations void and unenforceable; such corporations must file verified statements semi-annually.

Courts. There are three courts comprising the judiciary of the State, being the supreme court, the district court, and justice court. The supreme court has appellate jurisdiction in civil cases and in all criminal cases tried in district courts. It meets in Helena the first Tuesday in March, June, October, and December. The district court has original jurisdiction in all cases (civil) where the amount in dispute or value of property sued for exceeds $50, but may enter judgment in cases where the amount in dispute is less than $50 upon plaintiff's paying costs. It also has appellate jurisdiction from the justices' court. In districts composing only one county the court is in continuous session; more than one county, there are four terms of court a year in each county. The justice court has jurisdiction where the amount in dispute does not exceed $300, not affecting the title of real estate. It is open at all times.

Days of Grace. Days of grace are not allowed.

Depositions. Depositions may be taken of witnesses out of this State any time after service of summons by giving the adverse party, or his attorney, five days' notice accompanied with interrogatories and suing out a commission directed to a notary public or other competent officer, requiring him to take the deposition at such time and place as he may designate and appoint upon the interrogatories forwarded, and to duly certify the same when taken to the clerk of the court issuing the commission. Depositions of witnesses in the State are taken without commission by giving notice, upon oral examination. If issued to any foreign country it may be directed to a minister, ambassador, consul, vice-consul, consular agent of the United States in such country, or to any person agreed upon by the parties. Depositions of witnesses within the State may be taken for the purpose of perpetuating testimony.

Descent and Distribution of Property. Property of an intestate is distributed, subject to the payment of his debts, in the following manner: 1. If the decedent leaves a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife, and child, or issue of such child. If the decedent leaves a surviving husband or wife, and more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third to the husband or wife, and the remainder in equal shares to his children, and to the lawful issue of any deceased child, by right of representation; but if there be no child of the decedent living at his death, the remainder goes to all his lineal descendants; and if all the descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the decedent, they share equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation. If the decedent leave no surviving husband or wife, but leave issue, the whole estate goes to such issue, and if such issue consists of more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, then the estate goes in equal shares to the children living, or to the child living, and to the issue of the deceased child or children by right of representation. 2. If the decedent leave no issue then the estate goes in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife, and to the decedent's father and mother in equal shares, and if either be dead the whole of said half goes to the other. If there be no father or mother, then one-half goes in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the decedent, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation. If the decedent leave no issue, nor husband or wife, the estate must go to the father and mother in equal shares, and if either be dead then to the other. 3. If there be no issue, nor husband, nor wife, nor father or mother, then in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the decedent, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister, by right of representation. 4. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and no issue, and no father, nor mother, nor brother or sister, the whole goes to the surviving husband or wife. 5. If the decedent leave no issue, nor husband, nor wife, and no father, nor mother, nor brother, nor sister, the estate must go to the next of kin, in equal degree, excepting when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestors must be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote. 6. If the decedent leave several children, or one child and the issue of one or more children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such decedent descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who are dead, by right of representation. 7. If, at the death of such child who dies under age, not having been married, all the other children of his parents, are also dead, and any of them have left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his parents descends to the issue of all other children from the same parent; and if all the issue are in the same degree of kindred to the child, they share the estate equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation. 8. If the decedent leave no husband, wife or kindred, the estate escheats to the State.

Divorce. The following are statutory grounds for divorce: 1. Adultery. 2. Extreme cruelty. 3. Willful desertion. 4. Willful neglect. 5. Habitual intemperance. 6. Conviction of felony. No divorce is allowed in any wise to affect the legitimacy of the children of the marriage, except in cases for adultery of the wife. The legitimacy of children begotten after the commission of adultery is decided by the court. The party seeking the divorce must have resided in the State one year previous to the filing of the bill of complaint. Willful desertion, willful neglect, or habitual intemperance must continue for the space of one year before there is ground for divorce. Divorce must be denied upon showing connivance, or collusion, or condonation, or recrimination. Alimony may be granted by the court.

Dower. A widow is entitled to a one-third interest as her dower in all lands whereof her husband was seized of an estate of inheritance, during marriage, unless relinquished. A widow's dower may be barred by a devise or bequest, unless she elect, within one year after the probate of the will, to take her dower. If the husband leave a widow but no children, the widow may elect to take, in her own right, one-half of all the real estate after the payment of debts, but such election must be made within two months after being notified of the payment of debts. A widow has no dower in unpatented mining claims.

Executions. Executions may issue to any sheriff in the State, and at the same time to different counties, and are returnable in not less than ten days nor more than sixty days. Personal property is levied on first, and if insufficient to satisfy execution, then upon real property. Sale of personal property is made by giving not less than five nor more than ten days' notice, sale of real property by giving twenty days' notice. There is no stay law, but the courts will grant a stay of execution for a reasonable time. If bond is given on an appeal the execution is stayed pending the appeal. Executions may be issued at any time within six years after entry of judgment, and thereafter by leave of court on motion.

Exemptions. Exemptions are as follows: All clothing of the debtor and family, and chairs, tables, desks, and books to the value of $200. Also all necessary household, table and kitchen furniture which includes every article of use for the comfort of the debtor or his family, and provisions and fuel actually provided for individual or family use sufficient for three months. Also one sewing machine, one horse, saddle and bridle, two cows and their calves, four hogs, and fifty domestic fowls, and feed for such animals for three months; also one clock and all family pictures. Holidays. Holidays are Sunday, New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Decoration Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day (first Monday in September), Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, and general election day.

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Interest. Parties may stipulate for any rate of interest. The legal rate is 8 per cent per annum. Where no contract is made as to interest the legal rate governs after the debt is due. There is no usury law. Where a person is entitled to recover damages certain on a certain date, he may recover interest from such date.

Judgments. From the time the judgment is docketed in the district court it becomes a lien upon all the real property of the judgment debtor not exempt from execution in the county, owned by him at the time, or which he afterwards acquires. A certified transcript of the judgment docket, filed in another county, creates a similar lien. The lien expires in six years after the docketing of the judgment. Judgments may be entered in the district court by the clerk on default when no answer is filed, as soon as time for appearance has expired, when action is on contract for the recovery of money or damages only. Execution may issue as soon as judgment is entered on docket.

Liens. All workmen and laborers are given a lien by statute to secure the payment of the work and labor done, or material furnished. This lien must be claimed within ninety days by filing an account with the clerk and recorder of the county where the property is situated. A suit must be brought to enforce this lien within twelve months after the filing of the same.

Limitations. An action upon a judgment must be commenced within ten years; actions upon contracts or obligations founded upon any instrument in writing, within eight years; actions to establish a will, actions upon judgments of a court not of record, five years; actions against a sheriff or other officer in his official capacity, actions upon an account, contract, promise, obligation, or liability not founded on an instrument in writing, actions to recover damages for the death of one caused by the wrongful act or neglect of another, within three years. If the action is upon a running or open account the computation of time shall be from the date of the last item thereof. Actions for a penalty or forfeiture under the statute given to an individual or to an individual and the State, actions upon a statute or upon an undertaking in a criminal action for a forfeiture or penalty to the State, actions for libel, slander, assault, battery, false imprisonment or seduction, actions for waste or trespass on real property, actions upon a liability created by statute other than a penalty or forfeiture, an action for taking, detaining, or injuring any goods or chattels, including actions for specific recovery of personal property, actions for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake (the cause of action not to accrue until the discovery of such fraud or mistake), within two years; actions against a sheriff or other officer for the escape of a prisoner arrested or imprisoned on civil process, an action against a municipal corporation for damages or injuries to property caused by a mob or riot, or by a municipal corporation for the violation of any city or town ordinance, actions against an officer or officer de facto to recover for goods, wares, and merchandise, or the value thereof, or for damages done to person or property, actions for killing or injuring stock by a railroad corporation or company, within one year; to recover stock sold for a delinquent assessment, actions on claims against a county, within six months. Actions for relief not provided for, within five years. There is no limitation for the recovery of money or other property deposited with any bank, banker, trust company, or savings and loan society. Actions for the recovery of real property must be commenced within ten years. A cause of action arising in any other State or Territory, barred by the laws thereof, cannot be maintained in this State.

Married Women. A married woman may sue and be sued, make contracts, and do all other acts as if she were a femme sole. She may convey her separate real estate without her husband joining with her. She may become a sole trader and carry on business in her own name by publishing in a newspaper a notice of intention to apply for an order of the district court granting such right. The creditors of the husband may oppose the application on grounds of attempt to defraud such creditors. An oath and a certified copy of the order of the court must be recorded with the county clerk and recorder. A sole trader's property is not liable for her husband's debts. A wife's separate property is not liable for the husband's debts. She is responsible for the maintenance of her children. The husband is not liable for any of the debts of his wife as sole trader. The husband can not superintend or manage the business. Females become of age at eighteen years.

Mortgages. Mortgages of real property must be executed, acknowledged, and recorded the same as deeds. Mortgages given upon mining property by a corporation must be authorized by a stockholders' meeting called in accordance with the codes. Mortgages held by residents are subject to taxation, but mortgages held by non-residents are not. They are not deemed a conveyance and must be foreclosed by an action in the district court. Twelve months after sale is allowed for redemption; only six months, however, as to mortgages executed prior to July 1, 1895. The mortgage of a homestead by a married man is void unless the wife join in the execution. Mortgages are discharged by entry on the record or by separate instrument acknowledged and recorded. A penalty of $100 besides actual damages is allowed for failure to enter satisfaction one week after request.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. There are six classes of negotiable instruments viz.: bills of exchange, promissory notes, bank notes, checks, bonds, and certificates of deposits. Any date may be inserted by the maker of a negotiable instrument, whether past, present, or future. A negotiable instrument may contain a pledge of collateral security with authority to dispose thereof; also a provision for reasonable attorney fee, or both. The signature of every drawer, acceptor, and indorser of a negotiable instrument is presumed to have been made for a valuable consideration. It is not necessary to make demand on the principal debtor to charge him, unless the instrument is payable at a specified place and if so the instrument must be presented by the holder thereof to the principal debtor at such place. The apparent maturity of a demand or sight bill of exchange is one year from its date if it bear interest; if it does not bear interest, ten days from its date in addition to the time of transmission. The apparent maturity of a demand or sight note is one year if it bear interest, and six months if it does not bear interest. If a sight or demand bill of exchange without interest is not presented for payment within ten days the drawer and indorsers are exonerated unless such presentment is excused. If a sight or demand note without interest is not duly presented for payment within six months after its date the indorsers thereon are exonerated unless such presentation is excused. Days of grace are not allowed. Acceptance must be in writing by the drawee, or by an acceptor for honor, and may be made by the acceptor writing his name across the face of the bill with or without other words. The drawee may postpone his acceptance or refusal until the next day after presentment.

Powers of Attorney. Every power of attorney affecting real estate shall be acknowledged, or proved and certified, and filed and recorded with the county clerk and recorder of the county where the real estate is situated. A power of attorney shall not be deemed to be revoked until an instrument, containing such revocation, properly acknowledged, shall be recorded in the same office in which the power of attorney was recorded.

Probate Law. (See Administration of Estates, Descent and Distribution of Property.)

Protest. Notice of the dishonor of a foreign bill of exchange can be given only by a notice of protest. Protest must be made by a notary public if with reasonable diligence one can be obtained, and if not, by any reputable person in the presence of two witnesses. Protest is made by giving a written notice setting forth a copy of the original bill of exchange, stating presentment and manner in which made, the refusal or nability of the drawee to pay, and the reason assigned, and protesting against all the parties to be charged; such notice must be deposited in the nearest post office directed to each of the parties to be charged, and the postage must be paid thereon. Protest must be made in the city where the bill is presented for acceptance or payment. Damages are allowed to holders for value upon protest.

Replevin. The plaintiff in an action to recover possession of personal property may replevy the same at the time of issuing summons or at any time before answer, upon making affidavit showing that the plaintiff is the owner of the property or entitled to possession thereof; that it is wrongfully detained, and has not been taken for a tax, assessment or fine pursuant to a statute or seized under an attachment or an execution against the plaintiff; or if so seized that it is exempt; and also stating the actual value of the property. A demand for the delivery of the property should be indorsed upon the affidavit and an undertaking in double the value of the property must be given. The defendant has two days in which to except to plaintiff's sureties, or he may require the return of the property by giving an undertaking in double the value of the property. If such undertaking is not given within five days from the replevy the property must be turned over to the plaintiff.

Suits. (See Actions.)

Taxes. All kinds of property, except public property and property for beneficent purposes, are subject to tax for public purposes only. Such taxes are a lien upon the property, which lien has the effect of an execution levied on all such as are delinquent after the first day of December, after which a penalty of 10 per cent is added. The delinquent tax list is published in some newspaper on or before the last Monday of each year, and in not less than twenty-one and not more than twenty-eight days after the first publication sale of the real estate is made, subject to redemption within thirty-six months from date of sale. The purchase money draws interest at one per cent a month from the date of sale. The purchaser is entitled to a tax deed at the end of the thirty-six months but must give thirty days' notice to the owner or occupant of the property. Taxes are assessed to the party in whose name the property stands of record on the first Monday in March of each year. An inheritance tax of $5 for every $100 worth of property must be paid by anyone, not a blood relation, inheriting such property; and blood relations and adopted children pay a tax of $1 for $100 worth of property inherited. Estates under $7,500 not liable for inheritance tax.

Wills. Every person over eighteen years of age and of sound mind may dispose of all his estate, real and personal, by will. All wills, except nuncupative, must be in writing. And all wills, except nuncupative and holographic, must be executed and attested as follows: 1. Must be subscribed by the testator himself, or some one in his presence and by his direction, must subscribe his name thereto. 2. The testator's signature must be made in the presence of the attesting witnesses or acknowledged to have been made by him or by his authority. 3. The testator must declare to the attesting witnesses that the instrument is his will. 4. There must be two attesting witnesses who must sign the will at the testator's request, in his presence. An holographic will is one entirely written by the testator himself and subject to no form. The estate bequeathed by a nuncupative will must not exceed $1,000 in value, must be proved by two witnesses, must have been made in actual contemplation, fear, or peril of death, and must be proved within six months after stating the testamentary words unless the substance thereof was reduced to writing within thirty days after they were spoken. A will executed according to law of the State where the testator was then domiciled may be probated in this State.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF NEBRASKA

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. McGilton & Herring, Attorneys at Law, Omaha. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. A running account draws interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum, beginning six months from the date on which the last item becomes due. In action thereon it must be proved by oral testimony or deposition. A sworn account is not admissible as evidence.

Acknowledgments (see Deeds) may be made in this State before a notary, clerk of any court, justice of the peace, county clerk, register of deeds, secretary of State, under seal, if the officer have one. If acknowledgment taken in any other State or Territory, it must be in accordance with the laws of this State or of the State or Territory where taken, before an authorized officer or a commissioner of deeds appointed by the Governor of this State for that purpose. If the officer have no seal, then the acknowledgment must have attached thereto a certificate of the clerk of a court of record, or other proper certifying officer of the district or State where taken, under the seal of his office, showing that the person taking the acknowledgment was, at the date thereof, such officer as he is therein represented to be; that he is well acquainted with the handwriting of such officer; that he believes the said signature of the officer to be genuine, and that the deed or other instrument is acknowledged in accordance with the laws of such State, district, or Territory. If acknowledgment taken in a foreign country, it may be acknowledged before any notary public, minister plenipotentiary, extraordinary or resident, charge des affaires, commissioner, commercial agent, or counsel of the United States. In executing acknowledgment, notaries public must write in the date when their commission expires or else said date must be imprinted on their seals.

Actions. Only one form of action, as distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity, abolished by statute. Must be prosecuted in name of real party in interest, except that an executor, administrator, guardian, trustee of an express trust, a person with whom or in whose name a contract is made for the benefit of another, or a person expressly authorized by statute, may prosecute an action without joining with him the person for whose benefit it is prosecuted. Action by an infant must be prosecuted by a guardian or next friend, and an infant's defense is made by guardian ad litem. Plaintiff has option to sue all or any of those severally liable on same instrument. In case of death or other disability the action continues by or against the representative or successor in interest, and in case of a transfer of the interest in the action the same may be continued in the name of the original party, or the successor may be substituted. Additional parties may come into an action voluntarily, or may be brought in by order of court. Actions to recover damages to realty and for the recovery or partition of realty, or for the sale of same under foreclosure proceedings, must be brought in the county where the realty is situated, and if it be situated in two or more counties the action may be brought in any one county, except it be for the recovery of separate tracts in different counties, when separate actions must be brought in each county. Actions to compel the specific performance of a contract of sale may be brought in the county where the defendants or any of them reside. The jurisdiction of justice courts does not exceed $200, and of county courts $1,000. District courts have general jurisdiction, but if suit brought therein and the justice court would have had jurisdiction, then the plaintiff can not recover costs. Actions are commenced by filing bill of particulars or petition, upon which summons issues, and is served personally upon defendant to give court jurisdiction to enter personal judgment. In certain actions, affecting property within the jurisdiction of the court, defendant, if he be a non-resident, may be served by advertisement in some newspaper. Act creating municipal court declared unconstitutional in October, 1897.

Administration of Estates. (See Decedents.) County courts have exclusive jurisdiction over estates. Administration is granted to widow or next of kin, or both, or some one selected by them; but if unsuitable, or if they fail for thirty days after death of a party to apply for letters, same may be issued to a creditor, or to some one selected by the judge. Executors and administrators must give bond, as required by the court, and must, within three months after appointment, make report of all property belonging to deceased. General letters of administration are only issued after due notice to parties interested, and if case is urgent a special administrator may be appointed, who shall name report within two weeks. Personalty is disposed of under direction of the county court, but to sell real estate, license must be obtained from the district court. Debts of decedent are a lien upon all real estate.

Affidavits. (See Depositions.) Affidavits may be made before anyone authorized to take depositions, and must be subscribed in presence of the officer and sworn to before him, and this fact must be stated in the affidavit. If made out of State and the officer has no seal, affidavit must have attached thereto a certificate of clerk of a court of record reciting authority of such officer.

Aliens. Non-resident aliens and foreign corporations may not own or hold real estate in Nebraska, but the widows and heirs of such aliens who held lands prior to March 16, 1889, have ten years to dispose of their interests, and those who acquired their ownership prior to that date may dispose of same during their life. If not so disposed of, the lands escheat to the State. However, non-resident aliens may acquire a lien upon real estate, and, pursuant or subsequent to such, may purchase such real estate, but shall dispose of same within ten years from time of acquiring title. These provisions do not apply to railroads nor to real estate upon which buildings are erected and maintained for manufacturing purposes, nor to that within the corporate limits of cities and towns. Aliens who declare their intention to become citizens of the United States thirty days before an election, conformably to the laws of the United States on subject of naturalization, are electors, same as citizens.

Appeals are allowed from justice and county courts to the district court. Bond must be given for double the judgment and costs, but in no event less than $50, and in actions for possession of property the bond is conditioned to pay a reasonable rent and the costs. Bonds must be filed within ten days and a transcript filed in the district court within thirty days from the judgment, but in probate matters thirty days are allowed in which to file bonds in the county court in a sum fixed by the judge, conditioned to prosecute the appeal without delay and pay all debts, damages and costs that may be adjudged against the appellant, and ten days thereafter such appellant must file a transcript in the district court. An executor, administrator, guardian or guardian ad litem appealing is not, however, required to give a bond. Parties may appeal from the district court to the supreme court, or may proceed by petition in error, in both cases filing a bond if stay of proceedings is desired. In appeal cases twenty days are allowed in which to file such bonds and six months in which to perfect the appeal; and in cases prosecuted by error proceedings parties have one year within which to perfect same.

Arbitration. Instead of submitting a controversy to a court, parties may agree in writing to arbitrators, whose decision, after confirmation by the court, shall stand as a judgment; but this procedure is seldom or never followed.

Assignments. (See Exemptions, Acknowledgments.) Every assignment for benefit of creditors shall be made to the sheriff of the county, and shall include all property of the assignor, except such as may be exempt. Assignments shall be executed and acknowledged the same as a deed to real estate, and within twenty four hours after its execution shall be filed for record in the county clerk's office, and if real estate is mentioned therein, it shall also be recorded in the register of deeds office, and within thirty days it shall be recorded in any other county where property conveyed be situated. The county court has jurisdiction of assigned estates, and within ten days after the assignment the assignor must file in such court a full inventory, under oath, showing the names of creditors, their places of residence, amounts due each, the nature of the debt, the security held by creditors, and a full list of all property owned at the date of the assignment. Immediately thereafter the county judge must fix a day for meeting of creditors to select an assignee to succeed the sheriff, and must advertise the same in some newspaper, as well as send notice to each creditor named by the assignor. After appointment of permanent assignee, the county judge must fix the time within which creditors shall file claims, which claims may be contested in the usual way, and upon their allowance or disallowance, appeals may be prosecuted therefrom to the district court, and thence to the supreme court. The assignee must sell the property with due diligence, and the county court shall declare a dividend when there are sufficient funds for that purpose, but payments shall be made in the following order: First, all fees and allowances of the assignee and court and court officers; second, all taxes and assessments against the property assigned; third, laborers' wages, if they have been preferred; fourth, amounts due general creditors. A creditor may file and prove a claim and concurrent therewith, may pursue a separate remedy against the assignors for the collection of such claim. Conveyances, preferences, payments, pledges or transfers of property made by an insolvent debtor in contemplation of such insolvency, within thirty days prior to making an assignment, are void, except that the assignor may pay or secure clerks or servants' wages, not exceeding $100 to any one person, and may pay or secure any debt created within nine months prior to that time and may secure any debt contracted simultaneously with the giving of such security.

Attachments. The plaintiff at the commencement of an action may have an attachment against the defendant's property, when the amount is due, by filing an affidavit showing any of the following grounds: 1. That the defendant is a foreign corporation or non-resident of the State. 2. Has absconded with intent to defraud creditors. 3. Has left the country or his residence to avoid the service of summons. 4. So conceals himself that a summons can not be served upon him. 5. Is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the jurisdiction of the court with the intent to defraud his creditors. 6. Is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors. 7. Has property or rights in action which he conceals. 8. Has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, or a part thereof, with intent to defraud his creditors. 9. Fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation for which suit is brought. The affidavit must further show the nature of plaintiff's claim, that it is just and the amount which affiant believes plaintiff ought to recover. No undertaking is required where the defendant is a foreign corporation, or is a non-resident of the State. In all other cases plaintiff must give an undertaking in double the amount of his claim. If property can not be seized by the officer it may be reached by garnishment process. Writs may issue to other counties than that where suit be commenced. Defendant may give a re-delivery bond and retain possession of the property attached. An attachment writ may be had in actions upon claims before they are due when affidavit filed showing any one of the following grounds: 1. That defendant has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property with a fraudulent intent to cheat and defraud his creditors, or to hinder and delay them in the collection of their debts. 2. That he is about to make such sale, conveyance, or disposition of his property with such fraudulent intent. 3. That he is about to remove his property, or a material part thereof, with the intent or to the effect of cheating and defrauding his creditors, or to hinder and delay them in the collection of their debts. In such cases, however, order for the attachment must be granted by a judge and the affidavit must show when the amount will be due and bond must be given. It is usual for the defendant to deny, by affidavit, the allegations in plaintiff's affidavit relative to the grounds for an attachment. Then affidavits and depositions are procured by both parties to sustain or refute the allegations, and the question as to whether the attachment shall stand or be dissolved is then submitted to the court alone, who decides the matter as a question of fact upon the evidence adduced. If the attachment be sustained, the property, unless perishable, is held until final judgment be had in the action, and if the attachment be dissolved, the plaintiff may at once appeal therefrom to the supreme court, and by giving a bond, can hold the attached property in statu quo.

Banking. Any corporation, partnership, or individual may transact a banking business by first obtaining permission from the State banking board, composed of the auditor of public accounts, the State treasurer, and the attorney-general, which board has supervision and control of all banking institutions in the State, and shall appoint examiners, whose duty it is to carefully investigate the affairs of each bank at least once a year. Savings banks shall have at least $12,000 capital and other banks shall have a capital as follows: In communities having less than 1,000 inhabitants capital shall be at least $5,000; more than 1,000 and less than 1,500 inhabitants, $10,000; between 1,500 and 2,000, $15 000; between 2,000 and 3,000, $20,000; between 3,000 and 5,000, $25,000; between 5,000 and 10,000, $30,000; more than 10,000, $50,000. Such capital shall be in money, commercial paper, bank furniture, and the bank building and ground on which situated, which ground shall be unincumbered, but in no case shall the bank building and ground, together with furniture and fixtures, exceed in value one-third of the paid-up capital, and the furniture and fixtures alone shall not exceed in value 10 per cent of the paid-up capital. Before commencing business the bank shall make a detailed statement of the proposed business to the banking board, which, after approval, shall issue a charter. Every bank must make at least quarterly detailed reports under oath, showing the amount loaned upon bonds and mortgages, amount loaned upon notes, bills of exchange, overdrafts, and other securities, with the actual market value thereof, the amount of rediscounts and of commercial paper past due, the amount invested in real estate, at cost, the amount of cash on hand and on deposit in banks or trust companies, with their names and the amount deposited in each, and the amount of all other assets, together with such other information as the banking board may require. A summary of such report must be published in some local newspaper and proof of such publication transmitted to the banking board, and such board may call for special reports at any time. Failure to make reports entails a penalty of $50 for each day's delinquency, and those making false statements in such reports or in the books of the bank may be punished as felons. It is likewise a felony for a bank to receive moneys or permit same to be received on deposit when the bank is insolvent; to loan to an officer or employe of the corporation without the approval of a majority of the directors; to carry as assets any note or obligation of the partnership, member thereof, or individual, where such partnership or individual do a banking business; to permit shareholders, where the bank is a corporation, to become indebted in a sum exceeding 50 per cent of the paid-up capital of such bank. The aggregate of the rediscounts and bills receivable of any bank shall at no time exceed two-thirds of the paid-up capital. Savings banks shall always have on hand in available funds, consisting of cash and balances due from other solvent banks, at least 5 per cent, and other banks at least 15 per cent, of the aggregate deposits; and in cities having a population of more than 25,000, such reserve shall be 20 per cent of such aggregate deposits, and two-fifths of such reserve shall be cash in the vaults of the bank. A bank may not loan on the security of shares of its capital stock, nor be the purchaser or holder of such shares, unless such security or purchase be necessary to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted, but such stock shall be disposed of within six months, and in no event shall it exceed 10 per cent of the paid-up capital. One-tenth of the net profits shall go to a surplus fund until the same amounts to 20 per cent of the paid-up capital. Not more than 20 per cent of the paid-up capital shall be loaned to any single corporation, firm or individual, including in such loan all loans made to the several members or shareholders of such firm or corporation. Every stockholder is liable for debts accruing during his ownership of stock, for an amount equal to the paid-up value of the shares held, and all shares of stock are assessed in the place where the bank is located, whether the owners thereof reside there or not, and taxes are a lien upon the stock. Every bank shall keep a correct list of names and residences of all stockholders, with the amount held by each, for the inspection of stockholders, creditors, and taxing officers. Savings banks must adopt rules and regulations for the conduct of their business, which must be approved by the banking board, and posted up conspicuously in the place of business; and the bank's funds, except the reserve, must be invested in bonds of the United States, or those of any city, county, township, village, or school district of any State authorized by the legislature, or shall be loaned on negotiable paper secured by such bonds, or mortgage upon unincumbered real estate, but second mortgage loans may be made on improved farm lands, where the loan, including the prior encumbrances thereon, does not exceed 50 per cent of the cash value of the land; and such funds may also be loaned upon notes secured by other collateral security, but savings banks are prohibited from investing in chattel mortgages, except those on cattle. No savings bank shall receive deposits exceeding ten times its paid-up capital and surplus.

Bonds. (See Surety Bonds.)

Chattel Mortgages. Every chattel mortgage, if not accompanied by an immediate delivery of the goods and be followed by an actual and continued change of possession thereof, is absolutely void as against creditors of the mortgagor and as against subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unless such mortgage, or a copy thereof, be filed in the county clerk's office where the mortgagor resides, and if he be a non-resident, then in the clerk's office of the county where the mortgaged property be situated. Such chattel mortgage need not be acknowledged unless it convey household goods used in the family by the husband and wife, or either, in which case it must be signed and acknowledged by both husband and wife, the same as real estate conveyances. A mortgage after record is valid as against creditors of the mortgagor or subsequent purchasers or mortgagees, for five years. If no power of sale in the mortgage then foreclosure is had by action in court; otherwise is foreclosed by advertisement in a newspaper for twenty days offering the property for sale, which notice shall specify the date of the mortgage and where recorded, the names of the mortgagor and mortgagee and the assignee of the latter, if any, the amount claimed to be due on the mortgage at time of first publication and a description of the mortgaged property substantially as contained in the mortgage, together with the time and place of sale, which must take place between the hours of 10.00 A. M. and 4.00 P. M. in the county where the mortgage was first recorded, or in any other county where the property has been removed mean time, and such sale may be postponed from time to time by inserting a notice of such postponement in the newspaper publishing the advertisement of sale. If there be no newspaper in a county, provision is made for posting up notices. Verbal mortgages are good between the parties. It is a felony to transfer or dispose of personal property mortgaged without procuring the consent of the mortgagee, or to remove same out of the county with intent to defraud the mortgagee of his security. Chattel mortgages are resorted to frequently by insolvents to prefer certain of their creditors, and where executed in good faith to secure a bona fide debt, are usually sustained as against the attacks of other creditors.

Conditional Sales. A sale or lease of personalty may be made and title thereto retained in the vendor until the purchase price be fully paid, or condition complied with, by having the contract of sale or lease in writing signed by the vendee or lessee, and then filing copy of same in the county clerk's office, with affidavit of vendor, his agent or attorney attached thereto, giving names and full and true interest of parties and description of the property. Such sale or lease shall be invalid at expiration of five years as against purchasers in good faith, or judgment or attaching creditors, unless the vendor or lessor shall, within thirty days prior to the expiration of the five years, repeat the filing, which must be made annually thereafter.

Consignments. It is a felony on the part of a factor or agent to whom goods have been consigned to sell or assign such goods with intent to defraud the owner. Is also a felony for the owner of goods, after receiving an advancement upon the shipment, to sell or transfer such goods contrary to the agreement between him and the consignee; so to execute a fictitious bill of lading, warehouse receipt, or like instruments with intent to defraud.

Corporations. Two or more persons may organize a corporation for lawful purposes by adopting articles of incorporation and filing same in the office of the county clerk of the county where the principal place of business is situated, and also filing them in the office of the secretary of state. Within four months must publish notice in some newspaper for four weeks, which shall state the name, the place, and nature of business, by what officers business shall be transacted, amount of capital stock and conditions under which shall be paid in, time of commencement and termination of the corporation, and highest amount of indebtedness it may incur, which in no case shall exceed two-thirds the capital stock. Changes in articles of incorporation must be adopted, recorded, and published in same manner. By-laws must be posted conspicuously at place of business. Annual notice must be published of all existing indebtedness of the corporation. After corporate property exhausted, subscribers to stock are liable for unpaid subscription, and if provisions of the statute as to notice, etc., are not substantially complied with, then after assets exhausted, each stockholder is personally liable to the extent of the amount of stock held by him.

Costs. (See Security for Costs.)

Courts. (See Appeals.) Justice and county courts are, for all practical purposes, open at all times except holidays; but their jurisdiction is limited. District courts have general jurisdiction, and have exclusive jurisdiction in certain cases. The terms of the district court in each county are fixed by the presiding judge at the beginning of each year. The supreme court has original jurisdiction in a few cases provided by statute, but its work is principally confined to reviewing decisions of the district court.

Curtesy. (See Dower.) Husband after death of wife, if there be no issue, has the use during his lifetime of all lands owned by her at the time of her decease. If she leaves issue by him he takes a one-third interest for his lifetime in the inheritance of such issue. If she leaves issue by a former husband, to whom her estate might descend, such issue will take all lands not a gift to her from the surviving husband, free from his estate by curtesy.

Days of Grace. (See Notes.)

Decedents. (See Administration of Estates.) If a party leaves no will, his property descends, subject to his debts, as follows: 1. In equal shares to his children and to the lawful issue of any deceased children by right of representation, and if there be no children living, estate goes to all other lineal descendants, and if all such descendants are in the same degree of kindred, they take equally, otherwise according to right of representation. 2. If he shall leave no issue, estate goes to widow during her lifetime and a her decease to his father, and if he shall have no issue nor widow, his estate goes to his father. 3. If intestate leave no widow nor children nor father, his estate goes in equal shares to his mother and brothers and sisters, and the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation. 4. If there be no children nor widow nor father nor brother nor sister, estate shall descend to his mother. 5. If intestate leave none of the foregoing heirs, his estate shall descend to next of kin in equal degree, except that when two or more claim through different ancestors, the nearest ancestor shall have preference. 6. If intestate shall leave a widow, and no kindred, his estate shall descend to such widow. 7. If no widow and no kindred, estate shall escheat to the State. Provision is also made for surviving children dying under age, unmarried. Under certain circumstances an illegitimate child may inherit. Claims against estates must be presented within time fixed by court, of which notice is given by advertisement, and which time is not less than six months nor more than two years after letters of administration issue.

Deeds (see Acknowledgments) must be signed in presence of one witness and acknowledged. Grantor's seal not required. Deed conveys all interest of the grantor, unless a contrary intention is expressed. A homestead can only be encumbered and conveyed by deed signed by both husband and wife, and the wife, to bar her dower interest, should join in all deeds. A deed executed in a foreign country is valid if it be in accordance with the laws of such country or of this State. No separate examination of the wife is necessary. Provision is made for proof of execution and delivery if grantor die before acknowledging, or refuse to acknowledge a deed. A deed properly acknowledged may be received and read in evidence, and a certified copy thereof from the land records may be used with like force and effect. Deeds and mortgages are valid between the parties without record, but are invalid as against all creditors and subsequent purchasers in good faith without notice. Unless properly acknowledged, a deed is not entitled to be recorded. A deed absolute in terms, but really a mortgage, is treated as a mortgage.

Depositions may be taken at any time after service of summons, and may be used as evidence only when the witness does not reside in the county of trial or is absent therefrom, or is unable to attend court, or is dead, or when written testimony is required instead of it being oral: may be taken before various officers, but are usually taken before a notary public. The officer must not be a relative or the attorney of either party or otherwise interested in the event of the action, and this fact should be stated in his certificate attached to the deposition. The court or judge may appoint a special commissioner to take a deposition, but this is seldom done. The usual way is simpler, viz.: Prepare notice specifying the action and name of the court, the time and place of taking the deposition, and the names of witnesses. Serve such notice upon opposite party, or his attorney, or leave at his usual place of residence, allowing sufficient time for him to reach the place of taking the deposition by the usual route of travel and one day for preparation, excluding Sundays and the day of service of the notice. In case the party is a non-resident, provision is made for service by advertisement for three weeks in a newspaper. The deposition must be written in presence of the officer taking the same and subscribed by the witness. Certificate must show that the witness was first sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, that the deposition was reduced to writing by some person (naming him), and that it was written and subscribed in the presence of the officer, and was taken at the time and place specified in the notice. It must be then sealed up and indorsed with the title of the cause, and the name of the officer taking it, and by him addressed and transmitted to the clerk of the court where the action is pending. It must be filed in court at least one day before the trial. If taken out of the State, and the officer has no seal, a certificate under the great seal of the State, or of a clerk of a court of record under seal should be appended, stating that the officer was, at the time of taking the deposition, properly authorized.

Descent and Distribution. (See Decedents.)

Divorce. The district court has exclusive jurisdiction over divorce actions, which must be brought in the county where one of the parties reside. Complainant must have been a resident of the State for six months immediately preceding commencement of the action, unless the marriage is solemnized in this State, and the plaintiff shall have resided therein from such time to the time of filing the complaint. If parties at time of marriage were under the age of consent, such marriage may be annulled, if they should separate during such non-age, and not live together as man and wife thereafter, or in case the consent of one of the parties was obtained by force or fraud and they have not lived together voluntarily since such marriage. A divorce may be decreed for the following causes: Adultery, physical incompetency at time of marriage, imprisonment for three years or more, abandonment for two years, habitual drunkenness, extreme cruelty, whether personal violence used or not. A wife may obtain divorce on the ground that the husband, being of sufficient ability to provide suitable maintenance for her, shall grossly or wantonly and cruelly refuse or neglect so to do. Both husband and wife may be witnesses as in other civil cases. Alimony and suit money are allowed.

Dower. (See Curtesy.) The widow of every deceased person shall be entitled to the use during her natural life, of one-third of all the lands of which her husband was seized of an estate of inheritance at any time during the marriage, unless lawfully barred. Where provision for the widow is made by will, she may take under such will, or may take her dower interest in the lands, and shall have one year from the death of the husband in which to make her election, but she can not have both, unless the will so specify. Mortgages executed by the husband for purchase money of lands are superior to dower, and when the husband trades land during coverture, without the wife's consent, the widow has one year after his death in which to decide in which land she shall claim dower. A non-resident wife has no dower interest, but a non-resident widow has her dower interest in all lands in the State of which her husband died seized. Dower may be barred by the wife joining in a deed of conveyance; by a jointure settlement or by a pecuniary provision before marriage with her assent.

Estates. (See Decedents.)

Evidence. The husband can not in any case be a witness against the wife, nor a wife against the husband except in a criminal proceeding for a crime committed by the one against the other, but they may, in all criminal prosecutions, be witnesses for each other. In all civil cases they are competent witnesses for each other. They may not divulge any communication made by the one to the other during marriage, but this may be waived. Interested parties may testify in their own behalf. Client's communications to attorneys are privileged, and likewise confessions made to a clergyman or priest. A witness can not be compelled to testify as to matters where his answers would tend to criminate him.

Executions (see Judgments, Proceedings in Aid of Execution) may issue at any time after judgment, if no stay bond be filed, and until five years thereafter. May be directed to any county in the State and to different counties at the same time. Must first be levied upon personal property, and if that is not sufficient, then upon realty. Land sold upon execution or decree of court may be redeemed by the debtor at any time before confirmation of such sale. A stay of execution is allowed by giving bond with approved sureties as follows: In district court within twenty days, not exceeding $50, three months; $50 to $100, six months; exceeding $100, nine months. In justice and county courts, within ten days, as follows: $10 or under, stay of sixty days; $10 to $50, ninety days; $50 to $100, six months; over $100, nine months. Land sold under execution must be appraised and must bring two-thirds of such appraisement.

Exemptions. A head of a family has exempt from levy and sale certain personal property and household furniture enumerated in the statute, and in addition thereto has exempt a homestead not exceeding in value $2,000, exclusive of the mortgage thereon, consisting of a dwelling in which the party resides and appurtenances and 160 acres of land on which same may be situated, or, at the option of the party, two contiguous lots in any incorporated city or village. Such exempt property shall be free from all judgment liens and from sale on execution, except that the homestead may be sold on foreclosure of mechanics' liens, and of mortgages executed by both husband and wife. If party has no homestead as above stated, he shall have exempt the sum of $500 in personal property in addition to the articles enumerated by statute. Mechanics, miners, or other persons, whether heads of families or not, have their tools and instruments exempt, and a professional man's library and implements are likewise exempt. All pension money, and property purchased and improved therewith, not exceeding $2,000 in value, is exempt. Exemption law does not apply to claims for clerks, laborers or mechanic's wages, nor can an attorney plead exemption in a suit for money or other valuable consideration received by him. Sixty days' wages of laborers, mechanics, and clerks who are heads of families are likewise exempt. "Head of a family" means the husband or wife when the claimant is a married person; every person who has resided on the premises with him or her and under his care or maintenance, (a) his or her minor child, or the minor child of his or her deceased husband or wife; (b) his minor brother or sister or the minor child of a deceased brother or sister; (c) a father, mother, grandfather or grandmother; (d) the father or mother, grandfather or grandmother of a deceased husband or wife; (e) an unmarried sister or any other of the relatives mentioned above who have attained the age of majority and are unable to take care of or support themselves. Exempt property is not susceptible of fraudulent alienation.

Foreign Corporations (see Corporations, Aliens) may become domestic by filing with the secretary of State a true copy of charter or articles of association, together with a certified copy of resolution adopted by the board of directors accepting the provisions of the Act of the Legislature of Nebraska, Chapter 42, Laws of 1889.

Fraud. (See Statute of Frauds, Limitations, Consignments.) Conveyances made for the purpose of defrauding creditors are void and intent is deemed a question of fact, not of law.

Garnishment. (See Attachment.) Writ may be issued before judgment in attachment proceedings. After judgment and after execution returned unsatisfied, writ will issue by filing affidavit for same. No bond required after judgment. Property is in custodia legis from time of service of writ, and also all property which may come into garnishee's possession before answer day.

Holidays are January 1st, February 22d, April 22d, May 30th, July 4th, first Monday in September, Thanksgiving, and December 25th. No court can be open, nor can any judicial business be transacted on a holiday or Sunday, except, first, to give instructions to a jury then deliberating on their verdict; second, to receive a verdict or discharge a jury; third, to act as magistrate in a criminal proceeding; fourth, to grant or refuse a temporary injunction or restraining order.

Homestead. (See Exemptions.)

Husband and Wife. (See Decedents, Evidence, Exemptions, Married Women, Marriage.)

Insolvents. (See Assignments.)

Interest. Legal rate is 7 per cent and contract rate 10 per cent. Judgments draw same rate as specified in the instrument on which judgment obtained, otherwise 7 per cent. A contract is not avoided by usury, but in action thereon all payments are deducted from the principal and plaintiff recovers only the balance, without interest, and pays all costs.

Judgments. (See Actions, Appeals, Exemptions, Executions, Interest.) Those recovered in district court are liens upon real estate of debtor from first day of term at which rendered, except those by confession and those rendered at the same term at which action commenced are liens only from date of rendition. Transcripts of judgments in county and justice courts become liens from date of filing in the office of the clerk of the district court. Judgments may be made a lien upon lands in other counties by filing transcripts in the office of the clerk of the district court in such counties. A judgment becomes dormant in five years and lien upon real estate is lost if execution not issued within that time. After dormancy may be revived by certain proceedings. In judgments by confession cause of action must be stated in the judgment or in a writing filed as a pleading. Deficiency judgments have been abolished.

Jurisdiction. (See Actions, Judgments.)

Justices of the Peace. (See Courts, Judgments.)

Leases. (See Conditional Sales.) Verbal lease is good for one year. For longer time must be in writing signed by the parties.

Liens. (See Judgments.) Material men and laborers and mechanics are entitled to liens upon the building or improvements for material furnished and labor performed, by filing in the office of the register of deeds an itemized statement of account duly verified by affidavit of party, showing amount due, nature of the contract, description of property, names of the parties; and if the claim arise out of a written contract, or if a note or other written evidence has been taken in payment of the account, copies must be attached. An original contractor must file such statement within four months from the time of furnishing such material or performing the labor; a sub-contractor within sixty days. Lien dates back to commencement of work or labor and is valid for two years from date of filing. All mechanics' liens on the same premises are of equal priority and prorate in the proceeds of sale of property, if sold under foreclosure thereof.

Limitations. (See Actions.) Actions brought to recover real property or foreclose mortgages thereon must be commenced within ten years after cause of action accrues. Actions for forcible entry and detention, libel, slander, assault and battery, malicious prosecution, false imprisonment, and those to enforce penalties or forfeitures, must be commenced within one year. Actions for trespass to real property, taking, detaining or injuring personal property, upon contracts not in writing upon the liability created by statute thereon, forfeiture or penalty for injuries to rights not arising out of contract, for relief on the ground of fraud, and all other actions not specifically limited by statute, must be commenced within four years. Actions upon a specialty, agreement, contract in writing, promissory notes, etc., and foreign judgments, must be commenced within five years. Actions upon official bonds of executors, administrators, guardians, sheriffs, or other officers, and upon statutory bonds, must be commenced within ten years. If parties under disability, cause of action does not commence to run until such disability removed.

Limited Partnership. (See Partnerships.) Articles thereof must be in writing, acknowledged by the parties and recorded in the office of the county clerk of every county where partnership shall have a place of business. The special partner is not liable beyond the amount contributed to the partnership funds, but has nothing to do with the management or conduct of the business; otherwise is liable as general partner. Special partner's name shall not appear in the firm.

Marriage. (See Married Women.) Male must be eighteen years and female sixteen years of age, unless consent of parent or guardian be obtained. License should be first procured from county judge, but failure to do so does not invalidate the marriage. When either party is a minor, no license will issue without the verbal consent, if present, or written consent, if absent, of the father, if living, if not, then of the mother or guardian of such minor. Property of either party is not liable for the debts of the other contracted before marriage. Antenuptial contracts and settlements are recognized.

Married Women (see Decedents, Evidence, Exemptions, Marriage) may contract, bargain, sell, and convey their separate property same as femme sole, and retain ownership and control of their own property, notwithstanding the marriage. May sue and be sued, carry on trade or business, perform services, and use and invest, devise, lease, and convey their property as if unmarried. A married woman is not liable as surety unless she sign obligation with special reference to her separate estate.

Mechanics' Liens. (See Liens.)

Mortgages. (See Actions, Acknowledgments, Courts, Dower, Limitations, Chattel Mortgages.) Mortgagor, regardless of stipulation contained in mortgage (and in the absence of special agreement, which must be in a separate writing), retains legal title and right of possession of property. In case of assignment of mortgage such assignment should be recorded and notice given to the mortgagor, as payment in good faith by such mortgagor, without such notice, to original mortgagee, held valid. Release may be by separate instrument or upon the mortgage records in register of deed's office, and if mortgagee, after mortgage fully paid, neglects or refuses for seven days to discharge such mortgage, he is liable to a penalty of $100 and all actual damages suffered by the other party. Mortgages can only be foreclosed by suit, and after foreclosure suit commenced no action can be maintained at law upon the debt, and if action be first commenced at law, can not foreclose the mortgage until judgment obtained and execution returned thereon unsatisfied. There are no requirements to make public statements showing the condition of banks, and none are made. Nor are the banks obliged to make returns to any official. Bankers may do as they please in Nevada. Integrity in the banker is the only safeguard.

Also Arbor day fixed by proclamation of governor one month before fixing such date, and is only a holiday for public schools. Bills of exchange, checks, promissory notes, and other negotiable instruments falling due upon any holiday are payable the day previous.

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Interest. The legal rate is 7 per cent per annum, but parties may contract in writing for the payment of any other rate. After a judgment on such a contract, only the original claim shall draw interest, and the rate of interest must be mentioned in the judgment.

Limitations of Suits. Open or store account and contract not in writing, four years; upon contract or instrument of writing, six years; recovery of mining claims, two years; real actions—the person prosecuting or defending the same must show that he was seized or possessed of the premises within five years before the commencement or defense of the action, judgment, or decree of the district court—six years; of the justices court—five years. All other property acquired during coverture by husband or wife, common property, but controlled by husband. Upon a dissolution of the community by the death of the husband, the homestead set apart by the husband and wife, or either of them, goes to the wife and minor children, and if there are no minor children, to the widow. The husband may dispose of one-half of the common property by will, exclusive of the homestead. The other half of the community property goes to the wife, subject to administration and debts of the husband.

Mortgages must be recorded. No mortgage of personal property is valid unless possession is delivered to and retained by the mortgagee, or unless the mortgage is recorded in the county where the mortgagor and mortgagee reside. Recording is equivalent to possession, except that growing crops and other personal property may be mortgaged by the execution, acknowledgment, and recording of a mortgage instrument without such possession. Mortgages of real estate can only be foreclosed by action for foreclosure.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Commercial paper includes promises to pay to order, or bearer, without conditions, for a sum certain and at a time certain. Fifteen per cent damages are allowed on domestic, and twenty per cent on foreign bills protested. Grace is not allowed on sight drafts.

Creditors of such an estate must file their claims within forty days.

Suits. Practice is under a code, and there is but one form of action, known as a civil action, and commenced by filing complaint with the clerk of the court and the issuance of a summons. Service on non-residents may be had by publication.

Taxes are a lien upon the property assessed and the real estate of the owner thereof from the first Monday of March in each year. Suits for delinquent taxes may be commenced by direction of the county commissioners, and there is redemption of real estate sold at tax sale in the same manner as realty sold under ordinary execution.

If taken by a justice of the peace in any county in the State other than the county in which the land is situate, a certificate of the county clerk is necessary, showing he was an acting justice when the acknowledgment was taken. If without the State, but within the United States, by a judge or clerk of a court having a seal, or some notary public or justice of the peace, or by any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for that purpose. Provided, that when the acknowledgment is taken by a justice of the peace, the same shall be accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of a court of record of the county, having a seal, as to the official character of the justice and the authenticity of his signature. If in a foreign country such affidavits shall be taken before an embassador, minister, or consul of the United States, or judge of a court in such foreign country having a seal.

Appeals. Actions tried in justice court may be appealed to district courts, where trial is had de novo and can proceed no farther. Actions in which the district courts have original jurisdiction may be appealed to the supreme court.

Arbitration. Provision is made by law for the settlement of disputes by arbitration; the award of the arbitrators to be filed with the clerk of the district court and docketed the same as a judgment in civil action.

Arrest. (See Attachment.)

Assignments and Insolvency. Except as affected by the national bankruptcy act of 1898, the following statute respecting assignment is in force: Insolvent debtors may be discharged from their debts by complying with provisions of insolvent laws. An assignment of insolvent debtor, not in compliance with insolvent laws, is void as to creditors.

Attachment. Writ of attachment may be issued with summons, or at any time afterward on affidavit and bond. In an action upon a contract for the direct payment of money, made, or by the terms thereof payable, in this State, which is not secured by mortgage, lien, or pledge upon real or personal property, situated or being in the State; if so secured, when such security has been rendered nugatory by the act of the defendant; or in an action upon a contract against a defendant not residing in this State. A fraudulent or absconding debtor, or one who conceals his property, or removes or disposes of it with intent to defraud his creditors, may be arrested on affidavit of the fact made; surety in not less than $500 being given by the plaintiff. The clerk of the court shall issue the writ of attachment upon receiving and filing an affidavit by or on behalf of the plaintiff, showing the nature of the plaintiff 's claim, that same is just, the amount which the affiant believes the plaintiff is entitled to recover, and the existence of any one of the grounds for an attachment above enumerated.

Banks. There are no provisions in the constitution or laws of the State, and no examination is provided for. There are no requirements to make public statements showing the condition of banks, and none are made. Nor are the banks obliged to make returns to any official. Bankers may do as they please in Nevada. Integrity in the banker is the only safeguard.

Conveyances. The husband has the entire management and control of the community property, with the like absolute power of disposition thereof, except as hereinafter provided, as of his own separate estate; provided, that no deed of conveyance, or mortgage, of a homestead as now defined by law, regardless of whether a declaration thereof has been filed or not, shall be valid for any purpose whatever, unless both the husband and wife execute and acknowledge the same as now provided by law for the conveyance of real estate.

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. District courts have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity, also in law, when the title or possession of land or mining claims may be involved, or legality of any tax, etc., also in actions to foreclose mechanics' lien; and in all cases in which the demand, exclusive of interest, or the value of the property in controversy exceeds $300, also in all cases relating to estates of deceased persons, and persons and estates of minors, insane persons, etc. Justice's jurisdiction, $300, exclusive of interest, and concurrent jurisdiction with district courts in foreclosure of mortgages and liens, not exceeding $300, exclusive of interest.

Days of Grace. Three days grace is allowed on notes and bills of exchange, except when otherwise stated in the contract.

Dower is not recognized in this State.

Executions. Stay of Execution; Judgments. The laws of Nevada on these points are similar to those of California [see ante], except that when redemption is made of real estate, 18 per cent must be paid in addition to purchase money.

Exemptions. Homestead, $5,000; $50 of the earnings of the debtor, if earned thirty days preceding, if it is made to appear necessary for the support of the debtor, or his family; personal and mining property, tools, implements, etc., exempt same as in California [which see].

Garnishment. (See Attachment.)

Holidays. Sunday, New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, October 31st (Nevada admission day), Thanksgiving, and all days on which a general election is held, are non-judicial days and are termed legal holidays and generally observed as such. Also Arbor day fixed by proclamation of governor one month before fixing such date, and is only a holiday for public schools. Bills of exchange, checks, promissory notes, and other negotiable instruments falling due upon any holiday are payable the day previous.

Interest. The legal rate is 7 per cent per annum, but parties may contract in writing for the payment of any other rate. After a judgment on such a contract, only the original claim shall draw interest, and the rate of interest must be mentioned in the judgment.

Limitations of Suits. Open or store account and contract not in writing, four years; upon contract or instrument of writing, six years; recovery of mining claims, two years; real actions—the person prosecuting or defending the same must show that he was seized or possessed of the premises within five years before the commencement or defense of the action, judgment, or decree of the district court—six years; of the justices court—five years. Revivor: Acknowledgment or new promise in writing. Judgments become a lien upon real property for two years.

Married Women. All property of the wife, owned by her before marriage, and that acquired afterward by gift, bequest, devise or descent, her separate property. In Nevada, under the statute of 1873, the wife has absolute power over her separate property, and may dispose of the same without the consent of her husband. All other property acquired during coverture by husband or wife, common property, but controlled by husband. Upon a dissolution of the community by the death of the husband, the homestead set apart by the husband and wife, or either of them, goes to the wife and minor children, and if there are no minor children, to the widow. The husband may dispose of one-half of the common property by will, exclusive of the homestead. The other half of the community property goes to the wife, subject to administration and debts of the husband.

Mortgages must be recorded. No mortgage of personal property is valid unless possession is delivered to and retained by the mortgagee, or unless the mortgage is recorded in the county where the mortgagor and mortgagee reside. Recording is equivalent to possession, except that growing crops and other personal property may be mortgaged by the execution, acknowledgment, and recording of a mortgage instrument without such possession. Mortgages of real estate can only be foreclosed by action for foreclosure.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Commercial paper includes promises to pay to order, or bearer, without conditions, for a sum certain and at a time certain. No requirement respecting place of payment, but, if place of payment is named, demand should be made before protest at place named. Protest and notice will hold the indorser, and the general statute of limitation, six years, and on open account, four years, is the limitation of the right of action. Fifteen per cent damages are allowed on domestic, and twenty per cent on foreign bills protested. Grace is not allowed on sight drafts.

Probate. All claims against estates of deceased persons must be filed within three months after the first publication of the notice of appointment of the executor or administrator. Estates not exceeding $2,000 in value, in the discretion of the judge, may be summarily administered, and in cases of summary administration all regular proceedings and notices are dispensed with, except the notice of the appointment of the executor or administrator. Creditors of such an estate must file their claims within forty days.

Suits. Practice is under a code, and there is but one form of action, known as a civil action, and commenced by filing complaint with the clerk of the court and the issuance of a summons. Service on non-residents may be had by publication.

Taxes are a lien upon the property assessed and the real estate of the owner thereof from the first Monday of March in each year. Suits for delinquent taxes may be commenced by direction of the county commissioners, and there is redemption of real estate sold at tax sale in the same manner as realty sold under ordinary execution.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. E. S. & H. A. CUTTER, Attorneys at Law, Nashua. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. Accounts are recoverable in an action of assumpsit. They are due upon demand, and interest at the rate of 6 per cent simple interest begins to run from the date of demand. They are proved by the production of the book of account, containing the original entries, verified by a supplementary oath. They are not evidence as to payments of money exceeding $6.66.

Acknowledgments of deeds or other conveyances of real estate must be made before a justice, notary public or commissioner, or in foreign countries before a minister or consul of the United States. The signature of the grantor must be attested by two witnesses.

Actions. The common law prevails as to procedure. The actions are assumpsit, to recover upon a promise; debt, to recover the amount of a judgment, or the amount of a bond, or a statute penalty; covenant, to recover for the breach of a warranty in a deed, or covenants in a sealed instrument; detinue, for the detention of property; real actions, to determine the title to real estate; replevin, to recover personal property in specie; and tort, to recover damages arising from negligence, trespass and frauds generally. Non-residents can institute suit, a resident becoming responsible for costs by indorsing the writ. The plaintiff's attorney usually endorses. Transitory action may be brought in the county where one of the parties reside. If both are non-residents the action may be brought in any county. Fourteen days notice required in the service of writs. Actions may be prosecuted by appeal from a police to the supreme court, if claimed within two hours after judgment, and if bond is filed within twenty-four hours, running to the adverse party in the sum of $100, to pay all costs which may be recovered against the appellant. (See Administration of Estates, Executions.)

Administration of Estates. Administration shall be granted in the following order of precedence: To the executor named; to the widow, or any of the next of kin, or to such person as they shall nominate; to one of the devisees or to a creditor; to such other person as the judge shall think fit. A non-resident shall not be appointed unless urgent necessity demands. An ample bond with resident sureties shall be filed, the condition of which is: To administer according to law, to return an inventory within three months, to render an account within one year, to pay the residue of the estate according to decree of the court. The testator may direct that no bond shall be required. The administrator shall, within ten days of his appointment, post notices thereof in the town where the deceased lived at the time of his decease. No suit shall be brought against the administrator within the first year of his administration. Claims shall be presented within one year after his appointment, and no action can be brought after two years. Actions are not maintainable against an administrator of an estate, after a decree of insolvency. Estates may be administered in the insolvent court, and then a commissioner shall be appointed to examine and allow claims. He shall hold at least two sessions, give notice of the times and place, and at the expiration of his commission, which is usually for six months, he shall render his report to the probate court. Preferred claims, to be settled in full are: Expenses of administration, widow's allowance, charges of burial, and taxes. Claims for the last sickness shall be paid in full if there remains anything after paying the preferred claims. (See Appeals, Arbitration.)

Affidavits. Affidavits are not admissible in evidence, being ex parte, but motions are heard upon affidavits presented to the court. May be made before an officer authorized to administer oaths. (See Arrest.)

Aliens. They are not entitled to vote. An alien may purchase, hold and convey real estate, and it will descend in the same manner as if he were a native born citizen. When the wife of an alien has resided in the State six months, separate from her husband, she acquires all the rights of the wife of a native born citizen.

Appeals from the probate court must be filed within sixty days after decree, and appeals from the commissioner's report within thirty days. Satisfactory bond must be filed and notice of the appeal served on the adverse party. (See Actions.)

Arbitration. The statute provides that a reference may be had under a rule from the judge of probate, whenever a creditor against an estate is dissatisfied with the report of a commissioner. The report of the referees shall be final. All controversies may be referred under the statute. The agreement therefor shall be in writing, and shall set forth, with particularity, the nature of the claim, and shall be signed by the parties. The referees shall have the same authority as if appointed by the court. Their report shall be returned to the court, whereupon the court shall take cognizance thereof as if proceedings had been originally begun therein.

Arrest. No woman, sheriff, or voter on election day is liable to arrest. No person is liable to arrest on a real action. (See Attachments.)

Assignments and Insolvency. Assignments for benefit of creditors to be filed in the probate court of the county in which debtor resides. If any part of the debtor's property is real estate, such assignment shall be executed with all the formalities of a deed of land. Debtor, within ten days thereafter, shall file list of creditors, verified by oath, and within fifteen days a schedule of his property. Involuntary assignment made by debtor upon petition of creditors whose claims amount to $300 and upwards; assignee to be appointed upon notice and upon the recommendation of two-thirds in numbers and a majority in value of those creditors who filed statement of their accounts. Creditors to file statements of their accounts upon oath within two months, and all objections thereto to be made within four months after the filing of the assignment. Claims may be proved any time before final dividend, and objections to such claim must be made within thirty days thereafter. Assignee shall immediately give bond, and return inventory of property. Assignee to render account within six months. Wages of clerks, domestics, and other laborers to be paid in full, not exceeding $50, for services rendered within six months prior to the beginning of insolvency proceedings, and taxable costs of all suits begun in good faith which were dissolved by the proceedings, debts due the United States and taxes. Debtor given a full discharge from all his debts upon the written approval of two-thirds of his creditors in number and amount, and without such approval upon paying 50 per centum of his debts. The provisions of the law upon this subject are suspended by the United States bankrupt law.

Attachments of all real and personal property may be made on the original writ, and constitute a valid lien on the property for thirty days after judgment, within which period the execution must be levied to preserve and perfect the lien. All attachments take precedence in order of priority, except in case of liens of builders, contractors, etc., when they take precedence in the order of priority of the lien. Trustee process (analogous to garnishment in other States) may be used to reach money or credits of the defendant in the hands of another. Save as against claims for necessaries the wages of the defendant up to $20 are exempt from such process. In actions on contracts where debt exceeds $13.33, defendant may be arrested on affidavit of plaintiff that he (defendant) has concealed his property or is about to leave the State to avoid payment of his debts. (See Garnishment.)

Banks. Banks can be chartered only by a special act of the legislature. Building and loan associations may be organized as voluntary associations. Once every year a thorough examination shall be made into the condition and management of every bank, building and loan association, and trust company in the State by one of the three bank commissioners. The commissioners shall on or before the 1st day of October, annually, file their report with the secretary of State. They shall give in their report a detailed statement of all the items of expense of each institution, with the names of the treasurer and clerks, the salary of each, with the kind and amount of stocks and bonds held by each, with the par value thereof, and the cost and the market value at the date of examination. The cashiers of every State bank, and every association or partnership formed for the purpose of transacting such business as is usually transacted by banks, shall, on the first Monday of March, June, September, and December in each year, make a statement of its condition on said day, specifying in separate columns the capital stock actually paid in; debts due the bank secured by pledge of its stock; value of real estate belonging to the bank; amount of debts due from directors; amount of specie in the vaults; amount of bills of other banks on hand; amount of deposits in the bank; amount on deposit in other banks for the redemption of its bills; and the amount of bills of the bank then in circulation; which statement shall be signed and sworn to by the cashier, and returned to the secretary of State. The trustees of savings banks shall make a thorough examination of the affairs of their respective banks once in every six months, and a report of such examination, signed by a committee of the trustees, shall be returned to the bank commissioners, and a copy of the report published in a newspaper published in the place where such bank is established; or, if there be no newspaper in such place, then in a newspaper at the nearest place. (See Savings Banks Investments.)

Bills of Lading. There has been no legislation on this subject. The common law obtains. Our courts have held that a bill of lading represents the property and is transferred by delivery merely, without regard to indorsement or word of negotiability.

Chattel Mortgages. (See Mortgages.)

Collateral. There have been no statutory enactments on this subject. Pledgee of stock is not liable as a stockholder, but the general owner is.

Contracts. All contracts made by a person under guardianship, or by a person alleged to be insane, or a spendthrift, after service of papers to secure guardianship, are void. All gambling contracts and contracts made on Sunday are void. In all contracts for labor ten hours labor shall be considered a day's work. The ancient law, known as the statute of frauds, is re-enacted on our statute books. Under that act all contracts for the sale of land shall be in writing; no action shall be brought to charge an administrator personally, nor to charge a person to answer the default of another, nor upon an agreement made in consideration of marriage, or that is to be performed in one year, unless such contract shall be in writing. No contract for the sale of goods for the price of $33 or upward shall be valid, unless the buyer shall accept and actually receive a part of the goods so sold, or give something in part payment to bind the bargain, or unless there be some note in writing signed by the party to be charged. No assignment of wages to be earned in the future shall be valid unless it shall be accepted in writing and a copy filed with the clerk of the town where the party making it resides.

Conveyances. Every deed and lease, for more than seven years, shall be signed, sealed, attested by two or more witnesses, acknowledged before a justice of the peace, notary public, or commissioner, and recorded in the registry of the county wherein the real estate is situated. Every power of attorney to convey real estate must be executed with the same formalities. Conditional conveyances must state the sum to be secured, or the thing to be performed. Administrators, guardians, and trustees can convey only by virtue of a license from the probate court. Sheriff's deeds shall give full particulars as to the action, and shall covenant that he has observed all the requirements of law.

Corporations. Corporations can be chartered by the legislature. Voluntary corporations can be formed for any purpose except banking, life insurance, and railroading. Five persons may associate themselves together under written articles of agreement, which articles shall set forth the corporate name, its object, place of business, and amount of capital, which may be anywhere from $1,000 to $1,000,000, with the par value of the shares at not less than $25 or more than $500. This agreement shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of State, and in the office of the clerk of the town where the business is to be carried on. Every corporation which shall not carry on its business in the State, obtaining a charter here, shall pay a charter fee as follows: $10 on a capital of less than $25,000; $25 on a capital between $25 000 and $100,000; $50 on a capital between $100,000 and $500,000; $100 on a capital between $500,000 and $1,000,000; and $200 where it exceeds $1,000,000. The said charter fee shall be paid when the articles are recorded. The clerk of every corporation shall be and continue a resident of the State. And at least one of the directors shall be an actual resident of the State, if the corporation has any stockholders resident in the State. No corporation shall sell or dispose of any of its stock at a price less than the par thereof. A note is not payment therefor. Cumulative voting is not permitted. Stockholders in all corporations, except banks and railroads, shall be liable for all the debts of the company until the capital is fully paid, and a certificate under the oath of the treasurer and a majority of the directors shall have been recorded with the town clerk. Every corporation, except banks, railroads, and insurance companies, shall annually, in May, return a sworn report, signed by the treasurer and a majority of the directors, of its assets, liabilities, and any assessments, which report, shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of State. A failure to make such return renders the officers personally liable for all the company debts.

Courts. The supreme court has original jurisdiction over all causes. It holds law terms in June and December, at Concord, when questions of law are determined, upon cases transferred from the trial terms, upon bills of exceptions. Probate courts have jurisdiction over estates of deceased persons, insolvent estates, minors, insane persons, adoptions, change of names, trustees, and partition of real estate. Police courts and justices of the peace have concurrent jurisdiction with the supreme court up to $100 when the title to real estate is not involved, and can render judgment upon confession up to $200. The terms of the supreme court in the several counties are as follows: Rockingham—at Exeter, on the third Tuesday of January and the second Tuesday of April; at Portsmouth, on the third Tuesday of October. Strafford—at Dover, on the second Tuesday of February and on the first Tuesday of September. Belknap—at Laconia, on the fourth Tuesdays of March and September. Coos, southern district—at Lancaster, on the third Tuesdays of April and October.

Days of Grace. None except on sight drafts.

Deeds of Trust. No trust concerning lands shall be created, except by an instrument signed by the party creating the same, and in other respects conforming to the statutes concerning conveyances.

They can only be taken by written questions and answers proposed by counsel and administered by the magistrate. Objections are minuted on the deposition by the magistrate, but he does not pass upon the validity of such objections. Depositions shall be signed by the deponent, and he shall be sworn to testify to the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. To the children and to the legal representatives of such of them as are dead. 2. If there be no issue, to the father, if he is living. 3. If there be no issue or father, in equal shares to the mother and to the brothers and sisters or their representatives. 4. To the next of kin in equal shares. If a person dies under age, his estate, derived by descent or devise from his father or mother, shall descend to his brothers and sisters, or their representatives, if any, to the exclusion of the other parent. No representation allowed beyond the degree of brothers' and sisters' children. The personal estate shall be distributed as follows: 1. To the widow, her share according to law. 2. To the same persons who would take as in the case of realty. The widow is entitled, in addition to her dower and homestead, to one-third or one-half of the personalty, as the husband does, or does not leave issue surviving, and she holds the same interest in the real estate, by releasing her dower and homestead, and by waiving any provision in the will in her favor. A surviving husband has the same rights in his wife's estate that a wife would have in her husband's estate. (See Dower.)

Divorce. The jurisdiction of the court shall be confined to actions commenced: 1. Where both parties were domiciled within the State when the action commenced. 2. Where the plaintiff was so domiciled, and the defendant was served personally with process within the State. 3. Where one of the parties was so domiciled, and one or the other resided within the State for one year next preceding the beginning of the action. The causes for divorce are as follows: 1. Impotency. 2. Adultery. 3. Extreme cruelty. 4. Conviction of crime and imprisonment for more than one year. 5. Conduct endangering health. 6. Conduct endangering reason. 7. Three years continuous absence. 8. Habitual drunkenness for three years continuously. 9. Non-support for three years continuously. 12. Wife's willful absence for three years without consent. 13. Same offense by the husband.

Dower. A widow is entitled to dower in the real estate of which her husband died seized, excepting in land not under cultivation or in a wood lot not used in connection with a farm. The dower may be assigned by metes and bounds, and the widow has an undivided net third part of the rents and profits until dower is assigned. She may be endowed with so much of the real estate of her late husband as will produce a yearly income equal to one-third of the total income.

Executions may be taken twenty-four hours after judgment, and are returnable before justice's and police courts in sixty days; before supreme court, at the next trial term of court. Writ of possession issued sixty days after judgment. A review may be granted by the court when injustice appears to have been done through accident, mistake, or misfortune. Real property taken under execution may be redeemed within one year.

Fraud. Aside from criminal frauds, the supreme court, in the exercise of its equity functions, has jurisdiction over frauds. (For the provisions of the statute of frauds and perjuries, see Contracts.)

Garnishment. Known to our law as trusteeing. Any personal action except trespass, defamation of character, and malicious prosecution, may be begun by trustee process. Trustees are not chargeable upon default. Wages earned after the service of the writ are not held by the process. Twenty dollars in wages are exempt as against all claims except for necessaries.

Husband and Wife. They may make antenuptial agreements which can be in lieu of dower, homestead, and distributive share. (See Arrest, Alien, Descent of Property, Dower, Divorce, Married Women, and Wills.)

Interest. At the rate of 6 per cent per annum. If any person, upon any contract, receives interest at a higher rate than 6 per cent, he forfeits three times the excess to the person aggrieved and suing therefor; but no contract is invalidated by reason of any stipulation for usurious interest; the money actually advanced may be recovered with legal interest. Interest upon all judgments is at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. Interest upon unpaid taxes is at the rate of 10 per cent after the first day of December following their assessment, until sale of property taxed, and 12 per cent thereafter until time of redemption. Upon current accounts interest commences from date of demand for payment, unless controlled by the custom of trade, which is a question of fact to be determined by a trial thereof.

Judgments are not a lien upon real estate, except when attachment is made on the original process, when a lien exists for thirty days after judgment. Six per cent annual interest allowed on judgments. In actions on mortgages the judgment is conditional, that if the mortgagor pay the amount of the judgment within two months, the judgment shall be void. Judgments are rendered on the last day of the term of the court where the action has been disposed of.

Limitations of Suits. Accounts and simple promissory notes six years after maturity; judgments, sealed instruments, and notes secured by mortgage, twenty years. Time of debtor's absence from the State is excluded. Verbal acknowledgment and promise to pay is sufficient to revive the debt.

Married Women retain all property owned by them before marriage, or acquired afterward in any way except through property of the husband, to their sole and separate use, as if unmarried. All their contracts in relation to such property are valid and binding, and all their other contracts are binding, except those as sureties or guarantors for their husbands, or for and in behalf of their husbands. Upon the death of wife, the husband is entitled to substantially the same share of her estate as she would be of his estate in case of his death. They are liable for debts contracted while single, and their property may be attached to pay them. They are also liable for their torts before marriage in relation to their separate property. The husband is not liable for the wife's antenuptial debts, and can not convey his improved real estate so as to bar his wife's right of dower and homestead without her consent. Married women of the age of twenty-one years may dispose of their property by will, but not to affect husbands' rights, nor can they convey so as to deprive the husband of his right.

Mortgages. Real Estate. A conditional conveyance shall be ineffectual unless the sum to be paid, or the thing to be done, is stated in the conveyance. All mortgages shall be signed in the presence of two witnesses and acknowledged before a justice of the peace or a notary public. Mortgages may be foreclosed: 1. By entry under process of law into the premises and continued actual possession for one year. 2. By peaceable entry in the presence of two witnesses and continued actual possession for one year. The affidavits of entry shall be recorded and published in some newspaper published in the county. 3. By the mortgagee in possession taking formal possession under the second method. 4. By a sale under the provisions of a power of sale mortgage. Mortgages of personal property, to be effectual, the mortgagor and mortgagee must take and subscribe the following oath: "We severally swear that the foregoing mortgage is made for the purpose of securing the debt specified in the condition thereof and for no other purpose whatever, and that said debt was not created for the purpose of enabling the mortgagor to execute the said mortgage, but is a just debt, honestly due and owing from the mortgagor to the mortgagee." The mortgage must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the town where the mortgagor resides, and in case of the non-residence of the mortgagor, it must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the town where the property is situated. The mortgagor may retain possession of the property. The mortgagor can not sell the mortgaged property unless the mortgagee consents in writing on the margin of the mortgage, which shall be recorded where the mortgage is recorded. The penalty of a sale without such consent is double the value of the property. A fine of $1,000 can be imposed if the mortgagor conceals the mortgaged property. Mortgages can be foreclosed by auction sale thirty days after maturity, by giving the mortgagor four days' notice of the time and place of the sale. The mortgagee may purchase at the sale. This law not applicable to furniture leases.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. No particular form of words necessary to constitute a negotiable promissory note. The words "value received" not essential. Bills of exchange must be absolute as to amount, event, fund, and person. No requirements as to place of payment. Demand notes must be protested within sixty days from day of their indorsement to hold indorsers. All paper, maturing on Sunday or any legal holiday, is payable on the next succeeding day, not being Sunday, and must be so noted.

Power of Attorney. (See Conveyances.)

Probate Law. The probate court is a county court, and holds numerous sessions in various places. Proceedings are begun by petition and citation issued. The citations are served twelve days before the return day. The court may proceed without notice in the following cases: In the probate of wills in the common form; in the appointment of an executor nominated in a will; in the appointment of appraisers of an estate; in licensing the sale of real estate under $200 in value, or where the heirs consent in writing; in appointing guardians and commissioners; in granting allowances; in assigning dower and homestead; in making orders for suits upon bonds; in changing names; in appointing trustees nominated in a will (See Administration of Estates, Appeals, Courts, Descent of Property, Dower, Married Women, and Wills.)

Protest. Notaries public are the proper protesting officers. Notice of the non-payment or the non-acceptance upon residents by mail is sufficient. (See Notes and Bills.)

Replevin may be brought to recover goods or chattels in specie. The question of right of possession being in issue, the plaintiff shall give bond to the sheriff in a sum not less than double the value of the property to be replevied, to pay such damages as may be awarded against him. If the defendant shall prevail he shall have judgment for the return of the goods, and other damages, or for their value.

Savings Bank Investments. Savings banks may invest as follows: First, in notes secured by first mortgages of New Hampshire real estate. Second, in notes secured by first mortgages of improved or occupied real estate. Third, in notes secured by collateral within certain limitations. Fourth, in notes secured by collateral of securities listed. Fifth, in indorsed notes, with certain limitations. Sixth, in public funds of the United States or the District of Columbia. Seventh, in State, county, town, or city bonds in New Hampshire. Eighth, in State bonds of States north of, and including, Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and California. Ninth, in State and municipal bonds of such States, territories, or the municipalities within them, where the indebtedness does not exceed 5 per cent of the valuation, within certain limitations. Tenth, in New England railroad bonds, with certain restrictions. Eleventh, in steam railroad bonds of companies which operate their own roads, and which have paid at least 4 per cent dividends for five years next preceding. Twelfth, in corporation bonds where the debt does not exceed the capital. Thirteenth, in street railway bonds of a company operating in cities of 50,000 population or over, under certain conditions. Fourteenth, in New Hampshire bank stocks within certain limitations. Fifteenth, in national bank stock of banks of New England and New York. Sixteenth, in railroad stocks of most of the northeastern and central-northern States, which have earned and paid, at least a regular 4 per cent dividend for the past five years. Seventeenth, in manufacturing stocks of New England companies, which have earned and paid regular dividends for the past five years, and whose indebtedness does not exceed its capital. Eighteenth, in real estate suitable for banking purposes. Nineteenth, in real estate by lease which has been acquired by foreclosure. Twentieth, may deposit its cash in any New Hampshire or Massachusetts bank, or in any New England or New York national bank.

Suits. (See Actions.)

Taxes become a lien upon the realty simultaneously with their assessment (April 1 of each year). One year from the day of sale is allowed in which to redeem land sold for taxes, costs of sale and interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum being added.

Transfer of Corporation Stock. This may be done by a writing on the back of the certificate signed by the owner, or by a deed under seal, and the purchaser by a surrender thereof shall be entitled to a new certificate. The delivery of the certificate so endorsed transfers the title, but until the certificate is surrendered as aforesaid to the corporation, they may treat the old stockholder as the owner. No corporation can make a by-law restraining the free sale of its shares of stock. Persons holding stock as collateral are not liable as stockholder, but the pledger is liable.

Wills. Every person, including married women, of the age of twenty-one years, of sane mind, may dispose of their property by will. No will is effectual to pass property unless it is in writing, signed by the testator or by some person in his presence and by his express direction, and attested in his presence by three or more credible witnesses. Can be in type writing. A seal is not necessary. Foreign wills valid in the State where executed may be allowed here. Every child or grandchild, or every child born after the decease of the testator, shall be entitled to his distributive share in the estate, if not named in the will. A foreign will is proved here by the production of an authenticated copy thereof, together with an authenticated copy of the probate thereof.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF NEW JERSEY

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by JEROME D. GEDNEY, Counselor at Law, East Orange. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts and Claims, Proof of. For purposes of suit in justice's court, an affidavit may be made and annexed to copy of book account, and if no objection be made by defendant, or the hearing take place in his absence, the books of original entry need not be produced in evidence. The affidavit should show that the copy annexed is a true copy of the original entries; that all credits and allowances appear on the statement or that defendant is not entitled to any, and that the sum of money or balance shown by the account is justly due and owing to plaintiff. For use against estate of deceased person, or in assignment, or against insolvent corporation, an affidavit of a similar nature is prima facie evidence of the claim. The affidavit may be taken before any officer authorized by statute to administer oaths.

Acknowledgments of deeds are made within the State before the chancellor or a justice of the supreme court, a master in chancery, judge of the court of common pleas, commissioner of deeds, surrogate of county, or a deputy surrogate, or register of deeds, county clerk, or deputy county clerk during his continuance in office; without the State, before a justice of the supreme court of the United States, circuit or a district judge of the same, or a judge or justice of the supreme or superior court or chancellor of the State, district, or territory, or before any mayor or chief magistrate of any city, or before a judge of the court of common pleas or county court of such State, district, or territory, or commissioner for New Jersey, or by a master in chancery, or by any officer authorized at the time of such proof or acknowledgment, by the laws of the State wherein the same shall be made or taken, to take the acknowledgment of deeds of lands lying and being in such State. In case the acknowledgment is made before a mayor or chief magistrate, the certificate must be attested by the seal of the city; if before a judge of the court of common pleas or county court, or other officer, it must be attested by seal of such court, and certified by the clerk of the court. If before an officer not enumerated but authorized as above stated, it must be certified that he is such officer and authorized to take acknowledgments in the State in which the acknowledgment was taken. In foreign countries acknowledgment or proof may be made before a master in chancery, any court of law, notary public, mayor, or chief magistrate, or any ambassador, consul, consular agent, or other representative of the United States.

Actions which arise from breach of contract are entitled "upon contract"; for damages to person or property "in tort." The former covers the common law action assumpsit, covenant, debt; the latter, detinue, trespass, trespass on the case, trover. The actions of replevin and ejectment are not within the purview of the rule and are to be entitled as such.

Administration of Estates. Wills are proved before the ordinary of the State, or the surrogate of the county, and letters testamentary granted by the surrogate. In case there is no will, letters of administration are granted by him. Should there be a contest of the will or dispute as to the right of administration, the orphans' court has power to act. This court is also the proper tribunal for all disputes in matters of estates, is the auditor of all accounts, and has varied powers in matters regarding estates, such as the right to appoint trustees under a will, partition where minors are interested in lands, etc.

Affidavits in the State may be taken before the chancellor, judge of court of record, master in chancery, justice of the peace, mayor, recorder, or alderman of any city or borough, supreme court commissioner, city clerk, clerk or surrogate of any county, clerk of the court of record, notary public.

Aliens. No restrictions as to holding property. (See Corporations.)

Appeals. From justice's court to court of common pleas of county. From common pleas or circuit court to supreme court. From circuit or supreme court to court of errors and appeals. Except in first named chiefly by writ of error. From orphans' court to prerogative court. From prerogative court or court of chancery to court of errors and appeals.

Arbitrations may by the submission be made a rule of court, concluding the parties, by the award.

Arrests. In civil actions a debtor may be arrested under the following circumstances: 1. When he is about to remove any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court in which an action is about to be commenced with intent to defraud creditors. 2. When the defendant has property or rights in action which he fraudulently conceals. 3. When he has assigned, removed, or disposed of, or is about to assign, remove, or dispose of, any of his property with intent to defraud creditors. 4. When he fraudulently contracted the debt in question.

Assignments and Insolvency. The insolvent laws provide for the discharge of a person under arrest for debt or damages on his delivering up all his real and personal property to his creditors. Assignments by debtors for the benefit of creditors must be without preference, and all others are void. Debtor must annex sworn inventory. Wages of servants, clerks, and laborers up to $300 each are preferred claims. Assignee must file list of creditors at the end of three months, and make dividends at the next term of court. Creditor not presenting claim does not share in the dividend, but retains his right of action against the debtor. Corporation may make assignment for the benefit of its creditors.

Attachment. A creditor may attach the property of a non resident or absconding debtor by making oath to the fact, and to the amount of his claim, before any officer authorized to administer oaths or affirmations. Attachments are for the benefit of all applying creditors, but the plaintiff or plaintiffs are to be first paid the amounts due him or them before division with other creditors. Debts not due may be proved under any attachment issued, and receive their pro rata dividend. No attachment can issue against the members of a copartnership, where one of them resides in the State, nor of the wages of a non-resident employe at the suit of a non-resident creditor. Garnishment can be effected only in attachment cases. Attachment where capias ad respondendum will issue in an action upon contract, an attachment will lie; awarded by court or a judge thereof, or supreme court commissioner upon affidavit filed as required to obtain capias ad respondendum. (See Arrest.)

Banks are incorporated under Special Act. Under certain conditions may purchase, hold, and convey real estate. Have the same general powers and are subject to the restrictions and liabilities contained in the general corporation act, so far as the same are applicable. Every bank shall make at least four reports each year to Commissioner of Banking and Insurance. These reports shall be published in newspaper where bank is located. Individual or private bankers are subject to the supervision and control of the Department of Banking and Insurance. (See P. L. 1899, p. 431.)

Bills of Lading and Promissory Notes. Regulated by principles of commercial law, chiefly. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. Chattel mortgages to be valid must be acknowledged as deeds and affidavit of the consideration must be made by the mortgagee. They must be recorded. In case household goods are mortgaged, the wife must also join. Deeds of trust in the sense of security for payment of money are not in ordinary use.

Collaterals. As security for loans, regulated by commercial law. Pledges of property to pawn brokers, regulated by statute.

Contracts. The following must be in writing: Leases for a longer term than three years. Assignments, grants, or surrender of leases. Declarations or creations of trust (does not interfere with implied or constructive trusts), grants and assignments of trusts. Special promise of executor or administrator to answer out of his own estate. Special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of any other person. To charge any person upon any agreement made upon promise of marriage. Contract or sale of lands, tenements, or hereditaments or any interest in or concerning them. Any agreement not to be performed within one year of the making thereof. Contract for the sale of goods of the value of $30 or upward (acceptance of part of the goods or payment of part of the price obviates necessity of writing). Promise made after coming of age to pay debt contracted in infancy. Promise of bankrupt to pay after discharge. Commissions to broker or real estate agent, authority to sell must be in writing and rate of commissions stated. In case of debts fraudulently contracted, suit may be brought for recovery as soon as the fraud is discovered, notwithstanding debt may not be due.

Conveyances. Usually bargain and sale or warranty. Must be acknowledged to be recorded.

Corporations. Powers. Every corporation shall have power, 1st, to have succession by its corporate name for the period limited in its charter, and where no period is limited, perpetual; 2d, to sue and be sued in any court of law or equity; 3d, to make and use a common seal and alter the same at pleasure; 4th, to hold, purchase, and convey real and personal estate as purposes of corporation require and as shall have been conveyed or mortgaged to the said corporation in good faith, and to mortgage real and personal estate with its franchises; 5th, to appoint necessary officers and agents; 6th, to make by-laws; 7th, to wind up and dissolve itself. Corporations are formed under the general act; however, insurance, safe deposit or trust companies, banking corporations, savings banks, railroad companies, or turnpike companies, or such other companies which intend to derive profit from the loan or use of money, or which shall need to possess the right of taking or condemning land, must be incorporated under special act governing such companies. The certificate of incorporation shall be signed personally by all subscribers to the capital stock and set forth: 1. The name of the corporation. 2. The location of its principal office in the State. 3. The object or objects for which the corporation is formed. 4. The amount of the total authorized capital stock of the corporation, which shall not be less than $2,000, the number of shares into which same is divided, and the par value of each share. The amount of capital stock with which it shall commence business to be not less than $1,000, which may be paid either in cash or property, and if there be more than one class of stock created by the certificate of incorporation, a description of the different classes with the terms on which the respective classes of stock are created. 5. The names and post-office address of incorporators and the number of shares subscribed for by each, the aggregate of which shall be the amount of capital stock with which the company will commence business, and shall be at least $1,000. 6. The period, if any, limited for the duration of the company. 7. The certificate of incorporation may also contain any provision as to the regulation of the business and conduct of the affairs of the corporation, and any provision creating, defining, limiting, and regulating powers of the corporation, the directors and the stockholders, or any class of stockholders, provided such provision be not inconsistent with the act concerning corporations. Every certificate and report must give address of New Jersey office and name of agent in charge thereof, upon whom process against the corporation may be served. Directors shall be stockholders, and shall be chosen annually by the stockholders. They must be three in number, at least. The officers are chosen annually; president must be a director. One director must be a resident of the State of New Jersey. When corporation is insolvent, remedy is by Bill in Chancery, the application for and appointment of receiver of such insolvent company. Laborers and workmen have first lien upon assets to a limited amount. Liability of the stockholder ceases when shares are fully paid for, or in other words, a stockholder is only liable to the amount of his unpaid subscription to the capital stock. Foreign corporations are subject to the provisions of the general corporation act in so far as the same are applicable; the provisions of which having been complied with, there is issued by the Secretary of State to such foreign corporations a certificate that it is authorized to transact business in this State. It is unlawful for a foreign corporation to transact business in this State until such certificate is obtained. A copy of the corporation law of the State, with full forms and instructions for incorporating, is sent without expense by the Secretary of State, Trenton, N. J., upon application.

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. Circuit courts and courts of common pleas, holding three terms a year in each county, have jurisdiction in all civil cases, but to carry costs must recover at least $100, except that the court of common pleas has no jurisdiction where title to lands comes into question. The supreme court, holding three terms a year at Trenton, has also original jurisdiction in all cases, but must recover $200 to carry costs. Court of chancery has exclusive equity jurisdiction, and sits at Trenton three times a year. District court jurisdiction, co-extensive with county, in amounts $300 or under; justices' court jurisdiction co-extensive with county, in amount $200 or less. In cities where district courts are established and defendant or justice of the peace reside within the limits of said city the justices' court has no civil jurisdiction whatever. (See District Court Revision, P. L. 1898.) The court of errors and appeals has no original jurisdiction, but hears appeals from court of chancery, and prerogative court, and writs of error from supreme court and circuit courts.

Days of Grace. Abolished since July 4, 1895, unless stipulated to the contrary.

Depositions of material witness residing in the State, who is ancient, or very infirm, sick, or about to go out of the State, may be taken de bene esse before a judge of the supreme court, judge of the court of common pleas, supreme court commissioner, or master in chancery, on notice to adverse party. Of material witness residing out of the State by virtue of a commission issued out of the court before which the action is pending, either on interrogatories or orally upon notice. The commissioner must first take and sign an oath, "faithfully, fairly, and impartially to execute the said commission" before any officer authorized to take an oath. Such depositions may also be taken before a judge of the supreme court, or district court, or court of common pleas, commissioner of deeds appointed by the governor of the State of New Jersey resident where the witness is, on notice of one day, exclusive of Sunday, for every fifty miles of travel and not less than ten days in all. If the witness resides on the Pacific coast, the court fixes the length of notice. If in a foreign state or kingdom, not less than forty days' notice must be given. (See Jefferey's Law Precedents, p. 260, et seq., and Dickinson's Chancery Precedents, p. 217, et seq., for forms and instructions.)

In default of classes 1 and 2, to the father, unless the inheritance came from the mother by descent, devise, or gift. 4. In default of classes 1, 2, and 3, to the mother for life. 5. In default of the former classes, to the brothers and sisters of the half blood and children of such, provided the inheritance came from the common blood or by purchase. 6. In default of all of these to the persons of equal degree of consanguinity. 7. In default of all above classes, to the husband or wife, if any, in fee simple. Escheat to State after all above claims are exhausted. Distribution: 1. One-third to widow, residue to children and legal representatives of such children. Advancements and settlements are to be deducted from share of child so advanced or receiving settlement. 2. If no children or legal representative, one-half to widow, residue to next of kin. 3. If no widow, to the children equally, and if no children then to next of kin and legal representatives. 4. The estate of illegitimate child dying without widow or lawful issue shall go to mother. 7. Where person has died intestate, leaving widow but no kindred or relatives capable of taking estate, and the estate he undistributed, it is now given in full to widow of such intestate. 8. The estate of person dying without leaving widow or kindred or relatives, after one year shall be put out at interest and income paid annually to Treasurer of city or township. Seven years after decease all claims are barred.

Dower. Widow entitled to one-third for life of all the lands of which her husband was seized during coverture, for which she has given no relinquishment or release by deed, properly executed and acknowledged. (See Descent and Distribution.)

Executions issue immediately upon a rendition of judgment, and are returnable either in term or vacation. An execution and levy upon a junior judgment takes priority over a former judgment under which no execution and levy has been made. The proceeds are applied to the payment of the execution upon which the sale is had. There is no stay of execution, except on those which are issued out of justice's courts. In these courts thirty days are allowed on sums up to $15; three months up to $60, and six months on all sums over $60, and this only case of judgment by confession and defendant giving good and sufficient freehold security. There is no redemption after sale in any case. Where executions have been returned unsatisfied, if the sum due on a judgment amounts to $25 or upward, the court out of which said executions issued may, on application of the judgment creditor, make an order compelling the debtor to appear before the officer named and make discovery on oath concerning his property. The judgment creditor shall present to the court a petition verified by oath, in which he shall state the amount due on said execution, the return made, and his belief that the debtor has property in his own right over and above that which is reserved by law to an amount exceeding $50. Arrest on a capias can only be had in case of fraud or attempted removal or disposal of property with intent to defraud creditors.

Exemptions. The lot and building thereon, owned and occupied by the debtor, being the head of a family, to the value of $1,000, providing that in the debtor's deed it is set out that the property is intended for a homestead, or else that notice to such effect is filed in the county clerk's office. Personal property to the amount of $200, besides wearing apparel, owned by a resident head of a family, appraised by three persons appointed by the sheriff; and the widow or family of a deceased person may claim the same exemption of $200 as against the creditors. Family of absconding debtor may claim exemption of $200 as above.

Frauds. (See Contracts.)

Garnishment. (See Attachment.)

Holidays. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Interest. Legal interest on debts and judgments, 6 per cent. Usury is punishable by forfeiture of all interest and costs. Interest on an open account accrues on each item from its date, as at common law.

Judgments become a lien on lands from time of actual entry, and so remain for twenty years. Where there are several judgments, that under which the first levy is made takes priority. Judgments recovered or docketed in the supreme court are a lien on all lands of defendant within the State.

Limitations of Suits. Contracts not under seal, six years; real actions and judgments, twenty years; notes secured by mortgage and contracts under seal, sixteen years. Revivor: Part payment or new promise or acknowledgment in writing.

Married Women hold and control their property, real and personal, precisely as if unmarried. But a married woman can not become an accommodation indorser, guarantor, or surety, except under certain conditions. (See P. L. 1895, p. 821.) She cannot convey or incumber real estate without her husband, except she is living in a state of separation from her husband, and there has been no issue of such marriage, or her husband is unable to join through lunacy or other mental incapacity, or in case an assent to the same has been signed and acknowledged by the husband. A married woman may make a will of her separate estate as if she were sole, but can not defeat her husband's interest in her real estate, although she can make absolute disposition of her own private personal property without regard to her husband. (See Dower.)

Mortgages must be under seal, and the wife must join. Foreclosure is by suit in equity. Chattel mortgages, unless accompanied by immediate delivery and followed by continued change of possession of things mortgaged, are absolutely void as against creditors and subsequent bona fide purchasers and mortgagees, unless said mortgage has been acknowledged or proved according to law, and recorded in a book for that purpose. Chattel mortgages must have an affidavit annexed, setting out the interest of the mortgagee, consideration of the mortgage, and the amount due and to grow due thereon; said affidavit to be made by the holder, or his agent or attorney. Chattel mortgages upon household furniture in the use of the family, unless given for the purchase thereof, must be executed and acknowledged by both husband and wife.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Promissory notes, bills of exchange, checks and drafts, are on the same footing. May or may not be payable at fixed place. Due diligence must be used to find the maker, if no place is stated. Inland bills of exchange are, in general, subject to the law of foreign bills; they must be protested. After July 4, 1895, grace not allowed. The action required to hold indorser is the same as under the general mercantile law. Drafts and notes due on a legal holiday are payable the day after such holiday, and notice of non-payment may be given within twenty-four hours later. If the legal holiday should fall upon a Sunday or Monday, bills are payable on Tuesday, and notice may be given on Wednesday. Legal holidays are: January 1st, commonly called New Year's Day; February 12th, called Lincoln's Birthday; February 22d, known as Washington's Birthday; May 30th, known as Decoration Day; July 4th, called Independence day; first Monday of September, known as Labor Day; December 25th, known as Christmas day; Thanksgiving Day, and any general election day. If any of these days happen on Sunday the holiday is kept Monday. Every Saturday from 12 o'clock at noon to 12 o'clock at midnight is a half-holiday, with same provision as to payment of notes.

Powers of Attorney for sale of land in which married woman joins, must contain a full and particular description of the lands, tenements, or hereditaments authorized to be conveyed.

Probate Law. (See Administration of Estates and Wills.)

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Replevin requires bond from party issuing the writ. Officer holds for twenty-four hours, during which defendant may give bond and retain the goods, when the case proceeds for damages. If no bond is given, goods are delivered to plaintiff.

Suits are commenced by writs of summons, capias, warrant, or attachment. Service by publication may be made in equity only, and in common law courts, in case of a foreign corporation, if service can not be made on officers or agents, directors, clerks or engineers.

Taxes are a lien for two years from the time they become payable, and lands may be sold for taxes delinquent six months. There is a right to redemption for two years after the time of sale.

Transfer of Corporation Stocks. Shares of stock are personal property, transferable on books, but cannot be voted on if transferred twenty days before election.

Wills. There are four requisites to make a valid will in this State. They are: 1. That it be in writing. 2. That it be signed by the testator 3. That such signature shall be made by the testator, or the making thereof acknowledged by him in the presence of two witnesses, who shall at his request sign their names as such in the presence of the testator and of each other. 4. That it shall be declared to be his last will in the presence of these witnesses. Sealing is customary.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF NEW MEXICO

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. Johnston & Finical, Attorneys at Law, Albuquerque. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts and Claims, Proof of. Claims are proved either by depositions, or by oral testimony, in open court. Accounts sworn to as correct by the party or his agent, promissory notes and other written instruments promising to pay money, are sufficient evidence to secure a judgment, unless the defendant denies the same under his oath, when other additional testimony must be produced. The affidavit to account must be filed at the commencement of action or may be filed in the discretion of judge not later than ten days before the date set for trial. If copy of account is demanded by adverse party he must be served with copy within ten days or evidence of same is precluded on trial.

Acknowledgments. (See Conveyances.)

Actions. The practice in this Territory is the code modified by rules of court. All civil actions in district courts are brought as follows: All transitory actions shall be brought in the county where either the plaintiff, or defendant, or some one of them, resides, or in the county where the contract sued on was made, or is to be performed, or where the cause of action originated, or indebtedness sued on was incurred; or in any county in which the defendant, or either of them, may be found, in the judicial district where the defendant resides. When the defendant has rendered himself liable to a civil action by any criminal act, suit may be instituted against such defendant in the county in which the offense was committed, or in which the defendant may be found, or in the county where the plaintiff resides. When suit is brought for the recovery of personal property, other than money, it may be brought as herein stated, or in the county where the property may be found. When lands, or any interest in lands, are the object of any suit, in whole or in part, such suit shall be brought in the county where the land, or any portion thereof, is situated. Suits for trespass on land shall be brought as provided for in transitory actions, or in the county where the land, or any portion thereof, is situate. Suits may be brought against transient persons or non-residents in any county of this Territory.

Administration of Estates. Letters of administration are granted in the county in which the mansion, house, or place of abode of the deceased is situated, or in the county in which lands of the decedent are located, and in the absence of all these, in the county where the deceased died. Letters are granted, first, to the husband or wife surviving; secondly, to any creditor thirty days after the death; thirdly, the probate judge may select a suitable person. The probate court has exclusive jurisdiction, and from all its acts an appeal lies to the district court. (See Claims against Estates.)

Affidavits. Affidavits to be used in court may be taken before any person authorized to take acknowledgments.

Aliens. By statute of the Territory, foreigners have the same right to own and dispose of real estate that citizens of this country enjoy, and property descends to their heirs and is controlled by their executors and administrators in precisely the same way.

Appeals. From justice courts lie to the district courts, and must be taken within ten days after rendition of judgment, but no appeal shall be allowed unless the appellant or some person for him shall—1. Make affidavit that the application for appeal is not made for vexation or delay, but because he believes the appellant is injured by the judgment of the justice; 2. File with the justice a bond with one or more solvent sureties to the adverse party, to be proved by the justice, in a suit sufficient to pay such judgment and costs. Appeals from judgments of probate court are to the district court, and must be taken at the same term at which judgment or decision appealed from was rendered, in which an affidavit and bond are also required. Appeals from judgments of district courts are taken to the supreme court. The appeal or writ of error must be taken within one year from the date on which the judgment or decision was rendered, and in order that such an appeal shall stay execution, the apellant or some responsible person for him, together with two sufficient sureties to be approved by the court, shall execute a bond to the adverse party in double the amount of the judgment and costs, conditioned that the appellant shall prosecute his appeal with diligence to judgment in the appellate court, and pay all costs and damages assessed against him, etc. Writs of error upon any final judgment or decision of a district court, issue, as of course, out of the supreme court to review such judgment or decision within one year after rendition of same. Appeals from the decision of the supreme court are direct to the Supreme Court of the United States, or Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States, in such cases as are provided for by law.

Arbitration. All litigants shall have the right to terminate their suits, in whatever condition they may be, by means of arbitrators. The arbitrators shall enter into an agreement (the form for which is provided by statute) to submit their differences to arbitration, and the arbitrators shall receive proofs and hear arguments of counsel, and render sentence as the majority of the arbitrators may decide, and any of the courts will enforce the decision of the arbitrators by issuing execution thereon.

Arrest. Any creditor whose demand amounts to $50 or more, may sue out a writ of capias in the district court by filing an affidavit, stating that the defendant is justly indebted to him, after allowing all setoffs, in a sum specified in the affidavit, and on what account; that the affiant has reason to believe, and does believe, that the defendant is about to abscond from this Territory, so as to endanger the collection of his debt; and by also filing a bond as is required in attachments. Justices may issue the writ upon the same conditions, where the debt is less than $50.

Assignments. Under Chapter 67, laws of 1889, insolvent debtors may make assignments for the benefit of their creditors. No preferences are allowed, but the assignment inures to the benefit of creditors generally, pro rata. The court may upon proper application compel the assignee to surrender the property to a receiver to be appointed by the court. The claims of creditors to be verified by the oath of the creditor, his agent, or attorney. Assignee is required to settle up the estate within twelve months.

Attachment. Creditors whose demands amount to $100 or more may sue their debtors in the district court, by attachment in the following cases, to wit: 1. When the debtor is not a resident of nor resides in the Territory. 2. When the debtor has concealed himself, or absconded, or absented himself from his usual place of abode in this Territory, so that the ordinary process of law can not be passed upon him. 3. When the debtor is about to move his property or effects out of this Territory, or has fraudulently concealed or disposed of his property or effects, so as to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors. 4. When the debtor is about to fraudulently convey or assign, conceal, or dispose of his property or effects, so as to hinder, delay or defraud his creditors. 5. When the debt was contracted out of this Territory, and the debtor has absconded or secretly removed his property or effects into the Territory with intent to hinder, delay or defraud his creditors. 6. When defendant is a corporation whose principal office or place of business is out of this Territory, unless such corporation shall have a designated agent in the Territory, upon whom service of process may be made in suits against the corporation. 7. When the defendant fraudulently contracted the debt, or incurred the obligation, respecting which the suit is brought, or obtained credit from the plaintiff by false pretenses. An attachment may issue upon a demand not yet due, in any case where an attachment is authorized, in the same manner as upon demands already due. The attaching creditor must file with the clerk of the court a bond with two or more sureties in double the amount of the claim, and an affidavit sworn to by plaintiff or some person for him, setting out the amount of the claim, that it is due after allowing all just credits and offsets, and on what account; and that affiant has good reason to believe, and does believe, in one or more of the causes for attachment hereinbefore set forth. Any person having property or effects of defendant in his hands may be garnisheed. The attachment may be dissolved by denying and successfully contesting the truth of the ground of attachment specified in the affidavit, and then the suit proceeds as an ordinary action.

Banks. By an act of legislative assembly any number of persons not less than three, may associate to establish a bank; the capital stock shall not be less than $30,000, of which, at least, 50 per cent shall be paid in at once and before transacting any business, and the remainder be paid within a year; statements shall be sent to the Territorial treasurer of the condition of the bank on the first Monday in January and July, and be published at least once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper of the county. The officers and stockholders of every bank formed under the provisions of the act shall be individually liable for all debts contracted during the term of their being officers or stockholders of such corporation, equally and ratably, to the extent of their respective shares, except that when any stockholder shall sell and transfer his stock, such liability shall cease at the expiration of one year from the date of such transfer. It is also provided, however, that the stockholders, collectively of any bank, shall at no time be liable to such bank, either as principal debtors, or sureties, or both, to an amount greater than two-fifths of the amount of the capital stock actually paid in and remaining undiminished by losses or otherwise.

Bill of Lading. Every railroad company doing business in the Territory must provide bills of lading, which must be signed by the agent of the company receiving freight, embodying therein the terms of the contract for carriage, and agents may require the surrender of the bill of lading, or a reasonable indemnity against claims thereon, before delivering the freight therein mentioned.

Bills and Notes are assignable as at common law, and the assignee thereof can bring suit in his own name. On a joint and several note, any one of the makers may be sued. Indorsers are subject to the same liabilities as at common law. Interest is limited by statute to 12 per cent per annum. Days of grace are allowed. Commercial paper falling due on Sunday or any legal holiday is, under statute, payable on the next business day thereafter.

Building and Loan Associations. Foreign. By statute of 1899 foreign building and loan associations are subjected to heavy license fees to authorize them to do business in the Territory, and violations of the act are punishable by fine of not more than $1,000.

Chattel Mortgages. Chattel mortgages and all instruments of like effect must be acknowledged and recorded as deeds. In the absence of stipulation to the contrary mortgagor has right of possession. Every mortgage so filed for record is void as against creditors, subsequent purchasers and mortgagees, after the expiration of one year from the filing thereof, unless within the thirty days next preceding the expiration of one year from said filing and each year thereafter, said mortgage be continued by affidavit of mortgagee, his agent or attorney, filed with mortgagee, showing interest of mortgage and amount still due.

Claims against Estates. The same proofs are required as in other claims in other courts. Generally the affidavit of the creditor is accepted by the probate judge as sufficient, if there be no objection from any source. Such claims if not presented for settlement within two years from the date of death of deceased are barred, and no suit or proceeding commenced thereafter on such claim can be maintained. Claims are usually classified and paid as follows: 1. Funeral expenses and expenses of last sickness. 2. Allowance for maintenance of widow and children. 3. Claims entitled to preference by express provision of the laws of the United States or of this Territory. 4. Taxes. 5. All other debts. 6. Legacies.

Contracts. All contracts which at common law were joint, are by statute joint and several, and parties liable may be sued jointly or severally, including the separate members of a firm.

Conveyances. All conveyances of real estate shall be subscribed by the person transferring his title or interest in said real estate, or by his legal agent or attorney. Every instrument in writing, by which real estate is transferred or affected, in law or equity, shall be acknowledged and certified to in the manner hereinafter prescribed. The acknowledgment of all conveyances or writing affecting any real estate, in law or equity, shall be taken before any of the following named officers: If the acknowledgment is made within the Territory it shall be made before any court having a seal; if by any judge, justice of the peace, or clerk, in the same manner, or by any justice of the peace of the same county wherein the said real estate is situated. If taken within the Territory and within the United States, the acknowledgment to be taken before any United States Court, or the court of any State or Territory within the United States having a seal, or by any clerk of any of said courts. If acknowledged beyond the limit of the United States, it shall be done before any court of any State, kingdom or empire having a seal, or by the magistrate or supreme power of any city who may have a seal. No acknowledgment of any writing purporting to be a conveyance of real estate, or by which the same may be affected in law or equity, shall be taken, unless the person offering to make the same be personally known to at least one of the judges of the court, or to the officer taking the same, to be the person whose name is subscribed to said writing, or is proved to be the person by the testimony of two reliable witnesses. The certificate of acknowledgment shall express the fact of the acknowledgment being made, and also that the person making the same be personally known to at least one of the judges of the court, or to the officer granting the certificate, to be the person whose name is subscribed to the writing, or a party to it, or that it was proved to be such person by the testimony of at least two reliable witnesses. By statute of 1899 the husband can convey the real estate belonging to him without the consent or signature of his wife.

Corporations. By act of congress, approved March 2, 1867, legislative assemblies of the several Territories were prohibited from granting charters of especial privileges, but were authorized to pass general incorporation acts to permit persons to associate themselves together as bodies corporate for certain purposes named. Any three or more persons may form a corporation for mining, manufacturing, or other industrial pursuits, or the construction and operation of railroads, wagon roads, irrigating ditches, and the colonization and improvement of lands in connection therewith; or for colleges, seminaries, churches, libraries, or any benevolent, charitable or scientific association. To do so they must make, sign, and acknowledge—before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds—a statement in writing (for the filing of which the Territory is entitled to graduated fees), setting forth the full names of such persons; the corporate name of the company; the objects for which it is formed; the amount of its capital stock; the time of its existence, not exceeding fifty years; the number of shares into which the capital stock is divided; the number of directors and their names, who shall manage the affairs of the company for the first three months, and the name of the city, or town and county in which the principal place of business of the company is located. There shall be at least three directors in each company, and a majority of them citizens of the United States, and at least one-third residents of the Territory. And after the expiration of the term of those first selected (three months), they shall be selected annually by the stockholders from among their number. A majority of the whole number of directors form a quorum for the transaction of the business. When the certificate has been filed the life of the corporation begins, with all the usual liabilities and powers. The stock of the corporation is personal estate. There is no personal liabilities upon stockholders, except where debts are incurred in excess of the capital stock. The stock of a stockholder may be taken on attachment or execution. The capital stock may be increased or diminished by a vote of two-thirds of the shares of stock at a meeting of the stockholders, called for that purpose, upon four weeks' notice, signed by a majority of the directors. Foreign corporations, or those organized under the laws of other States and Territories, may do business in this Territory by filing with the secretary and probate clerk of county a copy of the laws under which they are chartered, and a certified copy of their charter. Railroad corporations come under a separate head with peculiar privileges and restrictions.

Costs. Security for costs or a deposit of money in lieu thereof, is required of non-resident plaintiffs, at the time of commencing suit.

Courts. District courts hold two terms a year in all the counties, and have unlimited common law and chancery and jurisdiction. There are probate courts with the usual powers, holding six terms a year.

Days of Grace. (See Bills and Notes.)

Deeds. (See Conveyances.)

Depositions. Depositions of witnesses to be used in any court in this Territory in all civil cases, and proceedings may be taken in the following cases: 1. When by reason of age, infirmity, sickness or official duty it is probable that the witness will be unable to attend the court. 2. When the witness resides without the Territory or the county in which the suit is pending. 3. When the witness has left or is about to leave the Territory or county in which the suit is pending, and will probably not be present at the trial. Depositions may be taken on interrogatories and cross interrogatories attached to a commission to be issued by the clerk of the court or justice of the peace, and may be taken within the Territory by a district judge, clerk of district court, clerk of probate court or any notary public of the county where taken. They may be taken without the Territory by any clerk of a court of record having a seal, by a notary public or a commissioner of deeds duly appointed under the laws of this Territory, and residing within the State or Territory within which the witness is alleged to be or resides. The officer to whom the commission is addressed is authorized to issue subpoenas for witnesses, and upon their appearance, and take and reduce to writing their answers to the interrogatories, which shall be signed and sworn to by the witnesses. The officer shall certify that the answers were signed and sworn to by the witness before him and shall seal them up in an envelope together with the commission and interrogatories, and shall write his name across the seal, and shall direct the package to the clerk of the court or justice of the peace issuing the commission. If sent by mail the postmaster mailing the same shall indorse thereon that he received them from the officer taking the same, and sign his name. In every case the officer taking the deposition shall certify that he knows the witness to be the person such witness purports to be, but if such witness is not personally known to the officer he shall then require the witness to be identified by at least two responsible persons well known to the officer, and he shall certify to the fact of identification of the witness.

Descent and Distribution of Property. The property of intestates descends one-fourth to husband or wife and the balance to lineal descendants; in the absence of these, to the nearest ascendants; and in the absence of both, to the collateral relatives, and in each case in equal proportions. Males and females share alike.

Divorce. The grounds for divorce are: Adultery, cruel or inhuman treatment, abandonment, habitual drunkenness, and neglect on the part of the husband to support the wife. Complainants must prove residence in the Territory for one year before beginning suit. The district court has exclusive jurisdiction, and at least one corroborating witness is required.

Dower. All property owned by any woman at the time of her marriage, continues to be her separate property, and she may receive and hold property during coverture free from liability on account of her husband's debt. There is no dower in the Territory, but a married woman is entitled to one-half of all the property acquired by the husband and wife during coverture, first, however, deducting all indebtedness.

Evidence. No person shall be excluded from giving evidence in any suit on the ground of interest, and persons interested in any suit or issue as parties or otherwise may be required to testify. No person, however, shall be compelled to answer any questions when such answer would criminate or subject such person to prosecution or penalty. No person in a suit by or against the heirs, or executors, or assigns of a deceased person shall obtain a verdict, judgment, or decision on his own evidence, in respect to any matter occurring before the death of the deceased person, unless his evidence is corroborated by some other material evidence.

Executions. Executions may issue at any time within five years, and to any county in the Territory. From district courts are returnable in sixty days from delivery to sheriff, and from justices' courts within thirty days from date of issue. No stay of execution except by appeal. A writ of error will stay execution of a judgment in district court, if such writ is applied for within three months from date of rendition of judgment, and bond is given for double the amount of such judgment. The supreme court may assess 10 per cent damages where appeal is taken without reasonable cause. Real estate sold under execution, and subject to liens and incumbrances, may be redeemed within one year. Sales under execution must be advertised four weeks prior to day of sale, in some newspaper.

Executors and Administrators. Executors and administrators must render an account at the first term of the probate court, after one year from the issue of letters, and at the corresponding term of the court every year thereafter, until the estate is settled. Executors outside of New Mexico may have letters testamentary issued to them here by filing the will for probate in New Mexico and giving bond.

Exemptions. Real estate to the value of $1,000 shall be exempt from execution in favor of heads of families actually residing on the same, provided the exemption be claimed. But if in the opinion of the creditors the premises claimed as exempt are worth more than $1,000, it shall be lawful for the officer to advertise and sell the premises, and out of the proceeds of such sale pay to the execution debtor $1,000, which shall be exempt from execution for one year thereafter, and apply the balance to payment of execution, provided that no sale can be made unless more than $1,000 be bid for the premises. Also the clothing, beds, and bedclothing necessary for the use of the family; and firewood sufficient for sixty days, when actually provided and intended therefor. All Bibles, hymn-books, testaments, school books used by the family, and family and religious pictures. Provisions actually provided, to the amount of $50, and kitchen furniture and household furniture not exceeding $200 in value, both to be selected by the debtor. Also all tools and implements belonging to the debtor that may be necessary to enable him to carry on his trade or business, whether agricultural or mechanical, to be selected by him, and not to exceed $150 in value. Real estate when sold under execution must be first appraised by two freeholders of the vicinity, and must bring two-thirds of the appraised value.

Fraud. Fraudulent conveyances, or conveyances made with the design to prefer one or more creditors in preference to others, and, when the debtor is insolvent, may be set aside upon application by a bill in equity. (See Assignments.)

Garnishment. All persons and corporations are subject to garnishment for moneys of a debtor in their hands, and a failure of the garnishee to appear and answer, subjects the garnishee to a proceeding for contempt. (See Attachments.)

Holidays. Sundays, Christmas, New Years, Fourth of July, and such other days as may be designated by the government as holidays.

Homesteads. (See Exemptions.)

Husband and Wife. (See Divorce and Dower.)

Insolvent Laws. (See Assignments.)

Interest and Usury. Six per cent interest is the legal rate of interest in absence of contract, but parties may agree in writing for any rate of interest not exceeding 12 per cent. Open accounts bear interest at 6 per cent from six months after the date of last item in the account. Judgments bear the same interest as contract sued on, and in the absence of any specified rate, 6 per cent.

Judgments. Judgments are a lien on real estate within counties from date of filing transcript with the clerk of the probate court. (See Executions.)

Liens. Every person performing labor upon, or furnishing materials to be used in the construction, alteration, or repair of buildings, etc., has a lien upon the same for the work done, or for the materials furnished, but every original contractor claiming the benefit of the lien law must, within ninety days after the completion of any building, etc., file with the county recorder a claim showing the amount of his demand remaining due him, name of the person by whom he was employed, and a general statement of his contract; also a description of the property to be charged with the lien, which claim must be verified by the oath of the party or his agent. Landlords, innkeepers, and common carriers have the usual lien on property and baggage of tenants, guests, and shippers.

Limitations. Ten years' adverse possession of land under color of title bars all actions. Infants, femmes covert, persons of unsound mind, imprisoned, or beyond the limits of the United States, are not within this statute. All other actions must be brought as follows: Upon judgments of courts of record, within seven years; on bonds, promissory notes, bills of exchange, or other contracts in writing, and upon judgments of any court not of record, within six years; on open accounts and unwritten contracts, injuries to property, conversion of personal property, relief on account of fraud, within four years; against sureties on official bonds, and against sheriffs and public officers, within two years. Actions of replevin must be brought within one year after right of action accrued. Accounts against the estate of deceased persons must be presented within one year after the death of the deceased, and no action can be commenced after two years.

Married Women. (See Dower.) May sue and be sued as femme sole.

Mortgages of Personal Property. (See Chattel Mortgages.)

Mortgages of Real Property. There is no statute relating to mortgages on real estate, except that they must be executed and recorded in the same manner as deeds. Mortgages of chattels are provided for in the statute, and may be given on all kinds of personal property, except growing crops. Every mortgage so filed shall be void as against the creditors of the person making the same, or against subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith, after the expiration of one year after the filing thereof; unless within thirty days next preceding the expiration of the term of one year from such filing, and each year thereafter the mortgagee, his agent, his attorney, shall make an affidavit exhibiting the interest of the mortgagee in the property at the time last aforesaid, claimed by virtue of said mortgage, and if said mortgage is to secure the payment of money, the amount yet due and unpaid; such affidavit shall be attached to and filed with the instrument or copy on file, to which it related. In the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the mortgagor of personal property has the right to the possession thereof. After condition broken the mortgagee or his assignee may proceed to sell the mortgaged property, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the mortgage and cost of sale, having first given notice of the time and place of sale, by written or printed hand-bills posted up in at least four public places in the township in which the property is to be sold, at least ten days previous to the day of sale. If the mortgagee or his assignee shall have obtained possession of the mortgaged property, either before or after condition broken, the mortgagor or any subsequent mortgagee may demand in writing a sale of such property, having first given notice as provided for above. If after satisfying the mortgage and costs of sale there shall be any surplus remaining, the same shall be paid to any subsequent mortgagee entitled thereto, or to the mortgagor or his assignee. The husband may mortgage his real estate without the consent or signature of his wife. (See Conveyances.)

Notes and Bills of Exchange. (See Bills and Notes.)

Practice. The legislature of 1897 abolished the common law forms of procedure and adopted the code. The common law rules of decision govern.

Protest. Any notary public may make protest of bills of exchange, acceptances, promissory notes, etc., for non-payment. The certificate of a notary, under his official seal, as to presentment, demand, non-payment, or non-acceptance, and notices to parties, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts certified to.

Records. (See Conveyances.)

Redemption. Real estate sold under execution may be redeemed by the execution debtor within one year, by paying to the purchaser the purchase money with interest thereon at 12 per cent. Real estate sold for taxes may be redeemed within three years, but the debtor shall pay interest at three per cent per month on the purchase money. The purchaser under execution is entitled to the growing crops, and the rents and profits.

Replevin. Any person entitled to the immediate possession of personal property may have a writ of replevin for the same, upon filing an affidavit that he is entitled to the immediate possession of the property, that the same was wrongfully taken or is wrongfully detained by the defendant, and that the plaintiff's right of action accrued within one year. Before the writ is served, plaintiff must give bond to the officer conditioned to hold him harmless, make return of the property, if a return be adjudged and pay all costs that may be adjudged against him, the affidavit to be made and bond executed by the plaintiff, or some responsible person for him. If the plaintiff fail in his action, or to prosecute the same, defendant is entitled to a return of the property, or its value at his option, and to double damages for the detention of the property.

Stay of Execution. (See Executions.)

Summons. The defendant must be served with a copy of summons at least five full days before the first day of the term, when he is summoned in the county where action is brought. When he is served out of the county, but within the judicial district fifteen full days must elapse. And if action is brought in any judicial district other than that in which the defendants, or either of them, reside, then thirty days must elapse. The courts of the Territory are at all times in session for the transaction of all business except jury trials. Defendant must appear within twenty days of service of summons if served in any county in the district, otherwise within thirty days, or judgment by default or decree pro confesso may be entered against him. Service by publication is allowed in certain cases, and must be published for four successive weeks in some newspaper, the last insertion to be not less than twenty days before the day on or before which the defendant is notified to appear. The defendant can be ruled to plead on the first day of the term, and failing to do so or to appear, judgment may be taken by default, which can be opened during the term by the party making an affidavit of merits, paying costs and pleading, or on such other terms as the court may impose. In justice courts, summons must give defendant not less than five nor more than twenty days' notice. (See Actions.)

Taxation. All property except that of the government, churches, libraries, and schools, is taxable. Taxes constitute a lien on all real estate of the tax debtor. The collector is authorized to seize and sell property to make delinquent taxes. Taxes become delinquent one-half on January 1st and the other half the first of following July, and thereafter bear interest at 25 per cent per annum. The head of a family actually residing in the Territory is allowed as exempt from taxation property of the value of $200. Irrigation and reservoir companies are exempted from payment of taxes during the next six years.

Testimony. (See Evidence.)

Transfer of Corporation Stocks. Corporation stock shall be transferred in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the company; but no transfer shall be valid, except between the parties thereto, until the same shall be entered on the books of the company, showing the names of the parties making the transfer and to whom transferred, the number and designation of the shares, and the date of the transfer.

Wills. Any person of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, and in sound mind, may dispose by will of all his property, except what is sufficient to pay his debts. Two or more witnesses shall be sufficient. The witnesses to a written will must be present, see the testator sign the will, or some one sign it for him at his request as and for his last will and testament, and must sign as witnesses at his request, in his presence and in the presence of each other. Any will executed in any foreign jurisdiction sufficient to convey the title or real estate in such jurisdiction shall be valid in this Territory to the same extent as in the jurisdiction where made. All written wills are irrevocable, except by specially mentioning it in a subsequent will, and either setting it out in full or by stating that he would have repeated it verbatim could he have remembered it, and declaring that he thereby revokes the same. The probate judges have power to qualify and approve wills after hearing the evidence of the witnesses who attest the will, and any other facts connected with the execution of it. If the probate judge finds everything to be legal and proper he approves the will, but if not, then he returns it to the party applying for its approval, with his reasons for failing to approve the same. The person to whom it is returned may present the same to the district court at the next regular term held in the county, for its approval or disapproval, which is final.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF NEW YORK

RELATING TO

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. Rosendale & Hessberg, Attorneys at Law, Albany. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Acknowledgments must be made within the State, before a justice of the supreme court; or within the district wherein such officer is authorized to perform official duties, before a judge, clerk, deputy clerk, special deputy clerk of a court, a notary public, or the mayor, a recorder of a city, a justice of the peace, surrogate, special surrogate, special county judge, or commissioner of deeds. (No special form, separate and apart from her husband, etc., now required for married women.) If made without the State, they may be taken by judges of United States courts, judges of the supreme, circuit or superior court of any other State or Territory, within the jurisdiction of their courts; by the mayor of any city, or by a New York commissioner, or any officer of such State or Territory authorized by its laws to take acknowledgments. When acknowledged as last above stated, there must be obtained a certificate "under the name and official seal of the secretary of State of the State in which such officer resides, or under the name and official seal of the clerk, register, recorder, or prothonotary of the county in which such officer resides, or the clerk of any court thereof having a seal specifying that the officer was authorized, etc." Provision is made by law for acknowledgments and proofs in foreign countries.

Administration of Estates. The administration of estates is committed to surrogate's courts. In cases of intestacy, letters of administration are to be granted to the relatives of the deceased entitled to succeed to the personal property of decedent, who will accept the same in the following order: 1. To the surviving husband or wife. 2. To the children. 3. To the father. 4. To the mother. 5. To the brothers. 6. To the sisters. 7. To the grandchildren. 8. To any other next of kin, entitled to share in the distribution of the estate. 9. To an executor, or administrator of a sole legatee, named in a will, whereby the whole estate is devised to such deceased sole legatee. If no relative, or guardian of a minor relative, will accept the same, the letters must be granted to the creditors of deceased; the creditor first applying, if otherwise competent, is entitled to preference. If no creditor applies, the letters must be granted to any other person or persons legally competent; county treasurers have preference, and in New York City the public administrator having preference over creditors.

Affidavits may be taken by any officer authorized to administer oaths, including commissioners of deeds and notaries public, the latter also in counties other than for which they are appointed, upon their filing certificates in such county.

Arbitration may be resorted to, upon disputed questions, the practice being regulated by the code of civil procedure.

Arrest. A debtor may be arrested in certain classes of civil action, among which is an action to recover for fraud in contracting the debt or where the debtor has disposed or is about to dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors.

Assignments and Insolvency. Statutory provisions exist, regulating the making of general assignments in trust, for the benefit of creditors: Preferences are allowed for the wages or salaries of employés, and to the amount of one-third in value of the assigned estate after deducting such wages or salaries and the costs and expenses of executing the trust. Also regulating the filing of inventory, the giving of bonds and accounting by the assignee. The court has power to remove assignees, and may require creditors to present claims within a period to be prescribed, notice whereof is to be given by advertisement, etc. The dividends paid by such an assignee need only be applied upon the debt of the assignor, and do not discharge or satisfy the whole indebtedness of the assignor.

Attachments may issue in actions for damages for breach of contract, wrongful conversion of personal property, or injury to person or property in consequence of negligence or fraud, where the defendant is either a foreign corporation, or non-resident, or has left the State, or conceals himself to avoid service, or has removed from the State, or sold, assigned, secreted, or is about to remove, sell, assign, or secrete his property with intent to defraud creditors, or where, for the purpose of procuring credit or an extension of credit, a false statement was made in writing, under the hand and signature of the defendant, or a duly authorized agent, made with his knowledge and acquiescence, as to his financial responsibility or standing, or where the defendant, being an adult, has been continuously without the United States for more than six months and has not made a designation of a person upon whom to serve a summons in his behalf.

Banks. The constitution provides (Article VIII, Section 4) that the legislature shall have no power to pass any act granting any special charter for banking purposes; but corporations or associations may be formed for such purposes under general laws. Chapter 689, Laws of 1892, entitled "An act in relation to banking corporations," provides a complete plan for the organization of the banking department, whose chief officer is denominated the "superintendent of the banking department." Under it banks may be organized with a capital of not less than $100,000, though in places of not more than 30,000 inhabitants a minimum capital of $50,000 is allowed. In addition to the deposit required to secure the circulating notes, a deposit of $1,000, as a pledge of good faith and guaranty of compliance with the banking laws, is required to be made in the department, and the superintendent is authorized to apply the same or any part thereof in payment of any penalty incurred by or assessment imposed on the bank or bankers making the deposit.

Circulation and the deposit of security therefor is provided for in the act. The State constitution provides that stockholders of all banking corporations shall be liable to the amount of their respective shares for all debts and liabilities; and also that bill holders, in case of insolvency, shall be entitled to a preference in payment over all other creditors of the bank. By Chap. 441 of the Laws of 1897 stockholders are liable to the extent of the amount of their stock at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares. Quarterly reports are required to be made to the superintendent, as of a day designated by the superintendent. It is made the duty of the superintendent, in his discretion, if he shall deem it proper, to personally examine the books, etc., of any bank, or he may designate some competent person to make the examination. The examiner is authorized to administer oaths, and may summon persons and examine them on oath. Willful false swearing is perjury. The act referred to also provides for the organization and management of—

Savings Banks. Supervision over these is given to the State banking department. Each savings bank is to be examined at least once in every two years by the department. Interest-drawing deposits are limited to $3,000 (excepting as to deposits arising from judicial sales, or trust funds).

The following are the provisions of Sec. 116 of the act (relative to investments), as amended:

Sec. 116. The trustees of any savings bank may invest the moneys deposited therein and the income derived therefrom only as follows:

1. In the stocks or bonds, or interest-bearing notes or obligations of the United States, or those for which the faith of the United States is pledged to provide for the payment of the interest and principal, including the bonds of the District of Columbia.

2. In the stocks or bonds or interest-bearing obligations of this State issued pursuant to the authority of any law of this State.

3. In the stocks or bonds or interest-bearing obligations of any State of the United States that has not, within ten years previous to making such investment by such corporation, defaulted in the payment of any part of either principal or interest of any debt authorized by the legislature of any such State to be contracted; and in the bonds or interest-bearing obligations of any State of the United States, issued in pursuance of the authority of the legislature of such State, which have, prior to the passage of this act, been issued for the funding or settlement of any previous obligation of such State theretofore in default, and on which said funding or settlement obligation there has been no default in the payment of either principal or interest since the issuance of said funded or settlement obligation, and provided the interest on such funded or settlement obligation has been paid regularly for a period of not less than ten years next preceding such investment.

4. In the stocks or bonds of any city, county, town or village, school district bonds, "and union free school district bonds issued for school purposes," or in the interest-bearing obligations of any city or county of this State, issued pursuant to the authority of any law of the State for the payment of which the faith and credit of the municipality issuing them are pledged.

5. In the stocks or bonds of the following cities: Boston, Worcester, Cambridge, Lowell, Fall River, Springfield, and Holyoke, in the State of Massachusetts; St. Louis, in the State of Missouri; Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo, in the State of Ohio; Detroit and Grand Rapids, in the State of Michigan; Providence, in the State of Rhode Island; New Haven and Hartford, in the State of Connecticut; Portland, in the State of Maine; Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Allegheny, Reading and Scranton, in the State of Pennsylvania; Minneapolis and St. Paul, in the State of Minnesota; Des Moines, in the State of Iowa; Milwaukee, in the State of Wisconsin; Louisville in the State of Kentucky; Paterson, Trenton, Newark and Camden, in the State of New Jersey; Baltimore in the State of Maryland. If at any time the indebtedness of any of said cities, less its water debt and sinking fund, shall exceed 7 per cent of its valuation for purpose of taxation, its bonds and stocks shall thereafter cease to be an authorized investment for the moneys of savings banks, and until such indebtedness shall be reduced to 7 per cent of the valuation for the purposes of taxation, but the superintendent of the banking department may, in his discretion, require any savings bank to sell such bonds or stocks of said city as may have been purchased prior to said increase of debt.

6. In bonds and mortgages on unincumbered real property situated in this State, and worth at least twice the amount loaned thereon. Not more than 65 per cent of the whole amount of deposits shall be so loaned or invested. If the loan is on unimproved and unproductive real property, the amount loaned thereon shall not be more than 40 per cent of its actual value; and no investment in any bond and mortgage shall be made by any savings bank, except upon the report of a committee of its trustees charged with the duty of investigating the same, and who shall certify to the value of the premises mortgaged or to be mortgaged, according to their best judgment, and such report shall be filed and preserved among the records of the corporation. Also in the first mortgage bonds of any railroad corporation of this State, the principal part of whose railroad is located within this State; or of any railroad corporation of this and any other State or States connecting with and controlled and operated as part of the system of any such railroad corporation of this State, and of which connecting railroad at least a majority of its capital stock is owned by such a railroad corporation of this State; or in the mortgage bonds of any such railroad corporation of an issue to retire all prior mortgage debt of such railroad corporation, provided that at no time within five years next preceding the date of any such investment shall such railroad corporation of this State or such connecting railroad corporations, respectively, have failed regularly and punctually to pay the principal and interest of all its mortgage indebtedness, and in addition thereto, regularly and punctually to have paid dividends upon all its outstanding capital stock during the preceding five years, at the rate of not less than 4 per centum per annum; and provided, further, that at the date of every such dividend the outstanding capital stock of such railroad corporation or such connecting railroad company, respectively, shall have been equal to at least one-half of the total mortgage indebtedness of such railroad corporations, respectively, including all bonds issued or to be issued under any mortgage securing any bond in which such investments shall be made. Also in the mortgage bonds of the following railroad corporations: The Chicago & North-Western R. R. Co., Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R. Co., Michigan Central R. R. Co., Illinois Central R. R. Co., Pennsylvania R. R. Co., Delaware & Hudson Canal Co., Delaware, Lackawanna & Western R. R. Co., New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. Co., Boston & Maine R. R. Co., Maine Central R. R. Co., the Chicago & Alton R. R. Co. Provided, that at the time of making such investment the said railroads shall have earned and paid regular dividends of not less than 4 per centum per annum in cash on all their issues of capital stock for the ten years next preceding such investment, and provided the capital stock of any of said railroad corporations shall equal or exceed in amount one-third of the par value of all its bonded indebtedness; and further provided that all bonds hereby authorized for investments shall be secured by a first mortgage of the whole or a part of the railroad and railroad property actually in the possession of and operated by such company, or that such bonds shall be mortgage bonds of an issue to retire all prior mortgage debt of such railroad company; also in the first mortgage bonds of the Fonda, Johnstown & Gloversville R. R. Co., or in the mortgage bonds of said railroad company of an issue to retire all prior mortgage debts of said railroad company, and provided the capital stock of said railroad company shall equal or exceed in amount one-third of the par value of all its bonded indebtedness; and provided also that such railroad be of standard gauge of 4 feet 8½ inches. Not more than 20 per centum of the whole amount of deposits of any bank shall be loaned or invested in railroad bonds, and not more than 5 per centum of the deposits of any bank shall be invested in the bonds of any one railroad. Street railroad corporations shall not be considered railroad corporations within the meaning of this section. (Amended by Chap. 43, Laws of 1900.)

7. In real property, subject to the provisions of section 117 of this act. (This section limits the holding of real estate: 1. To a banking house, at a cost not over 25 per cent of the surplus. 2. Real estate purchased at foreclosure of its mortgages.)

SEC. 118. The trustees of any such corporation shall, as soon as practicable, invest the moneys deposited with them in the securities named in the last preceding section of this act; but, for the purpose of meeting current payments and expenses in excess of the receipts, there may be kept an available fund of not exceeding 10 per cent of the whole amount of deposits with such corporation, on hand, or deposit in any bank in this State, organized under any law of this State, or of the United States, or with any trust company incorporated by any law of this State, but the sum so deposited in any one bank or trust company shall not exceed 25 per cent of the paid-up capital and surplus of such bank or trust company; or such available fund, or any part thereof, may be loaned upon pledge of the securities, or any of them, named in subdivisions one, two, three and four of the preceding section but one, but not in excess of 90 per cent of the cash market value of such securities so pledged; and, should any of the securities so held in pledge depreciate in value, after making any loan thereon, the trustees shall require the immediate payment of such loan, or of a part thereof, or additional security therefor, so that the amount loaned shall at no time exceed 90 per cent of the market value of the securities pledged for the same.

Lawful Money Reserve. Banks of discount and deposit, having their principal places of business in the cities of New York or Brooklyn, are required to have at all times on hand at least 15 per cent of their aggregate amounts of deposits, and all other banks 10 per cent.

Loans. Loans to any person, company, corporation, or firm, or upon paper upon which any such person, company, corporation, or firm may be liable, are limited to one-fifth part of the capital stock actually paid in, and surplus. But the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actually existing values; or of commercial or business paper actually owned by the person negotiating the same, shall not be considered as a part of any such loan or discount.

Corporations. Insurance, banking, railroad, transportation, and business corporations may be formed under the general laws of the State.

Foreign Corporations (other than moneyed corporations), before doing business in the State, are required to obtain a certificate of authority from the secretary of State. "No foreign stock corporation, doing business in this State, without such certificate, shall maintain any action in this State upon any contract made by it in this State until it shall have procured such certificate." (General corporation law, section 15.) Foreign corporations may acquire on sale in foreclosure of a mortgage held by it or upon any judgment or decree for debts due it, or upon a settlement to secure such debts, real property in this State, covered by or subject to such mortgage, judgment, decree, or settlement, and may take by devise any real property situate within this State, and hold the same for not exceeding five years. (General corporat on law, section 15, as amended by chapter 136, Laws 1894.) Foreign corporations may engage in the business of buying and selling and improving real estate in this State, when authorized by its certificate of incorporation. (Lancaster vs. Amsterdam Improvement Co., 140 N. Y., 576.) An assignment for the benefit of creditors made in this State by an insolvent foreign corporation, valid under the law of its domicile, will be recognized as valid here. (Vanderpoel vs. Gorman, 140 N. Y., 568, Jan., 1894.)

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. The supreme court has unlimited jurisdiction. There is a county court for each county, having jurisdiction to the amount of $2,000, in actions where the defendant is, or if there is more than one, where all of the defendants are, residents of the county. Justices of the peace have jurisdiction in actions on contract where the sum claimed does not exceed $200, and district courts of the city of New York, where the sum does not exceed $250, and the city court of the city of Albany, where the sum does not exceed $1,000.

Days of Grace are abolished on paper in which there is no expressed stipulation to the contrary.

Deeds. The legislature has provided for short forms of deeds and mortgages.

Depositions. The deposition of a party or of a person not a party within this State, in an action brought or to be brought, may be taken, where shown that such testimony is material and necessary in the prosecution or defense of the action; or if the action is pending that the person to be examined is about to depart from the State, or that he is so sick or infirm as to afford reasonable ground to believe that he will not be able to attend the trial. Such deposition, except that of a party taken at the instance of an adverse party, can only be used upon proof of the witness' inability to attend the trial. Depositions may be taken without the State for use within the State. The commission, in the discretion of the court, may direct the examination upon oral questions or written interrogatories. Depositions may also be taken within the State for use without the State in an action or special proceeding pending in a court without the State, either in the United States or in a foreign country. A person who fails to respond to a subpœna for such examination is guilty of contempt of court.

Executions will issue at any time within five years from date of judgment; after five years, leave must be obtained from the court. Executions may issue to two or more counties at the same time. There are no stay laws, unless an appeal is taken, when an undertaking securing the judgment can be given. On a judgment, in any case, after execution is returned unsatisfied, defendant and others may be examined as to the judgment debtor's property in proceedings supplementary to execution, and required to apply any not exempt in payment. In certain cases a debtor may be imprisoned on execution; provision is made for the giving of bail to remain within the jail limits. The debtor may be discharged upon making assignment of his property (if debt is $500 or over, only after three months' imprisonment).

Exemptions. Homestead, $1,000 (to secure such exemption, deed, or notice designating that the property is to be used as a homestead, must be recorded); necessary furniture, tools, team, etc., $250. Even in supplementary proceedings, the judgment debtor cannot be ordered to apply upon the judgment his earnings for his personal services within sixty days preceding the order, if such earnings are necessary for the support of a family wholly or partly supported by his labor.

False Pretenses. A purchase of property by means of a false pretense is not criminal, where the false pretense relates to the purchaser's means or ability to pay, unless the pretense is made in writing, and signed by the party to be charged.

Holidays. The term holiday includes the following days in each year: The first day of January, known as New Year's Day; the twelfth day of February, known as Lincoln's Birthday; the twenty second day of February, known as Washington's Birthday; the thirtieth day of May, known as Memorial Day; the fourth day of July, known as Independence Day; the first Monday of September, known as Labor Day; and the twenty-fifth day of December, known as Christmas Day; and if either of such days is Sunday, the next day thereafter; each general election day and each day appointed by the president of the United States or by the governor of this State as a day of general thanksgiving, general fasting and prayer, or other general religious observance. The term half-holiday includes the period from noon to midnight of each Saturday which is not a holiday. (Chap. 614, Laws of 1897.)

Interest. The legal rate of interest is fixed at 6 per cent. All notes, bonds, contracts, securities, etc., whereby a greater rate is reserved, or taken, or agreed for, are absolutely void, and the lender can recover neither principal nor interest in such cases, but corporations can not plead usury as a defense. Usury is also punishable as a misdemeanor by fine or imprisonment, or both. State banks have been placed on the same footing as national banks as regards usury, and are thereby exempt from the extreme penalties mentioned above. By Chapter 237, Laws of 1882, on demand loans of $5,000 and over, made with warehouse receipts, bills of lading, certificates of stock, certificates of deposit, bills of exchange, bonds, or other negotiable instruments, pledged as collateral, it is lawful to receive and collect, as compensation for making such advances, any sum, to be agreed upon in writing by the parties to the transaction.

Judgments. Judgments docketed in a county clerk's office bind, and are a charge upon, real property for ten years, which the judgment debtor has or acquires within that time. A judgment is presumed to be paid after the expiration of twenty years from the time when the party recovering it was first entitled to a mandate to enforce it. Confession or an offer of judgment can be made in an action. Married woman may confess judgment. (Chapter 38, Laws of 1897.)

Limitations of Suits. Contracts, express or implied, except those under seal, six years; recovery of real estate upon judgments of courts of record and sealed instruments, twenty years. Revivor: Part payment or new promise in writing.

Married Women may take, hold, mortgage, and convey real and personal property. A married woman may contract with her husband, or any other person, to the same extent, with like effect, and in the same form as if unmarried, and she and her separate estate shall be liable thereon, whether the contract relates to her separate estate or otherwise, and in no case shall a charge upon her separate estate be necessary. (Chap. 594, Laws of 1892.) A married woman may convey real estate directly to her husband, and the husband may convey directly to his wife. Widows have right of dower. Married woman may confess judgment. (Chapter 38, Laws of 1897.)

Mortgages must be executed and recorded same as deeds. Where containing a power of sale, may be foreclosed by an action brought for the purpose, or without intervention of court (by advertisement). There is no redemption under a mortgage sale. Chattel mortgages, except where the possession of the property mortgaged passes to, and is retained by, the mortgagee, must be filed forthwith, or are void as against creditors and innocent purchasers. Such mortgage ceases to be valid in one year, except as to the mortgagor or his representatives, unless a copy thereof is refiled annually with a certificate of the mortgagee as to the amount unpaid thereon, and this copy, mortgage, and certificate constitutes a renewal of the mortgage for one year.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Negotiable instruments are defined by Chapter 612 of the Laws of 1897, entitled "An Act in relation to negotiable instruments, constituting Chapter 50 of the General Laws." Section 20 provides as follows: "SECTION 20. Form of Negotiable Instrument. An instrument to be negotiable must conform to the following requirements: 1. It must be in writing and signed by the maker or drawer. 2. It must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money. 3. Must be payable on demand, or at a fixed or determinable future time. 4. Must be payable to order or to bearer; and 5, where the instrument is addressed to a drawee, he must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty." Its negotiability is not affected by a provision which authorizes the sale of collateral securities in case the instrument be not paid at maturity, or authorizes a confession of judgment if the instrument be not paid at maturity; or waives the benefit of any law intended for the advantage or the protection of the obligor; or gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money. It is not necessary that paper should be made payable at a bank or any fixed place. To charge indorser, notice of non-payment must at once be given to him. The time of maturity is regulated by statute as follows: "SECTION 145, as amended by Chap. 336, Laws of 1898. Time of Maturity. Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday, or a holiday, the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. Instruments falling due or becoming payable on Saturday are to be presented for payment on the next succeeding business day, except that instruments payable on demand may, at the option of the holder, be presented for payment before 12 o'clock, noon, on Saturday, when that entire day is not a holiday." (See Holidays.)

Seal. The private seal of a person may consist of a wafer, wax, paper, or other similar adhesive substance, or of the word "seal" or the letters "L. S." (Sec. 13, Chap. 677, Laws 1892.)

Suits in civil actions must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except that an executor, administrator, trustee of an express trust, or person specially authorized by statute, may sue in his own name. A married woman can now sue and be sued in an action in tort without joining her husband. (Chap. 51, Laws of 1890.) The practice is under a code, known as the "Code of Civil Procedure."

Taxes. Lands may be sold for taxes when two years delinquent. Publication of sale is made for twelve weeks in the county paper, and two years after sale are allowed for redemption, the owner having the right to redeem by paying the purchase money and interest at 10 per cent per annum. A mortgagee (where the instrument is duly recorded) has a similar right of redemption and upon filing a notice of his mortgage, its date, record, etc., with the proper officer, is entitled to notice before the tax title can cut off his mortgage. Special provisions for sales of lands for taxes exist in several cities and counties. In cities, assessments for local improvements may be enforced by sales of the houses and lots assessed.

Wills. All persons, except idiots, persons of unsound mind, and infants, may devise their real estate by will. Males of eighteen years and upward, and females of sixteen years and upward, may bequeath personal estate. Wills must be subscribed by the testator in the presence of two witnesses, each of whom must sign his name at the end of the will, at the request of the testator, who must acknowledge and declare the instrument to be his last will. A will of an unmarried woman is revoked by subsequent marriage. A devise or bequest to a witness whose testimony is necessary to establish the will is void. The Code of Civil Procedure regulates the practice of probating wills in the surrogates' courts of the several counties of the State. Within two years after the probate of a will an action may be brought in the supreme court to determine the validity of the probate, by any person interested in the will or codicil. Persons within age of minority, of unsound mind, imprisoned, or absent from the State may bring action two years after disability has been removed.

(See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts and Claims, Proof of. In any action instituted in any court of the State upon an account for goods sold and delivered, an itemized statement of said account, properly verified, shall be received in evidence, and shall be deemed prima facie evidence of the correctness of said account. All creditors of the maker of a deed of trust or assignment must file with the clerk of the superior court a statement under oath, that the amount claimed is justly due, after allowing all credits and offsets. Creditors of a decedent must present their accounts and claims to the administrator or executor within twelve months after publication of notice of administration. But if they fail to do so, and the personal representative has not disbursed the assets of the estate, the creditor may still recover of the personal representative. If he has disbursed the assets, the creditor may recover of the heirs, devisees, legatees, or next of kin, who may have received property of the intestate.

Acknowledgments and Probate of Deeds. Every conveyance of land must be acknowledged or proved and registered in the county where the land lies. All deeds conveying lands in this State, or letters of attorney, or other instruments requiring registration, must be probated in the following manner: 1. When the grantor or maker, or subscribing witness resides in the county wherein the land lies, the deed, etc., must be acknowledged by grantor or maker, or proved by the oath of such subscribing witness, before a justice of the supreme court, a judge of the superior court, a commissioner of affidavits appointed by the governor of this State, the clerk of the supreme court, a clerk of the superior court, a deputy clerk of the superior court, a clerk of the criminal court, a notary public, or a justice of the peace of this State, who shall enter his certificate thereon, and such deed, letter of attorney, or other instrument with the certificate thereon or exhibition to the clerk of the superior court, shall, if in due form, be admitted by him to probate, and ordered to be registered with the certificate thereto attached. 2. When the grantor, maker, or subscribing witness resides in the State, but not in the county wherein the land lies, such deed, etc., must be acknowledged by such grantor or maker, or proved by oath of such subscribing witness before a justice of the supreme court, a judge of the superior court, a commissioner of affidavits appointed by the governor of this State, the clerk of the supreme court, a clerk of the superior court, a deputy clerk of the superior court, a clerk of the criminal court, a notary public, or a justice of the peace of this State. If the proof or acknowledgment shall be had before a justice of the peace in any county in this State other than the county in which the instrument is to be registered, his certificate of proof of acknowledgment made by such justice of the peace shall be accompanied by the certificate of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which said justice of the peace resides, that such justice of the peace was at the time his certificate bears date an acting justice of the peace of such county and that said justice's genuine signature is set to his certificate. The certificate of the clerk of the superior court shall be under his hand and official seal. And the clerk of the superior court of the county wherein the land lies, or his duly appointed deputy, upon the exhibition to him of such deed, etc., together with the said certificates, or with the certificate of the judge of the supreme or superior court, or notary, shall adjudge the said deed, letter of attorney, or other instrument to be duly acknowledged or proved in the same manner as if taken or made before him, and order the same, with his certificate and the other certificate attached, to be registered. 3. Where the grantor, maker, or subscribing witness resides outside of the State, but within the United States, the deed, etc., may be acknowledged or proved by the grantor, maker, or subscribing witness before any judge of a court of record, any clerk of a court of record, any notary public, any mayor or chief magistrate of an incorporated town or city, or any justice of the peace; and the certificate of said judge, clerk of court of record, under the seal of said court, mayor, or chief magistrate of an incorporated town or city, or notary public under their respective seals, touching the acknowledgment of proof of such persons shall, if adjudged to be in due form, by the clerk of the superior court or his duly appointed deputy, of the county in which the land is situate, or the letter of attorney, or other instrument is required to be registered, be ordered by said clerk to be registered. If the acknowledgment or proof of the execution of said deed, etc., be had before a justice of the peace of another State, then the clerk of the court of record of the county in which said justice resides, shall certify under the seal of his court, that said justice was, at the time of taking the said acknowledgment or proof, an acting justice of the peace of the said county and State, and that the signature of said justice was in his own proper handwriting, and if said certificate shall be adjudged to be in due form by the clerk of the superior court or his duly appointed deputy, of the county in which the land is situate, then the said clerk of the superior court shall order the same to be registered. 4. Where the grantor or maker and the subscribing witness reside beyond the limits of the United States, the deed or other instrument may be personally acknowledged by such grantor or maker, or proved on the oath of such subscribing witness before any judge of a court of record, any clerk of a court of record, any notary public, or any mayor or chief magistrate of an incorporated town or city, or before any clerk of a court of record, ambassador, minister, consul, or commercial agent of the United States, and where such proof or acknowledgment is certified under the corporate seal of such chief magistrate, or under the official seal of such ambassador, minister, consul, or commercial agent, or under the hand of the said judge, and where such certificate is affixed to the deed or other instrument, and the same is exhibited before the clerk of the superior court having jurisdiction, or his duly appointed deputy, he shall adjudge that such deed or other instrument is duly proved or acknowledged, and order it, with his certificate and the accompanying certificates, to be registered. 5. When the privy examination of any married woman is necessary to be taken, the persons authorized to take the acknowledgment of any grantor or maker or proof of the execution of any deed, etc., are empowered to take the privy examination of any married woman touching her free assent to such deed, letter of attorney, or other instrument to which her assent is or may be necessary, and to certify the fact of such privy examination in the same manner as they are authorized to take and certify the acknowledgment of any grantor or maker of such deed, letter of attorney, or other instrument, and the clerk of the superior court or his duly appointed deputy, of the county in which the land is situate, or of the county where the deed, letter of attorney, or other instrument is required to be registered, upon the exhibition of such deed, etc., with the certificates to him, if he shall adjudge the same to be in due form, shall admit the said deed, and order it, with his certificate and the accompanying certificates, to be registered. 6. When the proof of acknowledgment of conveyance, power of attorney, or other instrument concerning the interest of a married woman in lands is taken as above directed, no clerk of the superior court shall adjudge such conveyance or other instrument to be duly proved or acknowledged, unless the private examination of such woman is taken according to the laws of this State, and a certificate thereof attached to the deed or other instrument. 7. Whenever the subscribing witness to any instrument required or allowed to be registered shall be a non-resident or shall be dead, and the maker shall also be a non-resident or dead, the proof of the handwriting of such witness or that of the maker before the clerk of the superior court of the county where the instrument is sought to be registered, or his duly appointed deputy, shall be sufficient evidence of the execution thereof to admit the same to registration, and in case such maker shall have subscribed a mark only, the proof of the signature of such witness shall be sufficient. 8. Whenever any such instrument shall not have a subscribing witness, proof of the handwriting of the maker shall be sufficient to admit the same to registration. 9. In all cases of the probate of any deed or other instrument required or allowed to be registered, having a subscribing witness who may be dead, or out of the State, or of unsound mind, satisfactory proof of his handwriting, or the handwriting of the subscribing witness, grantor, or maker, shall be deemed sufficient proof for the purpose of allowing the registration thereof. When the proof or acknowledgment of any instrument is had before any official of some other State, Territory, or country, and such official have no official seal, then the certificate of such official shall be accompanied by the certificate of a clerk of a court of record of the State, Territory, or country in which the official taking the proof of acknowledgmet resides, of the official position and signature of such official; such certificate of the clerk shall be under his hand and official seal and shall be in substance as follows:

I, A. B. (here give the name and official title of the clerk of a court of record as provided in this act), do hereby certify that C. D. (here give name of the official taking the proof, etc.) was at the time of signing the foregoing (or annexed) certificate a (here give the official title of the officer taking proof, etc.) in and for the county of.....State of..... (or other political division of the State, Territory, or country as the case may be), and that his signature thereto is his own proper handwriting.

In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and seal of office this..... day of .....A. D.

(Seal of office.) (Signature of clerk.)

Whenever it shall appear to the clerk of the superior court of any county that any person non-resident of this State is desirous of acknowledging a power of attorney, deed, or other conveyance touching any real estate, situate in the county of the said clerk, he shall issue a commission to a commissioner for receiving such acknowledgment, or taking such proof, and said commissioner may likewise take the acknowledgment and privy examination of a married woman, separate and apart from her husband, touching her assent to any power of attorney, deed, or other conveyance touching real estate in said county. The commissioner shall make certificate of the acknowledgment or proof of privy examination made by him, and shall return the same to the clerk of the superior court, whereupon he shall adjudge that such conveyance, power of attorney, or other instrument is duly acknowledged or proved, and that such examination is in due form, and shall order the same to be registered. In all cases of deeds or other instruments made by husband and wife and requiring registration, the probate of deed or other instrument as to the husband, and the acknowledgment and privy examination of the wife, may be taken before different officers authorized by law to take probate of deeds, whether both of said officers reside in this State, or only one in this State, and the other in another State, and it shall not be material whether the husband acknowledges the execution of the deed or other instrument before or after the acknowledgment and privy examination of the wife. When any grantor shall execute and deliver to the grantee any deed or other instrument of writing which should be registered, and to which there is no witness, upon the grantor's refusing to acknowledge his execution thereof before proper officer to take such acknowledgment after due notice to the grantor, the grantee upon exhibiting the same before the clerk of the superior court of the county in which such instrument should be registered, may, upon motion before said clerk, have a subpœna issued for such grantor to appear before the clerk of the superior court, or it may be lawful in such cases for the grantee to prove the handwriting of such grantor, upon his refusal to acknowledge the same, by at least one responsible and disinterested witness, and the clerk may admit the instrument to probate and order the same registered.

Actions. There is no distinction between actions at law and suits in equity, and there is but one form of action called a civil action. The summons in the superior court is issued by the clerk of the court, and the plaintiff must file a bond for defendant's costs in the sum of $200, signed by a resident surety or by a surety company. The plaintiff should send out from $10 to $20 to be deposited with the clerk, to cover his own costs. The summons is returnable to the next term of the superior court and must be served at least ten days before the term. Complaints must be filed within the first three days of the term, and answers or demurrers must be filed within the term to which the summons is returnable. The successful party recovers costs, but no allowance to himself or attorneys. The practice is regulated by a code of civil procedure similar to the New York Code. No bond is required when the action is commenced in a justice's court. Such summonses may be made returnable immediately, and a judgment may be obtained at once. The pleadings may be oral or in writing.

Affidavits may be made before the clerks of the supreme court and superior courts, notaries public, and justices of the peace of the State; and also before commissioners of deeds for North Carolina residing in other States, and clerks of any court of record of another State. A pleading may be verified before a notary public in or out of the State, as well as before the other officers above named.

Aliens. Resident or non-resident aliens may take real property by purchase or descent or other operation of law.

Appeals may be taken from judgments of justices of the peace to the superior court, and from clerks of the superior courts to the superior court at term; and from the superior court to the supreme court. Notice of appeal must be given within ten days after the judgment.

Arrest and Bail. The defendant may be arrested in the following cases: 1. In an action for the recovery of damages, on a cause of action not arising out of a contract, where the defendant is not a resident of the State, or is about to remove therefrom, or where the action is for injury to person or character, or for injuring or for wrongfully taking, detaining, or converting property. 2. In an action for a fine or penalty, or for seduction, or for money received, or for property embezzled or fraudulently misapplied by a public officer or by an attorney, solicitor, or counselor, by an officer or agent of a corporation or banking association, in the course of his employment as such, or by a factor, agent, broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity, or for any misconduct or neglect in office, or in a professional employment. 3. In an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained, or where the property or any part thereof has been concealed, removed, or disposed of so that it can not be found or taken by the sheriff, and with the intent that it should not be so found or taken, or with the intent to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit thereof. 4. When the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting a debt or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or is concealing or disposing of the property, for the taking, detention, or conversion of which the action is brought, or when the action is brought to recover damages for fraud or deceit. 5. When the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so with the intent to defraud his creditors. But no woman shall be arrested in any action except for willful injury to person, character, or property, and no person shall be arrested on Sunday. An order for the arrest of the defendant must be obtained from the court in which the action is brought or from the judge thereof. The order may be made when it shall appear to the court or judge thereof by the affidavit of the plaintiff, or of any other person, that a sufficient cause of action exists, and that the case is one of those above provided for. Before making the order the court or judge thereof shall require a written undertaking on the part of the plaintiff with sufficient surety, payable to the defendant, which shall be at least $100, to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment the plaintiff will pay all damages which he may sustain by reason of the arrest, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking. The order of arrest may be made to accompany the summons or to issue at any time afterward before judgment. The defendant at any time before execution shall be discharged from arrest either upon giving bail or upon depositing the amount mentioned in the order of arrest. He may give bail by causing an undertaking in the sum mentioned in the order of arrest payable to the plaintiff to be executed, with sufficient surety to the effect that the defendant shall at all times render himself amenable to the process of the court during the pendency of the action and to such as may be issued to enforce the judgment thereof. If the action be to recover the possession of personal property wrongfully detained, etc. (see "3d" above), the undertaking must be for double the value of the property. If the defendant can not be found after an execution against his property has been returned unsatisfied in whole or in part, an execution against his person is thereafter issued, and if he can not be found, the bail may be proceeded against by motion in the cause after ten days' notice to such bail. The defendant is entitled to a jury trial if he makes up an issue on the question of fraud upon which he is arrested.

Assignment and Insolvency. Debtors are permitted by the state law to make assignments or deeds of trust with preferences of particular creditors; but, of course, the bankruptcy law prevents it. A general assignment for the benefit of creditors will not affect any lien in favor of a creditor previously obtained. Upon the execution of any voluntary deed of trust or deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors, all debts of the maker thereof shall become due and payable at once. Within ten days the trustee or assignee named in the deed or substituted by the clerk must file with such clerk a sworn inventory, and must file further inventories if more assets come into his hands thereafter. Upon complaint of any creditor under oath that the assignee or trustee is insolvent, the clerk, upon ten days' notice, shall remove the trustee or assignee if found to be insolvent, unless he gives bond in a sum double the value of the assets. Upon such removal the clerk shall appoint another trustee, who shall give bond as above. Trustees and assignees shall sell none but perishable property until the expiration of ten days. Trustees or assignees must file with the clerk every three months a verified account of receipts and disbursements and a final account within twelve months. Clerks may extend the time of filing quarterly and final accounts. All creditors of the trustor or assignor, before receiving any dividend under the deed, must file with the clerk of the court a statement under oath that the amount claimed is justly due, after allowing all credits and offsets to the best of their knowledge and belief. False swearing by creditors, or trustee or assignee, and failure on part of assignee to file an inventory and returns and accounts as required, and selling property contrary to the requirements of the act, are made misdemeanors. Assignments like mortgages are good against creditors, or subsequent aliences, only after registration.

Attachments. A warrant of attachment against the property of one or more defendants in an action may be granted upon the application of the plaintiff when the action is to recover a sum of money only, or damages for one or more of the following causes: 1. Breach of contract, express or implied. 2. Wrongful conversion of personal property. 3. Any injury to real or personal property in consequence of negligence, fraud, or other wrongful act. The warrant of attachment may be granted to accompany the summons, or at any time after the commencement of the action. Personal service of the summons must be made upon the defendant against whose property the attachment is granted, within thirty days after the granting thereof, or else upon the expiration of the same time, service of the summons by publication must be commenced pursuant to an order obtained therefor, and if publication has been or is thereafter commenced, the service must be made complete by the continuance thereof. To entitle the plaintiff to such warrant, he must show by affidavit, by himself or his agent, to the satisfaction of the court granting the same, as follows: 1. That one of the causes of action above specified exists against the defendant. If the action is to recover damages for breach of contract, the defendant must show that the plaintiff is entitled to recover a sum stated therein over and above all counterclaims known to him. 2. That the defendant is a foreign corporation or a domestic corporation, none of whose officers can be found in the State after due diligence, or not a resident of the State; or if he is a natural person and a resident of the State, that he has departed therefrom with the intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of summons, or keeps himself concealed therein with like intention; or, if the defendant is a natural person or a domestic corporation, that he or it has removed, or is about to remove, property from the State, with the intent to defraud his or its creditors, or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of, or secrete property with the like intent. Before issuing the same, the court shall require a written undertaking on the part of the plaintiff with sufficient surety to the effect that if the defendant recover judgment, or the attachment be set aside, by order of the court, the plaintiff will pay all costs that may be awarded to the defendant, and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking, which shall be at least $200. A non-resident is entitled to the benefit of this law, and the affidavit may be verified by an agent. The defendant may have the attachment vacated: 1. For cause shown. 2. Upon the execution of an undertaking, with sufficient surety that he will pay the amount of the plaintiff's judgment, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking, which shall be at least double the amount claimed by the plaintiff in his complaint.

Banks. North Carolina banks deal in exchange, gold and silver, bullion uncoined, uncurrent paper bonds and stocks, and public or other securities, manufactured goods, cotton, or other products of the country; may purchase and hold and sell real and personal estate for the transaction of business, or such as may be conveyed to secure debts to said banks, or for other purposes; may discount notes and lend money at the legal rate of interest which may be taken in advance. They may pay interest on deposits. Bills, notes, certified checks, or other obligations, when signed by the proper officers of the bank, shall be as binding as if under the seal of the bank. Those payable to order shall be assignable by endorsement, and those payable to bearer shall be negotiable and payable by delivery only. All banks and bankers must make statements of their financial condition, to the corporation commission, at the same times the National banks are required to make such statements to the comptroller. These statements are to be sworn to by the president or cashier, and attested by three directors, or, in case of a private bank, by the president, manager, or owner. The corporation commission prepares the forms of these statements. They are to be published. An examination is to be made annually at the expense of the bank by some person appointed by the corporation commission to look into the affairs of the bank without notice. If it shall appear by the examiner's report that the bank is insolvent or in immediate danger of insolvency, or is guilty of fraud, either in practices or concealment, the corporation commission must take legal steps to wind up the bank and place it in the hands of a receiver. If the bank is found to be in an uncertain or precarious condition the corporation commission may give it a chance to strengthen or rectify by a notice of thirty to ninety days, at his discretion; on failure to do so, the corporation comulesion must take steps to stop it and turn it over to a receiver. Banks and bankers failing to furnish the statement are placed under penalties. Willfully false statements by an officer are made felonies.

Savings banks may be incorporated under the general law. There shall be not less than ten members. The company may, at a regular meeting, elect any citizen of this State a member, but the number of members by election shall not exceed thirty at any one time. The continuous deposit of $1,000 or more for a period over six months previous to an annual meeting shall constitute such depositor a member of the corporation. His membership shall continue so long only as such sum is on continuous deposit. There shall be a president, vice-president, and not less than nine trustees, a cashier, clerk, and other necessary officers. The bank shall be subject to examination by a committee of the legislature. A commissioner shall be appointed by the governor for each bank, who shall once a year, and oftener, if he desires, make an investigation of the affairs of the bank. This shall also be done upon the sworn request of any four officers, trustees, creditors, or depositors of the bank setting forth reasons therefor. Upon application of the commissioner the bank may be restrained from further business, and the attorney-general shall prosecute for violations of the law. Treasurer to be appointed by trustees shall give bond. Trustees must meet every three months. They shall not receive more than $2,000 deposits from one individual, and may pay interest on deposits. The deposits shall be invested by a committee of investment in first mortgages of real estate, United States bonds, bonds of any State of the Union whose bonds are at or above par on the New York stock exchange, notes or bonds of any county or municipality when such indebtedness does not exceed 5 per cent of its taxable property; first mortgage railroad bonds which pay interest regularly, bank stock, notes of any person with a pledge of any of the aforesaid securities at no more than 75 per cent of the market or par value, personal notes of the depositors of the association, not exceeding one-half of the amount of his deposit; personal notes, with two solvent sureties; real estate and buildings for use of banks, not exceeding in value 10 per cent of deposits, and not exceeding $25,000; real estate acquired by foreclosure of mortgage owned by it. Every such corporation shall, at the time of making each semi-annual dividend, reserve as a guarantee fund (to meet losses in its business) from the net profits of the preceding six months, not less than one-eighth nor more than one-fourth per cent of the whole amount of deposits, until such fund amounts to 10 per cent of the whole amount of deposits. Ordinary dividends shall be divided among the depositors every six months, not to exceed 2½ per cent on all sums which have been on deposit six months preceding, or 1½ per cent on all sums which have been on deposit for three months preceding. Before this is done there must be made a deduction for all reasonable expenses and the guarantee fund. Once in three years, if the net profits accumulated in excess of the guarantee fund and dividends amount to 1 per cent of the deposits which have remained in the corporation for one year then next preceding, such net profits shall be divided among the depositors. No dividend shall be declared unless authorized by a vote of the trustees after a full examination. Deposits of less than $100 standing in the name of a deceased person may be paid to the next of kin or to the person defraying or assuming the expenses of the last sickness and burial, with the appointment of a legal representative. Deposits made by a married woman shall be paid only to her or to her order. Deposits by a minor may, at the discretion of the trustees or committee of investment, be paid to such minor.

The stockholders of all banks organized under State laws are held individually responsible equally and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts, and agreements of such association to the extent of the amount of their stock therein at the par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such share. The total liabilities to any State bank of any person, firm, or corporation for money borrowed, including in the liabilities of a firm, the liability of the several members thereof, shall at no one time exceed one-tenth part of the amount of the capital stock actually paid in. But this does not apply to any bank which has a paid-up capital of $100,000 or less. The discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actually existing value, and the discount of commercial paper actually owned by the person negotiating the same, shall not be considered as money borrowed.

All banks or officers and directors of State banks are required to take an oath to observe the constitution and laws of North Carolina, and to well and truly discharge, according to law, all the duties of their offices.

Taxes imposed for State purposes upon the shares of stock in any bank, whether State or National, shall be paid by the cashier of the bank directly to the State treasurer. The shares of residents may be taxed for school and city purposes. The tax shall be paid by the cashier to the sheriff. The value of shares held by non-residents shall not be deducted from the aggregate value of the shares of the bank. Every such bank, in addition to the ad valorem tax on the capital invested, shall pay annually to the State treasurer a tax according to the capital engaged, on a capital of $10,000 or less, $25; and $2 for each $1,000 of capital in excess of $25,000; and $25 additional for every county in which it has an agency. On failing to comply with the above the bank shall pay to the State treasurer $2,000.

Banks and savings banks shall deliver to the assessor a sworn statement of their capital stock setting forth particularly: 1. The name and the location of the bank. 2. The amount of capital stock authorized, and the number of shares into which such capital stock is divided. 3. The amount of capital stock paid up. 4. The market value, or if no market value, then the actual value of the shares of stock. 5. The assessed value of all its real and personal property. The real and personal property shall be listed and valued as other real and personal property is listed and assessed.

The aggregate of such assessed value shall be deducted from the aggregate value of its shares of stock, and the remainder, if any, shall be listed in the name of the bank. Stockholders in any bank, State or National, shall be assessed on the actual value of the shares of stock therein, in the county, city, or town where the bank is located, for the purposes of State taxation. For purposes of county, city, and town taxation, the shares of stock shall be listed at the residence of the stockholder.

Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes. Protest is not required in order to hold the maker or endorser of a promissory note, or the acceptor of a bill of exchange, but it is necessary to hold the drawer or endorser of the bill of exchange. Three days of grace are allowed. Unless the contrary be plainly expressed, the endorser of any bill, negotiable bond, or promissory note is liable as a surety, and no demand upon the maker is necessary previous to bringing an action against the endorser. But this does not apply to bills of exchange, whether inland or foreign, nor to notes which are made and become operative as contracts beyond the limits of the State, nor to endorsement made out of this State. It applies in those cases only where not only the endorsement in question, but all antecedent endorsements were made within this State. A note signed and endorsed in another State, but which was never delivered until negotiated in this State is governed by the laws of this State, and under it, no demand, protest, or notice of non-payment is required to bind the endorser. All bonds, bills, and notes for money with or without seal, and expressed or not to be payable to order or for value received, are negotiable in like manner, as are inland bills of exchange by custom of merchants of England. In all cases where any surety or endorser on any note, bill, bond, or other written obligation, shall consider himself in danger of loss in consequence of his contingent liability either from the insolvency or misconduct of the principal in said note, bill, bond, or other written obligation, or from the negligence of the payee or holder, of any such instrument, it shall be lawful for such surety or endorser, at any time after such note, bill, bond, or other written obligation shall have become due and payable, to cause written notice to be given to the payee or holder of any such paper or obligation, and to use all reasonable diligence to save harmless such surety or endorser. (This shall not apply to official bonds, or bonds given by any person acting in a fiduciary capacity.) Should the payee or holder of any such note, bond, bill, or other obligation refuse or fail within thirty days from the service of said notice to bring suit in the appropriate court, in an effort to save harmless such surety or endorser, such refusal or failure to sue shall operate as a discharge of such surety or endorser from all liability whatever on any such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation, provided that this notice shall not have the effect to discharge from liability any co-surety who does not join in such notice, provided further that this bill shall not apply to holders of such note, bond, bill, or other written obligation, who hold the same as collateral surety or in trust. Such notice shall be served by the sheriff or his deputy, who shall return it to the party for whose benefit the notice was issued, which shall be evidence of the fact in all courts. January 1st, January 19th, February 22d, May 10th, May 20th, July 4th, first Monday in September, and the day appointed by the Governor as a Thanksgiving day, and December 25th of each and every year, are public holidays, and whenever any such holiday shall fall upon Sunday the Monday following shall be public holiday, and papers due on such Sundays or Mondays shall be payable on the next succeeding business day. Instruments falling due on Saturday are to be presented for payment on the next succeeding business day, except that instruments payable on demand may, at the option of the holder, be presented for payment before 12 o'clock on Saturday, when that entire day is not a holiday. (See Days of Grace.)

Chattel Mortgages. It is a misdemeanor for one to dispose of property covered by a chattel mortgage with intent to defeat the mortgagee's rights. Chattel mortgages and conditional sales of personal property are not valid against third persons until registered.

Conditional Sales. All conditional sales of personal property in which the title is retained by the bargainor must be reduced to writing and registered in the same manner, for the same fee, and with the same effect, as is provided for chattel mortgages; otherwise they are inoperative as against creditors and purchasers, for value, in so far as they reserve the title in the vendor.

Contracts. All contracts which by law are joint only, shall be construed to be joint and several. In all cases of joint obligations, suit may be brought against one or more of those who are liable. Choses in action are assignable, and suit upon them must be brought by the real party in interest. (See Statute of Frauds.)

Costs. The plaintiff is required to pay his costs to the officers as their services are performed. The clerks of the superior court usually require a deposit of from $10 to $20 to be made at the institution of the suit. Besides, the plaintiff must file a prosecution bond with the clerk in the sum of $200, to pay the defendant's costs, if he shall be cast in the suit. If he recovers he is entitled to his costs, but no allowance is made to cover expenses of litigation such as attorney's fees. Upon it being made to appear by affidavit that the plaintiff is a poor person and unable to give bond, and upon the certificate of an attorney-at-law that he has examined the plaintiff's case, and that in his opinion the plaintiff has a meritorious cause of action, such plaintiff is permitted to sue without giving a prosecution bond, and no officer can require of him any fee, and he can recover no costs, except in case of recovery.

Days of Grace. All bills of exchange payable within the State at sight, or at a future day certain, or in which there is no express stipulation to the contrary, shall be entitled to days of grace as the same are allowed by the custom of merchants on foreign bills of exchange payable at the expiration of a certain period after date, or sight. Provided, that no days of grace shall be allowed on any bills of exchange, promissory note or draft, payable on demand.

Equity of Redemption. After a sale by order of the court or by virtue of a power of sale of mortgaged premises, there is no equity of redemption. An equity of redemption of lands may be sold under execution. Such equity of personal property can be reached only by supplementary proceedings, or by action.

Executions. At any time within three years after docketing of judgment, or after the issue of the last execution, judgments may be enforced by execution without application to court, by the judgment creditor, or in case of his death by his personal representative duly appointed; after three years from the docketing or date of issue of last execution, only by leave of court, upon satisfactory proof that the judgment has not been paid. Executions issuing from the superior court may issue immediately after the term at which judgment was rendered and shall be returnable to the next term thereof. Issuing from a justice's court they are returnable in sixty days.

Exemptions. Articles of personal property not to exceed the value of $500, and real estate not to exceed $1,000 in value, to be selected by the owner thereof, and to be valued by three sworn appraisers, provided he be a resident of the State. The homestead is not exempt from liability to be sold for contract made for the purchase of the same, nor for taxes. The widow and infant children are entitled to the homestead until the youngest child reaches the age of twenty-one years. The statute of limitations shall not run against any judgment owing by the owner of a homestead or homestead interest, during the existence of such homestead or homestead interest, whether the same has been or shall hereafter be allowed, assigned, or set apart under execution or otherwise.

Foreign Judgments may be enforced by civil action. They are conclusive between the parties if there has been proper personal service upon the defendant and can not be attached collaterally except for fraud. A judgment to be used in evidence must be certified as required by the act of Congress.

Frauds, Statute of. No action shall be brought whereby to charge an executor or administrator upon a special promise to answer damages out of his own estate or to charge any defendant upon a special promise to answer the debt, default, or miscarriage, of another person unless the agreement upon which such action shall be brought or some memorandum or note thereof shall be in writing and signed by the party charged therewith, or some other person thereunto by him lawfully authorized. All contracts for the sale of land, and all leases and contracts for leasing land for the purposes of digging gold or other minerals, or for mining generally, of whatever duration, and all other leases and contracts for leasing lands, exceeding in duration three years from the making thereof, shall be void unless put into writing and signed by the party to be charged therewith, or by some person by him lawfully authorized thereto. No acknowledgment or promise shall be received as evidence of a new or continuing contract, whereby to take the case out of the operation of the statute of limitations, unless the same be contained in some writing signed by the party to be charged thereby. But this shall not alter the effect of any payment of principal or interest.

Free Traders. Every married woman of the age of twenty-one years and upward, with the consent of her husband, may become a free trader: 1. By antenuptial contract proved and registered; or, 2. by signing with her husband a writing in the form prescribed by statute, or some equivalent form, signifying her intention, with his consent, of becoming a free trader from the time of the registration of such instrument, she becomes a free trader.

Interest. The legal rate of interest is 6 per cent. Taking, receiving, or charging a greater rate, either before or after the interest may accrue, when knowingly done, shall cause a forfeiture of the entire interest. The person or corporation by whom it is paid may recover back twice the amount of interest paid in the nature of an action for debt, commenced within two years after payment. In any action brought to recover upon the note or other evidence of debt, the defendant may plead by way of counterclaim twice the amount of interest paid, and also the forfeiture of the entire interest. No person shall recover any costs who may endeavor to recover upon a usurious contract.

Judgments. Judgments of the superior court are liens upon the lands and interests of a debtor within the county from the date of docketing the same for the space of ten years. If three years shall elapse since the date of the last execution the judgment becomes dormant, and execution shall only be issued thereon by leave of the court upon motion, with personal notice to the adverse party, and after satisfactory proof that the judgment or some part thereof remains unsatisfied. Transcripts of judgments obtained from a justice of the peace may be docketed in the superior court, and from that time the judgment shall be a judgment of the superior court in all respects. All judgments rendered at a term of the superior court bear date as of the first day of the term, and there is no priority between them in the county of their rendition. A transcript of a docketed judgment properly certified by the clerk, may be filed in the clerk's office of any other county, when it becomes a lien upon the debtor's real estate in that county from the date of the docketing in such county. Judgments of the supreme court may be docketed in the superior court of any county of the State, and when so docketed their lien shall be the same as judgments of the superior court. Judgments of no court constitute a lien upon the personal property before levy.

Limitations. Within ten years: 1. An action upon a judgment or decree of any court of this State, or of the United States, or of any State or Territory thereof, from the date of rendition of said judgment or decree. But no such action shall be brought more than once, nor have the effect to continue the lien of the original judgment. 2. An action upon a sealed instrument against the principal thereto. 3. An action for the foreclosure of a mortgage or deed in trust for creditors, with a power of sale of real property where the mortgagor or grantor has been in possession of the property must be brought within ten years after foreclosure of the mortgage, or after the power of sale became absolute, or within ten years after the last payment on the same. 4. An action for the redemption of a mortgage, where the mortgagee has been in possession, or for a residuary interest under a deed in trust for creditors, where the trustee or those holding under him shall have been in possession must be brought within ten years after the right of action accrued. Within seven years: 1. An action on a judgment rendered by a justice of the peace, from the date thereof. 2. By any creditor of a deceased person against his personal or real representative, within seven years net next after the qualification of the executor or administrator, and his making the advertisement required by law for creditors of the deceased to present their claims, where no personal service of such notice in writing is made upon the creditor, and the creditor, thus barred of a recovery against the representative of any principal debtor, shall also be barred of a recovery against any surety of such debt. Within six years: 1. An action upon the official bond of any public officer. 2. An action against any executor, administrator, collector, or guardian on his official bond, within six years after the auditing of his final accounts, by the proper officer, and the filing of such audited accounts as An action upon a contract, obligation, or liability arising out of a contract, express or implied, except those mentioned in the preceding sections. 2. An action upon a liability created by statute, other than a penalty or forfeiture, unless some other time be mentioned in the statute creating it. 3. An action for trespass upon real property. If the trespass is a continuing one, an action must be commenced within three years from the original trespass. 4. An action for taking, detaining, converting, or injuring any goods or chattels, including action for their specific recovery. 5. An action for criminal conversation, or for any other injury to the person or rights of another not arising on contract, and not hereinafter enumerated. 6. An action against the sureties of any executor, administrator, collector, or guardian on the official bond of their principal, within three years after the breach thereof complained of. 7. An action against bail, within three years after judgment against the principal, but bail may discharge himself by a surrender of the principal at any time before final judgment against the bail. 8. Fees due to any clerk, sheriff, or other officer, by the judgment of the court, within three years from the time of the judgment rendered, or of the issue of the last execution thereof. 9. An action for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake in cases which heretofore were solely cognizable by courts of equity, the cause of action in such cases not to be deemed to have accrued until the discovery by the aggrieved party of the facts constituting such fraud or mistake. Within one year: 1. An action against a sheriff, coroner, or constable, or other public officer, for a trespass under color of his office. 2. An action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, where the action is given to the State alone, or in whole or in part to the party aggrieved, or to a common informer, except where the statute imposing it prescribed a different limitation. 3. An action for libel, assault, battery, or false imprisonment. 4. An action against a sheriff or other officer for the escape of a prisoner, arrested or imprisoned on civil process. Within six months, an action for slander. An action for relief not herein provided for must be commenced within ten years after the cause of action shall have accrued. The limitations prescribed in this synopsis shall apply to civil actions brought in the name of the State, or for its benefit, in the same manner as to actions by or for the benefit of private parties. In an action brought to recover a balance due upon a mutual, open, and current account, where there have been reciprocal demands between the parties, the cause of action shall be deemed to have accrued from the time of the latest item proved in the account on either side. The statute of limitations does not run against any judgment owing by the owner of a homestead as to such homestead, whether the same has been allotted or not. No acknowledgment or promise shall be received as evidence of a new or continuing contract whereby to take the case out of the operation of this title, unless the same be contained in some writing signed by the party to be charged thereby. But this shall not alter the effect of any payment of principal or interest. A personal representative is not obliged to plead the statute of limitations. If, when a cause of action accrues against any person, he shall be out of the State, an action may be commenced against him within the times fixed by law, as above set forth, after the return of such person into this State. If, after such a cause of action has accrued against anyone, he shall depart from and reside out of the State, or remain continuously absent therefrom for the space of one year or more, the time of his absence shall not be deemed or taken as any part of the time limited for the commencement of such action. The statute does not run in favor of an undisclosed partner until he becomes known to the plaintiff.

Married Women. A married woman may hold property free from the debts of her husband. But she can make no contract to affect her real or personal property, except for her necessary personal expenses, or for the support of her family, or to pay her antenuptial debts, without the consent in writing of her husband, unless she be a free trader. She can not dispose of her real property without her husband's consent, but she may devise her real estate without his consent. The liability of a femme sole for any debt owing or contract made, or for damages incurred by her before the marriage, shall not be impaired by such marriage. No man by marriage shall incur any liability for debts owing or contracts made, or for wrongs done by his wife before marriage. (See Deeds, Exemptions, and Free Traders.) Every married woman, upon the death of her husband intestate, or in case she shall dissent from his will, shall be entitled to an estate for her life in one-third in value of all the lands, tenements, and hereditaments whereof her husband was seized and possessed at any time during the coverture. A wife who murders her husband, forfeits her right to dower. Dower and homestead rights in the husband's lands are forfeited by her elopement with an adulterer, by her abandonment of her husband without just cause, and by a divorce a vinculo, or by a divorce a mensa et thoro granted at the suit of the husband. The widow is entitled to a year's support to be assigned her to the value of $300, and $100 in addition thereto for every member of the family, besides the widow, under fifteen years of age. Where the personal estate of the husband exceeds in value $2,000, a larger year's allowance may be made to the widow, in no case to exceed one-half the annual net income of the deceased for three years next preceding his death.

Mortgages. Mortgages and deeds of trust are required to be registered within six months and are only valid as against creditors or purchasers for a valuable consideration from the date of registration, but a mortgage is valid against the maker without registration. Mortgages of incorporate companies upon their property or earnings, whether in bonds or otherwise, hereafter issued, shall not have power to exempt the property or earnings of such corporations from execution for the satisfaction of any judgment obtained in courts of the State against such corporation, for labor performed nor for costs committed by such corporation, its agents or employees, whereby any person is killed or any person or property injured. When there are two or more mortgagees or trustees the survivor is authorized to execute power of sale in the mortgage or deed of trust, and so is the executor or administrator of a deceased mortgagee. When the mortgage or deed of trust contains a power of sale, it may be exercised after the death of the mortgagor. In case of sale of real estate in deed of trust or mortgage the premises must be described in the notice of sale subsequently as they are described in the deed of trust or mortgage, and the sale may be made through an agent or attorney for that purpose, appointed orally or in writing, whether the mortgagee or trustee be present or not. Any deed of trust or mortgage, which has been registered in the manner required by law, may be discharged and released in the following manner, to wit: The trustee or mortgagee, or his or her legal representative, or the duly authorized agent or attorney of such trustee, mortgagee, or legal representative may, in the presence of the register of deeds or his deputy, acknowledge the satisfaction of the provisions of such trust or mortgage, whereupon it shall be the duty of the register or his deputy forthwith to make upon the margin of the record of such deed or mortgage an entry of such acknowledgment of satisfaction, which shall be signed by the said trustee, mortgagee, or legal representative or attorney, and witnessed by the register or his deputy, who shall also affix his name thereto, and every such entry, thus acknowledged and witnessed, shall operate and have the same effect to release and discharge all the interest of such trustee, mortgagee, or representative in such deed or mortgage, as if a deed of release or conveyance thereto had been duly executed and recorded. Upon the exhibition of the mortgage, accompanied by the bond or note secured thereby, to the register of deeds, with the indorsement of payment and satisfaction thereon by the payee, assignee, or mortgagee, the register shall cancel the mortgage, by entry of satisfaction on the margin. The purchaser of real estate who does not pay the whole of the purchase money at the time when he takes the deed for title, may make a mortgage for securing the payment of such purchase money, or such part thereof as may remain unpaid, which shall be good and effectual against his wife as well as himself without requiring her to join in the execution of such mortgage.

Notes. (See Bills of Exchange.)

Suits. (See Actions.)

Supplementary Proceedings. Upon an affidavit showing: 1. The return of the execution unsatisfied in whole or in part. 2. The want of known property liable to execution. 3. The existence of property, choses in action, and things in value (belonging to the judgment debtor) unaffected by any lien, and incapable of levy, an order may be obtained for the examination of the judgment debtor concerning his property. Supplementary proceedings may likewise be instituted before the return of the execution upon an affidavit showing the foregoing facts, and also that the judgment debtor has property which he unjustly refuses to apply to the satisfaction of the judgment. Third parties may also be examined, if it appears by affidavit that they owe the defendant more than $10. Witnesses may be examined. Property discovered may be applied to the execution. A receiver may be appointed, and transfers by debtors enjoined.

Taxes. The lien of the State, county, and municipal taxes, levied for all purposes in each year attaches to all property subject to such taxes on the 1st day of June annually. All personal property subject to taxation shall be liable to be seized and sold for taxes. All taxes are due on the first Monday of September in each year. If the party charged has personal property of the value equal to the tax charged against him, the sheriff or tax collector shall seize and sell the same as he is required to sell other property under execution. If the party charged has not personal property to be found in the county, of sufficient value, the real estate of the delinquent shall be levied upon and sold. A sale is made to the person who will pay the amount of taxes with all the expenses for the smallest part of the land. The delinquent, his agent or attorney may retain possession of the property for twelve months after sale, and within that time redeem it by paying or tendering the purchaser the amount paid by him, and 20 per cent in addition thereto. When land is sold for taxes, the sheriff is required to give to the purchaser a certificate showing the sale. It may be foreclosed as a mortgage, provided proceedings for this purpose are begun within two years. The purchaser can demand a deed from the sheriff after the expiration of one year from the day of sale. Actions to recover land purchased for taxes must be brought within three years from the date of the sheriff's deed. A purchaser at tax sale gets a good title notwithstanding the land is not listed in the name of the owner, provided the owner has not paid the tax. A sheriff's deed is presumptive evidence that the property was subject to taxation, that the taxes were not paid, that the property conveyed has not been redeemed from the sale, that it has been listed and assessed, that the taxes were levied according to law, that the property was sold for taxes as stated in the deed, that notice has been made and due publication had before the time of redemption has expired. And it shall be conclusive evidence that the manner in which the listing, assessment, levy and sale were conducted in all respects as the law directed, that the grantee named in the deed was the purchaser, or his assignee and that the requisites of the law were complied with by all the officers connected with the listing and sale, except in regard to the points named above, wherein the deed shall be presumptive evidence only.

Wills. No last will or testament shall be good or sufficient in law to convey or give an estate, real or personal, unless such last will shall have been written in the testator's lifetime, and signed by him, or by some other person in his presence and by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least. No one of them shall be interested in the devise or bequest of the said estate, except as hereinafter provided. Or, unless, such last will and testament be found among the valuable papers and effects of any deceased person, or shall have been lodged in the hands of a person for safe keeping, and the same shall be in the handwriting of such deceased person, with his name subscribed thereto, or inserted in some part of such will; and if such handwriting shall be proved by three credible witnesses, who verily believe such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the person whose will it appears to be, then such will shall be sufficient to give and convey real and personal estate. No person shall be capable of disposing of real or personal estate by will, nor be allowed to qualify as executor of a will until he shall have attained the age of twenty-one years. A married woman owning real or personal property may dispose of the same by will. Children born after the making of the parent's will, and whose parents shall die without making any provision for them, shall be entitled to such shares and proportion of said parent's estate as if he or she had died intestate, and the right of any such afterborn child shall be a lien on every part of the parent's estate until his several share thereof is set apart. No person, on account of being an executor of a will, shall be incompetent to be admitted as a witness to prove the execution of such will, or to prove the validity or invalidity thereof. If any person shall attest the execution of any will to whom or to whose wife or husband any beneficial devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment of, or affecting any real or personal estate shall be thereby given or made, such devise, estate, interest, legacy, or appointment shall, so far as only concerns such person attesting the execution of such will, or the wife or husband of such person, or any person claiming under such person, or wife, or husband, be void; and such person so attesting shall be admitted as a witness to prove the execution of such will, or the validity or invalidity thereof. All nuncupative wills must be proved by at least two witnesses who were present when it was made, and who must state that they were especially requested to bear witness thereto by the testator himself. It must also be proved that such will was made in the testator's last sickness, in his own house, or where he had previously resided for at least ten days, unless he die on a journey or from home. Nor shall such will be proved by the witness after six months from the making thereof, unless it was put in writing within ten days from such making thereof; nor shall it be proved till a citation has been issued or publication made for six weeks in some newspaper, to call in the widow and the next of kin to contest it if they deem proper. A holograph will, or one altogether in the handwriting of the testator, must be proved by three witnesses, who must state that they believe that such will and every part thereof is in the handwriting of the testator, whose name must be signed to it or inserted in some portion of it. It must further appear that such will was found among the valuable papers of the testator, or was lodged in the hands of some person for safe keeping. Other wills, those ordinarily made, must be proved by two witnesses, and if one be dead or otherwise unable to testify, his handwriting and that of the testator must be proved.

An action may be commenced before the claim is due, and property of the defendant attached when he has assigned or disposed of his property with intent to defraud his creditors, or is about to do so. (See Garnishment.)

Banks. Associations for carrying on the business of banking may be formed by any number of natural persons not less than three, two-thirds of whom shall be residents of the State.

The persons uniting to form such an organization shall, under their hands, make an organization certificate, specifying:

1. The name assumed by such association, which shall not be that of any other bank in the State.
2. The place where the business of discount and deposit is to be carried on.
3. The amount of capital stock and the amount into which its shares are to be divided.

The organization certificate must be acknowledged and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in the county where such bank may be established, and transmitted to the secretary of State, who must record and preserve the same.

Upon making and filing said articles and certificate the association shall become a body corporate and have power:

1. To adopt and have a corporate seal.
2. To have succession for a period of twenty-five years.
3. To make contracts.
4. To sue and be sued, complain and defend in any court of law or equity.

1. Such as may be necessary for its immediate accommodation, not exceeding 30 per cent of its capital.
2. Such as shall be mortgaged to it as security for debts previously contracted, or as security for loans made, but no association shall carry among its assets such loans in excess of one-half its capital stock, and banks have no power to guarantee such loans when transferring same.
3. Such as shall be conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted.
4. Such as shall be purchased by it at sales under judgments, decrees, or mortgages held by it or to secure debts held by it, but such real estate shall not be held longer than five years.

Capital Limit. The minimum of capital required depends on the population of the town in which the bank is situated, and can not be less in any case than $5,000. Fifty per cent must be paid in before commencing business; the balance in monthly installments of 10 per cent each. The organization certificate and authorization of the secretary of State must be published.

Shares may be sold for non-payment of installments.

Shares shall be $100 each, shall be deemed personal property, and may be transferable on the books as prescribed by the by-laws, and transfer is only valid between parties when transferred on books.

The articles of association may provide for increase of capital. No increase shall be valid until all is paid in cash and certified under oath to secretary of State, and his approval thereof.

Dividends may be declared semi-annually, but one-tenth of net profits must be carried to the surplus fund until same amounts to 20 per cent of capital.

Qualifications of Directors. Every director must own at least ten shares in his own right, must be sworn, and oath filed with public examiner.

Reports. At least four reports shall be made each year to the public examiner and published, and the examiner is empowered to call for special reports at any time. Penalty of $200 for not making same.

Whenever such funds get below 20 per cent of deposits, liabilities must not be increased. Examiner may require reserve fund to be made good, and failure so to do for thirty days subjects to a penalty of not less than $100 nor over $500, to be imposed by public examiner.

Responsibility of Shareholders. Each shareholder shall be individually responsible, equally and ratably, for all contracts and debts to the extent of his stock and unpaid installments.

Security. No loans shall be made on security of shares of its own stock. Association can not purchase or hold such stock except to prevent loss.

Total Loan to One Concern. Not to exceed 15 per cent of capital paid in may be loaned to any one borrower, including the individual members of a company or firm.

No banking business can be done otherwise than under this law.

Violations of the provisions of the act, and false entries and the receipt of deposits when insolvent, are punished by fine and imprisonment.

Public examiner is ex-officio superintendent of banks.

If the bank is deemed insolvent the examiner may apply to the district court for the appointment of a receiver.

Bills of Lading. There is no legislation with reference to this subject.

Chattel Mortgages. A chattel mortgage must be subscribed by the mortgagor in the presence of two witnesses, and no other formality is required to entitle the mortgage to be filed. It is void against creditors of the mortgagor and subsequent purchasers and encumbrancers in good faith and for value unless filed in the office of the register of deeds, and will cease to be valid, as against creditors of the mortgagor and subsequent purchasers and encumbrancers in good faith, after the expiration of three years, unless within ninety days next preceding the expiration of such time, a copy of the mortgage with a sworn statement of the debt remaining be filed in the office of the register of deeds in which the original mortgage was filed. The term "creditor" in this connection is one who becomes a creditor after the making and before the filling of the mortgage. A chattel mortgage on property not yet acquired, or in existence, is valid, but as to crops is only valid on the crop next maturing after the delivery of the mortgage, except when it is given to secure the purchase price or rental of the premises upon which such crops are grown, in which case the mortgage may cover the crops for a period of years. Chattel mortgages containing power of sale may be foreclosed by advertisement during the life of the mortgagor; they may be foreclosed by action before or after his death. Mortgages on crops are foreclosed by sale of crop in any usual market, when mortgage contains stipulation for such foreclosure. The interest of the mortgagor in mortgaged property may be sold on execution. A chattel mortgage, taken by an insurance company to secure the payment of premiums, is void, unless on a paper separate from the application.

Collaterals. There are no statutory provisions with reference to collaterals.

Contracts. The civil code contains a codification of the law on the subject of contracts, not materially different from the rules of the common law.

Conveyances. Conveyances of real estate or mortgages thereof, must be by an instrument in writing, subscribed by the party disposing of the same, or by his agent having written authority. To entitle such conveyance to be recorded, it must be acknowledged as provided by law. (See Acknowledgments.) Witnesses or seals are not required. Instrument must be recorded to make it valid as against subsequent purchasers or incumbrancers in good faith for value where conveyances are first duly recorded. Husband need not sign conveyance of wife's property, nor wife that of husband's, unless it is a homestead.

Corporations. Corporations may be formed for any purpose for which persons may lawfully associate, and, except railroads and insurance companies, may be formed by the association of three persons, and the proper filing of articles of incorporation. Transfers of stock must be made upon the books of a corporation, and are only valid as between the parties unless so made. A creditor of a corporation having secured judgment, issued execution against the corporation thereon, may, when the same is returned unsatisfied, have a receiver appointed for the property of the corporation, and the district court is then empowered to distribute the property of the corporation among its creditors, and a settlement of the judgment, which is the basis of the proceedings, does not prevent the continuance of the action, which may be continued by any creditor. Corporations may also be dissolved by action on the part of the State, or in case the attorney general fails to commence action after proper application, by action on the part of the creditor or stockholder. Foreign corporations are prohibited from transacting any business in this State, acquiring, holding, or disposing of any property, real or personal, until they have filed in the office of the secretary of State a copy of their articles of incorporation, together with a power of attorney, appointing the secretary of State and his successors their attorney, on whom process may be served. Insurance corporations must file such power of attorney and articles in the office of the insurance commissioner. All contracts made by a corporation or its agent, while it is in default in the filing of such papers, are wholly void as to the corporation, but may be enforced against it, and the directors and stockholders are personally liable on such contracts. Insurance companies must have $100,000 capital paid in cash. Conveyances or other instruments affecting real estate may be executed by any officer authorized by the by-laws of the corporation, and in the absence of such by-laws, the president or secretary of such corporation, or the president, secretary, or cashier of any banking house, or trust company, may acknowledge and execute such instrument, who must sign the corporate name by himself as such officer, and it must be attested by the seal and signature of the secretary.

Courts. There are seven judicial districts. The district courts have exclusive jurisdiction in equity and at common law above $200, and where the title or boundary of real property is in question. Two terms of district court are held each year in all organized counties. Each organized county has a county court, and the county courts have exclusive probate jurisdiction. Justices' jurisdiction is $200.

Days of Grace are not allowed.

Depositions. Depositions may be taken upon commission issued by a court of record, or upon notice, which latter is the usual method. The deposition must be written by the officer or in his presence by the witness, or some disinterested person, and must be subscribed by the witness. The officer taking the deposition must annex thereto his certificate showing: 1. That the witness was sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. 2. That the deposition was reduced to writing by some proper person, naming him. 3. That the deposition was written and subscribed in the presence of the officer certifying thereto. 4. That the deposition was taken at the time and place specified in the notice. The deposition so taken must be sealed, endorsed with the title of the cause, with the name of the officer taking the same, and by him addressed and transmitted to the clerk of the district court where action or proceeding is pending.

Descent and Distribution of Property. 1. If a decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife and child, or issue of such child. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and more than one child living, or one child living, and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third to the surviving husband or wife, and the remainder in equal shares to his children, and to the lawful issue of any deceased child, by right of representation; but if there be no child of the decedent living at his death, the remainder goes to all of his lineal descendants; and if all the descendants are in the same degree of kindred to the decedent, they share equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation. If the decedent leave no surviving husband or wife, but leaves issue, the whole estate goes to such issue, and if such issue consists of more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, then the estate goes in equal shares to the children living, or to the children living and the issue of the deceased child or children by right of representation. 2. If the decedent leave no issue, and the estate does not exceed in value the sum of $5,000, all the estate goes to the surviving husband or wife, and all the property in excess of $5,000 in value, one-half thereof goes to the surviving husband or wife, and the other one-half goes to decedent's father, and if he be dead, then to the decedent's mother. If the decedent leave no issue, nor husband, nor wife, the estate must go to the father, and if he be dead, then to the mother. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and no issue, and no father nor mother, nor brother, nor sister, the whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife. 3. If there be no issue, nor husband, nor wife, nor father, nor mother, then in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the decedent, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation. 4. If the decedent leave no issue, nor husband, nor wife, nor father, and no brother or sister is living at the time of his death, the estate goes to his mother to the exclusion of the issue, if any, of deceased brothers or sisters. 5. If the decedent leave no issue, nor husband, nor wife, and no father, nor mother, nor brother, nor sister, the estate must go to the next of kin, in equal degree, excepting that when there are two or more collateral kindred, in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestors must be preferred to those claiming to an ancestor more remote. However, if the decedent leave several children, or one child and the issue of one or more children, and any such surviving child dies under age, and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such decedent, descends in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who are dead, by right of representation. 6. If, at the death of such child, who dies under age, not having been married, all the other children of the parents are also dead, and any of them have left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his parents descends to the issue of all other children of the same parent; and if all issue are in the same degree of kindred to the child, they share the estate equally, otherwise they take according to the right of representation.

Divorce. Divorce can be granted for any of the following causes: 1. Adultery. 2. Extreme cruelty. 3. Willful desertion. 4. Willful neglect. 5. Habitual intemperance. 6. Conviction for felony. 7. Incurable insanity continuing for two years with confinement in the hospital for the insane. Willful desertion, willful neglect, and habitual intemperance must continue for one year before either is a ground for divorce. Service of summons is made and judgment taken as in other cases. (See Actions.) Corroborative evidence is required and may be taken by deposition. Plaintiff must have been a resident in good faith for one year before commencement of action.

Dower. Dower is abolished.

Executions. Judgment creditor may take out execution at any time within ten years after judgment or the return of previous execution. Real property sold on execution may be redeemed within one year.

Exemptions. Absolute exemptions are family pictures, pew in house of worship, a lot or lots in burial ground, family bible and school books used by the family and other books used as a part of the family library, and not exceeding $100 in value, all wearing apparel and clothing of debtor and his family, one year's necessary supply of provisions for debtor and family, provided or growing, or both, and one year's fuel, and the homestead, not exceeding $5,000 in value, except against mechanics' or laborers' liens thereon, debts secured by mortgage thereon, debts for purchase money thereof, and taxes thereon. Husband and wife must join in conveyance of homestead of either. In addition to said absolute exemptions, debtor may select from all other of his personal property, goods, chattels, merchandise, money or other personal property up to $1,500 in value, to be ascertained by appraisal. No personal property, except absolute exemptions, is exempt from execution for laborers' or mechanics' wages (or physicians' bills after six months), or for property obtained under false pretenses. No property is exempt from execution for the purchase money thereof.

Fraud. Contracts exempting from responsibility for fraud are declared by statute to be void.

Garnishment. A creditor may proceed by garnishment. No judgment can be rendered against a garnishee on: 1. Upon a negotiable note, bill, draft, note or other security. 2. By reason of money collected by him as sheriff or other officer. 3. By reason of money in his hands as a public officer, for which he must account to the defendant as a public officer. 4. By reason of money, or other thing, owing from him to the defendant which shall not have become absolutely due, but judgment may be rendered for any money or other thing owing to the defendant after it shall have become due absolutely.

Holidays. Holidays are every Sunday, January 1st, February 12th, February 22d, May 30th, July 4th, December 25th, every day on which an election is held throughout the State, and every day appointed by the president of the United States, or by the governor of the State, for a public fast, thanksgiving, or holiday. If January 1st, February 22d, July 4th, or December 25th, falls upon Sunday, the Monday following is a holiday. All other days are business days, and any act of a secular nature appointed by law or contract to be performed upon a particular day, which day falls upon a holiday, may be performed upon the next business day, with the same force and effect as if it had been performed upon the day appointed.

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Insolvency. Any person residing in this State and owing debts, provable in insolvency, to the amount of $500 may petition the district court of the county in which he resides for a discharge from his debts. He must submit a schedule of all his creditors, the sums owing each, a full and true inventory of all his estate. The court thereupon directs notice given to all creditors. Insolvency proceedings may be commenced by one or more creditors against a debtor. 1. Who departs from this State with intent to defraud his creditors, or being absent remains absent with such intent. 2. Who conceals himself to avoid the service of legal process. 3. Who conceals any of his property to avoid its being seized on legal process. 4. Who transfers any of his property with intent to defraud, hinder or delay his creditors. 5. Who being insolvent, or being in contemplation of insolvency, makes any payment, gifts, grant, sale, conveyance or transfer of his property, or procures or suffers a judgment to be obtained against him, or procures or suffers his property to be taken on legal process with intent to give preferences to creditors, or who has suffered an execution of $500 or more to be returned unsatisfied, or being a merchant or tradesman has suspended and not resumed payment of commercial paper for thirty days for $500 or more. The majority of creditors in value select the assignee. The assignee must convert the property into money under the supervision of the court, and distribute the proceeds, pro rata, among the creditors in the order of preference provided by statute. Within eighteen months after the first dividend the assignee must make a second and final dividend. After the estate is closed, debtor may be discharged by order of the court from his debts. No such discharge is valid if debtor has sworn falsely in his inventory attached to the schedule, or if after the presentation of petition in insolvency he shall in any way transfer any of his property or collect any debts due to him, and shall not give a just account of it, or if he shall secrete any part of his estate, or any books or writing relative thereto, or fraudulently conceal the names of his creditors, or the amount due any of them, or if he shall pay or consent to the payment of any portion of the debt or demand of any of his creditors, or shall grant or consent to the granting of any gift or award to any such creditor, upon any express or implied contract or trust that the creditors so paid, or rewarded, should abstain, or desist, from opposing the discharge of such insolvent, or if he shall be guilty of any fraud whatever in the insolvency proceedings. (Superseded by National Bankrupt Law.)

Interest. Usury. The legal rate of interest is 7 per cent per annum, unless a different rate, not exceeding 12 per cent, is contracted for in writing, and contracts shall bear the same rate after as before due, unless otherwise expressed. It is usury to take more than 12 per cent per annum. A contract for usury forfeits all interest. If usury has been paid, twice the amount of interest and usury may be recovered back by action commenced within two years.

Judgments of courts of record are a lien on all real estate of the judgment debtor, except the homestead, for ten years from time such judgment is docketed in the clerk's office of the county where the land is situated.

Liens. Mechanics, laborers, and furnishers of material, machinery, or fixtures for improvement of real estate, have a lien therefor and must file a verified account of the claim, within ninety days from the date of the last item, in the office of the clerk of the district court.

Limitations. An action by the State of North Dakota respecting real property must be commenced within forty years. An action for the recovery of real property or the possession thereof must be commenced within twenty years. Actions other than for the recovery of real property can only be commenced within the following periods after the cause of action shall have accrued: 1. Within ten years: an action upon a judgment or decree of any court in the United States, or of any State or Territory within the United States, or on contract contained in conveyance or mortgage of real property. 2. Within six years: actions upon a contract, obligation or liability, express or implied. 3. Within three years: an action against an officer for breach of official duty. 4. Within one year: all actions against a sheriff or other officer for the escape of a prisoner arrested or imprisoned on civil process. 5. All other actions for relief in ten years. No acknowledgment or promise is sufficient evidence of a new or continued contract whereby to take the case out of the operation of the statute of limitation, unless the same be in writing, signed by the party to be charged thereby; but this does not alter the effect of any payment of principal or interest.

Married Women retain their own real and personal property, and may make contracts, sue and be sued as if sole. Neither husband nor wife has an interest in the property of the other except under the statute relating to the homestead; but neither can be excluded from the other's dwelling. They may enter into any engagement or transaction with each other, subject to the general rules which control the actions of persons occupying confidential relations with each other. Dower and curtesy are abolished. Neither husband nor wife, as such, is answerable for the acts of the other. The earnings of the wife are not liable for the debts of the husband. The separate property of the husband is not liable for wife's debts contracted before marriage; nor separate property of wife for husband's debts, but is liable for her own debts contracted before or after marriage. Women may be notaries public.

Mortgages of real property must be in writing, and executed as required in case of a grant of real property. Neither husband nor wife need join the other in mortgage except of homestead. If containing power of sale, mortgage of real property may be foreclosed by advertisement. If no power of sale in the mortgage, it must be foreclosed by action. Mortgagor may redeem from foreclosure sale within one year on payment of the sum for which the property is sold, with 12 per cent interest thereon from date of sale, and also all taxes paid by the purchaser and interest thereon at 12 per cent. Possession of real property sold upon foreclosure not delivered to purchaser until end of year of redemption, but purchaser may collect rents from tenant in possession during year of redemption. (See Chattel Mortgages.)

Negotiable Instruments. The civil code designates six classes of negotiable instruments: 1. Bills of exchange. 2. Promissory notes. 3. Bank notes. 4. Checks. 5. Bonds. 6 Certificates of deposit. When no time of payment is specified, they are payable immediately. When no place of payment is specified, they are payable at the residence or place of business, or wherever maker may be found. Bill or note maturing on a holiday becomes due on next business day. The apparent maturity of a bill of exchange payable at sight or on demand is, if it bears interest, one year after its date; if it does not bear interest, ten days after its date, in addition to sufficient time to forward it for acceptance. The apparent maturity of a note payable at sight or on demand, if it bears interest, is one year after its date; if it does not bear interest, six months after its date. A note payable at a certain time after sight or demand, such time is to be added to last named periods. Acceptance of a bill must be made in writing by the drawee or an acceptor for honor. To hold indorser, the instrument must be presented at maturity and notice of dishonor given. A negotiable instrument may contain an agreement to pay the current rate of exchange. A note made after July 1, 1899, payable at a bank is equivalent to an order to the bank to pay the same for account of the maker. (See Days of Grace.)

Powers of Attorney. Powers of attorney to convey real estate must be acknowledged and recorded, and can only be revoked by an instrument in writing acknowledged and recorded in the same office in which the power of attorney is recorded.

Probate Law. (See Administration of Estates, Descent and Distribution of Property.) The county court has exclusive original jurisdiction of all probate matters. A special administrator may be appointed to preserve and collect the property of the estate when there is delay in the appointment of an executor or administrator. Claims must be presented within the time fixed by law, which is six months after notice if the estate exceeds $5,000, and four months if it does not, and all claims not properly presented and filed in the county court for adjustment are barred, but the court may, for good cause shown, allow a claim to be filed after the expiration of the time stated in the notice. The provision barring claims does not prevent the foreclosure of a mortgage or other lien on specific property by civil action, and does not prevent the foreclosure of the real estate mortgage by advertisement prior to the time the county court obtains jurisdiction of the estate of the mortgagor. If a claim is rejected, the claimant may have a citation issue to the executor or administrator, and the question of the allowance or rejection of the claim is then tried in the county court, and a decree may be made, allowing or rejecting such claim, from which an appeal lies to the district court, where the matter is tried anew. No claim barred by the statute of limitation can be allowed. An executor or administrator, unless otherwise provided in the will, must give bond. Real and personal property is equally liable for the payment of the debts. The executor or administrator must take into his possession all the property of the decedent, real and personal, except the homestead and personal property not assets.

Protest. Notice of dishonor of a foreign bill of exchange can be given only by notice of protest. An inland bill of exchange is one drawn and payable within this State; all others are foreign. Notice of protest must be made by an instrument in writing, giving a literal copy of the bill of exchange with all that is written thereon, or annexing the original, stating the presentment and the manner in which it was made, the presence or absence of the drawee or acceptor, as the case may be; the refusal to accept or to pay, or the inability of the drawee to give a binding acceptance; and in case of refusal, the reason assigned, if any, and finally protesting against all parties to be charged. Protest must be made by a notary public, if with reasonable diligence one can be obtained, and if not, then by any reputable person in the presence of two witnesses. A protest for non-acceptance must be made in the city or town in which the bill is presented for acceptance, and a protest for non-payment in the city or town in which it is presented for payment. A protest must be noted on the day of the presentment, or on the next business-day, but it may be written out at any time thereafter. Notice of protest must be made and given by the notary who makes the protest. If a foreign bill of exchange on its face waives protest, notice of dishonor may be given to any party thereto, except that if any indorser of such a bill expressly requires protest to be made, by a direction written on the bill at or before the indorsement, protest must be made, and notice thereof given to him and all subsequent indorsers.

Replevin. Personal property may be replevied at the time the summons is issued, or at any time before answer. An undertaking approved by the sheriff must be given in double the value of the property.

Suits. (See Actions.)

Taxes become due and payable on the first day of November in each year. All unpaid taxes on real property become delinquent February 1st of each year. Unpaid taxes on personal property become delinquent November 1st of each year. Personal property taxes draw interest at the rate of one per cent per month after they become delinquent. A penalty of 5 per cent attaches to personal property taxes as soon as they become delinquent. A penalty of 3 per cent is added to taxes on real property when they become delinquent, and also if unpaid an additional penalty of 3 per cent on the first day of March following, an additional penalty of 3 per cent on the first day of June following, and a further penalty of 5 per cent on the first day of November following. The county treasurer sells lands for unpaid taxes on the first Tuesday in December in each year. Lands sold for taxes may be redeemed within three years or at any time before execution of the deed of conveyance, by paying the amount mentioned in the certificate of sale, and interest thereon at 2 per cent per month from the date of purchase, together with a penalty of 5 per cent and all other taxes paid subsequent to said sale, and interest thereon at the same rate. Taxes become a lien as between grantor and grantee on the first day of December in the year levied. No deed of land can be recorded without county auditor's certificate thereon that all taxes are paid.

Transfer of Corporate Stocks. (See Corporations.)

Wills. Every person over the age of eighteen years, of sound mind, may, by last will, dispose of all his estate, real and personal. An holographic will is one entirely written, dated, and signed by the hand of the testator himself. It is subject to no other form, and may be made in or out of this State, and need not be witnessed. Every will, other than a nuncupative will, must be in writing. The words "writing" and "written" include "printing" and "printed," except in case of signatures, and where the words are used by way of contrast to printing. Writing may be made in any manner, except that when a person entitled to require the execution of a writing demands that it be made with ink, it must be so made. This applies to all instruments and papers. Every will, other than an holographic will and nuncupative will, must be executed and attested as follows: It must be subscribed at the end thereof by the testator himself, or some person in his presence, and by his direction must subscribe his name thereto; the subscription must be made in the presence of the attesting witnesses, or be acknowledged by the testator to them to have been made by him or by his authority. The testator must, at the time of subscribing or acknowledging the same, declare to the attesting witnesses that the instrument is his will; and there must be two attesting witnesses, each of whom must sign his name as a witness at the end of the will, at the testator's request and in his presence. A witness to a written will must write, with his name, the place of residence; and a person who subscribes the testator's name, by his direction, must write his own name as a witness to the will. But a violation of this section does not affect the validity of the will. A will of real or personal property, or both, or a revocation thereof, made out of this State by a person not having his domicile in this State, is as valid, when executed according to the law of the place in which the same was made, or in which the testator was at the time domiciled, as if it were made in this State and according to the provisions of the laws of this State. No provisions made for proof of wills made out of the State different from those made within. A married woman may dispose of all her separate estate by will, without the consent of her husband, and may alter or revoke the will in like manner as if she were single. Her will must be executed and proved in like manner as other wills. A will executed by an unmarried woman is revoked by her subsequent marriage, and is not revived by the death of her husband. A foreign will may be admitteed to probate, upon the production of a copy of the same, and the probate thereof duly authenticated with a petition for letters, by the executor, or any other person interested in the will, to the county judge, and the same proceedings must be had for the settlement of the estate as in the probate of a domestic will.

Appeals. Appeal will lie from a justice of the peace to court of common pleas of same county if judgment is greater in amount than $20, although case was tried to a jury in justice court. Will lie if amount under $20, and case not tried to a jury. The party desiring to appeal must within ten days after judgment give a bond to prosecute the appeal, and if judgment rendered against him, to pay the judgment and costs. A transcript of the proceedings before the justice must be filed with the clerk of the court of common pleas on or before the thirtieth day after rendition of the judgment. From the court of common pleas to the circuit court of the same county from a judgment or final order in a civil action, if the right to demand a jury in such action did not exist in the common pleas court; also from an interlocutory order dissolving an injunction. The party desiring to appeal must, within three days from the rendition of judgment or order, enter on the records a notice of his intention to appeal, and within thirty days give bond. Appeals also lie from probate court to court of common pleas in certain cases.

Arbitration. Any controversy, except concerning the possession or title to real estate, may be submitted to arbitration, and parties may enter into bonds to abide the award. Legal process may issue to compel attendance of witnesses. Oaths to witnesses may be administered by a judge or justice of the peace. The award shall be in writing and signed by arbitrators, or a majority of them. The award may be filed in the court named in the bond, or in the court of common pleas in the county where award is had, and court at the next term after the same is filed, if no exceptions taken, and the award is for the payment of money, may enter a judgment thereon. If the award is for the performance of something other than the payment of money, the party disobeying is liable to punishment as for a contempt. Award may be set aside for fraud, corruption, etc. Controversies before justices of the peace may be referred to arbitration, proceedings substantially as above. Upon petition court of common pleas may appoint arbitrators to settle trade disputes. The court of common pleas may appoint arbitrators to fix value of stock of dissenting stockholder in a railroad company, when property sold or leased to another company.

Arrest. Arrest before Judgment. The defendant in a civil action can be arrested before judgment, when there is filed with the clerk of the court an affidavit stating the nature of the plaintiff's claim; that it is just, and the amount thereof, and setting forth one or more of the following particulars: 1. That defendant with intent to defraud his creditors is removing, or about to remove, any of his property out of the jurisdiction of the court. 2. Converting his property into money, for the purpose of placing same beyond the reach of his creditors. 3. That he has property or rights in action which he fraudulently conceals. 4. Assigned, removed, etc., his property, with intent to defraud his creditors. 5. That he fraudulently contracted the debt. 6. That the money sought to be recovered was lost at gaming. Before order of arrest, bond must be given. After arrest, defendant may give bail. Arrest after Judgment. An execution against the person of the defendant for the payment of money may issue when affidavit sets forth any of the causes above enumerated by arrest before judgment. No bond required herein. Females and officers and soldiers of the revolutionary war exempt from arrest on claims arising on contract.

Assignments. An insolvent debtor may make an assignment in trust for the benefit of creditors, which takes effect from the time of filing in probate court. Assignee must, within ten days after delivery of assignment to him, produce the original assignment, or copy thereof, in the probate court, file same and enter into a bond in such sum and with such sureties as court shall approve. The court shall appoint three disinterested persons, who shall make an appraisal of the property and assets of the assignor. Assignee shall within thirty days make an inventory under oath of all the property of the assignor coming to his knowledge. Notice of appointment, for three successive weeks, in newspaper of general circulation, shall be given after bond entered into, and creditor shall within six months after publication of notice present claim with affidavit that said claim is just and lawful, the consideration thereof, and what, if any, set-offs or counter-claims exist thereto; what collateral or personal security, if any, the claimant holds for same, or that he has no security whatever. Any surety or person jointly liable with assignor is allowed to present and prove his claim on which he is bound. Suit must be brought on rejected claims within thirty days. Assignee shall, at the expiration of eight months, file a statement of his doings, in the probate court, and as often thereafter as the court may require. Assignment made in contemplation of insolvency, with intent to prefer one or more creditors, inures to the benefit of all creditors. Assignment made with intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors, shall be declared void at the suit of any creditor, and such assignment, after having been declared void, or a preferred assignment, is cause for the appointment of trustee. No assignment shall be construed to include property exempt, unless the exemption is expressly waived. Preferred claims are: Taxes of every description assessed against assignor, and wages for all labor performed by any one in the assignor's service within twelve months preceding the assignment, not exceeding $300. The assignment in no way releases assignor from liability for the full amount of the claim due. An assignee may be removed for cause by probate court. In such case a trustee may be elected by a majority in value of creditors present attended by at least 50 per cent in value of creditors.

Attachment in a civil action for the recovery of money may be had when defendant is a foreign corporation, not authorized to do business in Ohio, or has absconded or concealed himself, or is about to remove, convert or assign, or has concealed his property with intent to defraud creditors, or where the debt was fraudulently or criminally contracted, that the claim is for work, or labor, or necessities, non-residence is ground of attachment. Plaintiff must give bond in double the amount at issue, except where defendant is a non-resident or a foreign corporation, when a bond is not required. An attachment against a non-resident or a foreign corporation shall not be granted, on a claim other than a demand arising out of contract, or for causing death, or personal injury by a negligent or wrongful act. Garnishee process may be had in aid of attachment against any debtor of the defendant. If the answer of the garnishee is not satisfactory, the plaintiff may proceed against him in a civil action. A citizen of this State may be enjoined from prosecuting an attachment in another State against a citizen of this State, to subject to the payment of his claim the earnings of the debtor, which by the laws of this State are exempt from being applied to the payment of such claim. Attachment before debt due. A creditor may bring an action on his claim before it is due and have an attachment against the property of his debtor: 1. When a debtor has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property with the fraudulent intent to cheat or defraud his creditors, or to hinder or delay them in the collection of their debts. 2. Is about to make such sale, conveyance or disposition of his property with such fraudulent intent. 3. Is about to remove his property, or a material part thereof, with the intent to cheat and defraud his creditors, or to hinder and delay them in the collection of their debts. The plaintiff must give bond as in other cases of attachment, and must by himself, his agent or attorney, before the action is brought or attachment issued, make an oath in writing, showing the nature and amount of his claim; that it is just, when it will become due, and the existence of any of the grounds above mentioned.

Attorneys, Power of. (See Powers of Attorney.)

Banks. The question of State banking is of very little importance in this State, although it occupies fifty-two pages of the Revised Statutes, sections 7476-7650. There are provisions for a "State bank" and branches, "independent banking companies" and "free banking." The Revised Statutes, sections 3817-18, provide: "Every banking institution or corporation engaged in the business of banking, organized under the laws of this State, shall make a report to the auditor of the State, showing the condition at the opening of business on the first Monday of April and October of each year." The report must be verified by oath or affirmation of the officers, and published in a newspaper. There is no examiner for the State banks. Article XIII, section 7, of the constitution, says: "No act of the general assembly authorizing associations with banking powers shall take effect until it shall be submitted to the people at the general election next succeeding the passage thereof, and be approved by a majority of all the electors voting at such election." This has been held to apply only to banks of issue. Savings and loan associations may invest their funds in the purchase of stocks, bonds, or other evidences of the indebtedness of the United States, stocks and bonds of the State of Ohio, bonds of any municipal corporation of this State, or school bonds of any municipal corporation, special school district, or body politic in this State, issued pursuant to law, to such an amount as may be deemed proper; or in bonds issued by county commissioners within this State in pursuance of law; or the stocks or bonds of any State of the United States that has for five years, immediately preceding such investment, paid the interest on its bonded debt in lawful money of the United States; but no such association shall at any time have an investment of a greater amount than one-tenth of its paid-in capital in either of the last two named securities; or in bonds or notes secured by mortgages on unincumbered real estate situate in the county where the association is located, or in an adjoining county in this State, worth, exclusive of buildings, at least double the amount loaned thereon. There is no bank of issue in Ohio.

Bills and Notes. (See Notes and Bills.)

Bills of Lading. Bills of lading are negotiable, and if made to "bearer," the transfer by delivery conveys title. Executing or delivering, indorsing or assigning, a false or fictitious bill of lading, with intent to defraud, or attempting so to do, is punishable by imprisonment in penitentiary not more than four nor less than one year.

Chattel Mortgages. A chattel mortgage or conveyance of personal property not accompanied by immediate possession is not good as against creditors, unless the mortgage, or a copy thereof, be filed with the township clerk where the mortgagor resides, or if mortgagor is a non-resident, then with the clerk of the township where the property is situated. Oath of the mortgagee, his agent or attorney, must be attached, showing the amount due thereon. If amount not paid, mortgage must be refiled within thirty days before the expiration of a year from the original filing, and a new affidavit showing the amount then due. It is a criminal offense to sell, secrete, or remove mortgaged property, chattel mortgages on necessary household goods, wearing apparel or mechanics' tools, except to secure purchase price, must be foreclosed in a court of record.

Conditional Sales. Where personal property is sold to any one to be paid for in installments, or is hired, rented, or delivered to any person upon condition that title shall pass on payment in full, but until payment title to remain in vendor, such condition shall be void as to creditors, etc., unless executed, verified, and filed, as required for chattel mortgages. The vendor can not retake possession of the property without tendering or paying at least 50 per cent of the sums so paid on said property, less any damage or breakage, and taking without such payment or tender is a misdemeanor.

Consignments. A carrier, warehouse man, factor, storage, forwarding or commission merchant, or his clerk, agent, or employe, who, with intent to defraud, in any way disposes of or converts to his own use any bill of lading, custom-house permit, or warehouse keeper's receipt entrusted to or possessed by him, or any property entrusted or consigned to him, or the proceeds of the sale of such property, or the profits, product, or result thereof, shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary.

Conveyances. (See Deeds.)

Corporations, Domestic. Domestic corporations formed under general laws and for any purpose except professional business. Articles of incorporation are filed with the secretary of State, and in general must state: 1. Name of the corporation. 2. The place where it is to be located, or its principal business is to be transacted. 3. The purpose for which it is or to be formed. 4. Amount of the capital stock, if any, and the number of shares. Articles must be signed by five persons, a majority of whom must be citizens of the State; must be acknowledged before an officer whose official character must be certified to by the clerk of the court of common pleas. Above corporations are divided in those for profit and not for profit. Each corporation for profit must have not less than five, nor more than fifteen directors. A majority of directors must be citizens of the State, and each director must be a holder of stock. Stock in a corporation is deemed personal property. Stockholders in a corporation are liable in addition to their stock in an amount equal to the stock by them subscribed, or otherwise held, to secure creditors. A suit against the stockholders to subject their liability to creditors may be brought by one creditor for the benefit of all. The capital stock of a corporation may be increased by a vote of the majority of the stock, after thirty days' notice in writing, or by assent in writing of three-fourths of the stock in both number of shares and amount. Fee for incorporation is one-tenth of 1 per cent on the capital stock. Trustees of a corporation not for profit are personally liable for debts of the corporation by them created. There are special provisions for incorporating union depot companies, insurance and mutual benefit companies, agricultural societies, humane societies, savings and loan associations, and corporations for dealing in real estate.

Foreign Corporations. No foreign corporation, except a banking or insurance company, shall do business in this State without obtaining a certificate from the secretary of State that it has complied with the laws of this State regulating such. In order to obtain such certificate, each foreign corporation must file a sworn copy of its charter, together with a statement of the amount of capital stock, the business or objects of the corporation, and fix a place in the State of Ohio where it is to have its principal place of business, and designating a person in this State upon whom process can be served, such designation to continue until revoked in writing. Fees paid secretary of State for such certificate vary from $15 to $50, according to amount of capital stock. Failure to obtain such certificate forfeits the right to sue upon any contract in this State. Corporations incorporated under the laws of another State, and having principal place of business in Ohio, shall file a statement with secretary of State showing the amount of its capital stock, and as a tax, shall pay annually a sum equal to one tenth of 1 per cent upon its authorized capital. Non-compliance forfeits all rights to maintain actions on contract in this State. Upon compliance such corporations are not subject to process of attachment on the ground of non-residence

Interest is computed upon judgments and decrees at the rate specified in the instrument upon which said judgment or decree is rendered. Interest is not recoverable on open running accounts, when there are no circumstances from which an agreement to allow interest can be inferred, and there has been no vexatious delay of payment. Open accounts draw interest after statement is made and account rendered. Interest from and after maturity may be allowed on items of wages or salary, payable monthly.

Said lien shall remain six years from and after the filing thereof, but if an action is brought within that time to enforce the lien, the same shall continue in force until final adjudication. Liens are also given to persons who furnish material for the construction of roads, side-walks, ditches, drains, etc. Sub-contractors, laborers, and material-men may obtain a lien for work done, and their liens are prior to the lien of the principal contractor, but have no priority among themselves. In case of dispute as to amount of claim or lien, the same may be submitted to arbitration. Total amount of lien shall not exceed the value agreed upon between head contractor and owner, except in case of fraud.

When made to bearer, delivery transfers title. Bill of lading does not alter rights or obligations of carrier unless plainly inconsistent therewith. Carrier is exonerated from liability by delivery, in good faith, of freight, to any holder of a bill of lading therefor, properly endorsed or made in favor of the bearer. Carrier may demand surrender of bill of lading given, or reasonable indemnity, before delivering freight.

Any benefit conferred, or agreed to be conferred upon the promissor by any other person, to which the promissor is not lawfully entitled, or any prejudice suffered or agreed to be suffered by such person, other than such as he is at the time of consent lawfully bound to suffer, as an inducement to the promissor, is a good consideration for a promise. Provisions of the statute of frauds are in force. (See Holidays, Judgments.)

The incorporation or corporate rights shall not be inquired into collaterally, but such inquiry may be had and action brought at the suit of the Territory. Each stockholder is individually liable for the debts of the corporation to the extent of the amount that is unpaid upon the stock held by him at the time action is commenced against him. The term stockholder applies as well to every equitable owner, and to every person who has advanced the installment or purchase money in the name of a minor. Stock held as collateral security, or by a trustee, or in any other representative capacity, does not make the holder a stockholder within the meaning of these provisions, except as mentioned. Capital stock may be increased by compliance with law, but excess of stock over charter limit is invalid. Corporations may be dissolved: 1. By expiration of a time named in the articles of incorporation; 2. Involuntarily, by judgment on account of neglect, abuse, or surrender. 3. Voluntarily, by the district court, upon application, setting forth compliance with statutory requirements, which may be resisted by any person and trial had. But neither the probate nor justice's court has jurisdiction of actions upon real estate contracts, libel and slander, mis-conduct in office, or malicious prosecution. The district court has general jurisdiction. It has also the jurisdiction of the United States district and circuit courts. The district court judges are justices of the supreme court. Terms of the district court are fixed by the supreme court. Probate court has a regular term every other month, commencing with January of each year. Justice court is always in session.

May be taken upon written notice, specifying the action, or proceeding, the name of the court in which it is to be used, and the time and place of taking the same, which notice shall be served upon the adverse party, or his attorney. The notice must be served so as to allow the adverse party sufficient time, by the usual route of travel to attend, and one day for preparation, exclusive of Sunday and the day of service; and the examination may, if so stated in the notice, be adjourned from day to day. Deposition, after taken, must be sealed, indorsed with the title of the case and the name of the officer taking same, and addressed to the clerk of the court where the action is pending, and must be on file at least one day before the day of trial. The fees of the officer should be indorsed on the deposition, which may be retained until they are paid, and it should be shown by whom paid. The court, or judge, may grant a commission to take depositions, but same must then be taken upon written interrogatories.

Descent and Distribution of Property. (See Wills.) Property, not disposed of by will, descends as follows: 1. If decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and one child, in equal shares to surviving husband or wife, and child, or issue of child; if more than one child, then one-third to surviving husband or wife, and in equal shares to children, or issue. But if there be no child of the decedent living at his death, the remainder goes to all his lineal descendants. If decedent leave no surviving husband or wife, but leaves issue, the whole estate descends equally to children, or issue thereof. 2. If decedent leave no issue, estate goes in equal shares to surviving husband or wife, and to decedent's father; if no father, then one-half goes in equal shares to brothers and sisters of decedent or their children. If he leave a mother, also, she takes an equal share with brothers and sisters. If decedent leave no issue, nor husband nor wife, the estate must go to the father. 3. If there be no issue, nor husband, nor wife, nor father, nor mother, then in equal shares to brothers and sisters, or their children; if a mother survive, she takes an equal share with the brothers and sisters. 4. If decedent leave no issue, nor husband nor wife, nor father, and no brother or sister is living at the time of his death, the estate goes to his mother, to the exclusion of the issue, if any, of deceased brothers and sisters. 5. Decree takes effect and becomes absolute after six months from time rendered. Proof is required in all cases.

Executions. All real estate not bound by the lien of the judgment, as well as goods and chattels of the debtor, are bound from the time seized in execution. When two or more writs are sued out against same debtor during the term in which judgment is rendered, or within ten days thereafter, no prefcrence is allowed to either; and if the proceeeds fail to satisfy all such executions, they must be distributed among all creditors; but these provisions do not affect any preferable lien under judgment on the land of the debtor. Writ must be returnable in sixty days, except before justices of the peace, where it must be returned in thirty days. First levy to be made upon goods and chattels, but, if none found, then upon lands and tenements. Statutory provisions for subjecting debtor's property by proceedings supplemental to execution.

Personal property is not exempt from execution or attachment for wages of clerk, mechanic, laborer, or servant. All pension money is exempt.

Garnishment. Either at the time of the issuing of the summons, or at any time thereafter, before final judgment, in any action to recover damages founded upon contract, express or implied, or upon judgment or decree, or at any time after the issuance, in case of an execution against property, and before the time when it is returnable, the plaintiff, or some person in his behalf, shall file with the clerk an affidavit stating the amount of the plaintiff's claim against the defendant or defendants over and above all offsets, and stating that he verily believes that some person, naming him, is indebted to, or has property, real or personal, in his possession, or under his control belonging to the defendant, or either or any of the defendants, in the action or execution, naming him, and that such defendant has not property liable to execution sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's demand, and that the indebtedness or property mentioned in such affidavit is, to the best knowledge and belief of the person making such affidavit, not by law exempt from seizure or sale upon execution. Any number of garnishees may be embraced in the same affidavit and summons hereinafter provided for; but if a joint liability be claimed against any, it shall be so stated in such affidavit, and the garnishee named as jointly liable shall be deemed jointly proceeded against; otherwise the several garnishees shall be deemed severally proceeded against: Provided, that before order will issue, statutory undertaking must be given, except in cases against non-residents. Summons is returnable in five days. The same and other garnishees may be subsequently proceeded against in same action. Garnishee has twenty days to answer; plaintiff must join issue. If any garnishee, having been duly summoned, shall fail to file his affidavit, the court may render judgment against him for the amount the plaintiff shall recover against the defendant. Garnishee may be proceeded against as for contempt. Proceedings after judgment may be instituted similarly to those before judgment.

Guaranty Companies may do business in the Territory by appointing local agent on whom legal process may be served, and making showing of charter, assets, and liabilities to attorney-general.

Holidays. Holidays are every Sunday, first day of January, twenty-second day of February, fourth day of July, twenty-fifth day of December, thirtieth day of May, days upon which elections are held throughout Territory, and days appointed by President, or Governor of Territory for a public fast, thanksgiving, or holiday. If first day of January, twenty-second day of February, fourth day of July, or twenty-fifth day of December falls upon a Sunday, the following Monday is a holiday. Husband and Wife. Wife must conform to husband's choice of any reasonable place or mode of living. (See Married Women.) Can not by contract alter their legal relations, except as to property, and except that they may agree in writing to immediate separation, and make provision for support of either and children. Mutual consent is sufficient consideration for such agreement. Neither husband nor wife is answerable for the acts of the other, except support by necessaries. The statute provides that in case of abandonment by one, and removal from Territory, for one year, the other may procure order from district court to sell, incumber, manage, or control property of former.

Interest. Maximum rate is 12 per cent. Usury forfeits interest, but does not affect principal. In absence of stipulation, legal rate is 7 per cent from maturity.

Judgments. Judgments are liens against real estate for five years. If rendered before a justice of the peace or probate judge, they become liens upon the filing of a certified copy with the clerk of the district court. If execution shall not be sued out within five years from the date of any judgment that now is or may hereafter be rendered in any court of record in this Territory, or if five years shall have intervened between the date of the last execution issued on such judgment and the time of suing out another writ of execution thereon, such judgment shall become dormant, and shall cease to operate as a lien on the estate of the judgment debtor. Judgment may be revived upon proper application, and after notice, within one year after becoming dormant. Interest on judgments is 7 per cent per annum, but in case of contract, rate is same as contract, up to 12 per cent.

Limitations. Civil actions, other than for the recovery of real property, can only be brought within the following periods, after the cause of action shall have accrued, and not afterwards: 1. Within five years: An action upon any contract, agreement, or promise in writing. 2. Within three years: An action upon a contract not in writing, express or implied; an action upon a liability created by statute other than a forfeiture or penalty. 3. Within two years: An action for trespass upon real property; an action for taking, detaining, or injuring personal property, including actions for the specific recovery of personal property; an action for injury to the rights of another, not arising on contract, and not hereinafter enumerated; an action for relief on the ground of fraud—the cause of action in such case shall not be deemed to have accrued until the discovery of the fraud. 4. An action upon the official bond or undertaking of an executor, administrator, guardian, sheriff, or any other officer, or upon the bond or undertaking given in attachment, injunction, arrest, or in any case whatever required by the statute, can only be brought within five years after the cause of action shall have accrued. 6. An action for relief, not hereinbefore provided for, can only be brought within five years after the cause of action shall have accrued.

Married Women retain the same legal existence and personality after marriage as before marriage, and receive the same protection of all their rights as women which their husbands do as men; and for an injury sustained to their reputation, person, property, character, or natural rights have the same right to appeal in their own names to courts of law or equity for redress and protection that their husbands have in their own names.

Mortgages. Mortgages of personal property must be signed by the mortgagor and attested by two witnesses, who must sign their names, and no further proof or acknowledgment is necessary. They may be foreclosed by action in court, or by public notice for ten days, and public sale. Chattels covered by mortgage may be levied upon by attachment or execution, if the officer pays or tenders to the mortgagee the amount of the mortgage debt and interest. The mortgage, or an authenticated copy thereof, must be filed with the register of deeds, and if not so filed, it is void as against creditors or subsequent purchasers and incumbrancers in good faith and for value. It becomes invalid after three years as against other creditors, subsequent purchasers or incumbrancers in good faith, but it may be renewed for an additional three years by filing an affidavit of renewal within thirty days before the expiration of the first three years. Real estate mortgages must be executed the same as a grant of real property.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. These are bills of exchange, promissory notes, banknotes, checks, bonds, and certificates of deposit. If without date they are payable immediately, and if without specified place of payment, payable where maker may be found. Valuable consideration is presumed from signature of drawer, acceptor, and indorser. Protest, presentment, and notice may be waived. Waiver of protest waives presentment and notice. Reasonable care and diligence in presentment required. In the absence of express stipulation to the contrary, three days of grace after presentation allowed on all bills of exchange, or drafts payable at sight, but Sundays and holidays are excluded in the computation. Same allowed for payment of all promissory notes, bills of exchange, and drafts where time is specified on face. Notes due on demand subject to like days of grace after demand is made. Damages for accrued interest, re-exchange, expenses, etc., are, if in this Territory, 2 per cent; in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Missouri, 2 per cent, in any other State or Territory, 5 per cent, and in any foreign country 10 per cent. Waiver of presentment waives notice of dishonor also, unless contrary is expressly stipulated; but waiver of notice does not waive presentment. Indorser guarantees paper is what it purports to be, good title, genuineness of prior indorsements, and payments. Indorser has rights of surety, but it is not entitled to contribution from subsequent indorsers. Indorsement without recourse makes indorser liable only as in cases of a transfer without indorsement.

Power of Attorney. The power of attorney in fact, for the conveyance of real estate, shall be executed and acknowledged same as acknowledgment of other conveyances of real estate. No deed, executed by virtue of such power, shall be received for record unless the power of attorney under which it is executed is, or has been, filed for record in the same office.

Probate Law. Complete statutory regulations.

Procedure. The pleadings are petition, answer and reply. Demurrer may be based on ground of want of jurisdiction, misjoinder of actions and parties, and failure to state cause of action.

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Replevin. An order for the delivery of property to the plaintiff shall be made by the clerk of the court in which the action is brought, when there is filed in his office an affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, thowing: 1. A description of the property claimed. 2. That the plaintiff is the owner of the property, or has a special ownership or interest therein, stating the facts in relation thereto, and that he is entitled to the immediate possession of the property. 3. That the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant. 4. That it was not taken in execution on any order or judgment against said plaintiff, or for the payment of any tax, fine, or amercement assessed against him, or by virtue of an order of delivery issued under this article, or any other mesne or final process issued against said plaintiff. 5. Or if taken in execution, or on any order or judgment against the plaintiff, that it is exempt by law from being so taken. 6. The actual value of the property. When several articles are claimed, the value of each shall be stated as near as practicable. Before the order is issued the plaintiff must execute an undertaking, with one or more sufficient sureties, in not less than double the value of the property involved, and also to the effect that he will return the property to the defendant, if a return thereof be adjudged. Within twenty-four hours after service of a copy of the order, the defendant may recover possession of the property by executing his undertaking to the plaintiff, to be approved by the sheriff, in not less than double the value of the property set up by the plaintiff in his affidavit; otherwise the sheriff shall deliver the property to the plaintiff.

Taxes. Taxes on real property are a perpetual lien. They are a lien on personal property when delinquent two years. Taxes may be paid on third Monday in December. If so paid, taxpayer is entitled to rebate of 2 per cent of one-half of taxes, or one-half of tax may be paid at said date and remainder on third Monday in June. If one-half delinquent in December, the said 2 per cent is added until June, and if delinquent in June, there shall be added, in addition to the 2 per cent, the following penalties: 1 per cent for each month for 3 months; 2 per cent for each month for next three months, and 5 per cent for each succeeding month.

To make nuncupative will valid the estate bequeathed must not exceed $1,000, must be proved by two witnesses who were present at the making thereof, one of whom was at the time asked by the testator to bear witness, or the decedent must, at time, have been in actual military service in the field or at sea, and in actual contemplation, fear, or peril of death. Olographic wills are valid without witnesses. Other wills must be signed by testator, or in his presence, at his direction, and he must, at the time of signing, declare to the attesting witnesses that the instrument is his will, and there must be two attesting witnesses who sign at testator's request and in his presence.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF OREGON

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. PLATT & PLATT, Attorneys at Law, Portland. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. In an action brought to recover a balance due upon a mutual, open, and current account, where there have been reciprocal demands between the parties, the cause of action shall be deemed to have accrued from the time of the last item proved in the account on either side; but whenever a period of more than one year shall elapse between any of a series of items or demands, they are not to be deemed such an account.

Acknowledgments may be taken in the State by any judge of the supreme court, county judge, justice of the peace, clerk of the supreme court, county clerk, or notary public. Out of the State before any officer authorized by the laws of the State, Territory or district where made, or by a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for such purpose. If not taken before such commissioner, or before a notary public, certified under his notarial seal, or before the clerk of a court of record, certified under the seal of the court (Laws 1891), it must have attached thereto a certificate of the clerk or other proper certifying officer of a court of record of the county or district within which it was taken, under the seal of his office, that the person whose name is subscribed to the certificate of acknowledgment was, at the date thereof, such officer as he is therein represented to be, and that he believes the signature of such person subscribed thereto to be genuine; and that the deed is executed and acknowledged according to the laws of such State, Territory, or district. (See Deeds.)

Actions. The distinctions between actions at law are abolished. Every action shall be brought in the name of the real party in interest, but an executor or administrator, a trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized by statute, may sue without joining with him the person for whom the action is prosecuted. An action is commenced by filing a complaint with the clerk of the court, and is deemed commenced as to each defendant when the summons is served on him after the complaint is filed or has been placed in the sheriff's hands for service. The complaint, answer, and reply must be verified. A defendant must appear, plead, or answer within ten days from service of summons, if served in the county where the action is brought; within twenty days if served elsewhere in the State, and if served by publication by the last day of the time prescribed in the order for publication of summons which must be published once a week for not less than six weeks. Costs and disbursements are allowed the prevailing party, except that in equity the court may otherwise direct.

Administration of Estates. The county court of the county in which the deceased died has exclusive jurisdiction in the first instance. Letters shall be issued as follows: 1. To the widow or next of kin, or both, in the discretion of the court. 2. To one or more of the principal creditors. 3. To any other suitable person whom the court may select, but a non-resident is not qualified to act as executor or administrator. Notice of appointment must be published and creditors notified to present their claims, duly verified, within six months from the date of notice. The executor or administrator must make and file under oath an inventory of all the property of the deceased coming into his possession or knowledge, which must be appraised by three disinterested, competent appraisers appointed by the court. Pending the granting of administration and filing of inventory, the widow and minor children are entitled to remain in possession of the homestead, family wearing apparel and household furniture, and have a reasonable provision for their support to be allowed by the court. After the filing of the inventory, the court shall set apart for the widow and children all property of the estate which is exempt from execution. Sales of the property of an estate are valid only when made by order of court, and in case of real property only upon a showing of necessity, and the issuance of citation. Sales must be confirmed at the next term of court. Reports must be made in April and October of each year until administration is complete. An action may be commenced against an executor or administrator any time after the expiration of six months and the granting of letters prior to the final settlement of the estate. Presentation of the plaintiff's claim to the executor or administrator and disallowance by him is a condition precedent to the bringing of action. Executor or administrator may redeem real property belonging to estate which has been sold at public auction under decree of foreclosure or judgment in same manner that property may be redeemed by any debtor. Upon proper showing to the county court executor or administrator may borrow money upon any property belonging to estate to facilitate the settlement of the estate.

Affidavits. An affidavit is a written declaration under oath, made without notice to the adverse party. The affiant must speak in the first person. An affidavit taken in another State of the United States or Territory, or the District of Columbia, or in a foreign country, otherwise than upon commission, must be authenticated as follows before it can be used in this State: First—It must be certified by a commissioner appointed by the Governor of this State to take affidavits, or it must be certified by a judge of a court having a clerk and a seal, to have been taken and subscribed to before him at the time and place therein specified, and the existence of the court, the fact that such judge is a member thereof, and the genuineness of his signature shall be certified by the clerk of the court under the seal thereof. Can not be used as testimony on a trial upon the merits against objections. The usual form and function of affidavits are that of proving service of a summons, notice, and facts in ex parte proceedings to obtain provisional remedies, viz:

State of..... } ss.
County of..... }

This certifies that on this.....day of.....19...., personally appeared before me the undersigned, a (name of office) in and for said county and State, the within named.....and..... ..... his wife, personally known to me to be the individuals described in and who executed the foregoing instrument, and severally acknowledged to me that they executed the same.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal the day and year in this certificate last above written.

[SEAL.] (Name and Title of Office.)

Age of Majority. Males, 21 years; females, 18 years.

Aliens. Aliens have the same right with reference to holding property in this State as citizen of the State. A wife is not barred of her dower by reason of alienage. A foreign corporation not prohibited by the laws of this State and having complied with our law with reference to doing business here, may hold property and convey the same as freely as domestic corporations.

Appeals. An appeal may be taken from the circuit to the supreme court by serving and filing the notice of appeal and bond at any time within six months from the date of judgment or decree appealed from. Appeal from justice and county court must be taken within thirty days.

Arrest. Arrest in civil cases is allowed in certain cases, but is a remedy very rarely resorted to.

Assignments and Insolvency. There is no insolvent law. There is an act governing assignments. No general assignment by an insolvent, or in contemplation of insolvency, for the benefit of creditors, is valid unless made for the benefit of all his creditors in proportion to the amount of their respective claims. The assent of creditors is presumed. The debtor selects his assignee. If not satisfied with the assignee chosen by the debtor, two or more creditors may apply by petition to the judge of the circuit court of county within thirty days from the making or recording of the assignment, and the judge will order a meeting of the creditors to choose an assignee in lieu of the one selected by the debtor. The assignee elected by the creditors must be a resident of the same county as the assignor. Creditors may appear at the meeting in person or by proxy, but, before being entitled to vote, must present to the county clerk, who presides at the creditors' meeting, a verified statement of their claims. A majority, in number and value, of the creditors attending the meeting, elect an assignee or assignees. All assignees must give bonds in double the value of the estate. An assignment discharges all at achments on which judgment has not been had at the time of the assignment. The assignee must give notice by publication and mailing to creditors, who have three months in which to present claims. Debts to become due, as well as debts due, may be presented. Exceptions may be filed to the demand of any creditor, and the court will pass upon them. The assignee has full power to dispose of the estate, real and personal, and distributes the proceeds among the creditors pro rata, under the order of the circuit court, which has exclusive jurisdiction of assignments. When it appears that the debtor has acted fairly and justly, and has been guilty of no fraud, or concealment of his property, and that his estate has been made to realize the fullest amount possible, and not less than 50 per cent of his indebtedness over and above all expenses, the court will, upon the allowance of the final account of the assignee, make an order discharging the debtor from all debts existing against him prior to the assignment. A debtor can prefer a creditor by confessing judgment, giving a mortgage or transferring specific property in payment.

Attachment process may be had in actions upon contracts, express or implied, for the direct payment of money, if the contract is not secured by mortgage, lien or pledge upon real or personal property, or if so secured the security has been rendered nugatory by the act of the defendant. Also in actions upon contract against a defendant not residing in this State. An affidavit must be made showing the existence of the facts, and a bond given equal to the amount of the judgment demanded. Debts owing the defendant may be garnisheed. An attachment is dissolved by an assignment before judgment.

Banks. There are no State banks, and no laws regulating banks or banking.

Section 1 of Article XI of the constitution of Oregon, provides that: "The legislative assembly shall not have the power to establish or incorporate any bank, or banking company or money institution whatever; nor shall any bank, company, or institution exist in the State with the privilege of making, issuing, or putting into circulation any bill, check, certificate, promissory note, or other paper, or the paper of any bank, company or person to circulate as money."

The business of banking is carried on by national banks, private corporations, firms, and individuals without any restrictions on the part of the State as to what investments they may make, or how their business shall be conducted.

Building and loan and savings and loan associations may be organized under the laws of this State by conforming to certain definite requirements of the statute. They must have a capital of not less than $1,000,000 and place a certain amount of approved securities under the control of the secretary of State. No building and loan associations or savings and loan associations, organized under the laws of any other State, Territory, or Nation, shall do business in this State unless it have approved securities of the value of $100,000 on deposit in trust for all its members and creditors with some responsible trust company. In sending claim for collection, if owned by a partnership, the individual name of each partner and the firm name should be stated, and if a corporation, in what State incorporated. The claim should be accompanied by an itemized statement, verified by the owner or his agent, or his attorney, if within the personal knowledge, to the effect that he believes it to be true, and that there are no just offsets, or counterclaims to the same, except as stated. (See Accounts.)

All claims to be filed with administrators or executors, assignees or receivers should be likewise verified.

Contracts. Whether joint or several, all or any of the parties to a contract may be included in the same action at the option of the plaintiff without releasing the others.

Corporations. Private corporations are formed under a general law by three or more persons. After one-half or more of the capital stock is subscribed, the stockholders meet and elect directors. A director must be a stockholder in the corporation and a resident of the State of Oregon; except, that in corporations for the purpose of constructing railroads or military wagon roads, canals or flumes, or carrying on mining enterprises, or publishing newspapers, or conducting institutions of learning, or for the purpose of conducting any manufacturing business, a minority of the board of directors may reside out of the State. Foreign corporations, upon complying with the laws of the State, may do business therein as like domestic corporations. Municipal corporations are created by special acts of the legislature.

Courts. There is in each voting precinct a justice of the peace with limited criminal jurisdiction and civil jurisdiction up to $250. These courts are always open. Their process can not reach land. A county court in each county has exclusive probate jurisdiction and civil jurisdiction up to $500. They meet from four to twelve times a year. Circuit court has unlimited jurisdiction both in civil and criminal, and holds from one to three terms a year in each county. Supreme court with appellate jurisdiction only meets at Salem twice a year, and at Pendleton once a year.

Days of Grace. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Deeds executed in the State must have two witnesses and be signed and sealed and acknowledged by the grantors. A scroll by a pen is sufficient seal. Out of the State deeds may be executed according to the laws of the State, Territory, or district where made. (See Acknowledgments.) Deeds are recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the land is situated. If not so recorded within five days, they are void against any subsequent purchaser in good faith, and for a valuable consideration whose conveyance is first recorded.

Depositions. In all affidavits and depositions the witness must be made to speak in the first person. Depositions shall be taken in the forms of questions and answers, unless the parties agree to a different mode. (Civil Code, 268.) Depositions of witnesses outside of the State may be taken upon a commission issued by the court or the clerk thereof, on the application of either party, upon five days' previous notice to the other. It shall be issued to a person agreed upon by the parties, or, if they do not agree, to a judge, justice of the peace, notary public, or clerk of a court selected by the officer issuing it. (Civil Code, 270.) Such interrogatories, direct and cross, as the respective parties may prepare, may be annexed to the commission, or, when the parties agree to that mode, the examination may be without written interrogatories. (Civil Code, 270.) Either party may take the deposition of a witness in this State, before any person authorized to administer oaths, upon giving the adverse party three days' previous notice, and one day's additional notice for every twenty-five miles the witness resides from the place of trial, of the time and place of examination, the name of the officer and of the witness. Either party may attend upon such examination and examine the witness upon oral interrogatories. The depositions shall be written by the officer taking the same, or by the witness, or by some disinterested person, in the presence and under the direction of such officer. When completed it shall be read to or by the witness and subscribed by him. (Code, Sec. 823.) The officer taking the deposition shall append thereto his certificate, under the seal of his office, if there be a seal, to the effect that the deposition was taken before him, at a place mentioned, between certain hours of a day or days mentioned, and reduced to writing by a person therein named; that before proceeding to the examination the witness was duly sworn to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; that the deposition was read to or by the witness, and then by him subscribed (Code, Sec. 825.) The deposition should then be securely sealed, and addressed to the court of the county issuing the commission. Upon the envelope should be indorsed the title of the case, and the words: "Deposition of ——."

Descent and Distribution of Property. Real property descends as follows: 1. In equal shares to children and issue of deceased children by right of representation. 2. If the intestate shall leave no lineal descendants, such real property shall descend to the wife or husband, if the intestate was married. If the intestate leave no wife or husband, then such real property shall descend to his or her father. 2. If the intestate shall leave no lineal descendants, neither husband, nor wife, nor father, such real property shall descend in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the intestate, and to the issue of any deceased brother or sister by right of representation, but if the intestate shall leave a mother, also, she shall take an equal share with each brother and sister. 4. In the absence of lineal descendants, husband, wife, father, brother, or sister, the mother takes to the exclusion of the issue of deceased brother or sister. 5. In the absence of all the foregoing, the property descends to the next of kin, those claiming through the nearest ancestor being preferred. In case no kin are found, the property escheats to the State. Personal property descends the same as realty, except that husband surviving takes half wife's personalty, the wife surviving takes half husband's personalty, and survivor takes all in the absence of issue.

Divorce. Divorce may be decreed for either of the following causes: Adultery, impotency, conviction of felony, habitual gross drunkenness, willful desertion for one year, cruel and inhuman treatment, or personal indignities rendering life burdensome. Plaintiff must have resided in the State one year before beginning suit. The party at whose prayer divorce is decreed shall be entitled to the undivided one-third part of the whole of the real estate owned by the other at the time of such decree.

Dower. The widow of every deceased is entitled to dower during her natural life of one-half part of all the lands whereof her husband was seized during marriage, unless she is lawfully barred thereof. A husband, upon the death of the wife, may have estate in her lands as tenant by curtesy. Where a husband purchases land during coverture, and mortgages the same to secure payment of the purchase money, his widow is not entitled to dower as against the mortgagee, although she shall not have united in the mortgage. A woman is not barred of her dower by reason of being an alien.

Equity of Redemption. (See Executions.)

Escheats. Where there is no heir to deceased leaving property in this State, said property escheats to the State.

Executions. The party in whose favor judgment is given may at any time thereafter within ten years, have execution issued to enforce payment. After ten years, without the issuance of any execution, the judgment is conclusively presumed to have been paid. Execution may issue against the person or judgment debtor, against his property, or for the delivery of real or of personal property. The sale of property upon execution shall be made by auction. Property sold on execution, when subject to redemption, may be redeemed by the following persons: First—The judgment debtor or his successors in interest. Second—A creditor having a lien by judgment decree or mortgage on any portion of the property. A lien creditor may redeem within sixty days after confirmation of sale by the court. The judgment debtor may redeem within one year after confirmation. (Laws 1895.)

Exemptions. Homestead exempted from judicial sale. Must be actual abode of, and owned by family, and not exceed 160 acres, or one block if in city, or $1,500 in value. (Laws 1893, p. 93.) Personal property exempt includes books, pictures, and musical instruments to the value of $75; wearing apparel to the value of $100, and if a householder, to the value of $50 for each member of the family; tools, implements, apparatus, team, vehicle, harness, or library when necessary in the occupation or profession of a judgment debtor, to the amount of $400; if the judgment debtor be a householder, ten sheep with one year's fleece, two cows, five swine, household goods, furniture and utensils to the value of $300; the seat or pew occupied by a householder or his family in a place of public worship; all property of the State in any county, incorporated city, town, or village therein, or of any other public or municipal corporation. No article of property is exempt from execution issued upon a judgment for the purchase price. The judgment debtor must select and reserve such property as he claims as exempt at the time of levy. Earnings of judgment debtor for personal services for thirty days exempt when necessary for the family supported wholly or in part by judgment debtor.

Foreign Corporations. (See Corporations, Insurance, Savings and Loan Associations.)

Frauds. Every conveyance or assignment in writing or otherwise of any estate or interest in lands or personal property, and every charge upon lands, goods, things in action, or upon the rents or profits thereof, made with the intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors or other persons, shall be void. Every grant or assignment of every existing trust in lands, goods, or things in action, unless the same shall be in writing, subscribed by the party making the same, or by his agent, lawfully authorized, shall be void. The question of fraudulent intent shall be deemed a question of fact, and not of law. No action can be brought to charge defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt of another, or to charge any executor or administrator upon a promise to pay the debts of the decedent out of his own estate, or to charge any person upon an agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon an agreement upon its terms not to be performed within a year, or for the sale of personal property of more than $50 in value, or upon an agreement for the leasing for a longer period than a year, or for the sale of real property unless the same shall be in writing, signed by the parties sought to be charged, or by his duly authorized agent, and where the agreement concerns real property, and is made by the agent of the party sought to be charged, the authority of the agent must be in writing.

Garnishment. Attachment or execution may be levied upon personal property of the defendant in the hands of third persons, or on debts due defendant, by leaving a certified copy of the writ with the debtor, and such debtor or third person shall furnish the sheriff a certificate, showing property in his possession belonging to defendant. If the certificate is unsatisfactory, the garnishee may be examined under oath.

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Insurance. The secretary of State is insurance commissioner, and no company can do business without his license. Companies formed under the laws of the State must have at least five directors who are residents and property owners in the State and stockholders in the corporation, and a paid up, unimpaired, cash capital stock of $100,000 invested in the State in U. S., State, city, county, or school-district bonds, or notes secured by first mortgage on unincumbered real estate of double the value of the mortgage. They can not invest in mining stocks, nor make any loan to a stockholder, nor a stockholder be interested in any loan, pledge, security, or property of the company, except to be a stockholder. Foreign companies must deposit with the State treasurer $50,000 in money, or in interest bearing U. S., State, county, city, or school-district bonds, the market value of which is at or above par, or bonds or notes secured by first mortgages upon unincumbered real estate within the State, of double the amount of the loan; or in lieu of such deposit, make an investment in real estate in the State of not less than $65,000 to be approved by the commissioner, the title to be vested in the State Treasurer as Trustee. The company receives the interest or income from the deposit or investment. No deposit can be withdrawn without six months publication of notice. Foreign corporations must also execute and record in each county where they have a resident agent, a power of attorney to some person, a resident and citizen of the State and United States, constituting him its attorney-in-fact upon whom service may be made, so as to give the courts jurisdiction of the company; and must show by the insurance reports or certificate of the Insurance Commissioner of some other State that they possess a paid up, unimpaired, cash capital of at least $200,000. Companies not incorporated in the United States, except marine companies, must have deposited or invested for the benefit of policy holders within the United States, in at least one State, a sum equal to $200,000 in excess of its liabilities in the United States. Orders, secret societies, and benevolent and co-operative associations, such as Masons, Odd Fellows, Druids, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order of United Workmen, Grangers, Firemen, etc., are not insurance companies under this act. Face of policy true value in case of total loss and the measure of damage except in case of fraud or where loss is caused by criminal act of the assured. Fire insurance companies must pay an annual license of $50, and life and accident companies $100. Insurance brokers a quarterly license of $15. Every foreign insurance company must make an annual report to the insurance commissioner, showing the total gross premiums received, and from which shall be deducted returned premiums and losses paid in the State. A tax of 2 per cent must be paid to State treasurer upon gross receipts, less premiums returned and losses paid; $100 per day fine for failure to comply herewith.

Interest. Legal rate, 6 per cent; contracts may be made in writing for 10 per cent. Usury works forfeiture of principal and interest, but judgment will be rendered against defendant for the principal of the debt to be paid into the common school fund of the county in which suit was commenced.

Judgments are a lien from the date of docketing on all defendant's real property within the county or counties where same is docketed, and on all which he may subsequently acquire during the life of the judgment. If ten years are allowed to elapse without issuance of execution on the judgment the lien ceases, and the judgment is conclusively presumed to have been paid.

Liens. Person furnishing material or performing labor in building or repairing any structure or superstructure has a lien on the same and sufficient land for its enjoyment.

Hotel and boarding house keepers have lien on guests' baggage.

Common carriers and warehousemen have a lien for charges.

Various statutes provide for laborers' liens in certain cases.

Limitations of Suits. On contracts not under seal, express or implied, six years; on judgments or decrees of any court and sealed instruments, ten years; recovery real property, ten years. Revivor: Part payment or new promise in writing.

Married Women retain their real and personal estate owned by them at time of marriage or afterwards acquired, free from the debts and control of their husbands. A married woman may make contracts in her own name, buy goods, and give notes in settlement, and her real and personal property may be sold to satisfy the same. She may dispose of her real estate by will, subject to any rights which her husband may have as tenant by the curtesy. Wife may manage, sell, convey or devise by will to same extent and in same manner as her husband can. She is entitled to receive and hold the wages of her personal labor, and sue therefor in her own name, and she can prosecute and defend all actions for the preservation or protection of her property and rights as if unmarried. The expenses of the family and education of the children are chargeable upon the property of both husband and wife or either of them, and in relation thereto they may be sued jointly or separately. All laws imposing or recognizing civil disabilities upon the wife not imposed or recognized upon the husband (excepting the right to vote and hold office) have been repealed. The wife's dower and the husband's curtesy in real property are preserved.

Mortgages of real property and assignments thereof are executed and recorded in the same manner as deeds, and foreclosed by suit in equity. A satisfaction of a mortgage by the person appearing on the record as the owner thereof releases the land from the lien of said mortgage. Chattel mortgages, or copies thereof, must be immediately filed with the county clerk, and cease to be valid as against creditors or purchasers after the expiration of one year, unless within thirty days next preceding the expiration of said year there is an affidavit made and filed therewith, that the debt which it secures is unpaid and the mortgage still in force. A chattel mortgage may be recorded, in which case the renewal affidavit is not necessary. A chattel mortgage, where the mortgagor is allowed to remain in possession and dispose of the property in the usual course of his business, is void as to purchasers and attaching creditors.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. All negotiable instruments are commercial paper. They are not required to be paid at any particular place unless a place of payment is specified in the instrument. Days of grace abolished. No person can be charged as an acceptor of a bill of exchange, unless the acceptance be in writing, signed by himself or his lawful agent. Indorsers, if properly charged by protest, are liable as long as the maker. Damages allowed on protested bills of exchange: Domestic, 5 per cent; foreign, 10 per cent. Negotiable instruments falling due on a Sunday or a holiday become due on the next business day. Legal holidays are every Sunday, first day of January, twenty-second day of February, thirtieth day of May, first Monday in September, fourth day of July, twenty-fifth day of December, every day on which a general election is held, and every day appointed by the executive authority of the United States or this State as a day of fasting, thanksgiving or holiday. Where holiday falls on a Sunday, the Monday following shall be observed as such holiday. The Negotiable Instrument Law as prepared by American Bar Association has become a law.

Power of Attorney. Powers of attorney for conveyances of real estate, or whereby real estate is affected must be executed and acknowledged with the same formality that deeds to such property are made. A husband or wife may constitute the other his attorney to make conveyances of and dispose of his or her property, subject to revocation, the same as any other power of attorney.

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Replevin. In an action to recover possession of personal property, the plaintiff may, at any time after the action is commenced, and before judgment, claim the immediate delivery of such property, by filing an affidavit showing: That the plaintiff is the owner of the property claimed or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof, by virtue of a special property therein, the facts in respect to which may be set forth; that the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant; the alleged cause of the detention thereof, according to his best information and belief; that the same has not been taken for a tax, assessment or fine pursuant to a statute, or seized under an execution or attachment against the property of the plaintiff, or, if so seized, that it is by statute exempt from such seizure; and the actual value of the property. The plaintiff may thereupon, by an indorsement in writing upon the affidavit, require the sheriff to take the property from the defendant, and deliver it to the plaintiff. Upon receipt of the affidavit, and a written undertaking, executed by two or more sureties, approved by him, to the effect that they are bound in double the value of the property, as stated in the affidavit, for the prosecution of the action, for the return of the property to the defendant, if return thereof be adjudged, and for the payment of such sum as may be adjudged against the plaintiff, the sheriff shall forthwith take the property described in the affidavit into his possession.

Savings Banks. (See Banks.)

Suits. Practice is under a code similar to that of New York, but the distinction between law and equity is retained. Suits commenced in same manner as actions.

Surety Companies having assets not less than $500,000 can engage in business in Oregon. Must appoint Secretary of State attorney for service of process, file with him certified copy of articles of incorporation, make written application for authority to do business, and take out license.

Taxes. Lands sold for taxes may be redeemed within one year, on payment of the purchase money and 20 per cent thereon; within two years, 30 per cent.

Usury. (See Interest.)

Wills. Every person twenty-one years of age, of sound mind, may make a will of all his estate. Every person over eighteen years of age, of sound mind, may dispose of his goods and chattels. Every will shall be in writing, signed by the testator, or some other person under his direction, in his presence, and shall be attested by two or more competent witnesses subscribing their names to the will, in the presence of the testator. A will which fails to mention or provide for a living child is inoperative as to such child. A widow's dower can not be cut off by will. A legatee or devisee is not a competent witness to the execution of a will, unless he relinquishes all benefits thereunder.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF PENNSYLVANIA

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and revised by MESSRS. McCREADY & MOORE, Attorneys at Law, Pittsburg, Pa. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts are barred in six years from the dates of the respective items therein, except in the case of mutual accounts. For purpose of bringing suit thereon they are sufficiently proven by affidavit taken before any officer competent to take acknowledgment of deeds.

Acknowledgments of deeds of land in Pennsylvania taken elsewhere, may be made in the United States before any mayor or chief magistrate, or officer of any town or city where the deed is made, certified under the seal of such city or town, any judge of any court of record, any judge of a federal court, under the hand of the judge and seal of the court, commissioner for Pennsylvania, any officer in any State authorized by laws of said State to take acknowledgments, the authority to be proved by certificate of clerk of any court of record, under seal of court, or notary public; if made out of United States, any ambassador, and all persons exercising public ministerial functions appointed by United States, or notaries public. Acknowledgments within the State may be taken before notaries public, who may act in any county; judges of the supreme and common pleas courts, mayors and police magistrates and aldermen of Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Allegheny, Carbondale, Scranton, Williamsport, Lock Haven; recorder of deeds, prothonotary, or clerk of any court of record of the county in which the land is situated, and justices of the peace.

Actions. (See Suits.)

Administration of Estates. Letters testamentary and of administration are grantable only by the register of wills of the county within which was the family or principal residence of the decedent at the time of his decease, and if there be no such residence in this State, then by the register of the county in which the principal part of the goods and estate shall be. Letters testamentary, or of administration granted out of the State, do not confer power to act as executor or administrator within this commonwealth. A husband is legally entitled to administer the estate of his wife, in case of intestacy, and the wife has the same privilege with respect to the husband's estate. After the husband or wife, letters of administration are grantable to such of his relations, or kindred, as are entitled by law to the personal estate, according to the respective degrees of consanguinity—males being preferred to females. Administrators must give bond, with securities in double the amount of the personal estate; must file an inventory and appraisement of the personal estate within thirty days, and settle an account in one year from the date of their appointment. They are ordinarily entitled to a commission of 5 per cent. A widow is entitled to retain, for the use of herself and family, personal property to the amount of $300. A decedent's debts must be paid in the following order: 1.—Funeral expenses, medicine and medical attendance during last illness of the decedent, and servants' wages not exceeding one year. 2.—Rents not exceeding one year. 3.—All other debts, without regard to the quality of the same, except debts due the commonwealth, which shall be last paid.

Affidavits for use within this State may be taken before any officer authorized to take acknowledgment of deeds.

Aliens are not permitted to hold real estate in this commonwealth, but may engage in business and acquire and hold personal property.

Appeals may be taken from the judgment of any court of common pleas or orphans' court within six months from the entry of judgment, order, decree, or sentence to the Superior or Supreme court, according to the nature of the question or amount involved; but such appeal does not supersede an execution issued or distribution ordered, unless taken and perfected, and bail entered within three weeks from such entry. An appeal from the Superior to the Supreme Court, allowable only in certain cases, must be taken and perfected within three months. (See Courts.)

Arbitration of any pending suit may be compelled by either party thereto, but an appeal may be taken from the award and a trial had in court.

Arrest in civil cases, under capias, issued instead of summons to begin an action, may occur in actions of assumpsit (see Suits) in proceedings as for contempt, to enforce civil remedies, actions for fines or penalties, or on promises to marry, for moneys collected by a public officer, or for misconduct or neglect in any professional employment, which includes the failure by an attorney to pay over money collected for a client; and in actions of trespass (see Suits) on affidavit filed. A defendant may be arrested, after suit brought, by summons, upon proof that he is about to remove his property to defraud his creditors, or has done so, or that he fraudulently conceals his property, or that he fraudulently contracted the debt; he may be committed unless he pays the debt, or gives security to do so within sixty days, or gives bonds to take the benefit of the insolvent law. In criminal cases an information in writing, and under oath, must be made and a warrant procured from a magistrate before an arrest can be legally effected, except in case of an arrest upon view of the commission of a criminal offense. In civil cases, where the defendant is arrested on a bench warrant in a suit based on the allegation that the debt was fraudulently contracted, the defendant cannot secure his discharge from arrest and confinement (if directed by the court) by going into bankruptcy; since a discharge from bankruptcy does not discharge the bankrupt from debts fraudulently contracted.

Assignments and Insolvency. A debtor may make a voluntary assignment in trust for the benefit of all creditors, which must be recorded in thirty days. The assignment does not relieve the debtor from the debt. The assignee must file his inventory and appraisement within thirty days and must file his accounts in the court of common pleas under whose direction he is, and thereupon the court appoints an auditor to distribute the fund, to whom all claims must be presented, or they will not receive part of the estate. The insolvent laws in cases where imprisonment is still permitted allow a person to be discharged from prison, but do not relieve him from the debt. All preference in deeds of assignment for creditors is void.

Attachment Before Judgment. Property of resident debtors may be attached, when debtor is about to remove his property out of the jurisdiction of the court in which the attachment is applied for, with intent to defraud his creditors; when he has property which he fraudulently conceals; when he has disposed of or is about to dispose of his property, with intent to defraud his creditors; when he has fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation for which the claim is made. In this attachment the creditor must make affidavit to prove the existence of a debt in excess of $100, and one or more of the acts of fraud specified, and must give bond conditioned that, if he fails to prosecute his action with effect and to recover a judgment against the debtor, he shall pay to the debtor all legal costs and damages which the debtor may sustain by reason of said attachment. Attachment can also be had to seize and hold property of non-resident, but the sheriff will not actually seize property of the non-resident unless the plaintiff gives bond, although he will without bond serve the attachment so as to give the garnishee notice to hold the property or money of the non-resident pending final disposition of the suit. The non-resident defendant may have the attachment dissolved by giving bond. Attachment after judgment, in any case, may be issued in the nature of an execution.

Attorneys. It is a misdemeanor, punishable with one year's imprisonment or $500 fine, or both, for any one not a duly registered attorney to hold out that he is entitled to practice law, or that he, alone or with another, conducts a law office or law and collection office.

Banks. Any person or association of persons, not less than five, may organize banks of discount, deposit, and circulation, with a capital of not less than $50,000 nor more than $1,000,000. Whenever a person or association desires to establish a bank, or increase the capital, a certificate to that effect must be made for at least six months in at least three newspapers, one published at the seat of government and the other two in the city or county where such a bank is located. If a paper is published in German in the county, notice must be given in that language. When a copy of this certificate containing the name, place of business, amount of capital stock, with the number of shares into which the same shall be divided, is certified by the attorney general, it is recorded after the manner of deeds, and the governor, upon a certified copy of such certificate being produced before him, causes letters patent to be issued.

Every person or corporation to whom letters patent may be granted, is authorized to carry on business for twenty years from the date of patent. The auditor general is required to report annually to the legislature, within three days of the commencement of the session, a summary of the condition of every incorporated bank, with an abstract of the amount of banking capital returned by them. The capital stock of each bank is divided into shares of $50 each. It is the duty of every cashier to publish in the newspapers a statement giving the amount of assets and liabilities, circulation, deposits, gold, and silver, with all evidences of debt, with the personal and real property of the bank; and semi-annual reports are required. The auditor general is to require quarterly statements from cashiers of the condition of banks, and one of the statements shall be made in November. Stockholders are individually liable for the notes issued by the bank. Under the general laws a savings bank can invest in any good bonds or securities; but nearly all savings banks have special charters, and the regulations as to investments in them differ. By an act passed by the legislature of 1889, the organization of savings banks is facilitated, and their management carefully controlled. All banks, trust companies, and building associations are now under the control of the banking department created by act of February 11, 1895. This department is under the control of the commissioner of banking, who has large powers of supervision and control of all these institutions, and who has authority, upon the impairment of capital, to require it to be made good, or compel the appointment of a receiver.

Bills of Lading. A bill of lading has been defined by judicial authority to be a written acknowledgment signed by the master that he has received the goods therein described from the shipper to be transported on the terms therein expressed to the described place of destination, and there to be delivered to the consignee, or parties therein designated. Again, it has been defined to be a formal acknowledgment of the receipt of goods, and an engagement to deliver them to the consignee or his assigns. They may be transferred by endorsement and delivery unless the words "not negotiable" are plainly written or stamped on their face. The endorsee is taken to be the owner of the goods.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. (See Mortgages.)

Collaterals. A pledge or pawn is a bailment of goods, choses in action, or stocks by one person to another to secure the performance of some legal obligation. Delivery is essential to the creation of the pledge. Where the thing pledged as collateral security is given up to the pledger the pledge is defeated. A pledgee has an implied power to sell the thing pledged after default by the pledger. The pledgee may sell after the debt becomes due without judicial process, but must first demand payment of the debt, and give notice of the time and place of sale, unless it is otherwise stipulated in the contract.

Contracts may ordinarily either be specifically enforced in equity, or damages for the breach be recovered at law. Contracts for an interest in real estate, except leases for not exceeding three years; contracts to hold an executor or administrator individually, and to hold a guarantor or surety, must be in writing, unless the amount involved be less than $20.

Conveyances. (See Acknowledgments.)

Corporations. Many corporations in this State were created by special acts of assembly. Before the adoption of the new constitution of 1874, the general practice was to get an act of the legislature conferring corporate rights. The act of April 29, 1874, passed to carry out the provisions of the new constitution, provides for the incorporation of companies for a great variety of purposes. Such corporations are divided into two general classes—the first class, corporations not for profit; the second class, corporations for profit. The charter of an intended corporation must be subscribed by five or more persons, three of whom at least must be citizens of this commonwealth, and shall set forth: 1. The name of the corporation. 2. The purpose for which it is formed. 3. The place or places where its business is to be transacted. 4. The term for which it is to exist. 5. The names and residence of the subscribers and the number of shares subscribed by each. 6. The number of its directors and the names and residence of those who are chosen directors for the first year. 7. The amount of its capital stock, if any, and the number and par value of shares into which it is divided. Notice of the intention to apply for any such charter shall be inserted in two newspapers of general circulation, printed in the proper county, for three weeks, setting forth briefly the character and object of the corporation to be formed, and the intention to make application therefor. The certificates of incorporation of the first class shall be acknowledged by at least three of those who subscribe to them before the recorder of deeds of the county in which the business of the corporation is to be transacted, to be their act and deed, and the same, being duly certified under the hand and official seal of the said recorder of deeds, shall be presented to a law judge of the said county, accompanied by proof of the publication of the notice of such application, who is hereby required to peruse and examine said instrument, and if the same shall be found to be in the proper form, and within the purposes named in the first class, and shall appear lawful and not injurious to the community, he shall indorse thereon these facts, and shall order and decree thereon that the charter is approved, and that upon the recording of the said charter and order the subscribers thereto and their associates shall be a corporation for the purposes therein stated, which charter shall be recorded in the office for the recording of deeds in said county. The certificate for a corporation of the second class shall set forth, as is required by those of the first class, and except building and loan associations shall also state that 10 per cent of the capital stock has been paid in cash to the treasurer of the intended corporation, and the name and residence of such treasurer. Said certificate shall be acknowledged by at least three of the subscribers thereto before the recorder of deeds of the county in which the chief operations are to be carried on, or in which the principal office is situated, and they shall also make and subscribe an oath or affirmation before him, to be indorsed on the said certificate, that the statements contained therein are true. The said certificate, accompanied with proof of publication of notice, as provided in corporations of the first class, shall then be produced to the governor of this commonwealth, who shall examine the same, and if found in proper form and within the provision of corporations of the second class he shall approve thereof and indorse his approval thereon, and direct letters patent to issue in the usual form, incorporating the subscribers and their associates and successors into a body politic and corporate, in deed and in law, by the name chosen. The certificate shall be recorded in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, in a book to be by him kept for that purpose, and he shall forthwith furnish to the auditor general an abstract therefrom, showing the name, location, amount of capital stock, and name and address of the treasurer of such corporation. The said original certificate, with all of its indorsements, shall then be recorded in the office for the recording of deeds in and for the county where the chief operations are to be carried on, and from thenceforth the subscribers thereto and their associates and successors shall be a corporation, for the purposes and upon the terms named in said charter. An act was approved June 25, 1895, permitting the creation of corporations to deal in merchandise at wholesale; but it is held not to include corporations to deal in liquors.

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. Courts of common pleas in the several counties have original jurisdiction in all sums over $100. Orphans' courts have full probate powers and entire control of decedents' estates. Justice's jurisdiction, $300. In Philadelphia there are magistrates supplying the place of justices of the peace, but having civil jurisdiction only to the amount of $100. The supreme court is the final appellate court in the State. Appeal lies from common pleas and orphans courts to the superior court in cases where the amount involved does not exceed $1,000, and in all criminal cases except felonious homicide. Appeal lies from the superior to the supreme court: 1. Where the jurisdiction of the superior court is in issue. 2. Where the construction or application of the constitution of the State or of the United States, or of any treaty or statute of the United States, is involved. 3. When an appeal is specially allowed by the superior court or by any one justice of the supreme court.

Days of Grace are abolished.

Depositions. In the courts of common pleas a rule to take the depositions of witnesses to be read in evidence is of course, and may be entered by either party, according to rule of court. Rules to take the depositions of ancient, infirm, sick, and away-going witnesses to be read in evidence may be entered in the case and upon the allocatur of a judge, which will be granted upon sufficient cause shown by affidavit stipulating such reasonable notice to the adverse party or attorney as the exigencies of the case may require. A rule for a commission to any other State or Territory of the United States, or to any other foreign state, is of course, and may be entered by either party in the office of the prothonotary, but the interrogatories of the applicant must be filed in the prothonotary's office at the time, and written notice of the rule and of the names of the commissioners, or their office titles, together with a copy of the interrogatories, must be served on the adverse party, his agent, or attorney at least fifteen days before the commission can issue, in order that the adverse party may file cross-interrogatories and nominate an additional commissioner or commissioners if he deems it necessary.

Descent and Distribution of Property. Estates of intestates are distributed as follows: 1. When intestate leaves a widow and issue, the widow takes one-third of the real estate for life and one-third of the personal estate absolutely. 2. When intestate leaves a widow and collateral heirs but no issue, the widow takes one-half of the real estate for life and one-half of the personal estate absolutely. 3. When intestate leaves a husband, he takes the whole of the personal estate and a life interest in the whole of the real estate. Subject to the above estates, real and personal property descends as follows: 1. To children equally where there are children and no issue of deceased children. 2. To grandchildren equally where there are grandchildren and no children or issue of deceased grandchildren. 3. To descendants in any degree of consanguinity, so long as they are all in the same degree. 4. To descendants in different degrees as follows: (1) To each child of the intestate such share as such child would have received if all the children who have died leaving issue had been living at the death of the intestate. (2) If there be no children, each grandchild shall inherit in like manner as in the last case. (3) The issue of a deceased child, grandchild, or other descendant take by representation the share of their parent. In default of issue and subject to the estates of the widow or surviving husband, real estate goes to the father and mother of the intestate during their joint lives and the life of the survivor, and the personal estate to them absolutely. In default of issue and subject to the estates and interests of the widow or surviving husband, father and mother, the real estate descends as follows: 1. To brothers and sisters of the whole blood and the children of deceased brothers and sisters of the whole blood, who take the shares of their parents. 2. In default of brothers and sisters of the whole blood, to the children of such brothers and sisters. 3. To next of kin, being descendants of brothers and sisters of the whole blood. Personal estate descends in the same way without distinction of blood; and in default of the above classes, real estate descends to brothers and sisters of the half blood and their descendants, in the same way. In default of all persons hereinbefore described, real and personal estate descends to and is distributed among the next of kin of the intestate. In default of known heirs or kindred, the real estate vests absolutely in the widow or surviving husband; and the widow takes all of the personal property.

Divorce may be had a vinculo for the following causes, viz.: 1. Natural impotency. 2. A previous legal marriage still subsisting. 3. Adultery. 4. Willful and malicious desertion for a term of two years. 5. Cruel and barbarous treatment by a husband, so as to endanger a wife's life. 6. Where the alleged marriage was procured by fraud, force, or coercion, and has not been subsequently confirmed by acts of the injured party. 7. Where either party shall have been convicted of a felony, and sentenced to the penitentiary for more than two years. 8. Where a husband has offered such indignities to his wife's person as to make her condition intolerable and life burdensome, and thereby forces her to withdraw from his house and family. 9. Where a wife by cruel and barbarous treatment shall render the condition of her husband intolerable and his life burdensome.

Dower is allowed to widows out of the estate of their deceased husbands. Where there are no surviving children the dower is one-half of the personal estate absolutely, and one-half of the income of the real estate, and where there is a surviving child, one-third of the personal estate absolutely, and one-third of the income of the real estate during her life; and the widow may have her one-half or one-third of the real estate set aside so that she will thereafter get the income of such portion instead of one-half or one-third of the whole income.

Executions may be issued as soon as judgment is obtained. The writ of execution is made returnable to the first Monday of the following term; but it is the duty of the sheriff to make his levy at once, and he may proceed to sell personal property upon six days' notice, and distribute the proceeds. Stay of execution upon suits in court can be taken, by giving security, or under claim of freehold, on all sums of $200 and under, six months; between $200 and $500, nine months; over $500, twelve months. In suits before justices of the peace on sums between $5.33 and $20, three months; between $20 and $60, six months; and over $60, twelve months. The stay is computed from the first day of the term to which the action was commenced.

Exemptions. No homestead law. Real or personal property to the value of $300, in addition to wearing apparel, Bibles, and school books, and a sewing machine, are exempt, but the privilege is personal only and can be waived at any time. Type-writing machines, organs, etc., leased or hired, are exempt from sale on execution or distress for rent.

Fraud. (See Attachment.)

Garnishment may be had by attachment execution upon any existing judgment of any stock, debts, or deposits of money, or of goods and chattels pawned or pledged. By the attachment the garnishee is summoned to appear and show cause why the debt should not be collected from the effects of the defendant in his hands, and upon his appearance can be compelled to make full disclosure, under oath, in regard to all debts and effects of the defendant under his control.

Holidays. (See Bills and Notes.)

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Interest. The legal rate is 6 per cent; usurious interest can not be collected, and if paid may be recovered back, provided suit is brought therefor within six months after final payment of the debt. Most of the savings banks are by special statute authorized to loan money at higher rates of interest, but by act of 1878 all banking companies are prohibited from taking more than 6 per cent. Commission merchants and agents may contract with parties outside the State for 7 per cent. It is not usury for a borrower to contract to pay the taxes upon the money lent, nor to pay a reasonable attorney's fee in case suit is brought for its collection. Interest is due upon every debt from the time it becomes due and payable. The rate is the same on all debts, whether secured by judgment or not.

Judgments of record bind all the interest of defendant in real estate within the county where the judgment was entered, and under the act of March 23, 1877, a verdict of a jury for a specific sum (unless a new trial is granted) is also a lien on real estate. In either case the lien is against only real estate then owned in the county by the defendant. After-acquired real estate is not affected by the verdict or judgment; but a lien may be acquired on such after-acquired real estate by revival of the judgment as against it; and in the interim, by execution issued against such after-acquired real estate, and indexed in the judgment dockets. Lien exists for five years, and may be continued by revival of the judgment. Pending proceedings to revive a judgment, the lien may be held after five years by issuing execution against the real estate. Justice's judgments become liens by filing transcripts in the court of common pleas.

Limitations of Suits. Contracts, notes, and instruments not under seal, trespass, detinue, replevin, six years; action for trespass, to person, two years; for slander, one year; judgments, mortgages, and sealed instruments will be presumed to be paid after twenty years, but this presumption may be rebutted. Revivor: Acknowledgment, coupled with promise to pay; promise may be implied, if acknowledgment is plain, express, and nothing to negative such implication.

Married Women. By the act of June 8, 1893, it is enacted, etc., That a married woman shall have the same right and power as an unmarried person to acquire, own, possess, control, use, lease, sell or otherwise dispose of any property of any kind, real, personal, or mixed, and either in possession or expectancy, and may exercise the same right and power in the same manner and to the same extent as an unmarried person; but she may not mortgage or convey her real property unless her husband join in such mortgage or conveyance. She may make any contract, in writing or otherwise, which is necessary, appropriate, convenient, or advantageous to the exercise or enjoyment of the rights and powers above mentioned, but she may not become an accommodation endorser, maker, guarantor, or surety for another. She may sue and be sued civilly in all respects and in any form of action, and with the same effect and results and consequences as an unmarried person; but she may not sue her husband except in a proceeding for divorce, or in a proceeding to protect or recover her separate property whensoever he may have deserted or separated himself from her without sufficient cause, or may have neglected or refused to support her; nor may he sue her except in a proceeding for divorce, or to protect or recover his separate property when she may have deserted or separated herself from him without sufficient cause; nor may she be arrested or imprisoned for her torts. Both are competent witnesses in any such proceeding, but neither may testify to confidential communications made by one or the other, unless this privilege be waived at the trial. She may dispose of her property, real and personal, by will, in the same manner as if she were unmarried, but cannot thereby deprive her husband of his right as tenant by curtesy, nor his right to take under the interstate laws.

Mortgages are executed and acknowledged same as deeds, and lien inheres from time of recording except where given for purchase money, when the mortgage is a lien from its date, if recorded within sixty days. Chattel mortgages may be given on mining property, lumber, petroleum, iron, and other articles specified; must be for not less than $500, and must be filed of record. The lien thus created continues one year, and must be revived within thirty days of the expiration of that period, or it becomes void.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. The following days and half days namely: The first day of January, commonly called New Year's Day; the twelfth of February, known as Lincoln's Birthday; the twenty-second day of February, known as Washington's Birthday; Good Friday; the thirtieth of May, known as Memorial Day; the fourth of July, called Independence Day; the first Monday of September, known as Labor Day; the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November, Election Day; the twenty-fifth day of December, known as Christmas Day; and every Saturday after 12 o'clock noon until 12 o'clock midnight, and any day appointed or recommended by the governor of this State or the president of the United States as a day of thanksgiving and prayer or other religious observance shall for all purposes whatever as regards the presenting for payment or acceptance and as regards the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, checks, drafts and promissory notes be treated and considered as the first day of the week commonly called Sunday and as public holidays and half holidays and all such bills, checks, drafts, and notes otherwise presentable for acceptance or payment on any of the said days shall be deemed to be payable and be presentable for acceptance or payment on the secular or business day next succeeding such holiday or half holiday except drafts, checks, bills of exchange, and promissory notes, payable at sight or on demand, which would otherwise be payable at any half holiday Saturday, shall be deemed to be payable at or before twelve o'clock noon of such half holiday, provided, however, that for the purpose of protesting or otherwise holding liable any party to any bill of exchange, check, draft, or promissory note, and which shall not have been paid before twelve o'clock noon of any Saturday designated a half holiday, as aforesaid, a demand or acceptance or payment thereof shall not be made, and notice of protest or dishonor thereof shall not be given, until the next succeeding secular or business day. When holidays occur on Sunday, the following Monday is deemed a legal holiday. Any legal process had on a legal holiday or half holiday is valid; and such holidays and half holidays are treated as business days for all purposes save the presentation and protest of notes, drafts, etc. Days of grace upon all notes and bills of exchange are abolished after January 1, 1896, by act approved June 18, 1895.

Powers of Attorney may be acknowledged before any officer authorized to take acknowledgment of deeds. (See Acknowledgments.)

Probate Law. (See Wills.)

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Replevin may be instituted to recover the possession of personal property. The plaintiff is required to give bond to the sheriff in double the value of the property named in the writ, and the defendant may, if he desires to retain the property, give bond in a like sum. Property under levy or attachment can not be taken from a sheriff or constable by replevin. To try the title to property in such case the claimant must notify the constable of his claim and then has a remedy by suit for damages if his goods are sold as the goods of the defendant. When the property is in the hands of the sheriff the claimant must notify the sheriff of his claim and thereupon pay the sheriff $4. Whereupon the sheriff appraises and sets aside the goods claimed and then asks the court for a rule on the execution creditor and the claimant to maintain or relinquish their respective claims. If the goods were found in the possession of the defendant and the execution creditor avers that they belonged to the defendant, and at the same time the claimant makes out a prima facie title, an issue is framed under which the question of title is tried, the claimant either giving bond and taking the goods or allowing them to be sold and contesting for the proceeds. Upon the trial the ownership of the property is determined, and judgment entered accordingly in the action.

Suits may be commenced at any time. By act of 1887 the forms of action are reduced to two, viz.: ex contractu and ex delicto. For all demands ex contractu the remedy is a suit in assumpsit, and for all demands ex delicto the remedy is a suit in trespass. The statutory pleas in these suits are "non assumpsit" and "not guilty," respectively. All writs of summons are returnable on certain days set by rule of court (and which are in most counties monthly) and in default of an appearance and affidavit of defense judgment may be entered against defendant generally in ten or fifteen days after service. A summons from a justice of the peace (see Courts) is returnable on a day named therein, which must not be less than five nor more than eight days after the date of the writ, and must be served on the debtor at least four days before the date fixed for the hearing of the case. A plaintiff who is a non-resident of the State may have a summons returnable in not less than two nor more than four days by filing a sworn statement of his claim, with a copy of the same to be served with the summons, provided he give bond for costs.

Taxes. Improved lands may be sold for taxes two years delinquent, and "Unseated" lands may be sold for taxes delinquent one year, and are redeemable within two years by payment of taxes and costs and 25 per cent thereon.

Transfer of Corporation Stocks is ordinarily subject to the by-laws of the corporation, and is effected by surrender of certificate, and transfer upon the books of the corporation in person or by attorney.

Wills. Every person of sound mind (married women excepted) may dispose by will of his or her real estate, whether such estate be held in fee simple or for the life or lives of any other person or persons, and whether in severalty, joint tenancy, or common; and of his or her personal estate. Any married woman may dispose by her last will and testament of her separate property, real, personal, or mixed, whether the same accrue to her before or during coverture. Provided, That the said last will and testament be executed in the presence of two or more witnesses, neither of whom shall be her husband; and provided also, That no will shall be effectual unless the testator were, at the time of making the same, of the age of twenty-one years or upward, at which age the testator may dispose of real as well as personal or mixed property, if in other respects competent to make a will. Every will shall be in writing, and unless the person making the same shall be prevented by the extremity of his last sickness shall be signed by him at the end thereof, or by some person in his presence and by his express direction; and in all cases shall be proved by the oaths or affirmations of two or more competent witnesses, otherwise such will shall be of no effect. Provided, That personal estate may be bequeathed by a nuncupative will, under the following restrictions: 1. Such will shall in all cases be made during the last sickness of the testator, and in the house of his habitation or dwelling, or where he has resided for the space of ten days or more next before the making of such will, except where such person shall be surprised by sickness, being from his own house, and shall die before returning thereto; 2. Where the sum or value bequeathed shall exceed the sum of $100, it shall be proved that the testator, at the time of pronouncing the bequest, did bid the persons present, or some one of them, to hear witness that such was his will, or to that effect; and in all cases the foregoing requisites shall be proved by two or more witnesses, who were present at the time of making of such will. Provided, That notwithstanding this act, any mariner being at sea, or any soldier being in actual military service, may dispose of his movables, wages, and personal estate as he might have done before the making of this act. All devises of real estate shall pass the whole of the estate of the testator in the premises devised, although there be no words of inheritance or of perpetuity, unless it appear by a devise over, or by words of limitation, or otherwise in the will, that the testator intended to devise a less estate. The real estate acquired by a testator after making his will shall pass by a general devise, unless a contrary intention be manifest on the face of the will. A devise or bequest by a husband to his wife of any portion of his estate or property shall be deemed and taken to be in lieu and bar of her dower in the estate of such testator, in like manner as if it were so expressed in the will, unless such testator shall in his will declare otherwise. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall deprive the widow of her choice, either of dower or of the estate or property so devised or bequeathed. A devise or bequest in trust for any religious or charitable use, made within one calendar month prior to testator's death, is void.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF RHODE ISLAND

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by WILLIAM G. RICH, Esq., Attorney at Law, Woonsocket. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. (See Proof of Claims.)

Acknowledgment of any instrument required by any statute of this State to be acknowledged shall be made, within this State, before any State senator, judge, justice of the peace, mayor, notary public, town clerk or recorder of deeds; without this State, and within the United States, before any judge or justice of a court of record or other court, justice of the peace, mayor, or notary public of the State, District of Columbia, or Territory in which such acknowledgment is made, or before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State; without the limits of the United States, before any ambassador, minister, charge d'affaires, consul-general, vice-consul-general, consul, vice consul, consular agent, or commercial agent of the United States, or before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State in the country in which such acknowledgment is made. (See Title Deeds.)

Actions and Suits. All actions and suits which concern realty must be brought in the county, or district, if in a district court, in which the land lies; all other actions and suits, either in the county or district where the plaintiff or defendant or some one of the parties plaintiff or defendant shall dwell, or in which the defendant or one of the defendants shall be found. (See Title Courts.)

Administration of Decedent's Estate. In grants of administration the widower or widow is preferred; after them the next of kin; and a bond (except from husband) in double the amount of the personal estate, with sufficient sureties, is required. (See Claims against Estates of Deceased Persons. Concerning limitations of actions, see Limitations.) Executors and administrators are required to account within two years after qualification. The court of probate may allow to the widow her wearing apparel and that of her children, bedding and other household goods, supplies on hand, and other property of the husband, exempt by law from attachment, as it shall judge necessary; and if there are no children it may set off to her such part of the real estate, not required for the payment of debts, as may be suitable for her support, and be, in accordance with the circumstances of the estate, held, in addition to her dower, upon the same terms and conditions and for the same period that she holds dower.

Affidavits may be taken by any magistrate within the State and before any commissioner appointed by the governor within the State or county described in the commission. Affidavits to be used in this State may usually be taken outside of Rhode Island, before magistrates authorized to take depositions. No particular form is prescribed.

Aliens may take, hold, convey, and transmit title to real estate, and may sue for and recover possession of the same in the same way and with the same effect as if they were native-born citizens of the United States.

Appeals may be taken from any decree or order of a probate court or town council to the appellate division of the supreme court within forty days after the decree or order; and from any district court to the common pleas division of the supreme court in any criminal case within five days after conviction; and in any civil case by claim of jury trial within two days after decision; except that in cases for possession of tenements, etc., the claim must be made within six hours after decision.

Arbitration. Controversies or claims relating to estates in the hands of trustees, executors, administrators, and other fiduciaries may be settled by arbitration and award, under authority of the appellate division of the supreme court.

Arrest. The writ may be made to run against the body of the defendant, in the first instance, in any action founded upon a cause of action, except for the recovery of debt or of State or town taxes, and after judgment the execution shall issue as of course running against the goods and chattels and real estate of the defendant, and for want thereof, against his body; also in actions for debts contracted prior to July 1, 1870; and also "whenever the plaintiff in action to be commenced by such writ, his agent or attorney, shall make affidavit to be endorsed thereon or annexed thereto, that the plaintiff has a just claim against the defendant that is due, upon which the plaintiff expects to recover in the action commenced by such writ a sum sufficient to give jurisdiction to the court to which such writ is returnable; and also either that the defendant to be arrested is about to leave the State, without leaving therein real or personal estate whereon an execution that may be obtained in such action can be served, and the plaintiff (or one of the plaintiffs) is an actual resident of the State of Rhode Island; or, that the defendant to be arrested has committed fraud in fact, involving moral turpitude or intentional wrong, either in contracting the debt upon which the action is founded, or in the concealment of his property or in the disposition of the same." The law does not require any bond from the plaintiff, except that one is sometimes given to the sheriff for his protection in doubtful cases. No female shall be arrested in any civil action founded on contract.

Assignments. (See Insolvency.)

Attachment. Attachment process may be issued from the common pleas division of the supreme court, or any district court, whenever the plaintiff in the action to be commenced by such writ, his agent or attorney, shall make affidavit that the plaintiff has a just claim against the defendant, which is due, upon which the plaintiff expects to recover in such action a sum sufficient to give jurisdiction to the court in which such writ is returnable. Personal property of the debtor (unless secured by bill of exchange or negotiable promissory note), in the hands of any person, partnership, or corporation, is subject to garnishment.

Banks. There are six of these institutions, all chartered before national banks were created by congress, total capital, $916,675; bills in circulation, $974. Banks, like all business corporations, are, under the constitution of Rhode Island, chartered by special act presented to one legislature, and, after public notice, granted by a succeeding legislature. In most charters now in force is a provision making stockholders liable for all debts of the bank. The legislature, or the governor, when the legislature is not in session, may at any time appoint a special commission to examine one or more banks; and if three or more officers, stockholders, or creditors of any bank, make a written complaint, the governor shall appoint such a commission. Banks are not required to make public statements of their condition, but must report to the State auditor on a day between November 15th and December 15th in each year, the day to be subsequently designated by him. These reports are quite full, covering substantially what is reported by national banks. An abstract of all the reports is published by the State auditor as soon as may be. Savings banks may invest in public stocks or bonds of any State or of the United States, or in any bank stock, or in notes or bonds of any town or city, or in notes of any school district or fire district in New England, or in such corporate stocks or bonds as they deem safe, or they may discount notes, bonds, or drafts of individuals or corporations, with two other responsible indorsers, sureties, or guarantors and other notes, bonds, or drafts properly secured by public notes, etc., or by mortgage on real estate.

Chattel Mortgages must be acknowledged; same must also be recorded, or else possession of the mortgaged property must be taken and retained by mortgagee within five days from the date of the signing thereof. Foreclosure is usually effected by sale under power in the mortgage. Mortgagor may redeem at any time within sixty days after condition broken, unless the property shall have been sold pursuant to the contract between the parties.

Claims against Estates of Deceased Persons. All claims must be presented to the executor or administrator, or filed in the office of the probate clerk, within six months from the date of the first advertisement of the notice of his qualification, or within any longer period not exceeding one year from such date, if the probate court shall establish such longer period. No claims other than those presented as aforesaid can be enforced against said estate. Debts due to the United States, the necessary funeral charges of the deceased, the charges for medical attendance and nursing specially employed, and medicines used in the last illness, debts due to this State, and all State and town taxes, are to be first paid, and in the order in which they are named. If a commission on either solvent or insolvent estates be requested, such commission shall be appointed by the court at once, and shall report on the contested claims within a period of three months, unless further time be allowed for cause shown. Such commissioners shall give due notice of the times and places of their meetings to hear the creditors on their claims, and they or either of them may administer oaths to and compel the attendance of witnesses. Any person whose claim is not allowed in the whole by the commission shall have the right to appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court, or claim a jury trial in the common pleas division of the supreme court.

Collaterals. No person holding stock in any manufacturing corporation as collateral security, shall be personally liable, by virtue of such stock, to any liabilities as a stockholder of such company.

Contracts. All contracts made by any person under guardianship shall be void. Assignments of wages to be earned in the future will be void unless recorded, except that the same shall be valid between the parties thereto. Contracts for the sale of lands, or the lease thereof for a longer time than one year; upon consideration of marriage; or not to be performed within one year from the making thereof, must be in writing and signed by the party to be charged or his lawfully authorized agent.

Conveyances. (See Title, Deeds.)

Corporations. No corporation to carry on the business of insurance or banking, no bank, savings bank, trust company, or corporation trading in bonds, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness, shall be created except on petition to the general assembly. All kinds of corporations may be created by the general assembly under special charter, but corporations for business purposes, except those kinds above enumerated, may be created by means of articles of association setting forth: 1. The agreement of any three or more corporators to constitute a corporation; 2. Name by which it shall be known; 3. The purpose for which constituted. 4. Place or places of its location. 5. If it have a capital stock, the amount, whether common or preferred, and how much of each, number of shares each person is to take, and par value of shares. Same articles to be signed by all the corporators, stating residence of each, and same shall be acknowledged as deeds of real estate are required to be acknowledged, and then shall be filed in the office of the secretary of State. The secretary of State issues a certificate under the seal of the State which shall be conclusive evidence of the existence of such corporation. (See General Laws, Chap. 176.) All manufacturing and some other business corporations are subject to certain provisions of the statutes, among the most important of which is the liability of its members, jointly and severally ("limited to the shares of such members in such corporations paid up to the par value thereof") for all the debts and contracts of the corporation until the whole amount of the capital stock shall have been paid in and a certificate thereof, signed and sworn to by the president, treasurer, and clerk, and by a majority of the directors, shall have been recorded in the office of the town clerk of the town in which the manufactory of the corporation is established. After the making and recording of such certificate the stockholders shall also be under the same liability, and also "in an additional amount up to, but not exceeding, the par value of their said shares," unless a certificate, signed by a majority of the directors, truly stating the amount of the capital stock actually paid in, the value, as last assessed for a town tax, of the corporation's real estate, the value of its personal assets, and the amount of its debts and liabilities on the 31st day of December of the year last preceding, shall be recorded annually in such town clerk's office on or before the 15th day of February. But if this annual certificate be not so made and filed by a majority of the directors or other officers of such company, any stockholder may exempt himself from liability for its debts in consequence of such neglect by filing in such town clerk's office, on or before the 25th day of the same February, a true return, under oath, of the situation of the corporation in the same matters, as nearly as he can ascertain them, or by filing in the said office a statement, under oath, that a majority of the directors or other officers of such company have been requested by him to make the return required, and that they have refused or neglected so to do, and that the stockholder is not able to make the required return; such statement so made by a stockholder and filed as aforesaid shall be published in some daily newspaper published in Providence, and if said corporation is located without Providence county, in a newspaper in the county where the corporation is located. If any of the officers neglect or refuse to make and record the first return of the capital paid in, within ten days after it is paid in, they shall be jointly and severally liable for all debts contracted after said ten days and until the certificate is recorded. (See General Laws, Chap. 180, and Amended Constitution of Rhode Island, Art. IV, Sec. 17.)

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. The supreme court has full equity powers and it is the supreme court of probate. The law provides for an appellate division, and also for a common pleas division, of said court. The appellate division is in session from the third Monday in September to the third Monday in July in every year in Providence, except that on the third Monday in September and on the second Monday in May it shall attend at Newport, within and for the county of Newport, and on the second Monday in November and on the second Monday in April it shall attend at South Kingston, within and for the county of Washington, to the business of the division arising in said counties, respectively. The common pleas division in Providence county holds one continuous session, commencing on the third Monday in September and ending on the third Monday in the following July; and in each of the other counties it holds four sessions yearly and every year. The appellate division has exclusive jurisdiction of all suits and proceedings in equity, to issue all prerogative and all extraordinary writs and processes, and of petitions for divorce and alimony, and petitions for a new trial in any case. Common pleas division has original jurisdiction where the claim or demand exceeds $300. The State is divided into twelve districts, in each of which is a district court, having jurisdiction in civil causes when the sum sued for does not exceed $300. The town councils are courts of probate within their respective towns, and the municipal court of Providence is the court of probate of that city. Any town may, however, elect a probate judge at its annual election.

Days of Grace. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Deeds. Every conveyance of lands, tenements, or hereditaments absolutely, by way of mortgage, or on condition, use, or trust, for any term longer than one year, shall be void unless made in writing, duly signed, acknowledged, delivered, and recorded in the records of land-evidence in the town or city where the said lands, tenements or hereditaments are situated: Provided, however, that the same, if delivered, as between the party and their heirs, and as against those taking by gift or devise, or those having notice thereof, shall be valid and binding, though not acknowledged or recorded. Such instrument may be referred to as, and shall be, a deed, though no seal be affixed thereto. Acknowledgment of any deed must be by all the parties grantors, including married women, even though releasing dower only. (See Acknowledgment.)

Depositions. Except in equity cases, any justice of the supreme court, justice of the peace, or notary public, may take the depositions of any witness, to be used in the trial of any civil suit, action, petition, or proceeding, in which he is not interested, nor counsel, nor the attorney of either party, and which shall then be commenced or pending in this State, or in any other State, or in the District of Columbia, or in any territory, government or country. Previous to the taking of any deposition as aforesaid within this State, the official authorized to take the same shall, in all cases, cause the adverse party, or his attorney of record, to be notified of the time and place appointed for taking such deposition, so that he may attend and put interrogatories to the deponent if he think fit. Depositions taken without this State to be used in the tribunals thereof, may be taken by such person and in the manner and with the formalities required by the law of the State, District of Columbia, territory or country in which the same shall be taken. Every person, before deposing, shall be sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and shall subscribe his name to such deposition in the presence of the official before whom the same was taken. The deposition, so taken, shall be retained by such magistrate, officer, or commissioner, until he deliver the same with his own hand to the court for which it is taken, or shall, together with a certificate of its having been duly taken, be, by said magistrate, officer, or commissioner, sealed up and directed to such court, and remain so sealed until opened by order of the court, or of some justice thereof, or by the clerk, by the consent of the parties; and any person may be compelled to appear and depose as aforesaid within this State, in the same manner as to appear and testify in court.

Instructions for Taking Depositions. The magistrate, officer, or commissioner authorized to take depositions, in his notification to the adverse party, should state the time and place appointed, and the names of witnesses to be examined, which must be served by a proper officer, or by any impartial or disinterested person, who must make oath to his return. The depositions, when taken, will be returned under seal to the court in which the suit is pending with a certificate, indorsed by the magistrate, of the contents and name of the case.

Descent and Distribution. Real estate of an intestate descends in the following order: 1. To children or their descendants. 2. To father. 3. To mother, brothers and sisters and their descendants. In default of these, in equal moieties to the paternal and maternal kindred: 1. To grandfather. 2. To grandmother, uncles and aunts, or their descendants. 3. To great-grandfathers or great-grandfather, if there be but one. 4. To great-grandmothers or great-grandmother, if there be but one, and the brothers and sisters of grandfathers and grandmothers, and their descendants; and so on without end. If the title of the intestate came "by descent, gift, or devise from the parent or other kindred of the intestate, and such intestate die without children, such estate shall go to the kin next to the intestate of the blood of the person from whom such estate came or descended, if any there be." Dower and curtesy exists substantially as at common law. Personal estate, not bequeathed, is distributed as follows, viz.: 1. One-half to the widow of person dying without issue. 2. One-third to the widow when there is issue living. 3. The remainder is distributed in manner provided for the descent of real estate, but without regard to the person from whom such personal estate came or descended. Upon the decease of a married woman the whole goes to her surviving husband.

Divorce may be granted by the appellate division of the supreme court upon the petition of a domiciled inhabitant of the State, who has resided therein for one year next before preferring his petition, for either of the following causes, viz.: Marriage originally void or voidable by law; when party is for crime deemed to be civilly dead (i. e., convicted of murder or arson), or from absence may be presumed to be dead; impotency, adultery, extreme cruelty, willful desertion for five years, or for a shorter period, in the discretion of the court; continued drunkenness; neglect or refusal of the husband, he being of sufficient ability, to provide necessaries for subsistence of the wife; and for other gross misbehavior and wickedness repugnant to and in violation of the marriage covenant.

Dower. (See Descent and Distribution.)

Executions. Execution issues after twenty-four hours immediately following the entry of judgment; returnable three months after date thereof in district court, and in six months in other courts; can only be stayed by order of the court. There is no redemption of property sold under execution. In default of goods and chattels or real estate on which to levy, execution may issue against the body of the debtor in cases where fraud is alleged, and for recovery of costs in actions of trespass and ejectment.

Exemptions. No homestead law. Necessary wearing apparel of debtor and his family; working tools of a debtor, not exceeding $200, including the professional library of any professional man in actual practice, and household furniture and family stores $300, are exempt from attachment and execution, where the debtor is a householder.

Garnishment. Personal estate of the defendant in the hands of any person, copartnership, or corporation may be attached. The debtor of the defendant should file an affidavit setting forth his liability, etc.

Holidays. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Insolvency. The appellate division of the supreme court has jurisdiction of cases and proceedings in insolvency. Any inhabitant of, corporation chartered by or under the authority of, copartners whose firm is established and doing business in a copartnership established and doing business in this State, who is insolvent and owes debts in this State to the amount of $300 or more, may prefer his voluntary petition under oath for relief as an insolvent. Such petitioner shall also file under oath, with his petition, an exhibit containing a statement of all debts, and the creditors, and of the evidences and securities of the amounts due, and an exhibit containing a schedule of all his property, assets and estate, except only such property, other than bills of exchange and negotiable promissory notes, as is exempt from attachment by law. The filing thereof shall be an act of insolvency, and upon proof of the facts therein stated to the satisfaction of the court, such petitioner shall be adjudged insolvent. One or more creditors holding in the aggregate claims not less than one-fourth in amount of all the debts against an inhabitant of this State owing debts in this State to the amount of $300 or over, may prefer a petition in insolvency against such debtor, alleging that such debtor, within four months prior to the filing of the petition, has procured or suffered to remain for forty days an attachment of or levy upon his property, with intent to give or suffer a preference to be obtained thereby, or, being insolvent, has suffered judgment to be entered against him, or has made a conveyance, gift, or transfer of his property, assets or rights, with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, or has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, and upon due proof of the facts stated in such petition, said debtor shall be adjudged an insolvent. Involuntary insolvency is also adjudged for other causes mentioned in the statute. (See General Laws, Ch. 274.) Creditors' meetings shall be held, at which a majority in value of the claims shall constitute a quorum. Creditors may vote by proxy. If the creditors at their first meeting do not appoint assignees, or an assignee of the insolvent, the court may do so. Assignees shall give bond to the court. Proof of a claim may be made by a writing under oath, by a creditor, stating the nature and amount of his claim, the consideration therefor, the securities, if any, for it, and what payments, if any, have been made on account of the same. Dividends are declared on all allowed claims.

Interest. The legal rate of interest is 6 per cent, but any rate of interest agreed upon between the parties may be taken. Rates on judgments, notes, or open accounts, etc., is 6 per cent, unless a different rate be stipulated by the parties. Interest begins to run on accounts from the expiration of stipulated term of credit, or at a time fixed by usage of trade.

Judgments are not a lien on real estate. Foreign judgments are proved in accordance with act of Congress. There is no statute or rule of court on the subject.

Liens. Persons doing work for, or furnishing materials to be used in the construction, erection, or reparation of any building, canal, turnpike, railroad, or other improvement of the owner of the land on which same is situated, by contract with such owner, or with the husband of such owner with the consent of his wife in writing, has a lien thereon for such work and materials, subject to the encumbrances on land at time of the commencement of work or delivery of the materials. A sub-contractor has such lien, provided he gives written notice to the owner of the property affected thereby within thirty days after begining work, and sixty days after materials are placed upon the land, that he will claim such lien. (See General Laws, Ch. 206.)

Limitations of Suits. Accounts, six years; simple promissory notes, six years; sealed instruments and judgments, twenty years. An oral promise and partial payment revive the debt. No action can be brought against any executor or administrator before six months from the date of the first publication of the notice of the qualification of the first executor or administrator, and no such action shall be brought after the expiration of two years from the date of such publication.

Married Women. The property of a married woman is secured to her separate use, and is not liable for debts of her husband. She can transact business as a trader as though single and unmarried. Bond executed by her is legal and binding. She may make any contract whatsoever, the same as if she were single and unmarried, and with the same rights and liabilities. Property secured to her shall be liable to attachment and levy for her debts and liabilities under the same circumstances and with the same effect as if she had continued sole and unmarried. (See Deeds.)

Mortgages must be executed in the same manner as deeds, and recorded [see ante]. Foreclosure is usually enforced by sale under power in the mortgage, which in most cases enables the mortgagee to sell after prescribed notice thereof published in newspaper, after default. Mortgages may be discharged by release on the face of the record, or upon original mortgage deed, or by separate deed of discharge and release. Mortgages are usually given to secure promissory note of the mortgagor to the mortgagee's order, described in the mortgage.

Notes and Bills of Exchange are governed by the provisions of chap. 674 of the Public Laws, entitled "An Act Relating to Negotiable Instruments." Every negotiable instrument except sight drafts is payable at the time fixed therein without grace. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday, or a holiday, the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. Legal holidays are the first day of January, the 22d day of February, the first Wednesday of April, the 30th day of May, the 4th day of July, the first Monday of September, the 25th day of December, and each of said days in every year, such day as the Governor of this State shall appoint as labor day in every year, the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November in the year 1896, and in every second year thereafter, or when either of the said days falls on the first day of the week, then the day following it, the first day of every week, and such other days as the Governor or General Assembly of this State, or the President, or the Congress of the United States, shall appoint as holidays for any purpose, days of thanksgiving, or days of solemn fast, and Saturdays after 12 o'clock M. Holidays (other than Sunday) falling on Sunday, are observed on Monday following. Indorsers of commercial paper are holden on notice from notary public, in accordance with the usages of commercial law.

Power of Attorney. The power of attorney of a married woman to convey her dower interest in any estate of husband during his lifetime shall be executed and acknowledged by her with the like formalities as are required in the execution and acknowledgment of a deed by a husband and wife of an estate held in the right of the wife.

Probate Law. (See Administration of Decedent's Estate.)

Proof of Claims. The proof of claims by affidavit is not required, except in insolvency. An affidavit drawn in compliance with the law as mentioned under title Attachment, or Arrest, should be sent with the claim when suit is to be brought. Claims must be filed with assignees within six months from the date of the published notice of the assignment. If disallowed the assignee gives notice in writing to creditor, who must sue within sixty days. Non-resident plaintiffs may always be required to give security for costs after a suit is entered in court, and other plaintiffs in the discretion of the court.

Protest. Notes, bills of exchange, and drafts are protested by notary public.

Replevin. Any personal estate may be replevied by the owner, unless he be defendant in a suit in which such property has been attached. Bond in double the value of the property replevied, with sufficient sureties, is required.

Revision. The last revision of the Rhode Island statutes went into effect February 1, 1896, and is termed "General Laws of Rhode Island, 1896."

Taxes are a lien on real estate, and lands may be sold for taxes delinquent after due notice given. Owner, or his heirs or assigns, may redeem within one year by paying purchase money with 20 per cent in addition.

Trust Deeds are executed the same as other deeds. They are in common use, but not usual, as security for loans, the mortgage deed with power of sale being more effectual.

Wills. All wills of lands, tenements, and hereditaments, and bequests of personal estate, shall be in writing and signed by the party devising and bequeathing the same, or by some person in his presence and by his express direction; and shall be attested and subscribed in his presence by at least two witnesses, or else shall be void and of no effect. No form of proof is required, but the subscribing witnesses should appear at probate of the will, if living in the State. Non-residents may be executors of wills. Every person being upwards of eighteen years of age may dispose of personal estate and every person of twenty-one years or above may dispose of real estate by last will and testament. The will of a married woman shall not impair the rights of her husband upon her death, as tenant by the curtesy. Wills are recorded in the town clerk's office of the town where the testator lived. [Gen. Statutes, Ch. 202.]

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF SOUTH CAROLINA

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. MORDECAI & GADSDEN, Attorneys at Law, Charleston. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts and Claims. Accounts should be itemized and contain a statement of all payments and credits. Full names of creditors and residence should be sent. If partnership, firm name and full name of each partner. If corporation, its name and under the laws of what State incorporated. Claims should be verified by a member of the firm or officer of the corporation before a notary public having a seal, or a commissioner of deeds for South Carolina.

Acknowledgments. All deeds for the conveyance of real estate must be signed and sealed by the grantor in the presence of two witnesses, and recorded within the county in which the land lies, within forty days from the time of delivery or execution. Before any deed or other instrument in writing can be recorded in the proper office within the State, the execution thereof shall first be proved by the affidavit, in writing, of a subscribing witness to such instrument, taken before some officer within the State competent to administer an oath, or before a commissioner or commissioners appointed by dedimus, issued from the court of common pleas of the county in which the instrument is to be recorded; or, if taken without the limits of the State, and within the United States, before a commissioner of deeds of the State, or before a clerk of a court of record, who shall certify the same under his official seal, or before a notary public, who shall affix thereto his official seal, and accompany the same with a certificate as to his official character from a clerk of a court of record of the county in which the affidavit is taken; or, if taken without the United States, before a consul or vice-consul or consular agent of the United States of America. All verifications of pleadings, affidavits, and proofs of claims made before notaries public in other States have the same force and effect as if sworn to before a commissioner of deeds, provided notary shall use his official seal.

Actions. Suits in the court of common pleas are begun by issuing a summons and filing complaint. The complaint must be signed by the party or his attorney, and may or may not be verified. All distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity have been abolished.

Administration of Estates. Letters testamentary are granted after the probate of any last will and testament in due form of law, by and before the proper judge of probate. The filing of a bond by executors is not required. In case any person die intestate, the judge of probate of the county where such person was last a resident and died shall grant administration of the goods, chattels, rights, credits of such person deceased to his or her relations in the order following: 1. To the husband or wife of the deceased. 2. The children or their legal representatives. 3. In default of them, then to the father or mother of the deceased. 4. To the brothers or sisters. 5. In default of them, to such of the next of kindred of the deceased, at the discretion of the judge of probate, as shall be entitled to a distributive share of the intestate estate. 6. Next to the largest creditor or such other person as the court shall appoint.

Affidavits. All affidavits should be made before a commissioner of deeds for South Carolina, or before a notary public having an official seal. The affidavit used for the purpose of proving the execution of deeds when taken without the limits of this State, but within the United States, must be made before a commissioner of deeds for this State, or before the clerk of a court of record, who must use his official seal, or before a notary public, who must also use his official seal, and whose official character, signature, and seal must be certified to by the certificate of the clerk of a court of record of the county in which the affidavit is made. If taken without the United States it must be made before a consul, vice-consul, or consular agent of the United States.

Aliens. No alien person, either in his own right in severalty, or as tenant in common, in fee or for a term of years, or as trustee, cestui qui trust, or agent, shall own or control within the limits of this State more than five hundred acres of land, provided this section does not apply to land purchased under proceedings to foreclose mortgage held by foreign corporations purchasing the same, but in such case such foreign corporation shall not be entitled to hold said excess of land more than five years without sale of the same, unless the comptroller-general shall certify that a sale during that time would be detrimental to the interest of such corporation, in which case said land may be held for five years longer upon same conditions. This article does not apply to lands already owned or controlled by the persons or corporations referred to in this article, nor to lands already mortgaged to such persons or corporations.

Appeals. The supreme court shall have exclusive jurisdiction to review upon appeal; any intermediate judgment, order, or decree involving the merits in actions commenced in the court of common pleas and general sessions brought there by original process, or removed there from any inferior court or jurisdiction, and final judgment in such actions. An order affecting a substantial right made in an action when such order in effect determines the action and prevents a judgment from which an appeal might be taken. Whenever an appeal is taken to the supreme court the appellant or his attorney shall, within ten days from the order or judgment appealed from, give notice of intention to appeal to the opposite party or his attorney.

Arbitration. Any and all persons in cases of disagreement may propose to leave their differences to arbitration, each party to enter into bond in double the amount involved to faithfully abide the result of such arbitration. One arbitrator is selected by each party and the two so selected to choose the third. Each of the arbitrators shall take an oath to render a verdict according to the law and the evidence. The finding of the board of arbitrators is final, except that either party shall have the right to appeal to the circuit court, upon which appeal the circuit court shall hear the case without the intervention of a jury. The award of the arbitrators must be filed with the clerk of the court of common pleas within five days after the finding and when so filed becomes a judgment of the court for such county. Arbitrators have power to subpoena witnesses and send for papers with same powers and penalties as now apply to the magistrate's court.

Arrest. A defendant may be arrested when he has been guilty of fraud in contracting the debt or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property for the taking, detention or conversion of which the action is brought; to recover damages for fraud or deceit; when the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors; also when defendant as a public officer, officer of a corporation, attorney, factor, broker, agent, or other person in a fiduciary character fraudulently misapplies or embezzles money or property. The order for arrest must be obtained from a judge, trial justice, or clerk of court in which or before whom the action is brought. The judge or other officer must require a written undertaking with or without sureties in a sum not less than $100, to the effect that if the defendant recover a judgment, the plaintiff will pay all costs and damages if the arrest be wrongful.

Assignments and Insolvency. An embarrassed debtor may assign his property for the benefit of creditors, who have the right to appoint an agent or agents equal to the number of assignees. Where none are appointed, assignee can act alone and must report to creditors every three months. The compensation of assignee and agent is 5 per cent for receiving, and 2½ per cent for paying out money. The assignment of all his property by a debtor under arrest effects his discharge from such arrest. Only the claims of creditors participating in dividends are affected by these assignments, and then only as to creditors who by the term of deed are required to release. The debtor, however, can make no preferences or priorities other than as to debts due the public and to such creditors as shall release under the assignment, and all transactions within ninety days before assignment, with a view to give fraudulent preference to any creditor or creditors, are null and void.

Attachments will issue in an action arising on contract for the recovery of money, or in an action for the wrongful conversion of personal property, or for the recovery of property, whether real or personal, and damages for the wrongful conversion and detention of personal property or in an action for injury done to either person or property, or against a corporation created by or under the laws of any other State, government or country, or against a debtor who has absconded or concealed himself, or whenever any person or corporation is about to remove any of his or its property from the State, or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of, or secrete any of his or its property, with intent to defraud creditors; the creditor, at the time of issuing the summons, or at any time thereafter, may have the property of such debtor or corporation attached as a security for the satisfaction of such judgment as the creditor may recover. Proceedings in case of attachment are prescribed by the code.

Banks. SEC. 1539a. The total liabilities to any such bank of any person other than a director or officer thereof, or of any company, corporation, or firm, for money borrowed, including in the liabilities of a company or firm the liabilities of the several members thereof, shall at no time exceed one-tenth part of the amount of the capital stock of any such bank actually paid in and its surplus, except by a two-thirds vote of the directors of the bank; but the discount of bills of exchange drawn in good faith against actual existing values and the discount of commercial or business papers shall not be considered as money borrowed.

SEC. 1540. No director or other officer of any such bank shall borrow therefrom, except on good security, to be approved in writing by two-thirds of the whole board of directors of such bank, and no director or other officer of any such bank shall become an endorser or surety upon any loan or credit made or extended to any other director or officer of such bank: Provided, That the total liabilities to any such bank of any director, or of any firm of which such director is a member, or any company or corporation of which such director is an officer, shall at no time exceed one-tenth part of the amount of the capital stock of any such bank actually paid in. If any director or other officer of any such bank shall be convicted upon indictment of directly or indirectly violating any of the provisions of this section, and of the said section 1539a, he shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or by both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court.

The books, papers, and accounts of all banks shall be opened to inspection, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law. Revised Statutes, Vol. 1, Section 605, says: "The comptroller-general shall collate the various statements in the monthly returns made to him by the banks, so as to present a comparative view of all the items thereof, and shall publish the same in some public newspaper, for general information. Every bank failing to make such returns shall forfeit to the use of the State, to be recovered by the comptroller by action, $25 for each and every day's neglect." Section 606 provides: "The comptroller-general shall, at least once in every month, collect the accounts of the weekly state of their circulation and specie, rendered by the several banks of issue, in conformity with law, and publish the same, so collected, in some newspaper. And any bank, the officers whereof shall neglect to transmit to the comptroller-general any such account aforesaid, shall forfeit $100 for each and every day during which the same shall be neglected, to be recovered by action at the suit of the State." Section 607: "It shall be the duty of the comptroller-general, whenever it appears that any bank, or any officer of a bank, has incurred any forfeiture for any official misconduct, to cause suit to be brought against such bank or officer, by the attorney general or the solicitor of the circuit in which such bank is situated, for the recovery of the same. And in case he shall, at any time, have cause to suspect that a false or incorrect account has been rendered to him by any bank, he shall have authority, and it shall be his duty, to make a personal examination of the books of such bank, in order to ascertain the truth; and any officer of a bank who shall refuse to submit the books of said bank to the comptroller-general for such examination, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be subject to fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court." There are no laws restricting savings banks incorporated by the State as to the class of bonds or securities in which they may make investments. No irregularity in complying with the provisions of the general incorporating act shall be held to vitiate any charter until proceedings to set aside and annul the charter shall be instituted by the State, and all acts done and contracts entered into shall have the same force and effect as if said irregularity had not existed.

SECTION 1455. The president, directors, and company of any incorporated bank in this State are authorized to make loans on negotiable paper for any period not exceeding twelve months; and also to open an account and give a credit to any other bank or banks in any of the sister States.

SEC. 1456. Such corporations shall have the power to vest, from time to time, such part of their capital, not exceeding (with the amount of stock any such bank may hold) one-half of the amount originally subscribed to such bank, in the stock of this State or United States.

SEC. 1457. If the bank notes issued by any bank, and in circulation, shall at any time exceed, for more than four successive weeks, three times the amount of gold and silver coin and bullion in possession of the bank, or subject to its control, within the limits of this State, as its own property, such bank shall forfeit $500 for each and every successive week during which such excess shall continue, to be recovered by action at the suit of the State.

SEC. 1458. In order that such excess, when it exists, may be apparent, it shall be the duty of the president or cashier of every bank of issue, on Wednesday of every week, to transmit to the comptroller-general an account of the amount of bank notes of such bank in circulation; and also an account of the amount of gold and silver coin and bullion in the possession of the bank, or subject to its control as its own property, on the next preceding Tuesday, which account shall be certified by the oath of the president or cashier, taken before and certified by any officer duly authorized to administer oaths.

SEC. 1459. Any bank the officers whereof shall neglect to transmit to the comptroller-general any such account aforesaid shall forfeit $100 for each and every day during which the same shall be neglected, to be recovered by action at the suit of the State.

SEC. 1460. It shall be felony for any president, director, manager, or cashier, or other officer of any banking institution, to receive any deposits or trusts or to create any debts for such corporation after he shall become aware that such corporation is insolvent; and every officer of such failing corporation shall become personally liable to the amount of such deposits or trusts received by him, or with his knowledge or assent, in any such case, to the person thereby damaged, whether criminal prosecution be made or not.

SEC. 1461. No bank now or hereafter to be incorporated in this State shall be compelled by law to pay any of their bills which have been, or may be hereafter, cut in half or divided, unless both halves of said bill or bills are presented, or unless the person producing one half and demanding payment as of the whole shall first give bond and sufficient security to the said bank as an indemnity against any loss or damage that may be sustained by the said bank by paying the whole of said half bills to said person.

SEC. 1462. The words "bank note" shall be understood to include all bills, notes, checks, and other obligations of any bank made payable to bearer on demand, or in any form of words whatsoever, written, printed, or engraved, so as to be circulated and used as paper money or currency; and the words "bank of issue" shall be understood to include every bank having lawful authority to issue its own bank notes.

SEC. 1464. All institutions doing business in this State in lending money and receiving deposits under acts of incorporation granted by the State are hereby required, under penalty of a forfeiture of their charters, to publish in a newspaper in the city, town, or village where they or any branch thereof may do business, at the end of every three months, a correct report of the condition and business of such institution, which report shall contain a statement under oath, by the president or cashier of such institution, of the amount of capital stock paid in, deposits, discounts, property, and liabilities of said institution, verified by three of the directors thereof. Upon failure of any such institution to publish such report, the attorney-general, on notice thereof, shall at once take the necessary steps to vacate the charter of said institution.

How incorporated under General Laws. Under the act of 1896 there is no distinction in the incorporation of banks from the incorporation of any other corporation. All corporations are organized under a general law. (See Corporations.)

Bills and Notes. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Bills of Lading. The usual principles of mercantile law are applicable to bills of lading in this State.

Chattel Mortgages. The law in regard to chattel mortgages provides that in case the condition is broken the mortgagee appoints an agent with authority to foreclose, who immediately takes possession of the property and advertises the same for sale at a given date. Mortgagor has right to redeem property at any time before sale by paying debt and all costs. Chattel mortgages must be recorded within forty days in order to take effect from the day of their execution, but if recorded after such time they take effect as to third parties without notice only from the date of the record.

Claim Delivery. The plaintiff in an action to recover the possession of personal property may at the time of issuing the summons or at any time before answer claim the immediate delivery of such property by making the necessary affidavit and executing bond in double the value of the property, and defendant may require redelivery of property by executing a like bond.

Collaterals. Collateral loans are allowed in this State, and collateral notes are commonly used.

Contracts. Every agreement whereby the vendor or bailor reserves any interest in personal property, must be recorded in the same manner as mortgages. This is not applicable to livery-stable keepers and inn keepers.

Conveyances. All conveyances of real estate must be signed and sealed by the grantor in the presence of two subscribing witnesses and recorded within forty days. If recorded after forty days then they take effect as to third parties only from the date of record. If the grantor be married his wife must renounce her dower in a peculiar form prescribed by statute.

Corporations. Two or more persons desiring to form themselves into a corporation for any purpose whatsoever except railroad, railway, tramway, turnpike and canal corporations, and except also for municipal purposes, or one or more combined of any character whatsoever, may file with the secretary of State a written declaration, signed by themselves, setting forth: First, the name and residences of the petitioners; Second, name of the proposed corporation; Third, place at which it proposes to have its principal place of business; Fourth, the general nature of the business which it proposes to do; Fifth, the amount of capital stock; Sixth, the number of shares into which it is to be divided, stating the par value of each share; Seventh, any other matter which it may be desirable to set forth. Upon the filing of the petition as above, and the payment of a fee of three dollars for recording of said petition, the secretary of State shall issue to the parties a commission constituting them a board of corporators and giving them authority to open books of subscription after public notice not exceeding ten days. A corporation can not be organized until 50 per cent of the proposed capital stock has been subscribed. Upon the completion of the organization and payment to the treasurer of the corporation of at least 20 per cent of the aggregate amount of the capital subscribed, the board of corporators or a majority of them shall, over their signatures, certify to the secretary of State that the requirements of this act have been complied with. The board of corporators on making their return shall pay to the secretary of State a charter fee graded as follows: $5.00 for capital stock of $5,000 or less; $10.00 for more than $5,000 up to and including $25,000; $15.00 for more than $25,000 up to and including $50,000; $20.00 for more than $50,000 up to and including $100,000; $25.00 for more than $100,000 up to and including $250,000, and one dollar additional for each ten thousand dollars increase or fraction thereof above $250,000. Upon the filing of return and the receipt of the recording fee of three dollars and the charter fee hereinbefore specified, the secretary of State shall issue to the board of corporators a certificate to be known as the charter, which must be recorded in the office of the register of mesne conveyance of each county where such corporation shall have a business office. Provided, that in cases when by the terms of the declaration the capital stock is to be paid in in installments, the charter may be issued when 50 per cent of the first installment has been paid in and the provisions of this are in other respects complied with. There is no stock liability in corporations organized under the constitution of 1895 and the act of 1896 except in the case of banking corporations which has already been stated. The legislature is prohibited from passing any special charter for banking corporations, and all corporations must be organized under this act, except those enumerated above. As to dissolution of corporations, see A. A., 1898; page 771.

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. Courts of common pleas are held three times a year in each county, and have jurisdiction in all civil cases not cognizable by the trial justices. Actions to be tried in the county where land lies or in which the defendant resides.

Days of Grace. Days of grace are allowed in this State on all paper not payable on demand.

Deeds of Trust. Deeds of trust are sometimes used within this State, but the usual form is by way of mortgage, whether the same concerns either real or personal property, and a deed of trust for the purpose of securing a creditor would be construed by the courts to be a mortgage.

Depositions. Testimony of any witness may be taken in any civil action depending in the court of common pleas for any county in this State, by deposition de bene esse—when the witness lives without the county in which such cause is to be tried, or more than 100 miles from the place of trial, or is bound on a voyage to sea, or is about to go out of the State or county in which the cause is to be tried, or when he is aged or infirm. The deposition may be taken before any circuit judge of this State, or any of the circuit courts, or any trial justice, notary public, chancellor, judge or justice of the supreme court, or chief magistrate of a city in any of the United States. Notice not less than ten days must be given to the opposite party, stating the time, place, and name of witness.

Descent and Distribution of Intestate's Property. Property of person dying intestate shall be distributed as follows: Leaving a widow and children, one-third to the widow, remainder to the children; when he leaves no child, but a widow, father or mother, brother or sister of the whole blood, the widow is entitled to one moiety, and the other moiety goes to father, mother, brother or sister, children of a deceased brother or sister to represent parents; to take the share they would have been entitled to if living. When the intestate leaves no child or other lineal descendant, father, mother, brother or sister of the whole blood, but leaves a widow and brothers and sisters of the half blood and a child of a brother or sister of the whole blood, the widow takes one moiety and the other moiety is equally divided between the brothers and sisters of the half blood and the children of the brothers and sisters of the whole blood. If intestate leaves no child or lineal descendant, father, brother, mother or sister, the widow takes one moiety and the lineal ancestor the other. If intestate leaves no child or lineal descendants, father, mother, brother or lineal ancestor, the widow takes two-thirds of the estate and remainder goes to next of kin.

Any officer or employe of such corporations who shall obstruct said examiner in the discharge of his duties shall, on conviction, be guilty of misdemeanor. The State bank examiner is required to give bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars and receive the salary of fifteen hundred dollars, exclusive of his actual railroad fare. A number of other requirements exist concerning the filing with the secretary of State of copies of the charter and by-laws and other matters of detail. The act is very mandatory in its provisions, and a fine of five hundred dollars is imposed for non-compliance.

Foreign Insurance Companies, in addition to the license fee of $100 now provided by law, are required to pay quarterly to State treasurer an amount equal to one-half of 1 per cent, on gross premiums, gross income, or gross receipts. A penalty is provided for failure to comply with the act.

By Act of 1898 the borrower, his heirs, devisees, legatees, personal representative, or any creditor can plead the benefit of this statute.

Renunciation of dower by a married minor valid. Chattel mortgages after breach of condition and before sale may be discharged by payment or tender of payment.

Actions relating to real property or for the recovery of specific personal property are brought within the county where the land or property is situated. In all other cases in the county of the defendant's residence; and, if he resides out of the State, then in any county.

Taxes for State purposes are a lien from January 1st of each year, and payable by 31st December of the following year. Immediately upon the expiration of the time allowed by law for the payment of taxes in any year, the county treasurer of each county shall issue in the name of the State an execution against each defaulting taxpayer in his county, under which sufficient personal or real property shall be sold to pay said taxes, the sheriff's deed under such sale shall be prima facie evidence of good title in the purchaser. Actions. All distinctions between action at law and suits in equity, and the forms of such action and suits, are abolished. There is but one form of action for the enforcement or protection of private rights and the redress of private wrongs, which is denominated a civil action. The civil action is commenced by the service of the summons, and must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except that an executor or administrator, a trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized by statute, may sue without joining with him his cestui que trust. Defendant must appear, or, if the complaint is served with the summons, must plead in courts of record within thirty days after the service. In courts of justices of the peace the return day is designated and must be not less than three, nor more than twelve days after summons issued. Actions relating to real estate must be brought in the county where the real estate or some part thereof, is situated. Other actions may be brought in any county subject to the right of the defendant to demand a removal to the county where he resides. Infants must appear in actions by guardians who are appointed by the court in which the action is pending. The non-resident plaintiff must give security for costs upon order of the court granted upon the demand of the defendant.

Administration of Estates. Letters of administration of a person dying intestate must be granted to some one or more of the persons hereinafter mentioned in the following order: The surviving husband or wife, or some person whom he or she may request to have appointed. The children, father or mother, in case the father be dead, brothers, sisters, grandchildren, next of kin, creditors, and any person legally competent. If the decedent was a member of a partnership his surviving partner is not competent. A married woman is not competent to be appointed administratrix, and when an unmarried woman, who has been appointed administratrix, marries, her authority is extinguished. An administrator must give bond in twice the value of the personal property belonging to estate, with sureties, and when the real estate is ordered sold must give additional bond to be fixed by the court. Administrators must make and return to the court within thirty days, a true inventory and appraisement of all the estate. The homestead, absolute exemption, and property exempt from execution, must be set apart to the family of decedent, and is not liable for any prior debts, except necessary expenses of last illness, funeral charges, and expenses of administration. The administrator must immediately cause notice to creditors to be published for four weeks to creditors to present claims. The time to present claims is limited to four months in all estates under $5,000; to six months to estates over that sum. Claims not presented within that time are barred unless the claim is not due, but must be presented within one month after maturity. If claimant be non-resident and show by affidavit that he has had no notice by reason of such non-residence, he may, by order of the court, be allowed to present his claim. Every claim must be supported by the affidavit to claimant, or some one in his behalf, that the amount is justly due, that there are no offsets. The administrator must allow or reject the claim within ten days. Suit can not be brought on claim before its presentation to administrator. After claim is rejected suit must be brought within three months. The debts of the estate must be paid in the following order: Funeral expenses; expenses of the last sickness; debts having preference by the laws of the United States; judgments rendered against the decedent in his lifetime; and mortgages in the order of their date and all other demands against the estate. The preference given mortgages is confined to the property mortgaged. The deficiency is classed with other demands against the estate. If personal property is insufficient to pay claims, real estate may be sold.

Affidavits. An affidavit may be made in and out of this State before anyone authorized to administer an oath, and must be authenticated in the same way.

Aliens. Any person, whether citizen or alien, may take, hold, and dispose of property, real or personal, within this State.

Appeals. Appeals may be taken from justice court to the circuit or county court within thirty days; from judgment, decree, or order of the county court, when exercising probate jurisdiction, to the circuit court, in ten days when person against whom the adverse decision was given was present at the hearing, and within thirty days if he was absent, from a judgment of the circuit or county court to the supreme court within two years; and from an order of the circuit or county court within sixty days.

Arbitration. There is no provision in the code for arbitration. An agreement to submit a controversy to arbitration can not be specifically enforced.

Arrest. The defendant may be arrested in civil actions in the following cases: In an action for the recovery of damages, or a cause of action not arising out of contract where the defendant is not a resident of the State or is about to remove therefrom, or where the action is for an injury to the person or character, or for injuring, or for wrongfully taking, detaining, or converting property, in an action for a fine or penalty, or on a promise to marry, or for money received, or for property embezzeled or fraudulently misapplied by a public officer, or by an attorney, or by an officer or agent of a corporation or banking association, or by any factor, agent, broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity. In an action to recover the possession of personal property unjustly detained, where the property or any part thereof has been concealed, removed, or disposed of with intent to deprive the parties of the benefit thereof; when the defendant has been guilty of a fraud in contracting the debt, or incurring the obligation for which the action is brought, or in concealing or disposing of the property for the taking, detaining, or conversion of which the action is brought, or when the action is brought to recover damages for fraud or deceit; when the defendant has removed or disposed of his property, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors; but no female can be arrested in any action, except for willful injury to person, character or property. The order for the arrest is obtained from the judge of the court in which the action is brought, and is procured upon the affidavit of the plaintiff, or some other person, that sufficient cause of action exists. The affidavit must be either positive or upon information and belief; and when upon information and belief it must state the facts upon which the information and belief are founded. A written undertaking on the part of the plaintiff must be given in a sum to be fixed by the judge, which in no case must be less than $100.

Assignments and Insolvency. An insolvent debtor may, in good faith, execute an assignment of property in trust toward the satisfaction of his creditors without preference or priority from any other creditor. A debtor is insolvent when he is unable to pay his debts from his own means as they become due. An assignment is void against any creditor of the assignor not consenting thereto in the following cases: If it tend to coerce any creditor to release or compromise his demands; if it provides for the payment of any claim that is fraudulent or for the payment of more upon any claim than is justly due from the assignor; if it reserves any interest in the assigned property to the assignor, or for his benefit, before all his existing debts are paid, other than property exempt by law from execution; if it confers upon assignee any power which, if exercised might prevent or delay the immediate conversion of the assigned property to the purposes of the trust; if it exempt him from liability for neglect of duty or misconduct. The assignment must be in writing, subscribed by the assignor, or by his agent thereto, authorized in writing. It must be acknowledged, or proved and certified, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the assignor resides, or, if the assignor is a non-resident in which his principal place of business is situated, or the principal part of the property covered by the assignment is located. An inventory is not required to be filed with the assignment, but within twenty days a full and true inventory must be made and filed, showing all the creditors of the assignor, the place of residence of each creditor, the sum owing to each creditor, and nature of each debt and liability, the true consideration of the liability in each case, and the place where it arose, every existing judgment, mortgage, or other security for the payment of any debt or liability of the assignor, all property of the assignor at the date of the assignment which is exempt by law, and all the assignor's property at the date of the assignment, both real and personal, and the incumbrances existing thereon, and the value of such property. An affidavit must be made by every person executing an assignment and annexed to, and filed with the inventory to the effect that the same is just and true, according to the best knowledge and belief of such assignor. Within thirty days after the date of the assignment the assignee must enter into a bond to the State in double the amount of the value of the property assigned, with sufficient sureties to be approved by the judge of the circuit court, which bond must be filed with the inventory. Property exempt from execution and insurances upon the life of the assignor do not pass by the assignment unless they are specially mentioned and the assignment declares an intention that they shall pass thereby. An assignment duly executed and recorded can not be canceled or modified without the consent of every creditor affected thereby.

Attachment process issues at the time of issuing the summons or at any time afterward in all actions against a foreign corporation which has not complied with the laws of this State relative to the appointment of agents upon whom service of process may be made (see Corporations, Foreign, post), or non-resident defendant, or when defendant has absconded or concealed himself, or whenever any person or corporation is about to remove any of his or its property from this State, or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted any of his or its property, or is about to do so with intent to defraud creditors. Plaintiff must make affidavit and furnish bond in not less than $250, and at least the amount claimed in circuit courts, and at least $50 and not exceeding $300 in justice's courts. Real and personal property, debts, moneys, credits, and bank-notes may be attached or levied on under execution or attachment.

Banks. Not less than three natural persons, one-third of whom shall be residents of the State, may form an association for carrying on the business of banking. They must enter into and sign articles of association. An organization certificate—which shall specifically state (1) the name assumed by the association, not to be the same as that of any other bank in the State; (2) the place where the business of discount and deposit are carried on; (3) the amount of capital stock, and the amount into which its shares are to be divided; (4) the names and places of residence of the shareholders, and the number of shares held by each of them; (5) the period at which such banks shall commence and terminate business—must be made under their hands and acknowledged before a clerk of some court of record, or notary public. This certificate shall be recorded in the register of deeds' office of the county where the bank may be established, and then transmitted to the secretary of State for record.

Upon fulfilling the requirements, the association shall have power: 1. To have corporate seal. 2. To have succession for a period of twenty years, unless dissolved or franchise forfeited. 3. To make contracts. 4. To sue and be sued. 5. To elect directors and officers. 6. To prescribe by laws. 7. To exercise by its board of directors or duly authorized officers or agents such incidental powers as are necessary to carry on the business of banking.

Such banking associations have power to purchase, hold, and convey real estate for the following purposes, and no other: 1. Such as may be necessary for its immediate accommodations in the transactions of business. 2. Such as shall be mortgaged to it in good faith by way of security for debts previously contracted. 3. Such as shall be conveyed to it in good faith in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its dealings. 4. Such as it shall purchase at sales under judgments, decrees, or mortgages held by the association, or shall purchase to secure debts due to it; but no such association shall hold the possession of any real estate under mortgage, or the title and possession of any real estate purchased to secure any debt due to it for a longer period than ten years.

In towns of 500 inhabitants or less, the capital must be at least $5,000, unless a special permit be given by the secretary of State; in towns of over 500 inhabitants and less than 1,000, the capital must be at least $10,000; in towns of over 2,000 inhabitants the capital must not be less than $25,000. At least 50 per cent of the capital stock must be paid in before the association shall be authorized to commence business, and at least 10 per cent of remainder at the end of each succeeding 6 months thereafter. Shares of stock shall be $100 each, and shall be deemed personal property. Banking associations may be dissolved by circuit court upon their application. The capital stock may be increased or diminished upon an application and proper showing made to the secretary of State.

The directors of an association may semi-annually declare a dividend of net profits, but each association shall, before the declaration of a dividend, carry one-tenth part of its net profits of the preceding half year to its surplus fund until the same shall amount to 20 per cent of its capital stock.

Every director must own, in his own right, at least ten shares of capital stock. No association or member thereof shall, during the time it shall continue its banking operations, withdraw or permit to be withdrawn, either in the form of dividends or otherwise, any portion of its capital.

At least four reports showing resources and liabilities must be made each year to public examiner, who is ex-officio superintendent of banks. Special reports must be made at request of public examiner.

The shareholders are individually responsible, equally and ratably, and not one for the other, for all contracts, debts, and engagements of such association, made or entered into to the extent of the amounts of his stock therein at par value, in addition to the amount invested in and due on such shares.

Each association shall at all times have on hand in available funds an amount equal to 20 per cent of its deposits, one-half of which may consist of balances due the association from solvent banks, and one-half cash on hand.

The supreme court has held that the banking act, summarized above, is unconstitutional and void in so far as it prohibits individual citizens who were conducting the business of banking when the act went into effect (July 1, 1891,) from continuing such business without organizing corporations, as provided by the act.

Bill of Lading is an instrument in writing, signed by the carrier or his agent, describing the freight so as to identify it, stating the name of the consignor, the terms of the contract of carriage, and agreeing or directing that the freight be delivered to the order or assigns of a specified person at a specified place. The title to the property mentioned in the bill is presumed to be in the holder thereof, and passes to every subsequent indorsee thereof.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. (See Mortgages, post.)

Collaterals. There are no statutory provisions concerning them. The common law governs.

Contracts. The civil code contains a codification of the common law on the subject of contracts, not materially changing the rules of the common law. The following contracts are invalid, unless the same or some note or memorandum thereof be in writing and subscribed by the party to be charged or his agent: An agreement that by its terms is not to be performed within a year from the making thereof. 2. A special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another. An agreement for the leasing for a longer period than one year or for the sale of real property, or of an interest therein, and if such an agreement is made by an agent of the party sought to be charged, the authority of the agent must be in writing, subscribed by the party sought to be charged. The provisions of the statute of fraud are the same generally as in all other States.

Conveyances. Conveyances of real estate or mortgages thereof, must be by an instrument in writing, subscribed by the party disposing of the same, or by his agent having written authority. To entitle such conveyance to be recorded, it must be acknowledged as provided by law. (See Acknowledgments.) The seal of a grantor or mortgagor is not required, and its absence does not invalidate or in any manner impair a conveyance. Every conveyance of real estate other than a lease for a term not exceeding one year, is void as against any subsequent purchaser or encumbrancer, including an assignee of a mortgage or lease, in good faith and for a valuable consideration, whose conveyance is first duly recorded. The word "conveyance" embraces every instrument in writing by which any estate or interest in real property is mortgaged, aliened, or encumbered, or by which the title to any real property may be affected, except wills, executory contracts of sale and powers of attorney. An instrument containing a power to convey, or to execute instruments affecting real property, can not be revoked except by an instrument in writing, properly acknowledged and recorded in the same office in which the instrument containing the power was recorded. Real estate may be conveyed or mortgaged by the owner thereof alone, unless the same is a homestead, when both the husband and wife must join in the conveyance or incumbrance. A conveyance need not be witnessed. The only instrument which need be witnessed in this State is a chattel mortgage, which must have two witnesses.

Corporations. Corporations are formed under general laws, and can be formed by the association of three or more persons for the following purposes: Mining, manufacturing, and other industrial pursuits, and for any other lawful business; the construction or operation of railroads, wagon roads, irrigating ditches; for colleges, seminaries, churches, libraries, benevolent, charitable, and scientific associations; for conducting the business of insurance, banks of discount and deposit, and for loan, trust, and guarantee associations. The articles of incorporation must show the name of the corporation, the purpose for which it is formed, the place where its principal business is to be transacted, the term for which it is to exist, the number of its directors, and the names and residence of such of them who are to serve until the election of such officers; the amount of its capital stock and the number of shares into which it is divided. The articles of incorporation of any railroad or wagon road must also state the kind of road intended to be constructed, the place from and to which it is intended to be run, the counties through which it is intended to be run, and the estimated length of the road. The articles must be subscribed by three or more persons, one-third of whom must be residents of the State and acknowledged before some competent officer. The articles must be filed with the secretary of State, and can be amended at any regular annual meeting of the stockholders, or at a special meeting called for that purpose. Each stockholder is individually and personally liable for the debts of the corporation to the extent of the amount that is unpaid upon the stock that is held by him.

Corporations, Foreign. No foreign corporation, unless it be created for religious and charitable purposes only, shall transact any business within this State, or acquire, hold and dispose of property, real, personal or mixed, within this State, or sue or maintain any action at law or otherwise, in any of the courts of this State; until such corporation shall have filed in the office of the secretary of State a duly authenticated copy of its charter, or articles of incorporation, and shall have appointed some resident of this state as its agent for the service of process in any action in this state in which said corporation may be a party. Said appointment must be filed in the office of the secretary of State and in the office of the register of deeds of the county wherein said agent resides.

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. Circuit courts have exclusive chancery and common law jurisdiction above $100, and where title to real property is concerned. Courts sit twice a year in nearly all the counties. County courts hold two terms a year and are always open for business. They have exclusive probate jurisdiction, and in counties of a population of 20,000 civil jurisdiction concurrent with the circuit courts to $1,000; they have no civil jurisdiction in counties of a less population. Justice's jurisdiction, $100. Circuit courts also have concurrent jurisdiction with justices' courts for sums less than $100.

Days of Grace. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Depositions may be taken when witness does not reside in the county where the action is brought, or is absent therefrom; or when from age, infirmity, or imprisonment witness is unable to attend court, either party may commence taking at any time after service, and may be taken in the State before judge or clerk of the supreme court, or circuit court; or before the justice of the peace, notary public, United States circuit or district court, commissioner, or any person empowered by special commission. May be taken out of the State by a judge, justice, or chancellor, or clerk of any court of record, justice of the peace, notary public, mayor of any city, a commissioner appointed by the governor to take depositions, or any person authorized by the special commission from any court of this State. The officer before whom taken must not be interested, or relative, or attorney of either party. Are taken upon notice, signed by attorney, and the adverse party must be given sufficient time to travel to the place of taking by the usual route, and one day for preparation, exclusive of Sundays and day of service; and may be adjourned from day to day. Must be written by the officer or in his presence by the witness, or some disinterested person, and subscribed to by the witness. When taken must be sealed up, indorsed with title of the cause, name of officer taking the same, and by him addressed and transmitted to the clerk of the court where action is pending; must be filed at least one day before trial.

Descent and Distribution of Property. The property, both real and personal, of one who dies without disposing of it by will, passes to the heirs of the intestate, subject to the control of the probate court, and to the possession of any administrator appointed by that court for the purpose of administration; and descends, and must be distributed, in the following manner: If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and only one child, or the lawful issue of one child, in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife, and child or issue of such child; if the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife, and more than one child living, or one child living and the lawful issue of one or more deceased children, one-third to the surviving husband or wife, and the remainder in equal shares to his children, and to the lawful issue of any deceased child; if the decedent leave no surviving husband or wife, but leaves issue, the whole estates comes to such issue; if the deceased leaves no issue the estate comes in equal shares to the surviving husband or wife and the decedent's father; if there be no father, then one-half goes in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of the decedent, and to the children of any deceased brother or sister; if he leaves a mother also, she takes an equal share with brothers and sisters. If decedent leave no issue, nor husband, nor wife, the estate comes to the father; if there be no issue, husband, wife, father, nor mother, then in equal shares to the brothers and sisters of decedent; if the mother survives, she takes an equal share. If the decedent leave a surviving husband or wife and no issue, and no father, mother, brother, or sister, the whole estate goes to the surviving husband or wife. If the decedent leave no husband, wife, or kindred, the estate escheats to the State for the support of common schools. Kindred of half blood inherit equally with those of whole blood in the same degree, unless the inheritance came to the intestate by descent, devise, or gift of some one of his ancestors, in which case persons not of the blood of such ancestor are excluded.

Divorce. Marriage is dissolved by decree of the circuit courts. Causes for divorce are adultery, extreme cruelty, willful desertion, willful neglect, habitual intemperance, and conviction for felony. Willful desertion, neglect, or habitual intemperance must continue for one year before being a ground for divorce. When a divorce is granted for adultery, the innocent party may marry again during the life of the other; but the guilty party cannot marry during the life of the innocent party, any one except the innocent party. Six months' residence is required before action can be commenced, and unless personal service of the summons is made on the defendant after order of publication is obtained, the decree of divorce must not be granted for one year. At least one corroborating witness is necessary before decree can be obtained. The court gives such direction for the custody and care of the children as may seem necessary and proper, and may at any time vacate or modify the same.

Dower. Dower and curtesy are abolished.

Executions issue as of course at any time within five years after judgment, and must be returned within sixty days. Lands levied on need not be appraised, but notice of sale must be given. Same provisions apply in justice's courts as to levy, etc., on personal property. There is no stay law, and execution can only be stayed by order of the court for irregularity, by injunction, or by appeal with security given. Real estate sold under execution may be redeemed within one year.

Exemptions. The following property is absolutely exempt from all process, levy, or sale: Family pictures, pew in church, lot or lots in burial ground, family bible, school books used by the family, and all other books used as a part of the family library not exceeding in value $300; wearing apparel and clothing of the debtor and his family, the provisions for the debtor and his family necessary for one year's supply, provided or growing, or both, and fuel for one year. Homestead—One acre if within a town plat, and 160 acres if not, with improvements thereon, which land and improvements shall not exceed $5,000 in value. Additional exemptions to the amount of $750 are allowed to the head of a family, and to a single person to the value of $300. The debtor, if the head of a family, may, in lieu of the additional exemptions, select and choose the following property: 1. Miscellaneous books and musical instruments not exceeding $200 in value. 2. Household and kitchen furniture, used by the debtor and family, not exceeding $200 in value. 3. Two cows, five swine, two yoke of oxen, one span of horses or mules, twenty-five sheep and their lambs, and all wool of the same, and all cloth or yarn manufactured therefrom; the necessary food for the animals for one year, provided or growing; one wagon, one sleigh, two plows, one harrow, and farming utensils not exceeding $1,250 in value. 4. The tools and implements of any mechanic used and kept for the purpose of carrying on his trade or business, and stock in trade, not exceeding $200 in value; the library and instruments of any professional person not exceeding $900 in value; all money received by the widow or children for insurance upon the life of any person who, when living, was the head of the family, is absolutely and forever exempt.

Fraudulent Conveyances. Every transfer of personal property other than a thing in action, and every lien thereon other than a mortgage, when allowed by law, is conclusively presumed if made by a person having at the time the possession or control of the property, and not accompanied by an immediate delivery, and followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the things transferred, to be fraudulent and therefore void against those who are his creditors while he remains in possession, and the successors in interest of such creditors, and against any person on whom his estate devolves in trust for the benefit of others than himself, and against purchasers or incumbrancers in good faith subsequent to the transfer.

Garnishment. This remedy lies whenever attachment does, but applies only to justice courts, upon affidavit for it showing indebtedness, and that some person or corporation within the county where the action is brought has property, money, or credits in his hands or under his control belonging to the defendant. No undertaking is required. Property must be delivered and money paid into court or undertaking given to the plaintiff, with one or more sureties, that the amount will be paid or the property forthcoming as the court may direct.

Holidays. Holidays are Sunday, the first day of January, the twenty-second day of February, the fourth day of July, the twenty-fifth day of December, and the thirtieth day of May, and every day on which an election is held throughout the State. Every day appointed by the President of the United States or by the governor of this State for a public fast or thanksgiving are holidays. If the 1st of January, the 22d of February, the 4th of July, or the 25th of December falls upon Sunday, the Monday following is a holiday. Sundays and holidays are excluded from the computation of days of grace.

Husband and Wife. (See Married Woman, post.)

Interest. Legal rate, 7 per cent; but parties may contract in writing for 12 per cent. Usury forfeits all interest. Interest on open accounts runs from date of last item charged, whether debit or credit. Legal rate allowed on judgments is 7 per cent from date and after property sold on execution during the year of redemption, 12 per cent.

Judgments of courts of record are a lien on all real estate except the homestead for ten years from time such judgment is docketed in the clerk's office of the county where the land is situated, and, by having execution issued every five years, are good for twenty years. In courts of record judgment may be obtained within thirty days after service of summons and complaint; in justices' courts, four days, where no defense is interposed.

Liens. Mechanics, laborers, and furnishers of material, machinery, or fixtures, by virtue of any contract with the owner, his agent, trustee, contractor or sub-contractor, for any building, erection, or other improvements upon land, have for labor done or materials, machinery, or fixtures furnished, a lien upon such building, erection, or improvement, and upon the land belonging to such owner on which the same is situated, to secure the payment of such labor, materials, material machinery, or fixtures furnished. A verified account of the amount of the lien claimed must be filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of the county wherein the property is located within four months after such materials shall have been furnished and labor performed. No person is entitled to mechanic's lien who has taken collateral security upon the same contract. Any person owning and operating a threshing machine has a lien upon the grain threshed by the machine for the threshing thereof.

Limitations. Personal actions, two years; on contracts or obligations, six years: on sealed instruments and action affecting real property, twenty years, and on judgments, or decrees of any court other than the courts of this State, ten years; of the courts of this State, twenty years.

Married Women retain their own real and personal property, and may make contracts, sue and be sued, as if sole. Neither husband nor wife has any interest in the property of the other. Dower and curtesy are abolished. Married women retain the same legal existence and personality after as before marriage, and shall receive the same protection of all rights as a woman which her husband does as a man, and has the same right to sue in her own name as her husband has in his.

Mortgages. A mortgage of real property can be created, renewed, or extended only by writing, with the formalities required in the case of grant of real estate. The wife need not join only in mortgage of homestead. Mortgages containing power of sale may be foreclosed by advertisement. Mortgages may be foreclosed by action, and a personal judgment obtained in the same action against the mortgagor and any guarantor, or surety, or indorser, or subsequent purchaser of the mortgaged property, assuming the mortgage for any deficiency from the debt and cost arising on sale of the mortgaged premises. The mortgagee has possession of the premises during the year of redemption after the sale. A mortgage of a homestead shall be of no validity unless the husband and wife, if the owner is married and both husband and wife are residents of this State, concur in, and sign the same joint instrument. The same right of redemption exists as in the case of sale under execution. By the laws of 1897, it is provided that: A mortgagee must state in the mortgage his post-office address before recording the mortgage, and every assignee or other owner or holder of any real estate mortgage must, within thirty days after becoming the owner thereof, file with the register of deeds of the county where such mortgage is recorded, a statement showing the page and volume where such mortgage is recorded and his name and post-office address; and no interest shall become due and collectable by the mortgagee or owner of any mortgage upon any real estate in South Dakota until the foregoing provisions have been complied with. Chattel Mortgages. A mortgage of personal property can be created, renewed, or extended only by a writing subscribed by the mortgagor. A mortgage of personal property is void as against creditors of the mortgagor and subsequent purchasers and incumbrancers of the property in good faith and for value, unless it is filed by depositing the original, or an authenticated copy thereof, in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the property mortgaged, or any part thereof, is at such time situated; and it ceases to be valid, as against creditors of the mortgagor, and subsequent purchasers or incumbrancers in good faith, after the expiration of three years from the filing thereof, unless within thirty days next preceding the expiration of such a term a copy of the mortgage, and a statement of the amount of the existing debt, sworn to and subscribed by the mortgagee, are filed anew; this renews for three years more. A mortgage of personal property must be signed by the mortgagor in the presence of two persons, who must sign the same as witnesses thereto, and no further proof of acknowledgment is required. Personal property mortgaged may be taken under attachment, or execution issued at the suit of a creditor of a mortgagor; before the property is so taken, the officer must pay or tender to the mortgagee the amount of the mortgage debt and interest, or must deposit the amount thereof with the county treasurer, payable to the order of the mortgagee. The following applies only to mortgages executed since June 30, 1897: The mortgagee of every chattel mortgage at the time of making and delivery thereof shall prepare for and deliver to the mortgagor a full and true copy of such mortgage without additional cost, and every chattel mortgage shall be void unless it appears upon the mortgage, over the signature of the mortgagor, that a true copy of such mortgage has been delivered to and received by the mortgagor, and unless such delivery and receipt of a copy of the mortgage appears over the mortgagor's signature the mortgage can not be filed.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. There is no statutory law requiring that commercial paper should be made payable at a bank or at any other specified place. Three days of grace allowed on all bills of exchange or sight drafts, whether foreign or domestic, and on all promissory notes, bills of exchange and drafts, on the face of which time is specified, and notes on demand for payment of same. Acceptances must be in writing by the drawee or an acceptor for honor. To hold indorser, the instrument must be presented on the day of maturity, and notice of dishonor given. Damages are allowed in favor of holders for value on bills of exchange drawn or negotiated within the State and protested for non-acceptance or non-payment. Apparent maturity of a non-interest bearing sight or demand bill of exchange is ten days after date, in addition to the time required for transmission; of interest-bearing bills of exchange, one year from date; of non-interest-bearing notes, six months, and of interest-bearing notes, one year from date. Bills and notes falling due on a holiday are deemed due and payable on the following day. Sundays and holidays are excluded from the computation of days of grace.

Powers of Attorney. A power of attorney to convey or mortgage real property must be acknowledged and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which the property is situated and can only be revoked by an instrument in writing acknowledged and recorded in the same office. (See Acknowledgments and Conveyances.)

Probate Law. (See Administration, Descent and Distribution, and Wills.)

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Replevin or Claim and Delivery. The plaintiff in an action to recover possession of personal property may, at the time of issuing summons, or at any time before answer, claim delivery of property; he must make an affidavit stating that he is the owner of the property and particularly describing it, or that he is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof by virtue of a special property therein; that the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant, and allege the cause of detention; that the same has not been taken for taxes, assessment, or fine, or seized under execution or attachment against the property of plaintiff, or, if so seized, that it is exempt from seizure; and the actual value of the property. The plaintiff must make indorsement in writing upon affidavit, requiring the sheriff to take the property and deliver it to him. Plaintiff must execute written undertaking in double the value of the property, to be approved by the sheriff. A copy of all papers must be served upon defendant by the sheriff at the time of taking the property. Sheriff must hold property three days, and if defendant fail to execute an undertaking with sufficient surety in double the value of the property taken, must deliver property to plaintiff. If sheriff approves defendant's undertaking, property must be redelivered to defendant.

Suits. (See Actions.)

Taxes become due and payable on the first day of December, and delinquent on the first day of March following, and draw 12 per cent interest thereafter until paid, or the land is sold as hereinafter stated, the interest being added on the first day of each month. Lands are sold on the first Monday of November following, and may be redeemed within two years by payment of purchase money and interest at the rate of 15 per cent per annum and all taxes subsequently paid. Taxes become a lien on real property as between vendor and vendee on the first day of December, and if personal taxes are not paid by the first day of July the county treasurer, who is the tax collector, may proceed to enforce the collection of them by distress and sale.

Transfer of Corporation Stocks. Shares of corporate stock are personal property and may be transferred by indorsement by the signature of the proprietor, or his attorney, or legal representative, and delivery of the certificate, but such transfer is not valid except between the parties thereto until the same is so entered upon the books of the corporation as to show the names of the parties by and to whom transferred, the number or designation of the shares, and the date of the transfer.

Wills. Every person over the age of eighteen years, of sound mind, may, by last will, dispose of all his or her estate, real and personal. A married woman may dispose of all her separate estate by will, without the consent of her husband. A will must be subscribed at the end thereof by the testator himself, or some person in his presence, and by his direction, must subscribe his name thereto. Unless the will be an holographic will, the subscription must be made in the presence of the attesting witnesses, or be acknowledged by the testator to them, to have been made by him, or by his authority. The testator must at the time declare to the attesting witnesses that it is his will. There must be two attesting witnesses who must sign their names at the end of the will, at the testator's request and in his presence. Nuncupative wills are valid when the estate bequeathed does not exceed in value $1,000. Must be proved by two witnesses. The decedent must, at the time of making, have been in military service, in the field or at sea, or at the time in expectation of immediate death from an injury received the same day.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF TENNESSEE

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by LEMUEL R. CAMPBELL, Attorney at Law, Nashville. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. An account on which action is brought, coming from another State, with the affidavit of the plaintiff to its correctness, and the certificate of a notary public, and his official seal annexed, or the certificate of a commissioner of the State of Tennessee, is conclusive against the party sought to be charged, unless he shall on oath deny the account. Said denial, under oath, destroys altogether the evidentiary character of the account.

Acknowledgments within the State must be taken before a judge, or chairman or clerk of a county court, or his deputy, or a notary public. In other States, before any judge or clerk of a court of record, notary public, or commissioner of Tennessee. The certificate of a notary public or a commissioner, under his seal of office, is sufficient proof of his official character. If before a judge of a court of record, his official character must be certified to by the clerk of his court, under his official seal, or private seal, if there is no official seal, or by the governor of his State, under the great seal of said State. If before a clerk of a court of record, and certified by him under his seal of office, the judge, chief justice, or presiding magistrate shall certify to the clerk's official character. If made out of the United States, must be under seal before a commissioner of Tennessee, notary public, or an ambassador, minister, or consul of the United States.

Actions. Persons jointly or severally, or jointly and severally bound on the same instrument, or by judgment, decree, or statute, including the makers and indorsers of negotiable paper and sureties, may all, or any part of them, be sued in the same action. Every written contract, instrument, or signature, purporting to be executed by the party sought to be charged, his partner, agent, or attorney in fact, and constituting the foundation of an action, is conclusive evidence against such party, unless the execution thereof is denied under oath. When offered in evidence by the defendant, execution must, in like manner, be denied under oath, or it is conclusive. When partners sue on a bill of exchange, bond, or note, not necessary to prove partnership, unless denied under oath. Actions, legal or equitable, are commenced by personal service of summons or subpœna, by advertisement, or attachment, as case may be. Security must first be given for all costs and damages, which may be awarded against person suing out process; but pauper's oath may be taken in lieu thereof, in all actions except for false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, and slanderous words. Service of process from court of record must be had five days before return day, which in circuit court, is first day of term, and in the chancery court the first Monday of each month, or first day of a term In circuit court, except in action of ejectment, in which declaration must accompany summons, declaration must be filed within the first three days of the term, and demurrer or plea thereto in next two days; and trial and judgment may be had at next ensuing term. In chancery court, bill is filed before issuance of process, and defendant has first three days after return day to plead, answer or demur, the return day being excluded.

Administration. Letters of administration are granted: 1. To the husband or widow; 2. To the next of kin; 3. To the largest creditor; 4. To the public administrator, if no one applies in six months. All property, real and personal, except what is exempted and what widow takes, are assets for payment of debts. Preferred debts are, funeral expenses, expense of administration, and debts due the State. (For widows' rights, see Husband and Wife.) Insolvent estates, not exceeding the value of $1,000, may be administered in county courts. Of such estates of greater value, county and chancery court have concurrent jurisdiction. Executor or administrator makes suggestion of insolvency to county court; clerk thereupon requires executor or administrator to give notice in a newspaper published in the State and at court house door of the county for creditors to file their claims, by a day fixed in said notice, which day shall not be less than three, nor more than six months after day of said notice, and any claim not filed on or before said day, or before an appropriation of the funds is made, is forever barred in both law and equity. The assets of insolvent estates, after preferred debts above enumerated and exempt articles are deducted and widow's rights are allowed, are divided ratably among the creditors, whose claims have been properly filed. (For claims against executors or administrators of other estates, see Limitations of Suits.)

Affidavits may be taken in another State of the Union, or foreign country, for use in this State, before a commissioner of Tennessee. Answers and other pleadings in chancery, may be sworn to before a commissioner of Tennessee, notary public, justice of the peace, court of record, or clerks of such court, or special commissioner appointed by Tennessee court or clerk. The certificate of the commissioner, notary public, and clerk must be under seal of office. The certificate of the judge or justice of the peace must be authenticated by the certificate of the clerk of the court wherein the judge or justice presides.

Aliens. An alien, resident or non-resident, may take and hold property, real or personal, in this State, either by purchase, descent, or devise and dispose of and transmit same by sale, descent, or devise, as a native citizen. Escheat on account of alienage is abolished.

Appeal lies from judgment of justice of peace to next term of circuit court, and must be prayed and perfected by giving bond or taking pauper's oath within two days after judgment is entered. From a final judgment or decree of the circuit or chancery court, an appeal lies to the next term of the supreme court, and must be prayed and perfected within thirty days after judgment or decree is entered; but for good cause the court may extend the time for giving bonds or taking pauper's oath thirty days. When decree is for a specific amount, appellants shall give bond for the amount of the decree and damages and costs, but those sued in representative capacity need only secure costs. In all actions founded on bonds for payment of money, bills single, bills of exchange, promissory notes, or liquidated accounts signed by the party to be charged therewith, written obligations for payment of bank notes or promissory notes, bonds, written obligations for delivery of specific articles, or endorsements on negotiable instruments, the appellant must give bond with sureties, for payment of debt, damages, and costs, and for satisfaction of judgment of superior court, where such case may be finally tried and determined. In other cases he must give bond for payment of costs and damages. All cases may be appealed on pauper's oath, except those for false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, and slanderous words. A writ of error from supreme court, to review judgments from the chancery or circuit courts, may be had from the clerk of the supreme court, within one year after judgment or decree, and from any judge of said court within two years thereafter, upon giving bond for costs or upon pauper's oath. Infants, married women, persons non compos mentis, and persons out of the United States, may prosecute said writ within the time prescribed, after disability is removed. Writ of error does not operate as supersedeas of execution, but judge of supreme court may order a supersedeas to issue upon giving bond, or taking pauper's oath.

Arbitration. All cases may be submitted to arbitration by persons interested therein. The submission must be in writing, and must name the arbitrator, or arbitrators, and describe the demand submitted and the court by which judgment or award is to be entered. Attendance of witnesses before arbitrators may be enforced, as in trial of other cases; and witnesses may be sworn and examined and are subject to usual penalties to secure truth. When the award is adopted, it is filed and entered of record, and judgment will be rendered and execution issue accordingly.

Arrest. There is no arrest or imprisonment for debt in Tennessee.

Assignments. The Act of 1895 regulating general assignment was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court and the Act of 1881 goes back into effect. Under this act, preferences in general assignment are not allowed but special assignments are made with preferences, and under these the Act of 1881 as to general assignments is practically rendered nugatory.

Attachment process will issue when the debtor resides out of the State; is about to remove, or has removed himself or property out of the State; has removed or is removing himself from the county privately; is concealing himself, so that the ordinary process of law can not be served upon him; absconds or is absconding or concealing himself or property; has fraudulently disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property; or when any person, liable for any debts, residing out of the State, dies, leaving property in the State. Attachment will also issue on demands not due, in all the above cases except the first; also in above cases at suit of surety, as accommodation endorser on paper due and not due. When debtor and creditor are non-residents of this State, and are residents of the same State, the creditor shall not attach, unless the property has been fraudulently removed to evade process in said State. Debts due and not due, owing to the defendant, and property of the defendant of any kind in the hands of a third person, are subject to garnishment. Statutory liens on personal property, when no method of enforcing same has been provided by the statute creating them, may be enforced by original attachment levied on property on which lien exists, whether in hands of creditor, owner, or other party not an innocent purchaser. A foreign corporation, having complied with law of Tennessee, and doing business therein, and having no agent in county in which suit is brought, upon whom process can be served, may be proceeded against by attachment.

Banks. All persons and partnerships paying taxes for the use of money, as money dealers, may receive deposits, issue checks or bills of exchange, or discount bills, notes, etc., but shall not be allowed to charge on bills a greater discount than legal interest and exchange.

Any company incorporated under the laws of Tennessee, having, by its charter, the right to receive money in trust or otherwise, has the power to receive deposits and loan same, and its capital on any kind of commercial or business paper or real estate, buy and sell exchange, and all kinds of public or private securities and commercial paper. State banks may be chartered at any time in same manner as other private corporations, and, if they so choose, may couple with the usual banking business, a safe deposit and trust company. They may do all acts usually performed by banks. Allow 3 per cent interest on deposits, advance money on real and personal property, and sell same; and, if the safe deposit and trust feature is added, may take on deposit jewelry and other valuables and guarantee the preservation and delivery of same; guarantee the titles to real estate and the payment of bonds and mortgages; execute trusts of every description; and own a vault, and rent out boxes for the keeping of valuables, but shall not be liable for loss by fire, theft, or other cause. Stockholders not liable, except for payment of stock subscribed by each. Every six months banks must publish a statement of their condition. The secretary of State is made a bank examiner, and required to examine each bank quarterly and report to the comptroller, and each bank is subject to legislative inspection. There is no law regulating the class of bonds in which savings banks may invest.

Bills and Notes. By act of legislature, passed April 6, 1899, Chapter 94 of Laws of 1899, a general law relating to negotiable instruments was passed, "Being an act to establish a law uniform with the laws of other States on that subject." An instrument to be negotiable must conform to the following requirements: 1. It must be in writing, and signed by the maker or drawer. 2. Must contain an unconditional promise or order to pay a certain sum in money. 3. Must be payable on demand, or at a fixed or determinable future time. 4. Must be payable to order or bearer. 5. Where the instrument is addressed to a drawee, he must be named or otherwise indicated therein with reasonable certainty. Negotiability is not affected by a provision authorizing sale of collateral securities, or confession of judgment, or which waives benefit of any law intended for the protection of the obligor, or gives the holder an election to require something to be done in lieu of payment of money. Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein, without grace. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday, or a holiday, the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. Instruments falling due on Saturday are to be presented for payment on the next succeeding business day, except that instruments payable on demand may, at the option of the holder, be presented for payment before 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, when that entire day is not a holiday. Notice of non-payment must be given to the drawer and to each indorser. For details of the law of bills and notes, reference is made to chap. 94, of the laws of Tennessee, 1899.

Conveyances. A fee simple estate is presumed to pass by grant of real property, unless it appears from the grant that a less estate was intended; and word "heirs" not necessary to create fee simple estate. Wife must join to convey homestead. Private seals are abolished. No attesting witnesses required by law. Deed should contain covenant of seizin. (See Acknowledgments.)

Corporations. Private corporations, for a variety of purposes, embracing almost every industry, may be formed under section 1691 et seq., M. & V. Code, by five or more persons over the age of twenty-one, copying the form of charter adapted to the purpose, and appending an application to the State of Tennessee for such charter, and acknowledging and registering the same in the county where the principal office is to be situated, and in the office of the secretary of State, and then registering in the said county the certificate of registration given by the secretary of State, and a fac simile of the State seal. The name and capital stock may be changed, and new powers added, by the board of directors copying the proposed amendment, and signing an application therefor to the State of Tennessee, and acknowledging and registering the same in the same way as provided for charters. The general powers of such corporation shall be to sue and be sued, to have and use a common seal, to hold, in addition to personal property, real estate necessary for corporate business, and real estate in payment of debts, and to sell realty for corporate purposes, and to establish by-laws, etc., not inconsistent with the laws and constitution, to appoint officers and agents, to designate name of office and officers and compensation of officers, to borrow money and issue notes and stock upon corporate property, and secure same by mortgage. A failure to elect officers does not dissolve the corporation, but incumbents shall hold until appointment and qualification of successors, and terms may be fixed by by-laws, but not to exceed two years. It may, by by-laws, regulate subscriptions and transfer of stock, fix capital to be invested in the enterprise, and division into shares, and time for payment by subscribers, and amount of calls, and in case of failure of any stockholder to pay his subscription he may be sued. There may be five or more directors elected in person or by proxy by a majority of votes cast, each share representing one vote. They shall keep a full and true record of proceedings, and put on minutes annual statement of receipts and disbursements, subject to inspection of stockholders. A majority shall constitute a quorum, and shall fill vacancies until next election. The first board shall consist of the five or more incorporators who obtained charter. The books shall show names of stockholders, and interest and amounts paid for subscriptions, the transfer of stock by and to whom, and all other transactions of interest to stockholders. Unpaid stock subscribed shall be a fund for payment of debts due from the corporation, and transfer of stock by subscriber does not relieve him from payment, unless transferee has paid all due on his original subscription. The corporation has no powers except those expressly given, or necessarily implied from the nature of the business, and by no inference may it discount notes or bills, deal in gold or silver coin, issue evidence of debts as currency, buy and sell agricultural products, deal in merchandise, or engage in any business outside of the purposes of the charter, except it be under a charter expressly authorizing these acts, but corporations formed for manufacturing raw material by machinery into useful articles, whether of wood or metal, or a combination of them, may deal in articles so manufactured and articles properly connected therewith. Such corporations are liable to the payment of privilege taxes as dealers. And any company incorporated under the laws of Tennessee, having by its charter the right to receive moneys in trust or otherwise, shall be held to have the power to receive deposits, and loan the same and its capital on any kind of commercial or business paper or real estate, buy and sell exchange and all kinds of public or private securities and commercial paper, and the exercise of foregoing powers does not operate to forfeit or affect any franchise, right, power, privilege, or immunity granted to such corporation by its charter. All such charters may be repealed or amended at any time. If any fundamental amendment be not accepted by a vote representing more than half of the stock the corporation shall be liquidated. If such amendment be accepted by the corporation, said corporation shall pay any dissenting stockholder the value of his stock, not exceeding par, and shall also pay on the same basis to persons under disability for their stock, but the claims of creditors shall take priority over them. All stock in the corporation so formed is subject to execution. Intentional fraud in failing to comply substantially with the charter, or in deceiving the public or individuals, diversion of funds of the corporation, the payment of dividends without leaving sufficient funds to meet liabilities, keeping false accounts, by which injury is sustained, and the making of a false report, and frauds, subject those concerned therein to the penalties of misdemeanor, and liability to suit for damages. The charter will be forfeited if the board of directors participated in such acts. Nonuser shall not operate as a dissolution unless all the corporate property has been appropriated to the payment of debts. All such corporations whose charters are terminated shall exist for five years thereafter for the purposes of liquidation only, and the managers of the business at the time of such dissolution are trustees for the stockholders and creditors for the purposes of liquidation. Every corporation organized or created under or by virtue of any government other than that of Tennessee, for any purpose whatever, desiring to carry on business in Tennessee, of any kind or character, shall first file in the office of the secretary of State a copy of its charter. It is unlawful for any such corporation, without first having complied with this provision, to do, or attempt to do, any business in Tennessee; and a violation of this act subjects offender to a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, at discretion of jury trying the case. When such corporation complies with these provisions, it is then to all intents and purposes a domestic corporation, and may sue and be sued in the courts of this State, and is subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this State, just as if it were created under the laws of Tennessee. Until these provisions are complied with such corporation can not sue in courts of Tennessee. This can not affect interstate commerce. It has been held only to apply to those corporations which have established themselves in Tennessee, in such a way as to acquire a domicile or situs therein.

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. Circuit courts hold three terms annually, and have general common law jurisdiction in all cases involving over $50. Chancery courts, holding two terms annually, have full equity jurisdiction above $50, and concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit courts of all civil causes, except actions for injuries to person, property, or character, involving unliquidated damages. Justices of the peace have jurisdiction in equity up to $50; on all unsettled accounts, obligations, contracts, etc., to and for recovery of property, and for damages, except for libel and slander, up to $500; upon all notes and upon indorsement of negotiable paper where demand and notice are expressly waived in the instrument, up to $1,000.

Days of Grace. (See Bills and Notes.)

Deeds. Until registered, deeds are not good, except between parties and privies. Lands held by unregistered deeds are subject to debts of both vendor and vendee. Wife must join in deed to convey homestead.

Depositions. Evidence may be taken by depositions in civil actions by either party. 1. When the witness from age, bodily infirmity, or other cause, is incapable of attending, to give testimony at the trial. 2. When he resides out of the State. 3. When he resides in the State, but not within the limits of the county in which the suit is pending, in which case the adverse party may, if he desire to have the witness examined in open court, cause him to be subpœnaed. 4. When he is under the necessity of leaving the State before the cause is tried, or even before it is at issue. 5. When he is about to leave the county in which the suit is pending, and will probably not return until after the trial. 6. When he is the only witness to a material fact. 7. When he is an officer of the United States, an officer of this State, or of any county in the State, the clerk of any court of record other than that in which the suit is pending, a member of the general assembly while in session, or clerk or officer thereof, a practicing physician or attorney, a jailer or keeper of a public prison in any county other than that in which the suit is pending. 8. When he is a notary public, whether a suit be pending or not; to be evidence between the same parties in any suit then or thereafter pending, should the notary die or remove out of the State before the trial. 9. When a suit is brought by a party in forma pauperis. Female witnesses can not be compelled to attend in civil suits in person, except upon sufficient cause and order of court therefor. The deposition of any person residing in the county where the suit is pending may be taken by either party, and said witness may be summoned at the trial. Depositions in cases enumerated in above sections 1, 4, 5, and 6 may be taken at any time after action brought upon such a notice as a court of justice may order, or upon giving five days' notice when depositions are taken in the county where the suit is pending, and when taken out of the county for 50 miles, or under, five days; from 50 to 100 miles, ten days; 100 to 250 miles, fifteen days; 250 to 500 miles, twenty days; over 500 miles, thirty days. If within the United States, and west of the Rocky Mountains, such a time as the court or clerk may order, not exceeding forty days. In foreign countries, such time as the court or clerk may order. Service of notice may be made upon counsel of non-resident parties. When the witnesses reside out of the State or over 150 miles from the place of trial, either party may take depositions by filing interrogatories with the clerk, giving the opposite party notice thereof, who shall have ten days thereafter to file cross-interrogatories, to which rebutting interrogatories may then be put; at any time after which the deposition may be taken upon a certified copy of the interrogatories to be issued by the clerk. Any person authorized to take depositions is, while engaged in the discharge of his duties, vested with all the powers of the court to preserve order, prevent interruption, and control the conduct of the parties in the examination of the witness. The commissioner, having first sworn the witness according to law, should require the questions to be reduced to writing before being put, and then read to the witness, and should take down his answers in writing, or cause the same to be done by the witness himself, as near as may be in the witness' own words. The depositions, when complete, shall be enveloped together with the commission, if any, and all documents which may have been deposed to, sealed, with the commissioner's name written across the seal, and directed to the clerk of the court where the cause is pending, with the title of the cause indorsed thereon, and may be sent by mail, express, or private conveyance. If sent by private conveyance the person delivering it shall make affidavit before the clerk that he received the deposition from the commissioner, that it has not been out of his possession, or opened by him, or while in his possession. The commissioner, or person authorized to take depositions has power to issue subpœna for witnesses, which may be served by the sheriff or any constable; and the certificate of the commissioner, or person authorized, that the witness failed to appear, together with the return of the officer, is proof of the fact. Deposition may be taken by any judge, justice of the peace, mayor or chief magistrate of a town or city, the clerk of any court, or any other person properly commissioned or appointed by the court or clerk, not being interested, of counsel, or related to either of the parties within the sixth degree, computing by the civil law. They may also be taken by any notary public of this and other States, in the county in which he resides, and the certificate of the notary shall show his locality. Depositions may be taken in all cases pending before justices of the peace, under the same rules, regulations, and restrictions as in cases pending in the courts of record. Notaries public, duly and lawfully commissioned by the proper authorities of other States than Tennessee, empowered by law of such State to take depositions, are hereby authorized to take depositions to be used in the courts of the State upon the same terms that are provided for taking depositions by other officials in such States. Certificate of such notary must show the date of commencement and of expiration of his commission as notary.

Descent and Distribution. Real estate, real property, and lands, include lands, tenements and hereditaments, and all rights thereto, and interest therein, equitable as well as legal. The land of intestate owner is inherited in the following manner: Without reference to source of intestate's title, by all the sons and daughters of deceased, to be divided among them equally. And if any child of said intestate shall have died in his life-time, his lineal descendants shall represent their parent and be entitled to same portion of the estate of the deceased as their parent would have been entitled to if living. If there be no issue or brothers or sisters, nor their issue, and either parent be living, then by such parent. If the estate was acquired by the intestate, and he died without issue, his land shall be inherited by his brothers and sisters of the whole and half blood born before his death or afterward, to be divided among them equally. And if any such brother or sister died in the intestate's life time leaving issue, said issue shall represent their deceased parent, and be entitled to the same part of the estate of the uncle or aunt, as their father or mother would have been entitled to, if living. In default of brothers and sisters and their issue, the land shall be inherited by the father and mother of the intestate as tenants in common. If both be dead, in equal moieties by the heirs of the father and mother in equal degree, or representing those in equal degree of relationship to the intestate; but if such heirs or those they represent, do not stand in equal degree of relationship to the intestate, then the heirs nearest in blood, or representing those who are nearest in blood to the intestate, shall take in preference to those more remote. When the land came to the intestate by gift, devise, or descent, from a parent or the ancestor of a parent, and he die without issue—if he have brothers or sisters of the paternal line of the half blood, and brothers and sisters of the maternal line also of the half blood, then the land shall be inherited by the said brothers and sisters on the part of the parent from whom the estate came, in the same manner as by brothers and sisters of the whole blood, until the line of such parent is exhausted of the half blood, to the exclusion of the other line. If he have no brothers or sisters, then it shall be inherited by the parent, if living, from whom and whose ancestor it came, in preference to the other parent. If both parents be dead, then by the heirs of the parent from whom or whose ancestor it came. If the intestate dies, leaving no heirs at law capable of inheriting the real estate, it shall be inherited by the husband or wife in fee simple. A posthumous child of a testator not provided for in his will, takes by descent such share of his estate as would have fallen to it in case of intestacy; to be contributed by the devisees and legatees, in the proportion to the several bequests and legacies to the whole estate. The personal estate as to which any person dies intestate, after the payment of the debts and charges against the estate, shall be distributed as follows: 1. To the widow and children, or the descendants of children representing them equally, the widows taking a child's share. 2. To the widow altogether, if there are no children or descendants of children. 3. To the children or the descendants, in equal parts if there is no widow; the descendants taking in equal parts the share of their deceased parents. 4. If no children to the father. 5. If no father to the mother, and brothers and sisters, representing them equally; the mother taking an equal share with each brother and sister. 6. If no brothers or sisters or their children, exclusively to the mother; if no mother, exclusively to the brothers and sisters or their children representing them. 7. If no mother, brother or sister, or their children, to any of the next of kin of the intestate, who are in equal degrees, equally. There is no representation among collaterals after the brother's and sister's children. Widow of testator dissatisfied with his will may dissent therefrom in open court within one year after said will is probated, and will then be entitled to a year's support, to be set apart by the commissioners of the county court from the estate of the testator; to his exempt personalty, homestead, dower, and in addition, one-third of his personal estate, if her husband has no children or not more than two; but if more than two children, then to a child's part of such personal estate.

Divorce. A divorce, a vinculo matrimonii, may be decreed by either circuit or chancery court for natural impotence and inability of procreation of either party, at the time of the contract, still continuing; for either party knowingly to enter into a second marriage, in violation of a previous marriage, still subsisting; for adultery of either party; for willful or malicious desertion, or absence of either party without reasonable cause for two years; for being convicted of any crime rendering party infamous under the laws of this State; for being convicted of a felony and being sentenced to the penitentiary; for attempt of either party on the life of the other by poison or other means showing malice; for refusal on part of wife to remove with her husband to this State, without a reasonable cause, and willfully absenting herself from him for two years; for pregnancy of woman at time of marriage by another person, without the knowledge of the husband; for habitual drunkenness of either party, when he or she has contracted the habit of drunkenness after marriage. Divorce, a mensa et thoro and from the bonds of matrimony at the discretion of the court may be decreed: For such cruel and inhuman treatment or conduct toward his wife, on the part of the husband, as renders it unsafe and improper for her to cohabit with him, and be under his dominion and control; where the husband has offered such indignities to the person of the wife as to render her condition intolerable, and thereby force her to withdraw; where the husband has abandoned his wife or turned her out of doors, and refused or neglected to provide for her. A divorce may be granted for any of the aforesaid causes, though the acts complained of were committed out of the State, or the petitioner resided out of the State at the time, no matter where the other party resides, if the petitioner has resided in this State for two years next preceding the filing of the petition.

Dower. (See Married Women.)

Executions may issue forthwith, and from circuit courts are returnable to the succeeding term; from justices' courts in thirty days. Stay of eight months may be had in judgments of a justice by furnishing security. Debtor has two years in which to redeem realty sold under execution.

Exemptions. Homestead, $1,000. Personal property consisting of household goods, supplies, tools and stock, etc., amounting in all to about $1,200.

Garnishment. (See Attachment.)

Holidays. Every Sunday, January 1st, February 22d, July 4th, December 25th, Good Friday, Decoration Day, Memorial Day, 1st Monday in September, known as Labor Day; and when any of these days falls on Sunday then the following Monday is substituted. Also, all days appointed by the governor of this State, or the President of the United States for public fast or thanksgiving, and election days, are holidays.

Homestead of value $1,000 in real estate, legal or equitable, is reserved to the head of a family, exempt from sale under legal process during his life. At a husband's death it inures to the benefit of his wife and children, free from the claims of creditors. It may be sold by joint consent of husband and wife, when that relation exists, evidenced by conveyance, duly executed as required by law for married women. It is liable for taxes and purchase money, or money paid for improvement thereon.

Husband and Wife. Husband is not liable for antenuptial debts of his wife, but his marital rights do not so attach to her property, as to defeat the collection of same. Wife's personalty can not be subjected to the payment of husband's antenuptial debts. Wife can hold real and personal property separate from the husband, and not liable for his debts. Rents and profits of wife's land not subject to husband's debts, nor can the husband's marital interest in wife's land be sold during her life. Wife can dispose of her separate estate by deed or will, unless the power so to do is expressly withheld in the instrument creating it. Husband has curtesy, as at common law. Wife has dower, which is one-third for life of real estate, both legal and equitable, of which her husband died seized and possessed. At husband's death, homestead inures to benefit of wife and children. Widow of intestate entitled to year's support, and to exempt personal property of husband for benefit of herself and children. Life insurance effected on life of husband, by either husband or wife, at his death inures to the benefit of his widow and children, free from claims of his creditors. Married women over twenty-one, who have abandoned their husbands, or whose husbands have abandoned them, have the same power of disposition over their realty as femmes sole, but must be privily examined. (See Descent and Distribution.)

Interest. Legal rate, 6 per cent. Contract for more is void as to excess, and an instrument showing usury on its face can not be sued on.

Judgments. From court of record are a lien from date of rendition for one year on all lands then owned by defendant, and on after-acquired lands for one year after acquirement.

Limitations of Suits. Upon bonds, notes, accounts, and contracts generally, six years; judgments or decrees of courts of record and other cases not expressly provided for, ten years. Revivor: Acknowledgment, expressed willingness to pay or promise; part payment not in itself sufficient. All demands against administrators and executors must be presented or sued on in two years and six months, if a resident, and three years and six months if a non-resident. Continuous adverse possession of real estate for seven years, under color of title, makes a title. The neglect to institute suit at law, or in equity, for seven years after cause of action accrues bars action and gives possessory right.

Married Women. (See Husband and Wife.)

Mechanics' Lien for one year upon any ground upon which a house is constructed or repaired, or fixtures, etc., put in, in favor of the person doing the work. Covers the lands of married women. Benefit extends to any workman or furnisher of material giving notice to owner within thirty days after the completion of building, or his discharge, or the completion of his contract. Railroad contractor, sub-contractor, furnisher of material, and every one who does any valuable service, manual or professional, for railroad, shall have lien for one year; if within ninety days after work done or material furnished, written notice is given railroad company or owners. No mortgage or contract with construction company shall be superior to this lien.

Mortgages and deeds of trust take effect as to third parties only from registration. Can be foreclosed without intervention of court when power of sale is conferred in the instrument. Chattel mortgages are good as to the contracting parties without registration, but not as against purchasers without actual notice, and creditors. It is a felony for maker of registered mortgage of personal property to dispose of same with purpose of depriving beneficiary of same. Railroad can not make a mortgage which shall be superior to judgments for timbers furnished, or labor, or for damages done to persons or property in operation of road. Equity of redemption may be waived, in deed of trust, and on default realty may be sold thereunder by trustee, free therefrom, for cash or otherwise, due advertisement having been made. When mortgages foreclosed in court, property may be sold on credit of not less than six months nor more than two years, and in bar of all equity of redemption, personal security being required of vendee and lien being retained on land to secure purchase money. Otherwise mortgagor has two years to redeem.

Partnership. Limited partnership may be formed for transaction of any mercantile, mechanical, manufacturing, agricultural, or mining business in this State; but not for carrying on business of banking and insurance. The articles of copartnership must specify the name of the firm, and of each individual partner, and his place of residence, general nature of the business, amount of capital each partner has contributed to common stock, and the period at which partnership is to commence and terminate. Articles must be acknowledged by each partner and registered in every county where firm has a place of business. Terms of partnership must be published for six weeks, immediately after registration, in a newspaper, to be designated by register. At time of filing original articles for registration, an affidavit of a general partner must be filed in same office, stating that the sums specified in the articles to have been contributed by each partner to common stock, were actually and in good faith contributed and in cash. If all formalities are not complied with, or are violated, the special or limited partner will be liable as a general partner.

Power of Attorney. All powers of attorney authorizing the sale, conveyance, and transfer of real estate must be registered. Other powers of attorney may be registered. Can not be made by married women.

Protest. (See Bills and Notes.)

Taxes are a lien on the real estate on which they are levied, and as between vendor and vendee they are a lien from January 10th of the year for which they are assessed; as between the State, county, city and the owner, they are a lien for six years from January 10th of year for which they accrued, after which they are barred. Payable first Monday in October of the year they are assessed. After first Tuesday in February following, taxes bear interest, and distress warrants are issued for collection. Under the act of 1899, after the first Monday in July of the year after that for which the taxes are assessed, all real estate upon which taxes have not been paid may be sold at public auction to the highest bidder after advertisement by the County Trustee of the county in which the land lies. The delinquent taxpayer has two years from the date of sale in which to redeem the property by paying taxes, interest, cost, and penalties.

Wills. No will can convey an estate in lands unless written in testator's life-time and signed by him, or by some person in his presence by his direction, and subscribed in his presence by two witnesses at least, neither of whom is interested in the devise of said lands; but a paper writing purporting to be the will of the deceased person, written by him, having his name subscribed to it or inserted in some part of it, and found after his death among his valuable papers, or lodged in the hands of another for safe-keeping, shall be good and sufficient to give and convey lands, if the hand-writing is generally known by his acquaintances, and it is proved by at least three credible witnesses that they verily believe the writing, and that every part of it to be in his hand. Every devise shall convey the entire estate of the testator in lands unless the contrary plainly appears from the context. No nuncupative will shall be good where the estate exceeds $250, unless proved by two witnesses, disinterested, present at the making thereof, and unless some of them were especially requested to bear witness thereto by the testator himself, and unless it was made in his last sickness in his own habitation, dwelling house, or where he had been previously residing ten days at least, except he be surprised by sickness on a journey or from home and dies without returning to his dwelling, and such will must be proved within six months of the making thereof, unless it were put in writing within ten days, and it can not be proved until fourteen days after death of testator, nor until process has issued to call in the widow, or next of kin, or both, if conveniently to be found, to contest it. No written will shall be revoked or altered by a nuncupative will, except the same be reduced to writing in the life of the testator, and read over to him and approved, and unless the same be proved to have been so done by at least two witnesses capable to testify at common law. A married woman may dispose of any estate in the execution of a special power to that effect by will, and her signature should be made or the will be acknowledged by her in the presence of at least two witnesses, subscribing the will with their names in the presence of the testatrix. She may dispose of her separate estate by will, unless the power of such disposition is expressly withheld, in instrument under which she holds said estate. A valid testament of personalty may be made by a male infant of fourteen years of age, or a female infant of twelve.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF TEXAS

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Accounts, How Sworn To. Open accounts, for purposes of suit, should have attached the affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, that such account is, within the knowledge of affiant, just and true, that it is due, and that all just and lawful offsets, payments, and credits have been allowed. If made by agent or attorney, the affidavit should allege the fact. Such affidavit is prima facie evidence in all commercial accounts, unless denied under oath, but not in an isolated transaction based on special contract.

Acknowledgments of instruments for record may be made without the State, but within the United States, or Territories, before clerk of some court of record having a seal, commissioner of deeds for Texas, notary public; without the United States, before a minister, commissioner, or charge d'affaires, consul general, consul, vice-consul, commercial agent, vice-commercial agent, deputy consul, or consular agent of the United States, notary public; within the State, before a clerk of the district court, a judge or clerk of the county court, a notary public, in the county for which appointed. Acknowledgment should state:

Before me.....(giving name and character of officer) on this day personally appeared.....known to me to be the person whose name is subscribed to the foregoing instrument, and * he (or she) acknowledged to me that he (or she) executed the same for the purposes and consideration therein expressed.

Given under my hand and seal of office this....day of....18..

[Seal.] [Name of officer and official character.]

For a married woman's acknowledgment proceed after * as follows: and known to me to be the wife of .....; and having been examined by me privily and apart from her said husband, and having the same fully explained to her, she, the said.....acknowledged such instrument to be her act and deed, and declared that she had willingly signed the same for the purposes and consideration therein expressed, and that she did not wish to retract it.

Given, etc. (as above).

Actions. The distinction between law and equity proceedings does not exist in Texas. All forms of action are abolished. To compel defendant to appear at any term of the court he must have been cited ten days before the term begins. Service by publication not good except in proceedings in rem., which by statute are made to include suits to determine the title to, or incumbrances upon, property within this State.

Administration of Estates. Letters testamentary or of administration may be granted within four years after the death of a party. They issue to persons who are qualified to act in the following order: 1. To the executor named in the will. 2. Surviving husband or wife. 3. Principal devisee or legatee. 4. Any other devisee or legatee. 5. Next of kin. 6. Creditor. 7. Person of good character residing in the county. The county court acts as a court of probate in all matters pertaining to estates of decedents, testate or intestate, and, unless the will dispenses with such supervision, administrators must furnish bond in double the amount of the estate. Surviving husband or wife qualifying as such must give bond in a sum equal to the value of the community estate.

Affidavits, within this State, may be made before a clerk of the district court, or judge or clerk of the county court, or a notary public, in the county for which appointed; without this State, and within the United States, before a clerk of a court of record having a seal, a notary public, commissioner of deeds for Texas; without the United States, before a notary public, minister, commissioner or charge d'affaires, consul-general, consul, vice-consul, commercial agent, vice-commercial agent, deputy consul, or consular agent of the United States.

Aliens who become residents of Texas, and have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, have all the property rights of citizens. Aliens who owned real estate prior to July 12, 1892, have the same property rights as are accorded to citizens of the United States by the laws or treaties of the Nation of which the alien is a citizen; this is also the case as to lands acquired since July 12, 1892, which are situated in an incorporated or platted city, town, or village.

Aliens who are bona fide residents of Texas may, during such residence, own lands the same as citizens.

Non-resident aliens who, since July 12, 1892, acquire lands not in an incorporated or platted city, town, or village, must bona fide dispose of the same within ten years from their acquisition; if this is not done the lands are subject to escheat to the State.

Aliens may acquire title to lands, or an interest therein, in the ordinary course of justice, or acquire and enforce liens, or lend money upon real estate.

Appeals to the supreme and appellate courts for delay will be affirmed, with 10 per cent on the amount in dispute, as damages, together with interest and costs.

Arbitration. The statutes provide for arbitration, the award made in such cases, if the proceeding was in compliance with the statutes, becomes the judgment of the court in which it is filed.

Arrest. The Texas laws do not authorize an arrest in civil matters, except for contempt of court.

Assignments and Insolvency. (See Insolvent and Assignment Laws.)

Attachments issue, on bond in double amount of debt being given, and affidavit of plaintiff that defendant is justly indebted to plaintiff, and the amount of the demand; that attachment is not sued out for purpose of injuring or harassing defendant; that plaintiff will probably lose his debt unless such attachment is issued; and stating, further, either of following grounds, that the defendant 1. Is not a resident of the State, or is a foreign corporation, or is acting as such. 2. Is about to remove permanently out of the State, and has refused to pay or secure the debt due the plaintiff. 3. Secretes himself so that the ordinary process of law can not be served on him. 4. Has secreted his property for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. 5. Is about to secrete his property for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. 6. Is about to remove his property out of the State, without leaving sufficient remaining for the payment of his debts. 7. Is about to remove his property, or a part thereof, out of the county where the suit is brought, with intent to defraud his creditors. 8. Has disposed of his property, in whole or in part, with intent to defraud his creditors. 9. Is about to dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors. 10. Is about to convert his property, or a part thereof, into money, for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors. 11. That the debt is due for property obtained under false pretenses. Suit for damages growing out of attachment proceedings may be brought in any county from which the writ issued, or where the levy was made in whole or in part. This gives the debtor the option of place of trial. No attachment shall issue until suit has been instituted, but it may issue at the commencement of the suit, or at any time during its progress. It may issue before plaintiff's debt is due, but no final judgment shall be rendered against defendant until the debt becomes due. The defendant may replevy property attached by giving bond, with two sureties, in double the amount of the debt, or double the value of the property replevied, as estimated by the officers. The priority of attachment liens exists as at common law, except that a levy on land must be registered with the county clerk.

Writs of garnishment may also issue on application and affidavit of plaintiff, his agent or attorney, to persons owing defendant, or holding effects of his in possession, or corporations in which the defendant is a stockholder. If sued out before judgment, bond in double amount of debt is required; if after judgment, no bond required. Said affidavit shall state that the amount claimed is just, due, and unpaid, and that affiant does not know of property of defendant in this State subject to execution sufficient to satisfy the debt, and that he has reason to believe, and does believe, the garnishee (naming him) is indebted to, or has property or effects of, the defendant, and that the garnishment is not sued out to injure garnishee or defendant. Final judgment must be rendered against defendant before judgment can be had against the garnishee. When debt is not due writ of garnishment can issue only when writ of attachment has been issued; in this case no bond is required for the writ of garnishment. In garnishment, defendant may, before judgment, replevy whatever is garnisheed by filing bond with two good sureties, and may then make any defense which the garnishee could make in such suit. Proceeds of voluntary sale of homestead not subject to garnishment within six months after such sale.

Banks. The constitution of 1876 says: "No corporate body shall hereafter be created, renewed, or extended with banking or discounting privileges." There is no provision of law for the official examination of State banks, nor are such banks required to make any public statements of their condition or to make reports to any State official. A number of State banks chartered before the adoption of this provision of the constitution are still engaged in business.

By act of 1897, it is made a felony for any president, director, manager, cashier, or other officer of any bank or banking institution, or the owner, agent, or manager of any private bank or banking institution, or the officers, directors, or agents of any trust company doing business in Texas to receive or assent to the receipt of deposits of money or other valuable things after having knowledge of the insolvency of such institution.

Bills of Lading. Common carriers are required, when they receive goods for transportation, to give the shipper, when it is demanded, a bill of lading stating the quantity, character, order, and condition of the goods; and such goods shall be delivered in the manner provided by common law in like order and condition to the consignee. Liability as at common law for damages. Bill of lading is prima facie evidence of ownership of goods in transit by the consignee. Carriers can not restrict their liability by any general or special notice, or by inserting exceptions in a bill of lading; and this rule is applied to a through bill. Bills of lading are negotiable paper.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust of Personal Property, to be valid as to creditors, and as to purchasers without notice, must be accompanied by immediate delivery, followed by actual and continued change of possession of property, unless the same, or a true copy thereof, is filed in the county clerk's office of county where mortgagor resides, or if he is a non-resident of the State, then in the county where the property is situated. And all reservations of the title to chattels as security for the purchase money thereof are held to be chattel mortgages, and are, when possession is delivered to the vendee, void as to creditors and bona fide purchasers, unless such reservation be in writing, and filed as required for chattel mortgages. Mortgages are held to be mere security for the debt, and must be enforced by sale of property, either through a decree of foreclosure or power of sale given in the mortgage; sale of property, upon death of mortgagor, must be enforced through probate court. Any lien attempted to be given on a stock of goods exposed to daily sale in the regular course of business, and contemplating continued possession and sale of the goods by the owner, is fraudulent and void. Chattel mortgage given to secure creditors is invalid against such creditors as do not accept under it.

Collaterals. Holder of claims as collateral security who fails to use due diligence to collect is liable for loss. Is not affected by limitation against the debt. After the death of the debtor the creditor may still collect the collaterals. Surety on principal debt is subrogated to rights of creditor as to collaterals. If, by negligence or design, the creditor loses the collateral, the surety on the principal debt is to that extent discharged. Note pledged as collateral can be held for no other debt. Taking collateral security does not extinguish original contract.

Contracts. No seal is required to be affixed to written contracts. An agreement to answer for the debt, default or miscarriage of another, or for the sale of real estate or the lease thereof for more than a year, or which is not to be performed within a year from the making thereof, must be in writing and signed by the person to be charged therewith.

Conveyances. The husband alone can convey his separate and the community real estate, not the homestead. Husband and wife must join in the conveyance of the wife's separate real estate or of the homestead, whether the seperate property of the husband or community, and the wife must, privily from her husband, acknowledge the execution of the instrument before a proper officer in the manner pointed out by statute. (See Acknowledgments.)

Corporations. The act regarding private corporations was materially amended by the Legislature of 1895. The purposes for which private corporations may be formed, as set out in the statute, cover almost the entire range of business enterprise. Subdivision 4 of the statute authorizes incorporation for "the purchase and sale of goods, wares, and merchandise, and agricultural and farm products;" and subdivision 25 for the purpose of buying and selling goods, wares, and merchandise of any description by wholesale or by wholesale and retail combined, provided the capital stock in such company is not less than $20,000, and the wholesale and retail business are not separated. Private banking corporations are prohibited. A statute approved March 24, 1893, provides that no corporation whose main business is to acquire real estate shall be permitted to acquire any land in this State after that date, and that all lands then held by them must be alienated within fifteen years from that time, and that other private corporations shall not acquire nor hold more land than is necessary to the transaction of their business, and if any surplus should be acquired in collection of debts it must be disposed of within fifteen years after such acquisition. Foreign corporations are required by the statutes to file copy of the charter with the secretary of State, with a fee of from $25 to $200, according to the capital stock. A franchise tax by amendment of 1897 is imposed as follows: For domestic corporations having an authorized capital stock of $50,000 and less than $100,000, $20; for domestic corporations having an authorized capital stock of $100,000 and less than $200,000, $30; for domestic corporations having an authorized capital stock of $200,000 or more, $50. For foreign corporations having an authorized capital stock of $25,000 or less, $25; for foreign corporations having an authorized capital stock of more than $25,000 and not exceeding $100,000, $100; and for foreign corporations having an authorized capital stock of over $100,000, $100, and $1 for each additional $10 000 above $100,000 and not exceeding $1,000,000; and if such authorized capital stock exceeds $1,000,000 then such corporation shall pay a still further additional tax of $1 for every $100,000 over and above $1,000,000. Sleeping, dining and palace car companies are required by this bill to pay an annual tax equivalent to 2½ per cent of their gross receipts on business done in the State.

Courts. There are two terms annually of the Federal circuit court at Dallas, Waco, Ft. Worth, Abilene, San Angelo, Galveston, Tyler, Jefferson, Paris, Beaumont, Brownsville, San Antonio, Austin, and El Paso. State courts with civil jurisdiction are justice courts in each precinct, jurisdiction $200 or less. No appeal in cases of $20 or less; above that, appeal to county court. County court in each county has general probate jurisdiction and exclusive jurisdiction from $200 to $500; from $500 to $1,000, concurrent jurisdiction with the district court. Appeals in probate matters to the district court; in all other civil appeals to the court of civil appeals. District court has concurrent jurisdiction with the county court over amounts from $500 to $1,000, exclusive jurisdiction over amounts above latter sum, and also of all suits involving title to land and slander and libel, irrespective of amounts. Appeal in civil matters to court of civil appeals. There are five courts of civil appeals, each in separate districts, to which all civil appeals from the district and county courts are taken. There is one supreme court sitting at Austin to which certain characters of cases can be brought from the courts of civil appeals by writ of error granted by the supreme court. In each county there must be as many as two terms of the district court each year, and in a number of more populous counties there are from four to seven terms each year. At least four sessions of the county court in each county must be held each year. In a number of the sparsely settled counties the civil jurisdiction of the county courts, except as to probate matters, has been transferred to the district court. Justices of the peace and clerks of the courts are required to file and docket all suits tendered, but can not be compelled to take any further action unless the costs are secured.

Days of Grace. Three are allowed on all bills of exchange and promissory notes assignable or negotiable by law. Note payable on demand is not entitled to days of grace. When a note is payable so many months after date, the note will become due on the day of the month corresponding with the day of the date; that is, if it be dated on the tenth day of the month it will become due on the tenth, to which the days of grace are to be added. When a bill or note is payable a certain number of days after date, demand, or sight, the day of its date, etc., is excluded in computing time. Limitation does not commence to run on commercial paper until the expiration of three full days after the day of maturity.

Depositions. All witnesses' depositions may be taken. The deposition of a party to a suit, except where either party is a corporation, may be taken by the adverse party, ex parte, and without notice. To take the deposition of any other witness, it is necessary that the opposite party, or his attorney of record, shall be served with notice, stating name and residence of witness, together with copy of interrogatories, five days before the commission will issue. In taking the testimony the officer will make a caption, stating the name of the case, the appearance and residence of the witness, official title of the officer, etc., as is usual, and after swearing the witness, will proceed to take his answers to the several interrogatories and cross interrogatories separately, which being written must be "sworn to and subscribed before the officer by the witness" (naming him), to which fact the officer must certify under his hand and official seal. The deposition, with commission and interrogatories, must be sealed in an envelope, and the officer's name must be written officially across the seal. The envelope must have indorsed thereon the style of the suit and name of witness, and must be addressed to the clerk or justice issuing the commission. Usual transmission is by mail, and the postmaster or deputy postmaster of the sending office must indorse thereon that he received same from the hands of the officer.

Descent and Distribution of Property. Real, personal, or mixed property, when deceased leaves no husband or wife, descends: To his children and their descendants; if none such exist, then to father and mother in equal portions; if only father or mother survive, then such survivor takes one half, and the other half goes to the brothers and sisters of deceased and their descendants; if none of the latter survive, the parent then living takes the whole; if neither parents, nor sisters or brothers or their descendants survive, then the estate goes in equal moieties to the paternal and maternal kindred, i. e., to grandfather and grandmother of each side and their descendants; if one be dead and have no descendants, then the whole moiety to the survivor, and so on to the nearest lineal ancestors and their descendants. When deceased leaves husband or wife, the estate descends, when there are children, one-third of personal property and life estate in one-third of real estate to husband or wife, balance of personal and real estate, as well as remainder to child or children. If deceased leaves no child or children, husband or wife takes all personal and one-half of real estate, the other half goes to the father and mother, etc., under the general rule above as to descent, but surviving husband or wife takes all, in case neither father or mother, nor sister or brothers or their descendants survive. Community property goes entirely to surviving husband or wife, when there are no children or their descendants, but if there are such, the property goes one-half to surviving spouse and the other half to the children and their descendants.

Divorce. District court may annul marriage for natural or incurable impotency, or other impediment which made marriage void ab initio; and a divorce may be granted for cruelty, adultery, desertion for three years, or, under certain circumstances, upon conviction of either spouse for felony. Plaintiff must be a bona fide inhabitant of the State, and must have resided in the county where suit is brought for six months next preceding filing of suit. By act of 1897 husband and wife are competent witnesses, and either may testify for or against the other.

Dower. The right of dower does not exist in Texas.

Executions from district and county courts issue after adjournment, and may, on application of successful party, issue twenty days after judgment, if no supersedeas bond has been filed and approved; from justices' court, on the eleventh day after judgment; in all, upon plaintiff, his agent or attorney, making affidavit to certain facts, shall issue forthwith. No redemption of land sold under execution. "The time and place of making sale of real estate in execution shall be publicly advertised by the officer for at least twenty days successively next before the day of sale, by posting up written or printed notices thereof at three public places in the county, one of which shall be at the door of the courthouse of the county, and by delivering to the defendant in execution one copy of said notice of sale, whenever he resides in the county where the land is situated, and shall mail a similar notice to the attorney of record, if any, for such defendant in every case; and if such defendant resides out of the county where the land is situated, the officer shall mail to him a similar notice, directed to him at his post office, if known to such officer, and if his residence is not known and he has no attorney of record, the posting of the first three notices shall be sufficient; provided, that whenever real property shall be levied on by virtue of an execution, or shall be the subject of any order of sale or venditioni exponas, if the defendant shall, at any time prior to and not later than five days after receiving notice of the levy of any execution or issuance of order of sale or venditioni exponas, request the clerk or justice of the peace issuing such execution, order of sale or venditioni exponas, or the officer making the levy or holding the process, that notice of the sale be published in a newspaper, the same shall be so published, if there be a newspaper published in the county that will publish the same for the compensation allowed herein; when said request is filed the officer shall, under the provisions of this article, publish notice of the sale in a newspaper published in the county for three consecutive weeks. Said notice shall contain a statement of the authority by virtue of which the sale is to be made; the time of levy and the time and place of sale; it shall also contain a brief description of the property to be sold, and shall give the number of acres, original survey, locality in the county, and the name by which the land is most generally known, but it shall not be necessary for it to contain field notes." Judgment becomes dormant if execution be not issued thereon within twelve months.

Exemptions. By the constitution of 1876, the homestead of a family not in a town or city consists of 200 acres of land, which may be in one or more parcels, with improvements thereon. In a city, town, or village it consists of a lot or lots not to exceed $5,000 in value at the time of their designation as the homestead, exclusive of improvements, provided the same be used as a home, or as a place to exercise the calling or business of the head of a family. The homestead is protected from forced sale or incumbrance except for taxes, or for the purchase money, or for improvements thereon, and in this last case, only when the work and materials are contracted for in writing in advance, with the consent of the wife, given in same manner as required in making a sale of homestead. In case of death of the husband, the widow and children have one year's support from the estate, allowance therefor in no case to exceed $1,000, and if the property exempt by law does not exist in kind, a sufficiency of the estate may be sold for cash, to raise allowance for homestead, not to exceed $5,000, and for other exempt property not to exceed $500. All household and kitchen furniture, all implements of husbandry, all tools and apparatus belonging to any trade or profession, all books, five milch-cows and calves, two yoke of work oxen, two horses and one wagon, one carriage or buggy, twenty hogs, twenty sheep, all provisions and forage on hand for home consumption, current wages for personal services, and sundry other articles, are also exempt property for every family. And to every citizen not the head of a family one horse, bridle, and saddle; all wearing apparel; any lot or lots in a cemetery for sepulture; all tools, apparatus, and books belonging to his trade, profession, or private library. Current wages for personal services are not subject to garnishment. Exempt personal property may be made subject to valid liens, by contract.

Fraud. Every gift, conveyance, assignment, transfer of, or charge upon any real or personal property, or suit commenced, decree, judgment, or execution suffered or obtained, and every bond or other writing given with intent to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors, purchasers, etc., is void as to them, excepting as against innocent purchasers for value without notice. Gifts, conveyances, etc., not upon valuable consideration, are void as to then existing creditors, unless debtor had then enough additional property subject to execution to pay his debts existing at that time.

Futures, Dealings in, with no intention of actual delivery, made a misdemeanor.

Garnishment. (See Attachments.)

Holidays. January 1st, February 22d, March 2d, April 21st, July 4th, first Monday in September, December 25th, all days appointed by the president of the United States or governor of Texas as days of fasting or thanksgiving, and the days on which an election is held throughout the State are holidays, which shall be treated as Sundays for the purpose of presenting for payment or acceptance, and protesting and giving notice of dishonor of negotiable paper, instituting suits and serving process in civil cases, except in attachments. If any of said days falls on Sunday, the next day thereafter is holiday. No civil suit shall be commenced, nor shall any process be issued or served on Sunday or any legal holiday, except in cases of injunction, attachment, garnishment, sequestration, or distress proceeding.

Husband and Wife. All property owned by either spouse before marriage, or afterward acquired by gift, devise or descent, constitutes his or her respective separate property. All property acquired during coverture by either husband or wife (except property acquired by gift, devise or descent) is community property.

Debt incurred by the wife will not bind her separate estate unless by contract for necessaries for self or children, and for expenses incurred in behalf of her separate estate; but she may, by complying with statutory forms, mortgage her property to secure the husband's debt.

Insolvent and Assignment Laws. The statute provides for a general assignment by an insolvent debtor. The assignee must, within thirty days, give notice to all the creditors. Creditors to share in the benefits must accept within four months, and file with the assignee verified statement of their claims within six months. Moneys must be distributed by the assignee whenever he has as much as 10 per cent of all properly proven claims on hand after paying expenses. Assignee must file sworn report with the county clerk, and any opposition to this report must be filed within twelve months after filing. Preferences not allowed. No discharge of debtor unless the estate pays as much as 33⅓ per cent to all accepting creditors.

Interest. Legal, 6 per cent; conventional up to 10 per cent. Open accounts, no rate agreed upon, legal interest from January 1st thereafter.

Judgments bear rate stipulated in contract sued upon, and 6 per cent when none stipulated for. Usury forfeits all interest. Where usurious interest has been paid, double the amount may be recovered by suit within two years.

Judgment Lien. In federal, district, county, and justice courts a judgment is a lien on debtor's real estate in any county where an abstract of judgment shall be filed and recorded in a book kept for that purpose, in the office of county court clerk and properly indexed and cross-indexed in the name of each plaintiff and defendant. Lien takes effect from date of record and index of abstract, and continues for ten years, unless plaintiff fails to have execution issued within twelve months after judgment. A transfer of a judgment when acknowledged, as required for deeds, filed with the clerk of court in which recovered and by him noted in the minute book of the court, is constructive notice to, and valid and binding on, all persons subsequently dealing with reference to the cause of action or judgment.

Liens. Exempt property, excepting homestead, and all other property is subject to lien by contract, saving a stock of goods daily exposed to sale where change of possession is not contemplated. The homestead is subject, however, to lien for taxes, vendor's lien, and mechanic's lien, if the latter is fixed by prior contract and wife's separate acknowledgment thereof. The statutes provide further for mechanic's liens, for liens in favor of hotel and boarding-house keepers, and for liens on vessels.

Limitation to Suits. Written contracts, four years; accounts, other than open accounts between merchant and merchant, their factors and agents, two years. Mortgage lien barred with the debt, unless power of sale is given in mortgage, but new promise which revives debt, and which must be in writing, revives mortgage. Limitation must be pleaded. Does not run during period of absence of debtor from State, nor against minors, married women, and persons non compos.

Married Women can not bind themselves, nor their separate estate, by making, drawing, accepting, or indorsing negotiable instruments. Her separate estate is not liable for husband's debts; nor for her own contracts, except for expenses incurred for its benefit, or for necessaries for herself and children, though she may encumber it for debt of her husband by complying with statutory forms. Property owned by wife before marriage, or acquired afterwards by gift, devise, or descent, remains her separate property. That acquired after marriage, except as above, or by sale or exchange of separate property, is community property, as is also the increase of any of the wife's separate property, as rents, crops, increase of cattle, interest on notes, etc. A married woman can not contract as a partner in business, nor embark her separate means in trade.

Mortgages. No mortgage or other voluntary incumbrance of the homestead, except for labor or material used in its improvement (as to which see exemptions and liens supra), is valid.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Commercial paper is anything that is recognized as such by the law merchant, and it is not required that it shall be payable at a bank or any fixed place in the State. Unless otherwise provided in the paper, it will be considered payable at the residence of the maker or acceptor, or other person bound. The liability of any drawer or indorser may be fixed by instituting suit against the acceptor or maker, before first term of district or county court, to which suit can be brought, or before second term, showing good cause why not brought at first term; within jurisdiction of justice, suit must be brought within sixty days. Protest: Such liability may also be fixed by protest, according to the custom of merchants. The holder of a protested draft or bill, drawn by a merchant in this State, upon his agent or factor without the State, may recover 10 per cent damages thereon, besides interest and costs. Days of grace (three) allowed on all negotiable instruments, except paper payable on demand. Attorney's fees may be stipulated for in note and recovered in case of suit. If Monday be a holiday, negotiable paper may be presented for payment or acceptance on the Saturday preceding such holiday. Paper falling due on Sunday, or a holiday, must be presented for payment or acceptance on Saturday or the day preceding such holiday. When third day of grace falls on Sunday or a legal holiday, the paper is due on the preceding day.

Powers of Attorney if intended to effect title to real property, should be acknowledged and recorded like a deed to real estate. Revocation should be made in the same way.

Private Seals. Abolished February 2, 1858, except as to private corporations.

Promissory Notes. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Protest. The holder of any bill of exchange or promissory note, assignable or negotiable by the law merchant, may also secure and fix the liability of any drawer or endorser of such bill of exchange or promissory note for the payment thereof, without suit against the acceptor, drawer, or maker, by procuring such bill or note to be regularly protested by a notary public for non-acceptance or non-payment, and giving notice of such protest to such drawer or indorser according to the usage and custom of merchants.

Suits, Where Brought. The rule is that a resident of the State should be sued in the county in which he may reside, but there are numerous exceptions, among them being suits brought on written contracts, providing where they are to be performed—which may be brought either in the county of the defendant's residence or where the performance is agreed to be made. Thus, a note payable at Austin may be sued on in Travis County, though defendant reside in another county. This enables parties to concentrate their collections.

Taxes. Non-residents may pay State and county taxes to the comptroller of the State, at Austin, on or before December 31st next after assessment. Taxes are a lien upon land until paid. Taxes become delinquent, and forced collections of same begin on and after 1st day of January next succeeding the year for which they are assessed. Owner has two years within which to redeem land sold for taxes, by paying to purchaser double the amount paid for the land.

Transfer of Corporation Stocks. Such stock is transferable only on the books of the corporation in such manner as the by-laws may direct.

Wills. All adult persons of sound mind may dispose of their property, real and personal, as they choose. A will must be signed by the testator himself, or in his presence, by his direction, and, unless wholly written by himself, signed by two witnesses in his presence. Application for the probate of a will must be made to the county court of the proper county within four years from the date of the death of the person making it. A will which has been probated in another State or country can be probated here. SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF UTAH

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by MESSRS. BOOTH, LEE & RITCHIE, Attorneys at Law, Salt Lake City. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Acknowledgments. (See Deeds.)

Actions. There is but one form of civil action, but the distinction between law and equity cases in their nature is recognized in taking appeals to the supreme court, and where there is variance between the rules of equity and the rules of the common law in reference to the same matter, the rules of equity prevail. Civil actions are commenced in the district court by filing a written complaint in the proper court or by the service of summons. If commenced by summons, which is signed by plaintiff's attorney, the complaint must be filed in court within ten days after service. Summons may be served by an officer or any person over twenty-one, not a party, but in justice court summons must be issued by the justice and must be served by an officer. It is served by leaving a copy with the defendant, or some person over the age of fourteen years, at his residence. The statute, however, provides for service by publication in cases where lien is created by attachment or existing otherwise Actions must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except that an executor or administrator, or a trustee, or a person with whom the contract has been made for the benefit of another, may sue in his own name. Actions must be commenced in the county where the cause of action arises. Actions concern ng real property must be commenced in the county where the real estate, or some part thereof, is situated. The court may, on motion, change the place of trial: 1. When the county designated in the complaint is not the proper county. 2. When there is reason to believe that an impartial trial can not be had therein. 3. When the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted by the change, and when the judge is disqualified from acting. Any person who has an interest in the matter in litigation may become a party to the suit by filing complaint in intervention, and the court may also order new parties when the ends of justice require it.

Administration of Decedents' Estates. Letters testamentary and of administration are granted by the district court of the proper county. Applicants for letters of administration are entitled thereto, other things being equal, in the following order: 1. The surviving husband or wife, or some competent person whom he or she may request to have appointed. 2. The children. 3. The father or mother. 4. Brothers or sisters. 5. The grandchildren. 6. The next of kin. 7. The creditors. 8. Any other competent person. A surviving partner can not be appointed administrator of his deceased partner's estate. Administrators are required to give bonds with sureties. Debts of decedent are paid in the following order: 1. Funeral expenses, the expenses of the last sickness, and the allowance to decedent's family. 2. Wages of decedent's employees for services rendered within sixty days of death, not exceeding $100 each. 3. Debts preferred by law. 4. Liens on the homestead. 5. Other liens on decedent's property. 6. All other demands against the estate. (See Claims Against Estates of Deceased Persons.)

Affidavits. An affidavit, to be used before any court, judge, or officer of this State, may be taken before any judge, or clerk of any court, or any justice of the peace or notary public in this State. An affidavit taken in any other State or Territory of the United States, to be used in this State, may be taken before a commissioner, appointed by the governor of this State to take affidavits and depositions in such other State or Territory, or before any notary public in another State or Territory, or before any judge or clerk of a court of record having a seal. An affidavit taken in a foreign country, to be used in this State, may be taken before an ambassador, minister, consul, vice-consul, or consular agent of the United States, or before any judge of a court of record having a seal in such foreign country. When an affidavit is taken before a judge or a court in another State or Territory, or in a foreign country, the genuineness of the signature of the judge, the existence of the court, and the fact that such judge is a member thereof, must be certified by the clerk of the court under the seal thereof.

Aliens have same rights as citizens. (See Foreign Corporations; Costs.)

Appeals may be taken from judgments rendered by justices of the peace to the district court within thirty days after the rendition of the judgment. Undertaking with sureties must be given in the sum of $100 for payment of costs on appeal, or, if a stay of execution be claimed, in a sum double the amount of the judgment, including costs. In actions commenced in the district court from all final judgments, there is a right of appeal to the supreme court. In equity the appeal may be on questions of both law and fact; in cases at law the appeal shall be on questions of law alone. Appeals lie also from the final orders and decrees of the district court in the administration of estates of decedents and in matters of guardianship. An appeal must be taken within six months from the entry of the judgment or order appealed from. There is no appeal to the supreme court from judgment of district court on cases appealed from justice court, except in cases involving the validity or constitutionality of a statute. The undertaking must be executed on the part of the appellant by two sureties for damages and costs not exceeding $300, or, if stay of execution be desired, the undertaking must be in double the amount of the judgment appealed from.

Arrest. No person shall be arrested in a civil action except an absconding debtor. When the affidavit to obtain the order is not sworn to positively but on information and belief, it must state the facts upon which the information and belief are founded. Before making the order the judge must require a written undertaking of not less than $500.

Assignment for the Benefit of Creditors. Any insolvent debtor may execute a deed of assignment for the benefit of his creditors, provided that all debts due for wages or personal services of servant or employés of the assignor for one year previous to the assignment are preferred claims and must be paid first. Preferences can be given in deed of assignment if bona fide. Joint debtors can prefer out of their joint property only, and individual debtors can prefer out of their individual property. The deed of assignment shall set forth the name of the assignor, his residence and business; the name of the assignee, his residence and business, and generally describe the property assigned, with its location, and the purposes of the assignment; each shall be executed and acknowledged in the manner of deeds, and recorded in the office of the recorder of the county where the property is located. The assignor shall annex to such deed of assignment an inventory under oath, of all his estate; and a list of his creditors and the amount of their respective demands; failure to do so does not render assignment void; the assignment having conveyed all the property belonging to the assignor, except property exempt from execution and insurance upon the life of the assignor; the exempt property and insurance can be conveyed, however, in the deed. As soon as the instrument is recorded it shall be filed, with an inventory and list of creditors, in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county where the property is located. The assignee shall forthwith file with the clerk a true inventory of said estate under oath, and shall enter into bond to the State for the use of the creditors in double the amount of the assigned property, to be approved by the clerk. The assignee shall give notice of such assignment by publication in a newspaper in the county, if there be one, at least once a week for six weeks, and shall mail a notice to each creditor, requiring him to present his claim in three months thereafter, under oath. The claims presented must be sworn to by the claimant, or by some person acquainted with the facts; and shall be filed with the assignee within three months of the date of the first publication, unless the court extends such time, which it may do in its discretion, but in no case shall such extended time exceed nine months. At the expiration of three months from the time of first publishing notice, the assignee shall report and file with the clerk of the court a true and full list of such creditors with a statement of their claims, an affidavit of the publication of the notice, and a list of all creditors. Any person may contest any claim or demand of any creditor by written exceptions thereto filed with the clerk, and any creditor whose claim is contested must be served with a notice returnable not less than ten nor more than forty days, at which time the court shall hear the case and render judgment. If no exception is made to any claim, the court shall order the assignee to make from time to time fair and equal dividends among the creditors. The assignee is subject at all times to the order of the court. The assignee may be removed upon an application of a majority of the creditors in amount, and a person approved by the creditors may be appointed by the court. An assignee is allowed the same compensation as an executor for like services. An assignment for the benefit of creditors is void against any creditor of the assignor not assenting thereto in the following cases: 1. If it give a preference dependent upon any condition or contingency, or with any power of revocation reserved. 2. If it tend to coerce any creditor to release or compromise his demand. 3. If it provide for the payment of any claim known by the assignor to be false or fraudulent or for the payment of more upon any claim than is known to be justly due from the assignor. 4. If it reserve any interest in the assigned property or any part thereof to the assignor, or for his benefit, before all his existing debts are paid. 5. If it confer upon the assignee any power which, if exercised, might prevent or delay the immediate conversion of the assigned property to the purposes of the trust; provided, that the assignment may provide reasonable terms and manner of sale to be carried out only so far as practicable and not prejudicial to the interest of the estate, in the discretion of the court.

Assignments. Statute provides that in case of an assignment of a thing in action, the action by the assignee is without prejudice to any set-off or other defense existing at the time of or before notice of the assignment. This does not, however, apply to a negotiable instrument transferred in good faith and upon good consideration before maturity.

Attachment may issue on any day in an action upon a contract or judgment which is not secured by mortgage, lien, or pledge, upon real or personal property situated in this State, or if so secured, after the security has, without any act of the plaintiff or the person to whom the security was given, become valueless, against a non-resident defendant, or against a defendant who has departed or is about to depart from the State to the injury of his creditors, or who stands in defiance of an officer or conceals himself so that process can not be served on him, or has disposed of, or is about to dispose of, his property with intent to defraud his creditors, or who has fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the obligation respecting which the action is brought. Process issued by clerk on receipt of affidavit made by or on behalf of plaintiff, and on the filing of an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff with sufficient sureties in a sum not less than $200 in district court and $50 in justice court and not less than the claim.

Banks. Corporations to conduct commercial and savings banks, or banks having departments for both classes of business, may be formed by any number of persons not less than five, at least one of whom shall be a resident of this State. The capital stock shall not exceed $1,000,000, nor shall the subscribed capital stock of any bank be less than $25,000, and in cities having from 10,000 to 20,000 inhabitants not less than $50,000, and in cities of 50,000 inhabitants and upward, not less than $100,000; nor shall the certificate of incorporation issue until it shall appear to the Secretary of State, by affidavit of at least three of the incorporators, that the requisite amount has been subscribed, and that at least 25 per cent of the stock subscribed by each stockholder, and not less than 25 per cent of the stock of the corporation has been paid in cash. The unpaid subscriptions of the stockholders shall be paid in cash installments of not less than 10 per cent per month until fully paid. The stock of any shareholder failing to pay an installment, after two weeks' notice in a newspaper, may be sold at auction. If such stock will not bring the amount due thereon, the amount previously paid shall be forfeited to the corporation, and may be sold within six months, or, if not sold, canceled and deducted from the capital stock of the association, and if said reduction shall reduce the capital stock below the minimum, it shall, within thirty days from the date of cancellation, be increased to the required amount; in default of which a receiver shall be appointed, on the application of the Attorney General, to close up the business of the bank. Every bank shall, at all times, have on hand, as a reserve, in available funds, 15 per cent of its commercial deposits and liabilities payable on demand. In cities of 25,000 population, or more, the reserve shall be 20 per cent. The reserve of savings deposits must be at least 10 per cent. Failure to make good the reserve within thirty days after notice from the Secretary of State is cause for the appointment of a receiver. No officer shall borrow to exceed one-tenth of the capital stock actually paid in, nor to exceed $10,000, nor for more than three months, nor on stock of the association as security, nor shall any officer become endorser or security for loans to others. No loan shall be made to any person for more than 15 per cent of the capital stock paid in. Stockholders are liable individually for an amount equal to their stock additionally thereto for corporation debts. Private bankers are those who, without being incorporated, carry on the business of banking, and must have a paid-up capital of $10,000; in cities of 5,000 to 10,000 inhabitants, at least $15,000; in cities of 10,000 to 20,000 inhabitants, at least $25,000; in cities of 20,000 inhabitants and upward, at least $50,000. At least one person interested must file with the Secretary of State and the county clerk, before the business begins, a sworn statement giving the names and post-office addresses of all persons interested in the business, with the nature and extent of their interest, amount of capital, name in which and place where the business is to be carried on. Every bank, corporate or private, shall make a report at least four times a year to the Secretary of State, according to the form prescribed by him and verified, stating the condition of the bank at the close of business at any past day, within three months before the date of the call, specified by the Secretary of State, and shall be transmitted to his office within five days, a copy of which, certified to by the Secretary of State, shall be published in a newspaper. The Secretary of State may call for special reports whenever his judgment thinks it necessary. A bank refusing to report is subject to a penalty of $50 for each day's delay. Every officer of a bank who knowingly overdraws his account is guilty of a misdemeanor. Every officer, agent, or clerk of any bank or banker receiving deposits, knowing that such bank or banker is insolvent, is guilty of a misdemeanor. To actions brought to recover money or other property deposited with any bank or banker, trust company, or savings association, there is no limitation.

Bills of Lading. No statutory provisions.

Chattel Mortgages to be valid as against third parties must be accompanied with delivery of the chattel to the mortgagee, or the mortgage must provide that the chattel may remain in the possession of the mortgagor. Parties must attach an affidavit that it is made in good faith to secure the amount named therein and without any design to hinder or delay the creditors of the mortgagor. It need not be acknowledged, but must be filed with the county recorder. It need not be recorded. It may be foreclosed by action or by advertisement. In the latter case the sale may be enjoined if it appear by affidavit that the mortgagor has a legal counterclaim or any other valid defense to all or part of the amount claimed by the mortgagee, and all further proceedings of foreclosure must be had in a district court. Failure to discharge, when satisfied, renders the mortgagee liable to a penalty of $50 and all actual damages. A chattel mortgage is void after one year from the filing, unless, within thirty days next preceding the expiration of one year from such filing, and of each year thereafter, the mortgagee, his agent, or attorney shall make an affidavit exhibiting the interests of the mortgagee, showing the amount then due; but no mortgage is good longer than five years from the original filing. No mortgage of exempt personal property is valid unless executed by both husband and wife.

Claims Against Estates of Deceased Persons. (See Administration.) Notice must be published by every executor or administrator to creditors to exhibit their claims within ten months after the first publication if the estate exceeds $10,000 in value, and within four months if less in value. All claims arising upon contracts must be presented within the time limited in the notice, and must be supported by the affidavit of the claimant, or some one in his behalf, that the amount is justly due, that no payments have been made thereon which are not credited, and that there are no off-sets to the same to the knowledge of the affiant. Claims are barred if not so presented. If the claim be not due or be contingent, the particulars must be stated. When the affidavit is made by some person other than the claimant, the reason why the claimant does not make it must be stated.

Conditional Sales. There is no statute on the subject. The supreme court has held that a conditional sale is good and valid as well against third persons as against parties to the transaction, and that such bailee of personal property or conditional purchaser can not convey the title or subject it to execution for his own debts until the condition on which the agreement to sell was made has been performed.

Consignments. There is no statutory law regulating.

Corporations. Corporations may be formed by any number of persons not less than five, at least one of whom must be a resident of the State. They shall enter into an agreement in writing, signed by each of them and acknowledged by at least three of their number before any notary public of the county in which they shall have their principal place of business; said agreement must state the name of the association, the name and place of residence of each incorporator in full, and the time of duration of such corporation, which shall not be less than three nor more than fifty years. It must further state the pursuit or business agreed upon, the place of its general business, the amount of stock each subscriber has subscribed, the amount of each share, and the limit of capital stock agreed upon, the number and kind of officers of the association, with their qualification, terms of office, and manner of election; and how many of the entire board shall be necessary to form a quorum, and whether the private property of the stockholders shall be liable for its obligations, with such additional clauses as they may deem necessary for the conducting of the business of such corporation. To this there must be added the oath or affirmation of three or more of such incorporators to the effect that they have commenced or that it is their bona fide intention to commence and carry on the business mentioned in the agreement, and they believe each party has paid or is able and will pay the amount of stock subscribed for; said acknowledgment, however, can not be made until at least 10 per cent of the stock subscribed for by each shareholder, and of the capital stock of the corporation, has been paid in. In cases where the amount of such capital stock consists of the aggregate valuation of property for the working, development, management, use, sale, or exchange of which such corporation shall be formed, no actual subscription of money is necessary, but each owner of such property shall be deemed to have subscribed an amount as will represent the fair estimated cash value of such property, the title to which he shall convey to such corporation. When such subscription is paid in property other than money, the fact must be stated in the articles of incorporation, also the kind of property, with a description thereof, which statement, except in the case of corporations organized for mining or irrigating purposes, shall be supplemented by the affidavits of three persons to the effect that they are acquainted with said property, and that it is reasonably worth the amount in cash for which it was accepted by the corporation. The agreement, together with the oath above stated, must be deposited with the clerk of the county in which the general business is to be carried on, and a copy of the same must be filed with the Secretary of State. The officers of such corporation must first subscribe an oath of office. Corporations so formed shall have general powers of such corporations. There are special provisions for the formation and regulation of railroads and also of benevolent corporations; also for the formation and regulation of telegraph, railroad, irrigation, insurance, building and loan, trust, and banking corporations.

Corporations, Foreign, doing business in this State are required to file with the Secretary of State and with the county clerk of the county wherein their principal office in the State is situated, certified copies of their articles and certificate of incorporation and by-laws, and shall by resolution of the board of directors accept the provisions of the constitution of this State, and shall also designate some person residing in the county in which its principal place of business in this State is situated, upon whom process may be served, which designation shall be filed with the county clerk of said county and the Secretary of State; service of summons upon such agent shall be deemed service upon the corporation. Any foreign corporation failing to comply with these provisions shall not be entitled to the benefit of the laws of this State relating to corporations. Any agent acting for a foreign corporation which has not complied with these provisions is guilty of a misdemeanor and is personally liable on contracts made by him for it.

Costs. Non-resident plaintiffs may be required to give security for costs.

Courts, Jurisdiction, Etc. The judicial power of this State is vested in a supreme court, district courts, and justices of the peace. The supreme court is composed of a chief justice and two associate justices, who are elected for a term of six years each, hold three regular terms of court annually at the capitol of the State, Salt Lake City; said terms commencing on the second Mondays of February, May, and October. It has mainly appellate jurisdiction, with original jurisdiction in mandamus, certiorari, prohibition, and habeas corpus, and in some other cases. This State is divided into seven judicial districts, and every county in the State has a court held at least three times a year at its county seat. Each district is presided over by one of the district judges (except the third district, which has three judges), who are elected for a term of four years each. The district courts have general jurisdiction in all causes, civil, criminal, and probate, and appellate jurisdiction in all actions appealed from justices of the peace. The probate courts which formerly existed under the territorial government are abolished by the State constitution, and the district courts have now jurisdiction of all probate matters, and are always open for probate business. Justices of the peace are elected and have jurisdiction in civil actions where the amount in controversy is less than $200, except where the title to real estate is brought into question, or where the matter in dispute involves the validity of any tax, impost, toll, or municipal fine. They have also criminal jurisdiction in misdemeanors punishable by fine not exceeding $200 or imprisonment not exceeding six months in the county jail, or both, and are examining and committing magistrates for violation of State laws.

Deeds. Conveyance of real estate must be by deed, attested by at least one witness and acknowledged, to entitle same to be recorded. If acknowledged according to law, a deed or writing affecting real estate may be read as evidence without further proof. Acknowledgments may be made within the State before a judge or clerk of the court having a seal, a notary public, or county recorder of the county where the conveyance is executed and to be recorded. Elsewhere in the United States before a judge or clerk of any court having a seal, a notary public or a commissioner of deeds for Utah. Out of the United States before a judge or clerk of the court as aforesaid, a notary public, or any minister, commissioner, or consul of the United States appointed to reside in the country where the acknowledgment is taken. Such certificate, when properly executed by the officer authorized to take acknowledgments to instruments in writing affecting the title to real estate and attached to a conveyance, shall be sufficient acknowledgment, proof and certificate that such conveyance was executed as required by law. It is not necessary to use a private seal on any instrument in writing in this State. Statute prescribes a short form of deed that may be used.

Depositions. The testimony of witnesses may be taken within the State by deposition after service of summons or appearance in an action, or after issue of fact has arisen in special proceedings in the following cases: 1. When the witness is a party or a person for whose immediate benefit the action or proceedings is prosecuted or defended. 2. When the witness resides out of the county in which his testimony is to be used. 3. When he is about to leave the county where the action is to be tried, and will probably continue absent when the testimony is required. 4. When the witness is too infirm to attend the trial. 5. When the testimony is required on a motion, or in any other cases where the oral examination of the witness is not required. Depositions within the State may be taken before any judge or officer authorized to administer oaths, on serving upon the adverse party previous notice of the time and place of examination, with a copy of the affidavit showing a proper case in which to take depositions. The notice must be at least five days, adding, also, one day for every twenty-five miles distance between the residence of the person notified and the place of the examination, unless by order the judge prescribe a shorter time, in which case a copy of the order must be served with the notice. The testimony of a witness out of the State may be taken in an action at any time after the service of the summons or appearance of the defendant, on a commission issued from the court, under seal, upon an order of the judge or court, or justice of the peace, under his hand, on application of either party on five days' notice. If issued to any place within the United States it may be issued to any person agreed upon, or, if no person be agreed upon, to any judge or notary public or person named or commissioned by the officers issuing it. Depositions are principally taken on stipulation by the attorneys of the parties on written interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, before some notary public or other officer, waiving notice, commission and objections as to form of questions, such stipulation and copy being sent in with the interrogatories, direct and cross.

Descent and Distribution. (See Succession.)

[NOTE.—In lieu of the common law designation "Descent and Distribution" the civil law title of "Succession" is used in the Utah statutes.]

Distress for Rent does not exist in Utah. (See Liens.)

Divorce. Any person can bring an action for divorce who has been a resident of the county and State for one year, upon any of the following grounds: Impotency, adultery, desertion, neglect to provide common necessaries of life, habitual drunkenness, conviction of felony, and cruel treatment. The district courts have exclusive jurisdiction.

Dower is abolished. In lieu thereof the law provides that one-third in value of all the legal and equitable estates in real property possessed by the husband at any time during marriage, and of which the wife had made no relinquishment of her rights, shall be set apart as her property in fee simple if she survive him; provided, that the wife shall not be entitled to any interest in any such estate of which the husband has made a conveyance when the wife, at the time of the conveyance, is not, and never has been, a resident of Utah. Property so distributed is free from debts of the husband, except mechanic's lien for improvements on the same, lien for the purchase thereof, and for taxes. The value of the widow's share of the homestead is deducted from her distributive share.

Evidence. Parties may testify in their own behalf in both criminal and civil cases. As to husband and wife as witnesses, one spouse may testify for or against the other with that other's consent, not otherwise.

Executions. (See Exemptions and Judgments.) Execution may be issued immediately on entry of judgment. There is no stay, except by appeal. There is no right of redemption of personal property sold on execution. There can be a redemption of real estate sold on execution within six months.

Exemptions. The following personal property of any judgment debtor shall be exempt from levy and sale on execution: Chairs, tables, desk, to the value of $200; library belonging to the judgment debtor; also musical instruments in actual use in the family; also necessary household table and kitchen furniture belonging to the judgment debtor to the value of $300; one sewing machine, all family hanging pictures, oil paintings, and drawings, portraits and their necessary frames; all carpets in use; provisions actually provided for individual or family use sufficient for three months; two cows, with their sucking calves; two hogs, with all sucking pigs; all wearing apparel of every person or family; also all beds and bedding of every person or family. Provided, that if the judgment debtor be the head of a family consisting of five or more members, there shall be a further exemption of two cows and their sucking calves. The farming utensils or implements of husbandry of a farmer not exceeding in value the sum of $300; also two oxen or two horses, or two mules and their harness, one cart or wagon, and food for such oxen, horses, cows or mules for six months; also all seed, grain, or vegetables actually provided, reserved, or on hand for the purpose of planting or sowing at any time within the ensuing six months, not exceeding in value the sum of $200; crops, whether growing or harvested, and the proceeds thereof, not exceeding in value $300. The cabin or dwelling of a miner not exceeding in value the sum of $500; also his sluices, pipes, hose, windlass, derricks, pumps, cars, and tools not exceeding in value $500; two oxen, two horses or two mules and their harness, and a cart or wagon or dray or truck, by the use of which a cartman, drayman, truckman, huckster, peddler, hackman, teamster, or other laborer habitually earns his living; and one horse, with vehicle and harness or other equipments used by a physician, surgeon, or minister of the gospel in making his professional visits, with hay and grain sufficient for such horse for six months. One-half of the earnings of the judgment debtor for his personal services, rendered at any time within sixty days next preceding the levy on execution; provided, that in no case, when the earnings are $1 a day or less, shall any part thereof be liable to execution or garnishment. All public property with the fixtures, furniture, books, papers appertaining thereto. No property is exempt from execution upon a judgment recovered for its purchase price, or on foreclosure of mortgage or mechanic's lien or laborer's lien, or exempt from sale for taxes. Non-residents have no exemptions. All real and personal estate belonging to a married woman in her own right, and all the rents and profits thereof, and all compensation for her personal services, are exempt from execution against her husband. All moneys growing out of life insurance on the life of judgment debtor; if the annual premium does not exceed $500. If the debtor be the head of a family, he is entitled also to a homestead of the value of $1,500 for himself and the further sum of $500 for his wife (if he has one), and $250 additional for each other member of his family.

Fraud. An action for relief on the ground of fraud can be brought within three years after discovery of the fraud. (See Statute of Frauds.)

Garnishment issuable with attachment or afterward. The writ of garnishment with interrogatories attached requires the garnishee to answer within ten days after service if in the county, twenty days if outside. Names of any number of garnishees may be inserted in one writ. Garnishee must answer in writing under oath. He is released by delivering the property or money to an officer. A default may be entered and judgment taken against him upon proof of his liability. If he answer denying liability, the plaintiff may join issue by reply. Such issue is tried and judgment rendered as upon other issues. Discharge of the garnishee does not bar action against him by the defendant for the same demand. Garnishment may be had after judgment, the procedure being substantially the same as the foregoing. New trials and appeals may be taken as in any other civil action.

Holidays. The following are holidays: Every Sunday, January 1, February 22, April 15 (Arbor Day), May 30, July 4, July 24 (Utah Pioneer Day), the first Monday in September, December 25, and Thanksgiving, and fast days as fixed by executive proclamation. Except the first, when any one falls on Sunday, the Monday following is a holiday.

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Interest. Legal rate is 8 per cent. Parties may agree, in writing, on any rate. No usury laws.

Judgment rendered in district court becomes a lien on all the real property of debtor within the county from time of docketing, and so continues for five years therefrom. Lien may be extended to counties of other districts by filing transcript of judgment with county recorder of such counties. Judgments may be revived by suit brought in eight years.

Liens. In all cases where the property of any company, corporation, or firm, seized by process of execution or attachment, and when business is suspended by action of creditors and put into the hands of a receiver or trustee, then the debts owing to laborers for work or labor performed in one year next preceding such seizure and transfer shall be treated as preferred, and such laborers and employés shall have a lien upon the property for the amount of such debt. Lessor shall have a lien for rent due upon the property of the lessees not exempt from execution as long as the lessee shall occupy the leased premises and for thirty days thereafter, which lien has priority over all others, excepting taxes, mortgages for purchase money, and liens of employés for services for six months next prior to the sale. It is enforced by attachment. Mechanics, material men, etc., performing labor upon or furnishing materials, etc., to be used in construction, alteration, etc., of any building, bridge, etc., have a lien thereof attaching to the interest of the owner or lessee in the land, etc., which lien takes precedence of every other incumbrance or lien attaching after the commencement of the work. Notice of intention to hold and claim lien must be filed in the office of the county recorder within sixty days after the completion of the contract in the case of original contractor; in every other case, within forty days after furnishing the last material or performing the last labor. Liens may be enforced within twelve months after completion of the original contract or suspension of work thereunder for thirty days.

Limitation of Actions. Within 4 years, an action upon a contract, obligation, or liability not founded upon an instrument of writing; also, on an open account for goods, wares and merchandise, and for any article charged in a store account, and after the last charge is made or the last payment is received. Within 6 years, contracts or obligations founded in writing. Within eight years, judgment or decree of any court of the United States, State, or Territory. Money deposited in bank no limitation for its recovery.

Married Women. (See Exemptions.) All property owned by a woman before her marriage, and that rightfully acquired afterward, with the profits thereof, is her separate property, and may be managed, or sold, or disposed of by her as if sole. There is no restriction, by reason of marriage, upon her property rights. She may contract and sue or be sued as if sole.

Mortgages (see Chattel Mortgages) of real estate must be acknowledged as deeds, and must be foreclosed by proceedings in equity. Every mortgage of personal property is void as against creditors or subsequent purchasers unless accompanied by an actual and continued change of possession to the mortgagee, or unless the mortgage provide that the property may remain in possession of mortgagor, and be accompanied by affidavit of the parties that it is made in good faith to secure the amount named therein, and without any design to hinder or delay creditors.

Notes and Bills of Exchange are governed by statute. Chapter 83 of the laws of 1899, effective July 1, 1899, is the act recommended by the American Bar Association to secure a uniform law on this subject. All other acts are repealed. The law merchant governs in cases not provided for. This statute of 1899 is substantially the same as the act of New York relating to negotiable instruments. (See page 730 of this volume.) (See Holidays.)

Penal Code. Every officer, agent, teller, or clerk of any bank, and every individual banker, or agent, teller, or clerk of any individual banker, who receives any deposits knowing that said bank, or association, or banker is insolvent, is guilty of a felony. Every banker or person otherwise entrusted with, or having in his control, property for the use of any other person, who fraudulently appropriates it to any use or purpose not in the due and lawful execution of his trust, or secretes it with a fraudulent intent to appropriate it to such use or purpose, is guilty of embezzlement.

Power of Attorney. Every power of attorney, or other instrument in writing containing the power to convey any real estate as agent or attorney for the owner thereof, to execute as agent or attorney for another any conveyance whereby any real estate is conveyed or may be effected, must be acknowledged, and certified, and recorded as other conveyances whereby real estate is conveyed or effected are required to be acknowledged, approved, certified, and recorded. Power of attorney can only be revoked by written revocation recorded in the same office as the power of attorney is recorded.

Protest. Mercantile paper must be protested on the day it falls due to hold endorsers, etc. No days of grace.

Redemption. (See Mortgages, Trust Deeds, and Taxes.)

Replevin. Personal property may be replevied by the owner or other person entitled to the possession of it, and must be by action in court. An affidavit must be made by the plaintiff, or some person on his behalf, showing: 1. That the plaintiff is the owner of the property claimed, particularly describing it, or is entitled to the possession thereof. 2. That the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant. 3. The alleged cause of the detention thereof, according to his best knowledge, information, and belief. 4. That it is not taken for a tax, assessment, or fine pursuant to statute, or seized under execution or an attachment against the property of the plaintiff; or, if so seized, that it is by statute exempt from such seizure. 5. The actual value of the property. The plaintiff or some one in his behalf must execute a bond in double the value of the property claimed, and if the defendant wishes to assert his right of possession, he can retain the property by giving like security.

Sales on Installment Plan. A lease of personal property may be made for a stipulated rent accompanied with an agreement to make title when a given sum is paid.

Statute of Frauds. Leases of real estate for more than one year, if not in writing, have the effect of leases at will only. Declarations of trust or assignments thereof in land must also be in writing except resulting and constructive trusts. No action can be maintained against an executor or administrator, to charge him personally for the debt of the decedent, nor to charge any defendant on the promise to pay the debt of another, unless the promise be in writing. Every agreement, that by its terms is not to be performed within a year, must be in writing. Every contract for the sale of chattels for the price of $300 or over, must have a memorandum thereof in writing, or the delivery of some earnest money or of some part or all of the thing sold. Every sale made by a vendor of goods or chattels in his possession, or under his control, unless the same be accompanied by a delivery within a reasonable time, and be followed by an actual and continued change of the possession of the things sold, is conclusive evidence of fraud, as against creditors or subsequent purchasers in good faith.

Succession. An intestate's estate goes, if there survive: 1. Husband or wife and one child, one-half to each; if more than one child, one-third to the husband or wife, the rest equally to the children. 2. If issue alone, all to the issue. 3. If no issue, all to the husband or wife up to $5,000, the excess one-half to husband or wife, the other half to the parents, and if both are dead, to brothers and sisters equally. 4. If neither issue, spouse, nor parents, to brothers and sisters. 5. If no issue, parents, brothers or sisters, all to the husband or wife. 6. If neither issue, spouse, parent, brother or sister, to the next of kin in equal degree, and if no kin then to the State for the school fund. Issue of children take according to right of representation except in certain cases. Illegitimate children inherit from the mother, and from the father when he acknowledges paternity. Issue of marriages null in law are legitimate. Children of bigamous or polygamous marriages born on or before January 4, 1896, are legitimate. Curtesy and dower are abolished, but the husband or wife surviving takes one-third of the estate of the other in fee.

Suits. (See Actions.)

Taxes. There is levied and directed to be collected an annual ad valorem tax on all taxable property in the State, as follows: Two mills on the dollar for State purposes; three mills for district school purposes; such sums as the county courts of the several counties may designate for district school purposes, not to exceed four mills on the dollar, and such sums as the county courts of the several counties may designate for county purposes, not to exceed five mills on the dollar. Debts are deducted from taxable credits. All property for purpose of State and county taxation is assessed and owned and valued on the first Monday in March in each year. Taxes attach to and constitute a lien on the property assessed, if real estate, from first Monday in February, and if personal property, from 12 o'clock noon of the first Monday of February and is a lien on the real property of owner. Real estate mortgages and trust deeds are taxable in this State. All State, school, and county taxes become due on the first Monday of September annually and become delinquent on the 15th day of November. The county collector is required to publish, on or before the first Monday of December in each year, for a period of ten days, in a newspaper of general circulation in the county, a delinquent tax list, and on the third Monday in December he shall expose for sale, in front of the county court house, sufficient real property of each of such delinquents, and sell the same to the highest bidder for cash, and continue to sell from day to day until such property is exhausted or the taxes have been paid with costs. Real estate sold for taxes may be redeemed at any time within four years after the date of the sale thereof by paying the amount paid by the purchaser, all costs, 50 cents for the redemption certificate, all taxes that have accrued since, together with interest at the rate of one and one-half per cent per month on whole from the date of sale to date of redemption.

Trust Deeds. Trust deeds executed after May 10, 1897, are subject to a redemption of six months from the date of sale by the judgment debtor: in making such redemption the judgment debtor must pay the debt in full and all costs and charges connected with the sale.

Wills. Any person over the age of 18, of sound mind, may dispose of his or her property, personal and real, by will. A will must be in writing, subscribed by the testator at the end thereof, in the presence of two witnesses, and the testator must, at the time of subscribing, declare to the witnesses that the instrument is his will, and must be attested by two witnesses, each of whom must sign his name as a witness at the end of the will at the testator's request in his presence, and in the presence of each other. By express enactment of statute the word "writing" includes printing, and it is probable that typewriting would also be included. All wills executed according to the law of the State or country where made, or where testator was at the time domiciled, or in conformity to the laws of Utah, may be admitted to probate hereafter, being duly proved and allowed in any other State, Territory, or foreign state or country. Nuncupative wills are good, provided the estate bequeathed does not exceed in value the sum of $1,000, and provided the will be proved within six months after decedent's death by two witnesses who were present, one of whom was asked by testator to bear witness that such was his will, or to that effect. Such wills are only good in cases where testator was in expectation of immediate death from an injury or casualty happening within twenty-four hours previous to the making of the will. An holographic will, defined as one that is entirely written, dated and signed by the hand of the testator himself, need not be witnessed, and may be proved in the same way as other private writings.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF VERMONT

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by MESSRS. DILLINGHAM, HUSE & HOWLAND, Attorneys at Law, Montpelier. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Acknowledgments. All deeds must be signed and sealed in the presence of two witnesses. A scroll is not a sufficient seal. They may be acknowledged in this State before a justice of the peace, notary public, or master in chancery Outside the State, before a justice, notary public, or commissioner for Vermont, or any other officer authorized by the laws of such other State to take acknowledgments of deeds.

Administration of estates is conducted in the probate courts in the several probate districts.

Affidavits may be taken and oaths administered out of the State by commissioners appointed by the governor.

Appeals. (See Courts.)

Arrest. In actions ex delicto the defendant may be arrested for want of attachable property. In actions ex contractu no woman can be arrested. Nor can a resident citizen of any of the United States be arrested in an action ex contractu except upon the affidavit of the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, "that he has good reason to believe, and does believe, that the defendant is about to abscond or remove from the State, and has secreted property to an amount exceeding twenty dollars or sufficient to satisfy the demand upon which he is to be arrested," or upon the affidavit of the plaintiff "that the defendant is the receiver of money of the plaintiff in a fiduciary capacity which the defendant has not paid on demand, and that his action is instituted to recover the same."

Assignments and Insolvency. There is an insolvent law. The probate courts have jurisdiction in insolvency. All assignments must be for the benefit of all creditors. Non-resident creditors can prove their claims and take their dividends; but the discharge does not disturb the unproved claim of a non-resident creditor.

Attachment. The defendant's property, not exempt, may be attached on mesne process in serving the writ, and trustee process will reach goods, effects, or credits of defendant in the hands of a third party when the judgment, exclusive of costs, against defendant and the amount in the hands of trustee each exceed $10.

Banks. Banks of Circulation, Discount, and Deposit may be formed by voluntary association under the general law, but there are no such banks in existence.

Savings Banks, Savings Institutions, and Trust Companies are organized under special charters granted by the general assembly, but are regulated largely by general law. Savings banks have no capital stock, while the trust companies, though receiving savings deposits and usually denominated savings banks and trust companies, have a capital fixed by their charters, and the stockholders are individually liable, equally and ratably, for the companies' liabilities to the amount of the par value of their stock in addition to the amount invested in such stock. The treasurer of every savings institution and trust company is required, on or before the 10th of July of each year, to report to the inspector of finance, showing accurately its condition at the close of business on the 30th of June. This report is to include the amount and character of loans, an itemized statement of liabilities, and statement of expenses, amount of dividend declared, amount of deposits, number of depositors, and all other particulars relative to the condition of the institution. Investments of capital, deposits, and surplus may be made upon first mortgages of unencumbered real estate to an amount not exceeding three-fifths of the cash value of the property mortgaged; not less than one-sixth of the amount of such mortgages shall be upon real estate in Vermont, and not more than 70 per cent of the assets shall be invested in real estate mortgages; and not more than 50 per cent of such assets shall be invested in mortgages of real estate outside of Vermont. Loans on personal security shall only be made upon at least two approved names, not less than two of whom reside in Vermont, or within fifty miles of the institution making such an investment, such loans not to be for a longer time than one year, and not more than one third of an institution's assets to be invested in personal securities. With the foregoing exceptions, savings banks, saving institutions, and trust companies can only invest their funds in the public funds of the United States, or public funds for which the faith of the United States is pledged to provide for the payment of principal and interest; in the bonds or notes of the counties, cities, towns, villages, and school districts of the New England States, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa; in the stock of any National bank in the New England States and New York, and the cities of Detroit, Chicago, St. Paul, and Minneapolis; and in the stock of any banking association or trust company incorporated under the authority of, and located in this State; in the municipal bonds, not issued in aid of railroads, of the counties, cities and towns of 5,000 or more inhabitants in the States of New Jersey, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Missouri, and in the counties, cities and towns of 10,000 or more inhabitants in the States of Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oregon and Washington, provided that no investment shall be made in any of the counties, cities, or towns in the States aboved named, excepting in cities of 50,000 or more Inhabitants where the municipal indebtedness of such county, city or town exceeds 5 per cent of its assessed valuation, and when not issued in aid of railroads; in the school bonds and independent school district bonds of New Jersey, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Missouri, and in the school bonds and independent school district bonds of school districts of 2,000 or more inhabitants in the States of Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oregon, and Washington, where the amount of such bonds issued does not exceed 5 per cent of the assessed valuation of the respective cities, towns, and school districts; in the public funds of all the States named in this section; in notes with a pledge as collateral of any of the aforesaid securities, including deposit books or deposit receipts, issued by a savings bank, trust company, or banking association located in this State, such notes not to exceed the par value nor the market value of such collateral security; but no savings bank, savings institution or trust company shall hold, by way of investment or as security for loans, more than 10 per cent of the capital stock of any one bank, banking association or trust company, nor invest more than 10 per cent of its deposits, nor more than $35,000 in the capital stock of any one bank, banking association or trust company, and no investments shall be made in the capital stock of any such banks, banking association or trust companies, owned or loaned upon, to exceed in the aggregate one-fourth of the deposits of any savings bank or trust company. The capital of trust companies, and of savings banks and trust companies, is subject to the same laws of investment as their surplus and deposits.

Bills and Notes. (See Notes and Bills.)

Chattel Mortgages. All personal property is subject to mortgage. Mortgage must be recorded or possession changed to be valid. Mortgagor and mortgagee are required to subscribe to an affidavit that the debt secured is a just one.

Contracts. (See Actions.) Contracts based upon an illegal or immoral consideration are void.

Conveyances of real estate are to be by deed and recorded in the clerk's office in the town in which the land is situated. (See Acknowledgments.)

Corporations may be formed by five or more persons, by application to the secretary of State, for any purpose not repugnant to law and public policy, except telegraph, telephone, express, banking, insurance, railroads, savings banks, and trust companies, or for dealing in real estate. Clerk and two directors must reside in the State, and one-fourth of capital must be paid in before contracting debts.

Courts. The supreme court has appellate jurisdiction in suits in chancery; it has exclusive jurisdiction of certain statutory petitions not triable by jury; it may issue and determine writs of error, certiorari, mandamus, prohibition, and quo warranto; and may try and determine questions of law removed from the county court upon bills of exceptions. Court of chancery has general chancery jurisdiction. The county court has original and exclusive jurisdiction of all original civil actions not cognizable by a justice, and of certain statutory petitions; it has appellate jurisdiction in most cases cognizable by a justice where the matter in controversy exceeds twenty dollars and in some cases where it is less than that sum; and it also has appellate jurisdiction in cases in the probate court and in the court of insolvency.

Days of Grace. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Depositions may be taken in the State by justices of the peace, notaries public, masters in chancery, judges and registers of probate, and by commissioners of other States residing in this State. They may be taken out of the State by commissioners appointed by a supreme court judge, or by the governor, and by officers who are qualified to take depositions in other States.

Divorces, both absolute and from bed and board forever or for a limited time, may be granted by the county courts for the following causes: 1. For adultery in either party. 2. When either person is confined in State prison under sentence for three years or more. 3. For intolerable severity. 4. For three years' willful desertion or seven years' absence, if unheard of during that time. 5. On petition of the wife for wanton and cruel refusal or neglect to support, without cause, the husband having sufficient pecuniary or physical ability.

Dower. Widow is entitled to one-third in value of real estate of of deceased husband, unless barred in the manner specified in the statute by last will, by jointure, settlement, or when husband leaves no children or representatives of children; and when a widow is entitled to a homestead, her dower is diminished by an amount equal to it.

Executions. May be levied upon property not exempt from attachment. Personal property levied upon is sold by the officer at public auction. Real property is sold at public auction, but the debtor may redeem within six months. In cases in which the body is liable to arrest, the officer may for want of property take the debtor and commit him to jail.

Exemptions. Homestead, $500; necessary wearing apparel, household furniture and tools, one cow, one swine or meat of one swine, ten sheep, either one yoke of oxen or two horses (horses not to exceed in value the sum of $200), as the debtor may select, with forage for one winter, one sleigh, two sets of harness, two halters, and some other small articles. Ten cords of firewood or five tons of coal, twenty bushels of potatoes, the arms used by a soldier in the service of the United States, growing crops, ten bushels of grain, one barrel of flour, three swarms of bees and their produce in honey; 200 pounds of sugar, one sled or one set of trader's sleds, one tool-chest used by a mechanic, live poultry, not exceeding in value the sum of $10; one two-horse wagon or ox cart, as the debtor may select, with whiffletrees and neck-yoke, two chains, one plow. Also a sewing machine, and instruments and libraries of professional men to the value of $200.

Garnishment. Trustee process may be begun when the debt and the amount in the hands of the trustee each amount to $10.

Holidays. (See Notes and Bills.)

Interest. The legal rate is 6 per cent per annum. Judgments bear legal rate. Only the excess paid is forfeited, and that may be recovered back or set up in reduction of claim.

Judgments do not of themselves create a lien on property not attached upon mesne process.

Limitations of Suits. Simple promissory notes are barred in six years, but notes signed in presence of an attesting witness are not barred until fourteen years next after the right of action shall accrue thereon. Accounts are barred after six years from the last credit; sealed instruments and judgments, after eight years. A verbal promise to pay will not revive a debt, but the promise must be in writing signed by the party to be charged. A partial payment will revive the debt; but, in case of a note, the payment can not be shown by the indorsement of the payment alone unless in the handwriting of the party making the payment.

Married Woman. May dispose of property by will. May make contracts with any person other than her husband, and bind herself and her separate property, as if she was unmarried, and may sue and be sued as to such contracts made by her before or during coverture. But her husband must join in conveying her real estate, unless upon petition and cause shown permission is granted by court of chancery to convey by separate deed; and she can not become surety for his debts except by way of mortgage. All personal property and rights of action acquired by her before coverture, or during coverture, except by gift from her husband, are held to her separate use, and neither her separate property, nor the rents, issues, income, or products of it, are subject to the disposal of her husband or liable for his debts; but this provision does not authorize any claim by either husband or wife against the other for personal services. The husband is not liable for her torts unless committed by his authority or direction, nor liable for her debts contracted before the marriage, unless the marriage was before January 1, 1885.

Mortgages of real estate are foreclosed by bill or petition and writ of possession given after decree and failure to redeem. The usual time for redemption granted in the decree is one year, but it may be shortened upon cause shown. (See Chattel Mortgages.)

Notes and Bills of Exchange are due and payable on the day named therein, and no grace is allowed unless expressly stipulated in the instrument. Notes payable on demand are considered overdue after sixty days from date, and no presentment shall charge an indorser unless made on or before the last of said sixty days. Whenever any bill or note, draft or check, shall fall due on Sunday, the 1st day of January, the 22d day of February, 16th day of August, 4th day of July, 25th day of December, or the 30th day of May, called Decoration Day, or any day appointed by the governor or President as a day of fast or thanksgiving, the same shall, for purpose of presenting for acceptance or payment and for every purpose of protest and notice, be taken and considered as due on the next following business day. If any of these holidays fall on Sunday they shall be treated for banking purposes as if they had fallen on the previous Saturday, and notice, protest, etc. shall be given the following Monday.

Protest. (See Notes and Bills.)

Replevin. Replevin may be maintained for beasts distrained; for goods attached, and for the unlawful taking or detaining of goods.

Suits before the county court are brought in the county where plaintiff or defendant resides—if both are non-resident, then in any county. Actions of ejectment and trespass on the freehold must be brought in the county where the land lies, and actions of replevin where the goods are detained.

Taxes. Lands sold for taxes may be redeemed within one year on payment of the full sum for which they were sold, with legal costs and 12 per cent interest.

Wills. Every person of age and sound mind may dispose of his or her real and personal estate by will. The testator must sign in the presence of three witnesses, who must also sign in the presence of the testator and each other.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF VIRGINIA

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by JAMES ALSTON CABELL, Attorney at Law, Richmond. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. In every action of assumpsit the plaintiff shall file with his declaration an account stating distinctly the several items of his claim, unless it be plainly described in the declaration. Administration of Estates. Executors and administrators, with the will annexed, must qualify in the court in which the will of the testator is probated. Administrators must qualify in the court in which the decedent's will would have been probated had he made a will. The assets of the decedent, after the payment of funeral expenses and the charges of administration, are applied as follows: 1. To claims of physicians not exceeding $50, for services rendered during the last illness of the decedent; and accounts of druggists not exceeding the same amount, for articles furnished during the same period. 2. To pay debts due the United States and State of Virginia. 3 To pay taxes and levies assessed upon decedent previous to death. 4. (See Descent and Distributions.) The payment of legacies or the distribution of the personal estate of an intestate can not be compelled until after one year from the date of the qualification of the first executor or administrator of the decedent, and only then when the legatee or distributee gives a refunding bond, with sufficient security, or when the court enters an order directing payment or distribution without refunding bonds.

Affidavits. Any oath or affidavit required by law, which is not of such a nature that it must be made in court, may be administered by or made before a justice and certified by him, unless otherwise provided; and in any case in which an oath might be administered by or an affidavit made before a justice, the same may be administered by or made before a notary, a commissioner in chancery, a commissioner appointed by the governor, or a court, or a clerk of a court. An affidavit may also be made before any officer of another State or country authorized by its laws to administer an oath, and shall be deemed duly authenticated if it be subscribed by such officer, and there be annexed to it a certificate of the clerk or other officer of a court of record of such State or country, under an official seal, verifying the genuineness of the signature of the first mentioned officer, and his authority to administer such oath. When such affidavit is made before a notary public of such other State or country the same shall be deemed and taken to be duly authenticated, if it be subscribed by such officer with his official seal attached, without being certified by any clerk or other officer of a court of record.

Aliens. Any alien not an enemy, may acquire, by purchase or descent, and hold real estate in this State, and the same shall be transmitted in the same manner as real estate held by citizens.

Appeals. From decisions in the justices' courts, appeals may be granted within ten days after rendition of judgment, if the case involves the constitutionality or validity of an ordinance or by-law of a corporation, or if the matter in controversy, exclusive of interest, is of greater amount or value than ten dollars, the appeal to be taken to the county or corporation court. From judgments of the county courts appeals are taken to the circuit court of the county within twelve months after the rendition of the judgments complained of. From judgments or decrees of the corporation courts held by the judges, and from judgments or decrees of the circuit courts, appeals are taken to the court of appeals. Time allowed for the appeal, one year from the rendition of a final judgment, decree or order, unless it be to a decree refusing a bill of review to a final decree rendered more than six months prior thereto, in which event the time allowed is six months after such refusal.

Arbitration. Persons desiring to end any controversy, whether there be a suit pending therefor or not, may submit the same to arbitration, and agree that such submission may be entered of record in any court.

Arrests. In aid of remedy in civil action arrest does not lie, but capias can be taken out against debtors about to quit the State. Before plaintiff can obtain this writ, he has to give bond with security, to pay costs and damages occasioned by arrest of the defendant.

Attachments may be upon real or personal property, and allowed as follows: 1. Against foreign corporations and non-residents having property in this State. 2. Against an absconding debtor in a suit removing, or intending to remove, his property out of the State. 3. Against a debtor who has removed, is removing, or intends to remove his property, whether the claim is due or not. 4. Against a debtor converting, about to convert, or who has converted his property, or some part thereof, into money, securities, or evidences of debt, with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. 5. Has disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property, or some part thereof, with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. 6. Against a tenant removing property from leased premises before rent is due. 7. Against vessels for materials and supplies furnished or work done thereon. 8. Against crops of tenants cultivating land. 9. Against crops of persons cultivating lands for advances made upon crops. 10. Against property claimed in action of detinue, when defendant is alleged to be insolvent.

Banks. The circuit and corporation courts have power to charter any bank except a bank of circulation. The judges of these courts have the same power in the vacation of their courts. Such charters become effective only from the time they are lodged in the office of the secretary of commonwealth.

Every such bank has power to prescribe by its board of directors by-laws regulating the manner in which its stock shall be transferred, its general business conducted, and the privileges granted to it by law exercised and enjoyed.

The affairs of such bank shall be managed by a board of directors, consisting of not less than five persons, a majority of whom shall be citizens of the State, and each director is required to own at least $100 of the capital stock of the bank of which he is director. The board of directors shall meet at least once a month. The directors shall be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders. Any vacancy in the board of directors shall be filled by appointment by the remaining directors, and any director so appointed shall hold his place until the next election of directors. They are to elect from their number the president. The directors are required to make once in every three months an examination of the moneys of the bank, and a settlement of the accounts of the cashier. A statement of such examination and settlement shall be recorded with the proceedings of the board.

Every such bank may purchase, hold, and convey real estate for the following purposes, and no other:

1. Such as may be necessary for its immediate accommodation in the transaction of its business.

2. Such as may be mortgaged or encumbered to secure, or conveyed to it in satisfaction of debts previously contracted in the course of its dealings; or such as it may purchase at sales, under order of court, or deed of trust held by it, or to secure debts due to it; but no such property, purchased or acquired under this head, shall be held for a longer period than ten years.

No dividend higher than 6 per cent on the capital stock paid in shall be declared by any bank until the bank has a surplus of 5 per cent of its capital, nor shall any dividend be declared by which such surplus fund is reduced below the said 5 per cent.

Every such bank must make statements to the auditor of public accounts, identically as the National banks are required to make to the comptroller of the currency, and must publish such statements in a condensed form, as published by said National banks, and the auditor is required to call for such statements, whenever the comptroller of the currency calls on the National banks for such statements; and upon written application, by stockholders representing one-fifth of capital stock of the bank, the auditor may appoint some one to make a special examination in person and report the same to him. There may, at any time, be an inspection of the books and examination into the proceedings of any bank by a joint committee of the two houses of the general assembly, or a committee of each house, or one or more commissioners appointed by the general assembly or by the governor.

The legislature reserves the right to repeal, alter, or modify the charter of any bank at its pleasure.

Any banker, broker, or officer of any trust or savings institution, or of any State bank, or employee of any private banker, who shall take and receive money from a depositor with the actual knowledge that the said banker, broker, or bank, or institution is at the time insolvent, shall be guilty of embezzlement, and shall be punished by a fine double the amount so received and imprisoned from one to three years in the penitentiary.

The general assembly has provided for the organization of State banks of circulation by an act which shall be in force when the statute of the United States imposing a tax of 10 per cent on the circulation of State banks is repealed.

Such banks will be required to deposit with the State treasurer, Virginia State bonds equal to the amount of their capital stock, and will be entitled to receive from the treasurer of Virginia circulating notes equal in amount to 75 per cent of the par value of the Virginia bonds so deposited. [Acts of Assembly, 1893-4, p. 977.]

There are no laws restricting savings banks as to the class of bonds and securities in which their funds may be invested.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trusts. There may be mortgages or deeds of trusts upon personal or real property to secure the payment of money, and upon default of payment the property may be sold by the trustee without the intervention of court proceedings. The mortgage or deed of trust must be acknowledged, and must be recorded in the county or corporation wherein the property is situated.

Checks. A check of itself does not operate as an assignment of any part of the funds to the credit of the drawer with the bank, and the bank is not liable to the holder, unless and until it accepts or certifies the check. Where the holder of a check procures it to be accepted or certified, the drawer and all endorsers are discharged from liability thereon.

Conditional Sales. Every sale or contract for the sale of goods or chattels, wherein the title is reserved until the same be paid for in whole or in part, or the transfer of the title is made to depend on any condition, and possession be delivered to the vendee, is void as to creditors of and purchasers for value without notice from such vendee, unless such sale or contract be evidenced by writing executed by the vendor and vendee, in which the said reservation or condition is expressed, and until and except from the time the said writing is duly admitted to record in the county or corporation in which said goods or chattels may be. A chattel mortgage on a changing stock of merchandise is invalid. As to rolling stock, cars, etc., of railroad companies, contracts concerning them are to be recorded in the county or corporation court of the county, or corporation where the principal office of the company is located; if in Richmond city, in the Richmond chancery court, and each locomotive, car, or other piece of rolling stock is to be plainly and permanently marked with the name of the vendor on both sides thereof, followed by the word "owner."

Contracts. Every contract not in writing, made in respect to real estate or goods and chattels, in consideration of marriage, or made for the conveyance or sale of real estate, for a term therein of more than five years, shall be void, both at law and in equity, as to purchasers for valuable consideration without notice and creditors.

Conveyances are made by deed, which may be written, type-written, or printed, and must be sealed. The seal of a natural person may be a scroll, affixed by way of seal; but the seal of a corporation must be "an impression of the official seal made upon the paper alone," or "an impression made by means of a wafer, or of wax affixed thereto." The seal must be recognized as a seal on the body of the instrument, e. g.: "Witness my hand and seal." An attorney-in fact may execute a deed, but the power of attorney must be under seal. No prescribed form is required for deed of a corporation, but it must be executed by duly authorized officers or agents. Any interest in or claim to real estate may be disposed of by deed, and any estate may be made to commence in future by deed. A deed conveying real estate, without words of limitation, passes the whole estate of the grantor, unless a contrary intention appear by the deed. A deed or will is necessary to convey an estate of inheritance or freehold for a term of more than five years, in lands; and a deed is also necessary for a voluntary partition of lands by coparceners having such an estate therein. A deed or will is also necessary to make a valid gift of goods or chattels, unless actual possession shall have come to and remained with the donee, or some person claiming under him. The deed must be acknowledged by an officer authorized to take acknowledgments. (See Acknowledgments.) His official character must appear in the certificate, and acknowledgment must be taken within his county or corporation. Deeds must be recorded in the clerk's office of the court of the county or corporation in which the land lies, or in which the goods or chattels may be, except in the city of Richmond, where all papers are recorded in the clerk's office of the chancery court. Neither the acknowledgment nor registry of a deed is necessary to make it valid between the parties thereto, except in case of a deed from husband and wife, which must be acknowledged and registered to convey wife's interest. But no deed can be registered unless properly acknowledged or proved by two witnesses.

Corporations. Any five or more persons may organize a corporation, which can carry on any lawful business which an individual or body politic or corporate might conduct. It may purchase, hold, and deal in real and personal property; may be trustee, mortgagor, or mortgagee, may conduct business anywhere. Minimum capital stock may be as low as $500. Upon charters granted by the Legislature two dollars per share must be paid at time of subscription, residue as required by the directors. There is no liability when stock is fully paid for, which may be in property or services. There are no constitutional provisions or limitations, and no annual tax on corporations. They are taxed only upon the property actually within the State. Where all of the officers are non-residents a resident practicing attorney at law must be appointed their attorney to receive service of process, etc.

Courts. Their Organization and Jurisdiction: The Supreme Court of Appeals.—This is the court of last resort in this State. Its sessions are held at three points in the State, viz.: At Richmond, Staunton, and Wytheville. It has original jurisdiction in proceedings by mandamus, prohibition, and habeas corpus. As to its appellate jurisdiction, see Appeals. An appeal to this court is taken by presenting to the court in session, or to some judge thereof in vacation, a petition, concisely setting forth the errors of the court below; and accompanying the petition shall be a transcript of so much of the record as will properly show wherein the said errors consist. Circuit Courts.—These courts have jurisdiction of proceedings by quo warranto, or information in the nature of quo warranto, and to issue writs of mandamus, prohibition, and certiorari to the county courts and judges thereof, and to other inferior tribunals, and to issue the writ of mandamus in all other cases in which it may be necessary to prevent a failure of justice, and in which a mandamus may issue according to the principles of the common law. They have original and general jurisdiction of all cases in chancery and civil cases at law, except cases at law to recover personal property or money not of greater value or amount than $20, exclusive of interest, and except such cases as are specially assigned to some other tribunal. They have appellate jurisdiction in all cases, civil and criminal, where an appeal, writ of error, or supersedeas may, as provided by law, be taken to or allowed by the said courts, or the judges thereof, from or to the judgment or proceedings of any inferior tribunal. They have jurisdiction of all other matters, civil and criminal, made cognizable therein by law. Justice Courts have jurisdiction to extent of $100; but any action, if for over $20, may be removed to the county or corporation court, upon affidavit by defendant that he has a substantial defense, and appeals are allowed to said courts in all amounts exceeding $10, upon security being given. After judgment, if between $10 and $20, execution may be stayed forty days; if between $20 and $30, for sixty days, and if over $30 for ninety days, security in all cases being required. Corporation Courts.—A city or town containing 5,000 inhabitants is entitled to a corporation court. These courts are given jurisdiction of both law and equity matters, and civil and criminal jurisdiction. County Courts have monthly terms for the several counties. They are given original jurisdiction of criminal matters which are not tried before justices of the peace. They also have jurisdiction of various matters of police regulation. Courts of the city of Richmond.—The circuit court of the city of Richmond (four terms a year) has within the city jurisdiction of other circuit courts as above, except chancery and criminal matters. The chancery court of the city of Richmond (four terms a year) is the court of record and probate for the city, and has general jurisdiction of chancery matters. The law and equity court of Richmond (four terms a year) has concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit and chancery courts of Richmond, except as to a few matters. The Hastings courts (monthly terms) is the court of criminal jurisdiction within the city except as to small matters, which may be tried in the police court. It has also a small civil jurisdiction, and is the court of appeal for civil and criminal matters which may be appealed from the police court. The police court of the city of Richmond has jurisdiction of small civil and criminal matters, such as may be tried by a justice of the peace.

Days of Grace. Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace.

Depositions. Evidence in chancery causes is generally taken by depositions, while in common law cases it is generally oral, but depositions can be read in a common law case where the witness has died since his deposition was taken, or is out of the State, or is more than a hundred miles from the place of trial. The deposition of certain public officers, where the duties of the office prevent their attending court, may be taken and read. No permission is necessary to take a deposition, either within or without the State, except where an attesting witness to a will is unable, by reason of sickness, non-residence, etc., to give his testimony before the court in which the will is probated. Reasonable notice shall be given to the adverse party of the time and place of every deposition. In this State depositions may be taken by a justice of the peace or notary public, or a commissioner in chancery. In the United States, but without this State, before any commissioner appointed by the governor of Virginia, or any justice, notary, or other officer authorized to take depositions in the State wherein the witness may be. In a foreign country, before any person that the parties may agree upon, in writing, or before certain officers of the United States.

Descent and Distribution of Property. Descent of Real Estate. When any person having title to any real estate of inheritance shall die intestate as to such estate, it shall descend and pass in parcenary to such of his kindred, male and female, as are not alien enemies, in the following course: 1. To his children and their descendants. 2. If there be no child, nor the descendant of any child, then to his father. 3. If there be no father, then to his mother, brothers and sisters and their descendants. 4. If there be no mother, nor brother, nor sister, nor any descendant of either, then one moiety shall go to the paternal, the other to the maternal kindred, in the following course: 5. To the grandfather. 6. If none, then to the grandmothers, uncles, and aunts on the same side, and their descendants. 7. If none such, then to the great-grandfathers, if there be but one. 8. If none, then to the great-grandmothers, or great-grandmother, if there be but one, and the brothers and sisters of the grandfathers and grandmothers and their descendants. 9. And so on, in other cases, without end, passing to the nearest lineal male ancestors, and for want of them to the nearest lineal female ancestors, in the same degree, and the descendants of such male and female ancestors. 10 If there be no father, mother, brother, or sister, nor any descendant of either, nor any paternal kindred, the whole shall go to the maternal kindred; and if there be no maternal kindred, the whole shall go to the paternal kindred. And if there be neither paternal or maternal kindred, the whole shall go to the husband or wife of the intestate; or if the husband or wife be dead, to his or her kindred in the like course as if such husband or wife had survived the intestate and died entitled to the estate. Collaterals of the half-blood shall inherit only half so much as those of the whole blood, but if all the collaterals be of the half-blood, the ascending kindred, if any, shall have double portions. When those entitled to partition are all in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they shall take per capita, but when those entitled to share in the estate are of different degrees of kindred, they take per stirpes.

Distribution of Personal Estate. When any person shall die intestate as to his personal estate, or any part thereof, the surplus (subject to certain exemptions), after the payment of funeral expenses, charges of administration and debts, shall pass and be distributed to and among the same persons, and in same proportions, to whom and in which real estate is directed to ascend, except as follows: 1. The personal estate of an infant shall be distributed as if he were an adult. 2. If the intestate was a married woman, her husband shall be entitled to the whole of the said surplus of the personal estate. 3. If the intestate leave a widow, and issue by her, the widow shall be entitled to a third of the said surplus. 4. If the intestate leave a widow, but no issue by her, the widow shall be entitled absolutely to such of the personal property in the said surplus as shall have been acquired by the intestate by virtue of his marriage with her prior to the 4th day of April, 1877, and remain in kind at his death; she shall also be entitled, if the intestate leave issue by a former marriage, to one-third; if no such issue, to one-half of the residue of such surplus.

Divorce. Only the causes for the several kinds of divorces can be given here. A divorce from bed and board may be decreed for. 1. Cruelty. 2. Reasonable apprehension of bodily hurt. 3. Abandonment or desertion, and if previous to the lapse of three years there be a sentence of divorce from bed and board for desertion or abandonment, after the expiration of that time it may be converted into a divorce a vinculo matrimonii. The causes of divorce a vinculo matrimonii existing at the time of the marriage are as follows: 1. Prior marriage when the consort still survives. 2. Want of age; the age of consent to marriage is fourteen in males and twelve in females. 3. Difference of race, one party being white and one negro. 4. Want of reason. 5. Natural or incurable impotency of body at the time of marriage. 6. Consanguinity or affinity. 7. Conviction of either party of an infamous offense prior to the marriage, without the knowledge of the other. 8. Pregnancy of the wife at the time of the marriage without the knowledge of the husband, by some person other than he. 9. Notorious prostitution of the wife prior to the marriage, without the knowledge of the husband. 10. Fraud or force The causes or divorce a vinculo matrimonii, which supervene after marriage, are these four, namely: 1. Adultery. 2. Sentence of either party to the penitentiary. 3. Indictment of either party for felony, when such party is a fugitive from justice, and has been absent for two years. 4. Willful abandonment or desertion for three years.

Dower. A widow is endowed of one-third of all the real estate whereof her husband or any other to his use was at any time during the coverture seized of an estate of inheritance or entitled to a right of entry or action for such estate, unless her right to such dower shall be lawfully barred or relinquished. The right of dower may be relinquished by the wife uniting with her husband in conveying the real estate by deed of conveyance, etc., but no privy examination is now required. If wife, of her own free will, leave her husband and live in adultery, she shall be barred of her dower, unless he be afterward reconciled to her, and suffer her to live with him.

Executions may issue at any time within one year, and scire facias, or action to revive judgments within ten. When an execution has issued within the year, other executions may be issued, or a scire facias, or an action may be brought within ten years from the return day of an execution on which there is no return by an officer, or within twenty years from the return day of an execution on which there is such return, except that against the personal representative of a decedent it must be sued out within five years after qualification as such.

Exemptions. Bible, family pictures, and books to value of $100; pew in church, burial lot, beds and bedding for family, and also various articles of housekeeping, and sewing-machine; mechanic's tools to value of $100; seaman's or fisherman's boat to the value of $200; farmer, one yoke of oxen or pair of mules and farming utensils. A householder, the head of a family, is entitled to have, in addition, real and personal property exempt from sale under execution to the value of $2,000, excepting for a debt incurred for the purchase of such real or personal property, rent, services rendered by a laboring person or mechanic, liabilities incurred by any public officer or officer of court, or any fiduciary or attorney for money collected, and taxes, for the legal or taxable fees of any public officer or officer of a court, or for any debt or liability on contract as to which the debtor has waived his homestead exemption. And in case of householder or head of a family, all wages not exceeding $50 a month are exempt. The homestead claimed to be exempt must be described in a writing signed by the householder and duly admitted to record in the county or corporation wherein the property claimed is located.

Foreign Corporations. Foreign corporations, when they have complied with certain statutory requirements, have all the privileges and disabilities of domestic corporations. They may make contracts, sue and be sued, hold real estate necessary for the purposes for which they were incorporated, and may do all other things which a domestic corporation could lawfully do. Every foreign corporation (except an insurance company) proposing to do business in this State, shall have an office in the State, at which all claims due residents of the State against such company may be audited and paid. Such company shall also, by written power of attorney, appoint some person residing in the State its agent, on whom process can be served, which power of attorney, together with a copy of its charter, shall be recorded in the county or corporation where its chief office is located, and shall also be filed with the secretary of the commonwealth. If the company fails to comply with these requirements, any officer or agent of the company is personally liable for any claim against the company, and service of process on any employee shall be sufficient service against the company.

Fraud. Every gift, conveyance, assignment or transfer of or charge upon any estate, real or personal, every suit commenced or decree, judgment, or execution suffered or obtained, and every bond or other writing given with intent to delay, hinder, or defraud creditors, purchasers, or other persons of or from what they are or may be lawfully entitled to, shall, as to such creditors, purchasers, or other persons, their representatives or assigns, be void. This section shall not effect the title of a purchaser for valuable consideration, unless it appear that he had notice of the fraudulent intent of his immediate grantor or of the fraud, rendering void the title of such grantor. Every gift, conveyance, assignment, transfer, or charge, which is not upon consideration deemed valuable in law, or which is upon consideration of marriage, shall be void as to creditors whose debts shall have been contracted at the time it was made, but shall not on that account, merely, be void as to creditors whose debts shall have been contracted, or as to purchasers who shall have purchased after it was made; and though it be decreed to be void as to a prior creditor, because voluntary or upon consideration of marriage, it shall not, for that cause, be decreed to be void as to subsequent creditors or purchasers. A creditor, before obtaining a judgment or decree for his claim, may institute any suit which he might institute after obtaining such judgment or decree to avoid a gift, conveyance, assignment, or transfer of, or charge upon the estate of his debtor, declared void by the two preceding sections. A creditor shall have a lien upon such property from the time of filing a bill to set said instrument aside. And a petitioning creditor shall have a lien from the time of filing a lis pendens.

Garnishment. By garnishment any money due the defendant upon claim reduced to judgment, may be collected and the proceeds applied by the court to payment of judgment against the defendant.

Holidays. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Husband and Wife. All real and personal estate to which any married woman is entitled at the time of the marriage, or which she may thereafter acquire or become entitled to during coverture, shall be and continue her separate estate. Such separate estate shall not be subject to the use, control, or disposal of her husband, or to his debts or liabilities incurred before or after marriage. A married woman has power to hold, control, and dispose of such estate as if she were unmarried. A married woman may engage in trade and carry on business (but not as a partner with her husband) for her separate use and benefit. She may make contracts as if sole in respect to such trade, and the profits therefrom shall be her separate estate. She may sue and be sued as an unmarried woman in the conduct of such business, and any liability incurred by her as such sole trader shall not render her husband or his estate liable for such debts.

Insolvency. There is no insolvency law in this State.

Insurance Companies. Under certain statutory regulations foreign insurance companies may do business in this State. Every such insurance company shall, by written power of attorney, appoint a citizen in this State, residing in Richmond, Va., its agent, on whom may be served all lawful process against the company. The company shall, furthermore, give bond in not less than the sum of $1,000 nor more than $5,000, conditioned to make the returns and pay the taxes required by law. Such company shall deposit with the treasurer of the State, bonds of the State of Virginia, or of one of the larger cities of Virginia, to an amount equal to five per centum of the capital stock of the company, provided the cash value of the securities so deposited shall not be more than $50,000 nor less than $10,000. On exhibition of a receipt of the treasurer for said securities, and payment of the specific license tax, a license shall be issued the said company to carry on its business in this State. Although the company does not comply with these provisions, contracts of insurance made by it shall be valid, but the company will be liable for certain penalties.

Interest. Six per cent per annum; all contracts for a greater rate of interest shall be deemed to be for an illegal consideration as to the excess beyond the principal sum so loaned. If an excess beyond the lawful interest be paid in any case, the person paying the same may, in a suit brought within one year thereafter, recover it from the person with whom the contract was made; but where a bank or private individual has loaned money at a greater rate than 6 per centum and permits the maker of the note, bond, or other evidence of debt to renew the same at the rate of 6 per centum, the maker and endorsers shall be barred from the plea of usury, after twelve months from date of renewal. A bank, licensed banker or broker, or corporation authorized to make loans, may take interest at rate of one-half of 1 per cent for thirty days, and may receive such interest in advance.

Judgments are liens on real estate possessed by debtor at or after the date of judgment, or if judgment be rendered in term in a case docketed at the beginning of the term at or after the first day of the term. They are liens as against purchasers without notice, if docketed within twenty days from their date, or fifteen days before conveyance made. Where the liens of two or more judgments commence the same day the creditors share ratably.

Liens. (See Judgments, Mechanic's Liens, and Supply Liens.)

Limitations of Suits. Upon an indemnifying bond, or bond of executor, administrator, guardian, curator, committee, sheriff or sergeant, deputy sheriff or sergeant, clerk or deputy clerk, or any other fiduciary or public officer or contract under seal, suit must be brought within ten years; on an award or contract in writing signed by the party to be charged thereby within five years; accounts between merchant and merchant, five years; on a retail store account, within two years; on any other contract within three years. If the creditor is an infant, a married woman, or insane, the period of such limitation is additional, excepting that in all cases the action must be brought within twenty years. All real actions must be brought within fifteen years east of the Alleghany Mountains, and within ten years west of same. No new promise will take an obligation out of these periods unless in writing.

Married Women. (See Husband and Wife.)

Mechanic's Liens. Any person performing labor or furnishing materials for the construction, repair, or improvement of any property, building, or railroad, is entitled, under the law of Virginia, to a lien on the whole of the same, or sufficient thereof to cover the value of labor performed or materials furnished. An account showing the amount and character of the work done, or materials furnished, the prices charged therefor, the payments, if any, and the balance due, verified by affidavit, and describing the property on which the lien is claimed, is required to be recorded in county or corporation wherein the land lies, within sixty days from the the time such building, structure, or railroad is completed or the work thereon otherwise terminated, and from the time such labor is last performed or materials furnished. Liens remain in force for only six months from the time the money to be paid is due, unless suit in equity to enforce the lien is instituted within the six months. The lien also inures to the benefit of persons to whom the general contractor is indebted for labor or materials, to the amount due to the general contractor by the owner of the property at the time the latter is notified in writing of the sub-contractor's claim. Crop liens must be recorded in the office of the clerk of the county.

Mortgages. Mortgages on real estate must be recorded in office of clerk of county or corporation. Chattel mortgages can be made, but are void as to creditors and purchasers for value, without notice unless recorded.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Virginia has enacted the Negotiable Instruments Law, prepared by the Commissioners on Uniformity of Legislation in the United States, and all former legislation in conflict with it is repealed. Where a bill of exchange drawn or indorsed within this State is protested, the party liable for the principal of such bill shall, in addition, pay damages upon the principal at the rate of 3 per cent if the bill be payable out of Virginia and within the United States, and 10 per cent if payable without the United States. Legal holidays, which are January 1st, January 19th (Lee's birthday), February 22d, July 4th, first Monday in September (Labor Day), December 25th, every Saturday from 12.00 o'clock noon until 12.00 o'clock midnight, and any day appointed by the President of the United States or governor of the State as a day of thanksgiving, fasting, and prayer, or other religious observance, shall, for all purposes as regards presenting for payment or acceptance, shall, for all purposes as regards presenting for payment or acceptance and of the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills, bank checks, and promissory notes, be treated as Sunday. Whenever one of these legal holidays falls on Sunday, the Monday next succeeding shall be a legal holiday. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday or a holiday, the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. Instruments falling due on Saturday are to be presented for payment on the next succeeding business day, except that instruments payable on demand may, at the option of the holder, be presented for payment before twelve o'clock noon on Saturday when that entire day is not a holiday. When a negotiable instrument has been dishonored by non-acceptance or non-payment, notice of dishonor must be given to the drawer and to each indorser, and any drawer or indorser to whom such notice is not given is discharged. The notice may be in writing or merely oral, and may be given in any terms which sufficiently identify the instrument, and indicate that it has been dishonored by non-acceptance or non-payment. Where any negotiable instrument has been dishonored it may be protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, as the case may be; but protest is not required, except in the case of foreign bills of exchange, and it must appear on its face to be a foreign bill to make it necessary. Protest is dispensed with by any circumstances which would dispense with notice of dishonor. (Acts 1897-8).

Powers of Attorney should be under seal and acknowledged, and when acknowledged before a notary or other officer authorized to take acknowledgments, shall be evidence in any court in this State. A power of attorney may be admitted to record in any county or corporation. A non-resident married woman may, in conjunction with her husband, by power of attorney duly executed, acknowledged, and certified as to each of them, appoint an attorney in fact to execute any deed or other writing which she might execute and acknowledge in conjunction with her husband.

Probate. (See Wills.)

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Recordation. Contracts in writing, deeds, or mortgages conveying real estate, or goods and chattels, which are admitted to record within ten days from the day of its being acknowledged before a person authorized to certify the same for record, shall, unless it be a mortgage or deed of trust, not in consideration of marriage, be as valid as to creditors and subsequent purchasers as if such admission to record had been on the day of such acknowledgment and certificate.

Replevy. The action of replevin has been abolished. Any property levied on or seized under any attachment proceedings where the plaintiff has given bond may be retained by or returned to the person in whose possession it was, on his giving bond with condition to have the same forthcoming at such time and place as the court may require.

Suits. (See Actions.)

Supply Liens. All persons furnishing supplies necessary to the operation of any railway, canal, or other transportation company have a lien upon the property of such company. The lien must be filed in the clerk's office of the county or corporation court, where the chief office of the company is located, within ninety days after the last item of the bill becomes due and payable.

Taxes. Individuals and corporations are subject to the same taxation laws, but the legislature, by special enactment, may exempt a corporation from taxation. Corporations pay taxes at the same rate as is required of individuals, but the manner of assessment is not uniform. In some classes of corporations the taxes are assessed on the actual capital invested; in others, on the amount of capital stock. Most of the mercantile corporations are assessed on the capital invested. For some classes of corporations there are special provisions relating to taxes. (It is impossible to treat of this subject in a short space.)

Transfer of Corporation Stock. Shares of stock are regarded as personal property, and may be transferred on the books of the company by delivery of the certificate of stock and a power of attorney authorizing the transfer. A person in whose name shares of stock stand on the books of the company shall be deemed the owner thereof, as it regards the company.

Wills. Every person may make a will, except, 1. A person of unsound mind. 2. A person under twenty-one years of age; but a minor may, by will, dispose of personal estate if eighteen years of age. 3. A married woman; but a married woman may make a will disposing of her separate estate, or in the exercise of a power of appointment. Actions. Every action must be prosecuted by the real party in interest; except that an administrator, executor, guardian, or trustee of an express trust, may sue without joining the person for whose benefit the action is prosecuted; and any assignee may sue and maintain an action against the obligor or debtor named in the assignment provided, that any debtor may plead in defense a counter claim or offset, if held by him against the original owner, against the debt assigned, save that no counter-claim or offset shall be pleaded against negotiable paper assigned before due, and when the holder thereof has purchased the same in good faith and for value, and is the owner of all the interest therein. Persons severally liable upon the same obligation or instrument may be included in the same action at the option of the plaintiff. No action abates by the death, marriage, or other disability of the party, or by the transfer of any interest therein, if the cause of action survive or continue. Actions must be tried in the county in which the defendants, or some of them, reside at the time of the commencement of the action, subject, however, to the power of the court to change the place of trial. Actions must be commenced by service of summons upon defendants, or by filing a complaint with the county clerk as clerk of the court; provided, that service must be had personally or commenced by publication within ninety days after such filing. Summons shall direct defendants to appear and defend the action within twenty days after date of service when served personally in the State, and within sixty days after service when served personally outside the State. When defendant can not be found within the State summons may be published, after filing the complaint, once a week for six consecutive weeks, directing defendant to appear and answer complaint within sixty days after date of first publication.

Administration of Estates. Any person having the custody of any will, or named as executor in any will, shall deliver said will into court within thirty days after he shall have knowledge of the death of the testator or of his appointment as executor; wills shall be recorded within thirty days after probate and the originals carefully filed; wills probated in any other State or country shall be admitted to probate in this State on the production of a certified copy of the original record of probate thereof, and a copy of such will, authenticated by the attestation of the clerk or judge of the court in which such probation was made and by their seal of office. Letters of administration of estate of person dying intestate shall be granted in the following order: 1. To surviving husband or wife. 2. To next of kin, in the following order: child or children, father or mother, brothers or sister, grandchildren, and, 3. To one or more of the principal creditors; provided that if the persons so entitled shall neglect for more than forty days after death of the intestate to apply for letters of administration, or shall waive their right in writing to administration, then the court may appoint a suitable person to administer such estate. Executors or administrators must take oath and give bond, with two sureties approved by the court, conditioned upon their faithful performance of the duties of their trust; they must, within one month after appointment, make and return to the court a true inventory of the real and personal estate of deceased, appraised by three persons appointed by the court; they shall, immediately after appointment, publish in a newspaper printed in the county where property is situated, a notice to creditors of deceased, requiring all claims against deceased to be presented with necessary vouchers within one year after date of such notice to them, a copy of which notice shall be filed in court; all claims not presented within the year specified shall be barred; they shall indorse thereon their allowance or rejection and notify claimants forthwith of such rejection. Debts of the estate shall be paid in the following order: 1. Funeral expenses. 2. Expenses of last sickness. 3. Debts having preference by laws of the United States. 4. Taxes or any dues to the State. 5. Judgments rendered against deceased in his lifetime, and mortgages in the order of their date. 6. All other demands against the estate.

A testator may provide in his will that trustees may manage and distribute his estate according to the will without reporting to the court, further than to probate the will.

Affidavits. Affidavits may be taken before any judge of the supreme court, clerk, or deputy clerk thereof, judge of the superior court, clerk, or deputy clerk thereof, justice of the peace, notary public, county auditor, or his deputy.

Aliens. The ownership of lands by aliens other than those who in good faith have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, is prohibited in this State, except where acquired by inheritance, under mortgage, or in good faith in the ordinary course of justice in the collection of debts; and all conveyance of lands made to any alien directly or in trust for such alien, shall be void, except that all lands, estate or interests, which were attempted to be acquired, or conveyed, prior to the adoption of the State constitution, have been confirmed to the present owners; provided, that these provisions shall not apply to lands containing valuable deposits of minerals, metals, iron, coal, or fire-clay, and the necessary lands for mills and machinery to be used in the development thereof and the manufacture of the products therefrom. Every corporation, the majority of the capital stock of which is owned by aliens, shall be considered an alien for the purposes of this prohibition. Aliens may convey, mortgage, or devise such certain lands as above specified, and if they die intestate such lands will descend to their heirs.

Appeals. Any person considering himself aggrieved by any judgment or decision of a magistrate or justice of the peace may appeal therefrom to the superior court by filing notice of appeal with the said magistrate or justice and serving a copy of such notice on the adverse party or his attorney within twenty days after the rendition of the judgment or decision complained of; he must also file a bond within said time in the amount of $100 to the effect that he will pay all costs that may be awarded against him on the appeal; or if a stay of proceedings be claimed he must file a bond with sureties in double the amount of the judgment appealed from to the effect that appellant will pay such judgment and costs as may be rendered against him on the appeal. In civil actions and proceedings an appeal from any final judgment must be taken within ninety days after the date of the entry of such judgment; and an appeal from any order other than a final order, from which an appeal is allowed, must be taken within fifteen days after the entry of the order if made at the time of the hearing, and in all other cases within fifteen days after the service of a copy of such order with written notice of the entry thereof upon the party appealing or his attorney. In criminal causes an appeal must be taken within ninety days after the entry of final judgment. A party desiring to appeal to the supreme court may, in open court or before the judge, if the judgment appealed from is rendered at chambers at the time of the rendition of such judgment or within the time prescribed above, give notice that he appeals therefrom to the supreme court; the giving or service of a notice of appeal shall effect the appeal, provided, that within five days thereafter he file an appeal bond for costs and damages in a penalty of not less than $200, and in order to effect a stay of proceedings bond shall be in penalty of double the amount of damages and costs recovered in such judgment. All parties whose interests are similarly affected by any judgment or order appealed from may join in the notice of appeal.

Arbitration. No legislation on the subject.

Arrest. Defendant may be arrested upon failure to obey an order of court, as an absconding debtor if converting or concealing his property, if a non-resident and about to depart, if guilty of fraud in contracting the debt, if to prevent injury or destruction of property. The court or judge making the order of arrest shall first be satisfied by the affidavit of the party or his agent or attorney, and other proof under oath exclusive of the complaint that the case is one in which an arrest is provided for under our statutes, which proof shall be in writing and together with the order shall be filed with the clerk; before the clerk shall issue a warrant of arrest, a bond on behalf of the plaintiff shall be executed and filed in such amount as the court may have fixed in the order, conditioned to pay to the defendant all damages and expenses which he shall suffer and incur by reason of such arrest or imprisonment if the order shall be vacated or the plaintiff fail to recover in his action.

Assignments and Insolvency. No general assignment of property by an insolvent, for the benefit of creditors, shall be valid unless it be made for the benefit of all creditors in proportion to the amount of their respective claims; to such assignments the consent of creditors shall be presumed. The debtor must annex to the assignment an inventory of all his estate and a list of his creditors and the amount of their respective demands; upon application of two or more creditors by petition, within thirty days from date of recording such assignment, the judge of the superior court shall direct the clerk to order a meeting of the creditors to choose an assignee of the estate instead of the one named in the debtor's assignment; a majority in number and value attending such meeting select one or more assignees, who, after giving bonds, file an inventory of the estate, publish notice to creditors, declare dividends pro rata to creditors, and close up the affairs of the estate. Upon the final report of the assignee, it appearing that the assignor has been guilty of no fraud, concealment, or diversion of property in making assignment, that the estate has been made to realize the fullest amount possible, and that the expenses of the assignment have been paid, the court shall make an order discharging the assignor from any further liability on account of any debts existing prior to the making of the assignment.

Attachment. A writ of attachment shall be issued by the clerk of any court in which the action is pending, and may be had at any time after the commencement of an action before judgment; but before the writ issues, the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, must make and file with such clerk an affidavit showing that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff (stating the actual debt over and above all just credits and offsets), and that the attachment is not sought and the action is not prosecuted to hinder, delay, or defraud any creditor of the defendant, and, also, showing that defendant is a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of the State, or conceals himself or has absconded or absented himself from his usual place of abode, so that the ordinary process of law can not be served upon him; or that he has removed or is about to remove any of his property from the State, or has assigned, secreted, or disposed of, or is about to do so, any of his property with intent to delay or defraud his creditors; or is about to convert his property into money for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or that he has been guilty of fraud in contracting the debt for which the action is brought, or for damages from commission of some felony or from the seduction of a female. Attachment may be had before a debt is due, when nothing but time is wanting to fix an absolute indebtedness. Before the writ shall issue, the plaintiff, or some one in his behalf, shall file a bond with two or more sureties, in a sum not less than $300 in superior court, or less than $50 in justice court, and in all cases double the amount for which judgment is sought, conditioned that plaintiff will prosecute his action without delay and pay all costs adjudged to defendant and all damages sustained by defendant by reason of the attachment, should the same be wrongfully, oppressively, or maliciously sued out.

Banks. The law in regard to banking in Washington is substantially as follows:

Capital Stock. The amount of the capital stock of any bank shall not be less than $25,000, divided into shares of $100 each, all of which shares shall be subscribed and three-fifths of which capital stock shall be paid in before commencement of business, the remainder to be subject to the call of the trustees; and it shall be the duty of the directors to file with their articles of incorporation their affidavit that three-fifths of the capital stock has been actually paid in.

Responsibility of Stockholders. Stockholders are held individually responsible, equally and ratably, for all contracts, debts, and engagements of such association accruing while they remain stockholders, to the extent of the amount of their stock at par value thereof, in addition to the amount invested in such shares.

Banking Powers. Banks shall exercise, by their board of trustees or duly authorized officers or agents, all the usual banking powers, loan money on real estate or personal security, and accept and execute trusts, fiduciary or otherwise.

Reports. Banks shall file yearly, on first Monday in June, with state auditor, a report sworn to by the president, vice-president, or cashier, of their resources and liabilities, stating the amount of deposits, the aggregate of loans, and the amount upon each class of securities; the names and residence of shareholders and number of their shares; the directors or officers for the time being; and any other matters affecting the safety of their deposits or the interests of their creditors.

Misdemeanor and Felony. It is a misdemeanor to put up or exhibit any sign or advertisement purporting thereby to be an incorporated bank, or to do business under a corporate name, when persons so engaged are not such. Any officer of a bank who shall receive or assent to the reception of deposits after he shall know that the bank is insolvent, or in failing circumstances, shall be guilty of felony.

Bills of Lading and Warehouse Receipts. A bill of lading or warehouse receipt is an instrument signed by a carrier, warehouse proprietor or his agent, describing the freight, giving name of consignor or owner and terms of contract for carriage or storage; persons giving them must not mix goods so as to destroy identity, and must deliver goods only upon written consent of receipt-holder. Such bills and receipts are negotiable and may be transferred by indorsement of the party to whose order they are given or issued; and such indorsement shall pass all the title vested in the first holder of said instrument, when he received it, to every subsequent indorsee thereof in good faith and for value with like effect as in the case of a bill of exchange.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. No legislation on the subject of trust deeds. Chattel mortgages may be had upon all kinds of personal property, rolling stock of railroad company, all kinds of machinery, boats and vessels, growing crops, portable mills and such property; they shall be signed and acknowledged in the same manner as deeds; they shall be void as against creditors of the mortgagor or subsequent purchaser, unless accompanied by the affidavit of the mortgagor that it is made in good faith and without any design to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors, and placed on record in the county in which the mortgaged property is situated. If mortgaged property be removed from the county, mortgagee in order to retain his lien as against all others, must, 1, record his mortgage in the county to which property has been removed, within thirty days after such removal; or 2, take possession of said mortgaged property within thirty days after such removal; or 3, record his mortgage in the custom house. A mortgagee on any vessel or boat, over twenty tons burden, shall be recorded in the office of collector of customs, where such vessel is registered, enrolled, or licensed. Chattel mortgages upon crops can not be made for more than one year in advance. The originals of all chattel mortgages may be filed in the office of the County Auditor of the county in which the property is situated within ten days from time of execution. Before the expiration of two years after the time such chattel mortgage becomes due, the mortgagee, his agent or attorney shall file an affidavit setting forth the amount due, and the effect of such affidavit shall be to preserve the lien of such mortgage for one year from date of filing; otherwise, said mortgage shall cease to be valid as against third persons. (See Execution.)

Community Property. Property and pecuniary rights, owned by either husband or wife before marriage, and that afterward acquired by either by gift, devise, bequest, or descent, with the rents, issues and profits thereof, shall be the separate property of said husband or wife; and said spouse may manage, convey, encumber or devise by will, all such property without the other spouse joining, as fully as though he or she were unmarried. Said property shall not be subject to the debts or contracts of the other spouse. Property not acquired or owned as aforesaid, acquired after marriage by either spouse or both, is community property; the husband shall manage and control community personal property with a like power of disposition as he has of his separate property, except he shall not devise by will more than one-half thereof; he shall also manage and control the community real property, but he shall not convey or encumber the same unless the wife joins with him in executing and acknowledging the deed or other instrument; all community real estate shall be subject to the liens of mechanics and material men for labor and materials in erecting structures and improvements thereon, and to liens of judgments recovered for community debts, and to sale on execution issued thereon.

Conditional Bills of Sale. All conditional sales of personal property or leases, containing a conditional right to purchase upon making future payments, where the property is placed in the possession of the vendee, shall be deemed absolute as to all creditors and purchasers in good faith, unless within ten days of the taking possession by the vendee, a memorandum of such sale, stating its terms and conditions and signed by the vendor and vendee, shall be filed in the auditor's office of the county wherein the vendee resides at the time of taking possession.

Contracts. In the following cases, contracts shall be void, unless made in writing and signed by the party to be charged therewith: 1, every agreement that by its terms is not to be performed in one year from the making thereof; 2, every special promise to answer for the debt, default or misdoings of another person; 3, every agreement, promise or undertaking made upon consideration of marriage, except mutual promises to marry; 4, every special promise made by an executor or administrator to answer damages out of his own estate. When a contract for the personal services of a minor has been made with him alone, and those services are afterward performed, payment made therefor to such minor in accordance with the terms of the contract is a full satisfaction for those services.

Conveyances. All conveyances of real estate or of any interest therein, and all contracts creating or evidencing any encumbrance upon real estate, shall be by deed, which must be made in writing and duly acknowledged by the party making and signing it. The use of private seals to signature of grantors of deeds has been abolished; and the term "heirs" or other technical words of inheritance is not necessary to create and convey an estate in fee simple.

Corporations. Corporations may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special acts. No corporation, except those engaged exclusively in loaning money on real estate, shall commence business until the whole amount of its capital stock has been subscribed. Any two or more persons, desiring to form a corporation, shall make and subscribe articles of incorporation in triplicate, and acknowledge the same before any officer authorized to take acknowledgments and file one copy of such articles in the office of the secretary of state, and another in the office of the auditor of the county in which the principal place of business of the company is intended to be located, and retain the third in the possession of the corporation. Said articles shall state the corporate name of the company, the object of its formation, amount of its capital stock, time of its existence (not to exceed fifty years), number of shares of capital stock, number of trustees and names of those who shall manage affairs of the company for a time designated (not less than two or more than six months), and name of locality and county in which the principal place of business of the company shall be located. When the articles shall have been filed, the corporation shall have power 1, to sue and be sued; 2, to make and use a seal; 3, to purchase, hold, mortgage, sell and convey real and personal property; 4, to appoint officers, agents and servants, such as their business shall require, to define their powers, prescribe their duties and fix their compensation; 5, to require of them such security as may be thought proper, and to remove them at will except in the case of trustees (upon a vote of two-thirds of all the stock any trustee may be removed) to make by-laws, not inconsistent with the laws of the State and the United States; and 7, to conduct all kinds of business within the objects of the company, as expressed in the articles of incorporation. Before July 1st of each year, every corporation shall pay an annual license to the secretary of State of $10. If not then paid a fine of $2.50 attaches. If not paid by December 31st of that year, then there is a penalty of $5 per day. Corporations are forbidden to blacklist employes. Penalties, $100 to $1,000, or imprisonment from ninety days to one year, or both fine and imprisonment. Foreign corporations doing business in the State must file a certificate executed by its officers under its corporate seal, appointing a resident of the State, giving his name and address, as resident agent of the corporation upon whom service of process can be made, and a penalty of $250 is prescribed for failure to do so, said amount to be recovered in a civil action by the Attorney-General.

Courts and Jurisdiction. The supreme court is a court of record, and is vested with all power and authority to carry into complete execution all its judgments, decrees and determinations, in all matters within its jurisdiction; it shall have original jurisdiction in habeas corpus, and quo warranto and mandamus as to all State officers, and appellate jurisdiction in all actions and proceedings, excepting that its appellate jurisdiction shall not extend to civil actions at law, for the recovery of money or personal property, when the original amount in controversy does not exceed the sum of $200, unless such action involve the legality of a tax, impost, assessment, toll, municipal fine, or the validity of a statute. The superior courts are courts of record and are always open, except on non-judicial days; they have appellate jurisdiction in cases arising in justice and other inferior courts in their respective counties. They have original jurisdiction in all cases in equity and in all cases at law, which involve the title or possession of real property, or the legality of any tax, impost, assessment, toll, or municipal fine; in all other cases where the demand amounts to $100, in criminal cases amounting to felony, and of misdemeanor not otherwise provided for by law; of actions of forcible entry and detainer, to prevent or abate nuisance, proceedings in insolvency, probate, divorce, annulment of marriage, and such special proceedings as are not otherwise provided for; they shall have power to issue writs of mandamus, quo warranto, review, certiorari, prohibition and habeas corpus for any person in actual custody in their respective counties; and their process shall extend to all parts of the State. Justice courts have jurisdiction in matters involving less than $100, except where the action includes the title to real property, the enforcement of a lien on real estate, false imprisonment, slander, seduction, or a suit against an executor, or administrator as such; a transcript of judgment, when filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the justice presides, becomes a lien upon real estate of the judgment debtor.

Days of Grace. On all bills of exchange payable at sight, or at a future day certain within this State, and on all negotiable promissory notes, orders, and drafts, payable at a future day certain within this State, in which there is not an express stipulation to the contrary, three days' grace is allowed.

Depositions. The testimony of a witness may be taken by deposition, to be read in evidence in any court in the State, when the witness resides out of the State, or more than twenty miles from the place of trial, or is about to go more than twenty miles from the place of trial and is liable to continue absent when the testimony is required, or is sick, infirm or aged, so as to make it probable he will not be able to attend at the trial. They may be taken in the State before any judge of the superior court, justice of the peace, clerk of the supreme or superior court, mayor of a city, or notary public, by serving on the adverse party or his attorney previous notice of the time and place of examination, which notice shall be served in sufficient time to allow the adverse party time by usual route of travel to attend, and three days for preparation, exclusive of the day of service; they may be taken out of the State by any person authorized by a special commission from any court of this State, which shall be issued by the clerk under the seal of the court; at the time the application for commission is presented, the court shall settle the interrogatories, which shall be attached by the clerk to the commission, or may be taken on oral questions and answers out of the State; five days' notice must be given to witness to attend and commissioner shall have power to compel attendance of witness.

Descent and Distribution of Property. Upon the death of either husband or wife, one-half of the community property shall go to, and title vest in, the survivor, without administration, subject to the community debts, and the other half shall be subject to the testamentary disposition of the deceased husband or wife, subject also to the community debts. In case no testamentary disposition shall have been made by deceased of his or her half of the community property, it shall descend equally to the legitimate issue of deceased. If there be no issue living, or none of their representatives, then said community property shall all pass to the survivor, to the exclusion of collateral heirs. Every illegitimate child is an heir to the person who shall in writing, signed by a competent witness, have acknowledged himself to be the father of such child; and such child shall in all cases be considered as heir of his mother. If any illegitimate child shall die intestate without lawful issue, his estate shall descend to his mother. The kindred of the half-blood shall inherit equally with those of the whole blood. Posthumous children are considered as living at the death of their parent. If decedent leaves no husband, wife, or kindred, the estate shall escheat to the State for the support of the common schools in the county where the decedent resided during lifetime, or where the estate is situated.

Divorce. Any person having been a resident of the State for one year may file a complaint for divorce or decree of nullity of marriage; when defendant does not answer, or admits the allegations in the complaint, the court shall require proof before granting the prayer of the complaint in granting divorce; the court shall make such disposition of the property of the parties as shall appear just and equitable, and shall make provision for custody, guardianship, support, and education of the minor children of such marriage, and shall order a complete dissolution of the marriage as to both parties, provided that neither party shall contract marriage with a third party within six months from date of decree, and in case an appeal be taken, then neither party shall intermarry with a third person until the cause has been fully determined. Divorces may be allowed on the following grounds: 1. When the consent of the party applying was obtained by force or fraud and there has been no voluntary cohabitation. 2. For adultery of either spouse, when said act is unforgiven and an action is commenced within one year after knowledge of the adultery. 3. Impotency. 4. Abandonment for one year. 5. Cruel treatment of either party, or personal indignity rendering life burdensome. 6. Habitual drunkenness of either party, or where the husband fails or neglects to make suitable provisions for his family. 7. The imprisonment of either party in the penitentiary, if the action be brought during the term of imprisonment. And the court may grant a divorce on any other cause deemed by the court sufficient, upon the application of either party, and court being satisfied that the parties can no longer live together. 8. In case of chronic mania or dementia of either party having existed for ten years, a divorce may be granted at the discretion of the court.

Dower. Statutes in regard to community property, real and personal, have taken the place of dower and tenancy by courtesy, which are abolished. (See Community Property.)

Execution. A writ of execution may issue any time within six years after judgment is rendered. When an execution is levied on real estate, either under decree of foreclosure or ordinary judgment, the sheriff shall forthwith proceed to sell such property, or so much as shall be necessary to satisfy judgment, interest, and costs. If the decree provides for a deficiency, the sheriff shall forthwith proceed to levy upon any other property of debtor not exempt, or the clerk of the court may issue other executions. Personal property may be sold on ten days' notice. Real property may be sold upon posting notices describing the property, in three public places in the county, and publishing the same for four weeks prior to day of sale. All sales of real property shall be made at the Court House door on Saturday. At the time of sale the sheriff shall give purchaser a certificate of sale describing the real estate sold, the price bid for each lot or parcel, the whole price paid, and whether or not the property is subject to redemption. Real property may be redeemed any time within one year after the sale by paying the amount bid, with interest at 8 per cent, and any taxes or charges paid by the purchaser. The purchaser shall be entitled to receive the rents and profits of the property during the period of redemption, and upon redemption the amount of such rents and profits, over and above the expense of caring for, protecting, and insuring property, shall be a credit upon the redemption money to be paid, and the redemptioner shall be entitled to a sworn statement of the income and expenses of such property before redeeming it. If the property sold be farm land, the owner shall be entitled to possession of such property from the 1st of April to the 1st of December, or to be reimbursed for his work and labor in preparing such property for crops, or caring for planted crops. The sheriff shall deliver deed within one year from date of sale, provided such sale has been confirmed by the court and no redemption has been made. Stay of execution will be allowed on judgments rendered in supreme court on sums under $500, thirty days; $500 to $1,500, sixty days; over $1,500, ninety days; in superior courts, under $300, two months; $300 to $1,000, five months; over $1,000, six months, upon filing a bond with two or more sureties in double the amount of the judgment, conditioned to pay said judgment, costs, interest, and increased costs.

Any person making a general assignment for creditors shall have the right to claim and have set aside to him as exempt, all real and personal property exempt from execution; wages of $100, due to any person having a family to support, shall be exempt from garnishment. Each party has the right to select the property he may claim as exempt; but no property is exempt from an execution issued upon a judgment for the purchase price thereof, or for any tax levied thereon. No property shall be exempt from execution for clerk's or laborer's wages, nor from execution on judgment against an attorney in favor of his client, on account of any money or any property coming into said attorney's hands.

Fraud. Statutes are enacted in regard to deception, false pretenses, and fraud in the following cases: Falsely representing bank to be incorporated; receiving deposits after bank is insolvent or in failing circumstances; obtaining money under false pretenses; fraudulent representation that labor or material is paid for; using weights and measures known to be false; use of foreign ores or misrepresentation in selling mines; interference with samples of ores, or making false samples of same, or altering certificate of assayer regarding same; wearing badge or button of G. A. R. without right; misrepresentation of pedigree of breeding animals or when selling animals.

Garnishment. Writs of garnishment may be issued in the following cases: 1. When an original attachment has been issued in accordance with statutes thereupon. 2. Where the plaintiff sues for a debt, and makes affidavit that such debt is just, due, and unpaid, and that the garnishment applied for is not sued out to injure either the defendant or the garnishee. 3. Where the plaintiff has a judgment wholly or partially unsatisfied in the court from which he seeks to have a writ of garnishment issued. In the second case above-mentioned, the plaintiff shall execute a bond payable to defendant in double the amount claimed, conditioned that he will prosecute his suit and pay all costs and damages that may be adjudged against him for wrongfully suing out such garnishment. An affidavit by plaintiff or someone in his behalf must also be filed, stating the facts authorizing the issuance of the writ, and that plaintiff has reason to believe that the garnishee is indebted to defendant, or has in his possession property and effects belonging to defendant. The writ shall be returnable within twenty days if served upon garnishee within the county where issued, or within thirty days if served in any other county in the State; should he fail to make answer within the time prescribed in the writ, the court may render judgment by default against the garnishee for the full amount claimed by plaintiff.

Holidays. The following days are legal holidays in this State, viz.: Sunday, New Year's Day, Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, first Monday of September, known as Labor Day; Christmas Day, any day designated by public proclamation of the chief executive of the State as a legal holiday, or as a day of thanksgiving; and the day on which a general election is held throughout the State. As to negotiable paper, the time from Saturday noon to Sunday midnight is declared to be a legal holiday.

Husband and Wife. A husband or a wife may give, grant, sell, or convey, directly, each to the other, his or her community right, title, interest, or estate in all or any portion of their community real property; and every deed so made shall operate to vest the real estate therein recited as separate property. Either may make and execute powers of attorney for the sale, conveyance, transfer, or incumbrance of his or her separate estate without the other spouse joining in the execution thereof; and either may appoint the other his or her attorney-in-fact for the purposes before stated.

Interest. The legal rate of interest is 6 per cent. Any rate not exceeding 12 per cent per annum, agreed upon in writing, is valid. All State warrants draw 5 per cent; all county, city, and school warrants draw not to exceed 8 per cent, and the public officers whose duty it is to issue warrants shall each month investigate the market value of warrants and fix the rate of interest on the same during the ensuing month.

Judgments. A judgment is a lien for the period of six years upon the realty of a judgment debtor from the date of entry in the clerk's office, and no judgment can be revived or renewed.

Liens. All vessels are liable: 1. For services rendered on board. 2. For supplies furnished. 3. For work done or materials furnished in this State for their construction, repair, or equipment. 4. For their wharfage and anchorage in this State. 5. For non-performance of any contract for transportation of persons or property between places within this State, or to or from places within this State. 6. For injuries committed both to persons and property within this State, or while transporting same to or from this State. These demands constitute liens and have priority in the order enumerated, have preference over all other demands and continue in force for three years from the time the cause of action accrued. Every person performing labor upon or furnishing material to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of any mining claim, building, wharf, bridge, ditch, dyke, flume, tunnel, fence, machinery, railroad, street railway, wagon road, aqueduct, or any other structure, has a lien upon the same for the labor performed or materials furnished; notice of such lien must be filed with the auditor or the county within ninety days after the completion of the building, improvement, or structure, after last work performed, or after ceasing to furnish materials; no such lien binds the property for a longer period than eight months after the claim has been filed unless an action be commenced in the proper court to enforce same within that time, and be prosecuted to judgment within two years thereafter. Every person assisting in obtaining saw logs, spars, piles, or other timber, has a lien upon the same; every person assisting in manufacturing saw logs into lumber and shingles has a lien upon the same while the same remains at the mill where manufactured, or under the control of the manufacturer; notice of claim of such lien must be filed in the office of the county auditor within thirty days from the time the lien accrued, and the action to enforce such lien must be commenced in the proper court within eight months thereafter. A claim for labor performed for any person or corporation within six months next preceding, shall be a prior lien on the franchise, earnings and real and personal property, and no mortgage, deed of trust, or conveyance, shall defeat or take precedence of said lien. Notice of lien must be filed within ninety days after ceasing work, and a copy served on said person or corporation within thirty days thereafter.

Limitations. The following limitations exist by statute in this State regarding the commencement of actions: One year—Action against sheriff or other officer for the escape of a prisoner arrested or imprisoned on civil process; against an executor or administrator for malfeasance or mismanagement of an estate, one year from discovery of same or from his final settlement. Two years—Action for libel, slander, assault and battery, false imprisonment, and for a forfeiture or penalty to the State. Three years—Contracts not in writing, open accounts, action for waste or trespass on real property, for taking or injuring personal property, for relief on ground of fraud, for seduction and breach of promise. Five years—No action for the recovery of real estate sold by an executor or administrator shall be maintained by any heir or other person claiming under the deceased, unless it is commenced within five years next after the sale, and no action for any estate sold by a guardian shall be maintained by the ward or by any person claiming under him, unless commenced within five years next after the termination of the guardianship, except that minors and other persons under legal disability to sue at the time when the right of action first accrued may commence action at any time within three years after the removal of the disability. Six years—Contracts in writing or liability arising out of a written agreement, or a judgment or decree of any court, or for rents, issue, use and occupation, or profits of real estate. Ten years—Recovery of real property or the possession thereof. Ten years—Suits on street grade assessments.

Married Women. Married women have the same right to acquire, hold, and dispose of property, to contract, sue, and be sued, as if unmarried; the civil disabilities of a wife are no greater than those of a husband, except that she has no right to vote or hold office other than is specially provided for by statute; they are not liable for the debts of husbands; may manage, control, devise, incumber, and convey her separate property the same as if unmarried. In the absence of misconduct, they shall be as fully entitled to the custody, control, and earnings of the children as the father. The property of wife acquired before marriage, and afterward by gift, devise, or descent, and the rents, issues, and profits thereof, are her separate property. Wife must join with the husband in the conveyance of the community real property. If husband and wife be sued together, the wife may defend for her own right; and if her husband neglect to defend, she may defend for his right also; and she may defend in all cases in which she is interested, whether she is sued with her husband or not. Expenses of the family and education of the children are chargeable on property of both husband and wife, or either of them, and they may be sued jointly or separately on such claims.

Mortgages. Mortgages are executed acknowledged, and recorded in same manner as deeds, and are generally made to secure promissory notes; they are not deemed a conveyance or transfer of title, but merely a lien for security, and the mortgagee, to gain title and possession, must proceed by foreclosure and sheriff's sale; upon default in the performance of any condition in the mortgage, the mortgagee may proceed in the superior court of the county where the land lies, to foreclose the same in a suit in equity. If the mortgage fail to provide in express terms for a deficiency judgment, none shall be granted. Any action upon the obligation secured by the mortgage without first resorting to the mortgaged property shall be deemed a waiver of the mortgage security. Sale conducted as other sales on execution. If, before the final judgment, the defendant pay into court the interest due and any installment of principal then due, together with accrued costs, further proceedings shall be stayed until a default again occurs; sale of the property shall be made in parcel, if possible, and only so much shall be sold as will be sufficient to pay the judgment, with costs.

Notes and Bills. The Negotiable Instruments act is in force. (See Days of Grace.)

Powers of Attorney. Powers of attorney shall be acknowledged and certified in the manner provided for the acknowledgment of deeds, and recorded as deeds.

Probate Law. The superior courts have jurisdiction of all probate matters, with power to take proof of wills, grant letters testamentary and of administration, appoint guardians, settle estates of deceased persons, and the accounts of executors, administrators, and guardians, and allow or reject claims against all said estates.

Protest. Notaries public are authorized by law to present bills of exchange and promissory notes, and protest the same, and to charge fees for noting, protesting, and mileage; upon protest for non-payment of bill of exchange drawn and endorsed within this State, if payable without the limits of the United States, damages of 10 per cent of the amount thereof shall be allowed and paid; and if such bill be payable out of this State, but within the United States, the rate of damages shall be 5 per cent thereof; such damages shall be in lieu of interest, protest fees, and other such charges; but the holder of such bill shall be entitled to demand and receive lawful interest upon the aggregate amount of the principal sum and of the damages thereon from the date of demand and protest.

Receivers. Receivers may be appointed by the court in the following cases: 1. In an action by a vendor to vacate a fraudulent purchase of property, or by a creditor to subject any property or fund to his claim. 2. In an action between partners, or other persons jointly interested in any property or fund. 3. In an action where it is shown that the property, fund, or rents and profits in controversy are in danger of being lost, removed, or materially injured. 4. In an action by a mortgagee for foreclosure of a mortgage, and the sale of mortgaged property, when it appears that such property is in danger of being lost, removed or materially injured; or when such property is insufficient to discharge the debt; to secure the application of the rents and profits accruing therefrom, before a sale can be had. 5. When a corporation has been dissolved or is insolvent, or is in imminent danger of insolvency, or has forfeited its corporate rights. 6. In such other cases as may be provided for by law or the discretion of the court. Before taking possession, receiver must give bond in an amount ordered by the court and to be approved by the court.

Replevy. In an action to recover possession of personal property, the plaintiff may, at time of issuing summons or before answer, claim the immediate delivery of such property; an affidavit shall be made by him, or someone in his behalf, showing—1. That he is the owner of the property described, or is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof as set out by the facts respecting such possession. 2. That the property is wrongfully detained by defendant. 3. That same has not been taken for a tax, assessment, or fine, pursuant to a statute, or seized under execution or attachment, or, if so seized, that it is by law exempt from such seizure. 4. The actual value of the property claimed; he must also give bond to defendant, executed by one or more sureties approved by the sheriff, in double the value of the property, conditioned for the prosecution of the action, for the return of the property to defendant (if return thereof be adjudged) and for payment to him of such sum as may be recovered against the plaintiff. The sheriff shall then take the property into custody, and, without delay, serve upon defendant personally a copy of the affidavit and bond, or, if he can not be found, then to his agent; or, if neither can be found, then by leaving same at the usual place of abode of either, with some person of suitable age and discretion. The sheriff shall make return of his proceedings and file same, with the affidavit and bond, with the clerk of the court within twenty days after taking possession of said property.

Taxes. Taxes shall be levied by the county commissioners at their meeting in October in each year, and all taxes, whether State, county, city, or school, are collected by the county treasurer and by him distributed to the proper funds. Taxes are due on the second Monday in January, and become delinquent on May 21, from which date interest at 15 per cent per annum is charged until paid; provided that if one-half of taxes be paid on or before May 31, then the time of payment of the remainder thereof shall be extended to November 30; but if said remainder be not paid on or before November 30, then such remainder shall be delinquent and shall draw interest as above from May 31 preceding. If taxes be delinquent any person may pay same and the county treasurer shall issue a delinquency certificate, the holder of which may bring suit in three years for sale and absolute title. If the taxes due in any year be paid on or before March 15 of said year, a rebate of 3 per cent shall be allowed. All taxes which became delinquent during the year 1897, or previous years, will be cancelled by paying the original, with 6 per cent interest thereon, and all excess penalties and interest will be remitted, if paid before November 1, 1899.

Transfer of Corporation Stocks. The stock of the company shall be deemed personal estate, and shall be transferable in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the corporation; but no transfer shall be valid except between the parties thereto, until the same shall have been entered upon the books of the company, showing the names of the parties by and to whom transferred, numbers and designation of the shares, and date of the transfer. Any stockholder may pledge his stock by a delivery of the certificate or other evidence of his interest, but may nevertheless represent the same at all meetings and vote as a stockholder.

Usury. If a greater rate of interest than allowed by law shall be agreed upon or received, the contract shall not be void; but in any action thereon, if the greater interest has been taken or reserved, the plaintiff shall only recover the principal less the accrued interest thereon at the rate contracted for, and the defendant shall recover costs; and if such interest shall have been paid, judgment shall be for the principal less twice the amount of the interest paid, and less the amount of all accrued and unpaid interest. The acts of an agent bind the principal, and where the same person acts as agent for both borrower and lender, he shall be deemed the agent of the lender.

Wills. Every male person above twenty-one years of age, and every female person above eighteen years of age, of sound mind, may by last will, devise his or her estate, real and personal. Every will shall be in writing, signed by the testator or by some other person under his direction and in his presence, and shall be attested by two or more competent witnesses subscribing their names thereto in presence of the testator. No nuncupative will shall be good where the estate exceeds the value of two hundred dollars, unless the same be proved by two witnesses who were present at the making thereof, and it be proven that the testator at the time of pronouncing the same did bid some person present to bear witness that such was his will, and that such nuncupative will was made at the time of the last sickness and at the dwelling-house of the deceased, or where he had been residing for ten days or more, except where such person was taken sick from home and died before his return; but mariners at sea and soldiers in the military service may dispose of their wages or personal property by nuncupative will; nuncupative wills must be offered for proof within six months after the speaking of the testamentary words.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF WEST VIRGINIA

RELATING TO

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. BROWN, JACKSON & KNIGHT, Attorneys at Law, Charleston. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts should be verified by the affidavit of the plaintiff or some one for him, stating that there is, as affiant verily believes, due and unpaid from the defendant to him upon the demand or demands stated in the declaration, including principal and interest after deducting all payments, credits, and sets off made by the defendant, and to which he is entitled, a sum certain to be named in the affidavit; If such affidavit has been filed with the declaration by the plaintiff in any action for the recovery of money arising out of contracts out of the Circuit Court, no plea can be filed by the defendant unless accompanied by his affidavit that there is not, as he verily believes, any sum due from him to the plaintiff upon the demand or demands stated in plaintiff's declaration, or that there is a less sum due him on the said demand or demands. If the defendant fails to file such affidavit judgment shall be given by the Court for the plaintiff for the sum stated in his affidavit, with interest thereon, from the date of the affidavit until paid, unless there be an order for inquiry of damages, in which case such order shall be executed in court, and the affidavit above mentioned shall be legal evidence on said inquiry. If such affidavit be not filed judgment will not be entered by the court unless the plaintiff files such affidavit or proves his case in open court.

Acknowledgments. The clerk of the county court of any county in which any deed, contract, power of attorney, or other writing is to be, or may be recorded, shall admit the same to record in his office as to any person whose name is signed thereto, when it shall have been acknowledged by him or proved by two witnesses as to him, before such clerk of the county court. A clerk of the county court shall also admit any writing to record as to any person whose name is signed thereto upon the request of any person interested therein, upon a certificate of his acknowledgment before a justice, notary public, recorder, prothonotary or clerk of any court within the United States, or a commissioner appointed within the same by the governor of this State, written or annexed to the same, to the following effect, to-wit:

"State (territory or district of) ....., county of ....., to-wit: I, ..., a commissioner appointed by the governor of the State of West Virginia for the said State (or territory or district) of..... (or I, ..., justice of the county aforesaid, or I, ..., recorder of said county, or I, ..., a notary of said county, or I, ..., a prothonotary or clerk of the ..... court of said county) do certify that ....., whose name (or names) is (or are) signed to the writing above (or hereto annexed) bearing date on the ..... day of ..... has (or have) this day acknowledged the same before me in my said ..... Given under my hand this ..... day of....." Or upon a certificate so written or annexed under the official seal of any minister plenipotentiary, charge d'affaires, consul-general, consul, deputy-consul, vice-consul, consular agent, vice consular agent, commercial agent or vice commercial agent, appointed by the government of the United States to any foreign country, or of the proper officer of any court of such country, or of the mayor or other chief magistrate of any city, town or corporation therein that the said writing was acknowledged by such person, or proved as to him by two witnesses before any person having such appointment, or before such court, mayor or chief magistrate. If the acknowledgment be before a notary without the State he shall certify the same under his official seal. As to a married woman.—When a husband and wife have signed a writing purporting to convey real estate, the wife may acknowledge the same together with or separately from her husband. If both acknowledge said writing at the same time the certificate of such acknowledgment shall be in form or effect as follows:

State (territory or district) of ....., county of ....., to wit: I, ..., a commissioner appointed by the Governor of West Virginia, for the said State of ....., (territory or district of .....) or I, ..., a justice of the peace of said county of ....., or I, ..., a notary of the said county of ....., or I, ... a prothonotary (or clerk) of the ..... court of county of ..... (or other officer or person authorized to take acknowledgments by section three of this chapter, as the case may be)* do certify that ..... and ....., his wife, whose names are signed to the writing above (or hereto annexed) bearing date the ..... day of ....., 19....., have this day acknowledged the same before me in my said ....." "Given under my hand this ..... day of ....., 19....." If the wife acknowledges a deed or other writing separately from her husband the certificate of her acknowledgment after the star () in the foregoing form shall be in form and effect as follows: "Do certify that ....., the wife of ....., whose names are signed to the writing above (or hereto annexed), bearing date the ..... day of ....., 19....., has this day acknowledged the same before me in my said ....." "Given under my hand this ..... day of ....., 19 ..." If the acknowledgment be before a notary without this State he shall certify the same under his official seal. The certificate of acknowledgment of a corporation or joint stock association may be in form or effect as prescribed in the next preceding section down to the star () and then as follows: "Do certify that ..... personally appeared before me in my said ....., and being by me duly sworn (or affirmed) did depose and say that he is the president (or other officer or agent of the corporation or association) described in the writing above (or hereto annexed), bearing date the ..... day of ....., authorized by said corporation (or association) to execute and acknowledge deeds and other writings of said corporation (or association), and that the seal affixed to said writing is the corporate seal of said corporation (or the seal of the said association, as the case may be), and that the said writing was signed and sealed by him in behalf of said corporation (or association) by its authority duly given. And the said ..... acknowledged the said writing to be the act and deed of said corporation (or association)." Or if the corporation has no seal, or the association has no seal, omit the words, "seal affixed to said writing is the corporate seal of said corporation (or association, as the case may be), and say, "said corporation (or association) has no seal." And in such case omit the word "sealed" after the words "signed and" and insert in lieu the word "executed."

Actions. The common law forms are retained, modified by statute in some respects. Actions at law and suits in chancery are commenced by the issue of a summons to the defendant returnable within ninety days after its date to the court on the first day of the term, or in the clerk's office at rules. Rules are held by the clerk in his office on the first Monday and following Tuesday and Wednesday in each month at which the parties file their pleadings at law and in equity, take orders of publication, appointment of guardians ad litem and rules upon the opposite party to plead, etc.

Administration of Estates. Non-residents may qualify as personal representatives of decedents in this State. Administrators may be appointed by the county court which has general charge of all probate matters. The executors must qualify as such by giving bond before the county court in which the will of the testator or a properly authenticated copy thereof is admitted to record, or before a clerk thereof in vacation. Administration is granted to the distributees who apply therefor, preferring first the husband or wife and then such of the others entitled to distribution as the court shall see fit. If any distributee fail to apply for administration for a period of thirty days after the death of the decedent the court may grant administration to one or more of his creditors or to any other person. An executor or administrator must give bond in the penalty equal at least to the full value of the personal estate to be administered, and if there is a will which authorizes the executor to sell the property or receive the rents and profits thereof, the bond must be for a penalty equal to the full value of the personal estate and of such real estate. No married woman can be a personal representative and the marriage of a femme sole who has been such, terminates her authority. If three months elapse without a personal representative of any decedent being appointed or qualified, the county court on the motion of any person may cast the administration upon the sheriff or any other county officer who acts as the administrator henceforward without giving any bond as such, his bond as such officer being liable. Where the assets of a decedent in the hands of his personal representative, after the payment of funeral expenses and charges of administration, are not sufficient for the satisfaction of all demands against him, shall be applied: 1. To debts due the United States. 2. Taxes and levies assessed upon the decedent previous to his death. 3. Debts due as personal representative guardian or committee, where the qualification was in this state, in which debts shall be included a debt for money received by a husband acting as such fiduciary in right of his wife. 4. All other demands ratably except those in the next class. 5. Voluntary obligation.

The real estate of a decedent is made assets and may be subjected to the payment of his debts by suit in equity, if the personal estate be insufficient, and if the executor or administrator does not bring such suit within six months from the time of his qualification any creditor may bring the same on behalf of himself and other creditors whether he has obtained a judgment at law for his claim or not.

Affidavits may be made before any officer of another state or country authorized by its laws to administer an oath, and shall be deemed duly authenticated if it be subscribed by such officer, and there be annexed to it a certificate of the clerk or other officer of a court of record of such state or country, under an official seal, verifying the genuineness of the signature of the first mentioned officer and his authority to administer an oath, and they may also be made before a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State.

Aliens. No disabilities attached to aliens, not enemies, in reference to purchase, enjoyment, conveyance, devise, or descent of property.

Appeals. An appeal from the judgment of a justice lies to the circuit court of the county when the amount in controversy in the trial before the justice exceeds fifteen dollars, exclusive of interest and costs, or the case involves the freedom of a person, the validity of a law, or an ordinance of any corporation, or the right of a corporation to levy tolls or taxes, except when such judgment is rendered on the verdict of a jury, in which case the proceedings before the justice may be reviewed in the circuit court by writ of certiorari. An appeal from, or writ of error, or supersedeas to a judgment, decree, or order of the circuit court lies to the supreme court of appeals in the following cases: 1. In civil cases, where the matter in controversy exclusive of costs is of greater value or amount than $100, wherein there is a final judgment, or decree, or order. 2. In controversies concerning the titles or boundaries of land, the probate of a will, or the appointment of a personal representative, guardian, committee, or curator. 3. Concerning a mill, road, way, ferry, or landing. 4 Concerning the right of a corporation, county, or district to levy tolls or taxes. 5. In any case of quo warranto, habeas corpus, mandamus, or prohibition. 6. In any case involving freedom or the constitutionality of a law. 7. In any case in chancery wherein there is a decree or order dissolving or refusing to dissolve an injunction, or requiring money to be paid, or real estate to be sold, or the possession or title of the property to be changed, or adjudicating the principles of the cause 8. In any case where there is a judgment or order quashing, or abating, or refusing to quash or abate an attachment. 9. In any civil case where there is an order granting a new trial or re-hearing, and in such cases an appeal may be taken from the order without waiting for the new trial or re-hearing to be had. 10. In any criminal case where there has been a conviction in a circuit court, or there has been a conviction in an inferior court, which has been affirmed in a circuit court.

Arbitration. Parties to any controversy, whether there be a suit pending therefor or not, may submit the same to arbitration and agree that said submission may be entered of record in any court. An award so made shall not be set aside except for errors apparent on its face, unless it appears to have been procured by corruption or other undue means, or by mistake, or that there was partiality or misbehavior in the arbitrators or any of them, but the power of a court of equity over an award is not taken away.

Arrests. An order for the arrest of a defendant in an action or suit may be made by the court in which the action is pending, or by the judge or clerk thereof in vacation, upon the affidavit of the plaintiff or any credible person showing to the satisfaction of the court or judge, or clerk thereof in vacation, the nature and justice of the plaintiff's claim, the amount which the affiant believes the plaintiff is entitled to recover in the action and the existence of some one or more of the following grounds for the arrest of the defendant: 1. That the defendant has removed or is about to remove any of his property out of the State with the intent to defraud his creditors; or 2. that he has converted or is about to convert his property or any part thereof into money or securities with like intent; or 3. that he has assigned, disposed of or removed his property or any part thereof, or is about to do so with like intent; or 4, that he has property or rights in action which he fraudulently conceals; or 5, that he fraudulently contracted the debts or incurred the liability for which the action or suit is brought; or 6, that he is about leave the State and reside permanently in another State or country, without paying the debt or liability for which the action or suit is brought. When sufficient cause shall be shown for the arrest of defendant as aforesaid, such court, judge or clerk shall make an order directing the defendant to be arrested and held to bail for such sum as the said court, judge or clerk shall think fit, and the plaintiff shall thereupon deliver to the clerk of the court in which the action is pending a bond in a penalty double the amount sworn to, executed by himself or some other person for him, with one or more sufficient securities, to the effect that the plaintiff will pay the defendant all damages he may sustain by reason of said arrest should it thereafter appear that the order was wrongfully obtained. Defendant may be discharged upon giving bond conditioned that he will be in the county and answer such interrogatories as may be filed, within four months after judgment, decree or order, and make the required conveyance or delivery, or perform or satisfy such judgment, decree or order. In a civil action before a justice an arrest can be made upon practically the same affidavit as above mentioned, the plaintiff giving bond satisfactory to the justice in the penalty of not less than $100.

Assignments and Insolvency. There are no insolvent laws in this state. Assignments are made by a deed of trust acknowledged as other deeds and recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county wherein the property assigned or any part thereof is situate, conveying the property to a trustee to realize on the same and distribute it among the creditors. The deed ordinarily states the amount of the commissions of the trustee, which are usually 5 per cent, but if not so stated are 5 per cent on first $300 and 2 per cent on the balance. The assignee is not required to give bond unless some one of his cestuique trusts demands it, in which case he must give bond before the clerk of the county court in a penalty equal to the full value of the property before sale is made. If the trustee fail to give such bond for twenty days after notice given, his powers cease and another may be appointed. Every transfer or change ("transfer" including every gift, sale, conveyance and assignment, and "charge" including every conferred judgment, deed of trust, mortgage, lien and incumbrance) which is not upon consideration deemed valuable in law, shall be void as to creditors whose debts shall have been contracted at the time it was made; but shall not upon that account merely be void as to creditors whose debts shall have been contracted, or as to purchasers who shall have purchased after it was made; and though it be decreed to be void as to a prior creditor, because voluntary, it shall not for that cause be decreed to be void as to subsequent creditors or purchasers. Every transfer, or charge, made by an insolvent debtor attempting to prefer any creditor of such insolvent debtor, or to secure such a creditor, or any surety, or indorser for a debt, to the exclusion or prejudice of any other creditor shall be void as to such preference or security, but shall be taken to be for the benefit of all creditors of such debtor, and all the property so attempted to be transferred or charged shall be applied and paid pro rata upon all the debts owed by such debtor at the time such transfer or charge is made; provided, that any such transfer or charge by an insolvent debtor shall be valid as to such preference or priority, unless a creditor of such insolvent debtor shall institute a suit in chancery within one year after such transfer, or charge, is made to set aside and avoid the same, and cause the property so transferred, or charged, to be applied toward the payment pro rata of all the debts of such insolvent debtor existing at the time such transfer, or charge, is made, subject, however, to the provision hereinafter contained with reference to creditors uniting in such suit and contributing to the expenses thereof. But if such transfer, or charge, be admitted to record within eight months after it is made, then such suit to be availing must be brought within four months after such transfer, or charge, was admitted to record. Every such suit shall be deemed to be brought in behalf of the plaintiff and all other creditors of such insolvent debtor, but the creditor instituting such suit, or proceeding, together with all creditors of such insolvent debtor who shall come into the suit and unite with the plaintiff before final decree and agree to contribute to the costs and expenses of said suit, shall be entitled to have their claims first paid in full pro rata out of the property so transferred, or charged, in preference to any creditor of such debtor who shall before final decree decline or fail to so unite and agree to contribute to the costs and expenses of said suit, but not in preference to such creditor as may attempt to sustain the preference given him by such transfer or charge; provided, further, that nothing in this section shall be taken to prevent the making of a preference as security for the payment of purchase money or a bona fide loan of money or other bona fide debt contracted at the time such transfer, or charge, was made or as security for one who at the time of such transfer, or charge, becomes an indorser or security for the payment of money then borrowed; provided, further that nothing in this section contained shall be taken to affect any transfer of bonds, notes, stocks, securities or other evidences of debt in payment of, or as collateral security for the payment of a bona fide debt or to secure any endorser, or surety, whether said transfer is made at the time said debt is contracted, or endorsement made, or for the payment or security of a pre-existing debt. It is customary to file a sworn statement of the claim with the assignee to prove the claim; no notice is required; if he rejects it, a suit in chancery is the proper remedy; he has a reasonable time to accept his trust and close up the estate. An assignment does not give a debtor full discharge unless so agreed by his creditors.

Attachments. When any action at law or a suit in equity is about to be or is instituted for the recovery of any claim or debt arising out of contract, or to recover damages for any wrong, the plaintiff at the commencement of the action or suit, or at any time thereafter and before judgment, may have an order of attachment against the property of the defendant, on filing with the clerk of the court in which said action or suit is about to be or is brought, his own affidavit or that of some credible person, stating the nature of the plaintiff's claim and the amount, at the least, which the affiant believes the plaintiff is entitled justly to recover in the action or suit, and also that the affiant believes that some one or more of the following grounds exist for an attachment: 1. That the defendant or one of the defendants is a foreign corporation, or is a non-resident of this State; or 2, has left or is about to leave this State with intent to defraud his creditors; or 3, so conceals himself that a summons can not be served upon him; or 4, is removing or about to remove his property (or the proceeds of the sale of his property, or a material part of such property or proceeds) out of this State, so that process of execution on a judgment or decree in such action or suit when it is obtained will be unavailing; or 5, is converting or about to convert his property, or a material part thereof, into money or securities, with intent to defraud his creditors; or 6, has assigned or disposed of his property or a material part thereof, or is about to do so, with intent to defraud his creditors; or 7, has property or rights in action, which he conceals; or 8, fraudulently contracted the debt or incurred the liability for which the action or suit is about to be or is brought. And unless the attachment is sued out upon the first of such grounds, the affiant shall also state in his affidavit the material facts relied upon by him to show the existence for the grounds upon which his application for the attachment is based. But upon objection to the sufficiency of such facts the affiant shall have the right, within such time, not exceeding ten days, as may be prescribed by the court, in which the action or suit is pending, to file a supplemental affidavit, stating any other facts which may have come to his knowledge since the filing of the original affidavit, and which are relied upon to show the existence of such grounds; and when filed, such supplemental affidavit shall be taken as a portion of the original. And such attachment may be sued out in a court of equity for a debt or claim, legal or equitable, whether the same be due or not, upon any of the grounds aforesaid, but the affidavit, in case the claim or debt be not due, must show when it will become due. Provided, that an attachment shall not be sued out against a foreign corporation for debt not due, upon the ground alone that it is a foreign corporation, nor against a non-resident defendant for a debt not due, unless the affiant shows by his affidavit that such defendant was a resident of this State when the debt was contracted, and that the plaintiff believed he would remain a resident of this State at the time he gave defendant credit. Attachments are issued in justice's court on plaintiff giving bond in double the amount of the claim and filing an affidavit showing the nature of the claim, that it is just, the amount thereof as near as may be, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State or a foreign corporation, or has absconded, left his residence, or concealed himself with intent to hinder or defraud any creditor or avoid service of process, or that he being a resident of the State is about to depart therefrom and reside out of the State without having paid plaintiff's demand, or that he has committed fraud in any of the particulars mentioned in the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th particulars in an attachment in the circuit court above mentioned.

Banks. The capital stock of a banking company shall not be less than $25,000, nor more than $500,000. The stockholders are personally liable to the creditors, over and above the amount of stock held by them, respectively, to an amount equal to their respective shares so held, for all liabilities accruing while they are such stockholders. The State bank examiner is required, between April and November, to examine the condition of each bank and publish a statement in the county where the bank is located.

Not less than thirteen persons, citizens of this State, whose fitness for the proposed trust shall be certified by the judge or judges of the circuit court of the county wherein the proposed bank is to be located, may organize a savings bank without being a joint stock company. The business shall be managed and directed by a board of trustees, whose responsibility and fitness shall be certified by the judge of the circuit court of the county in which the bank is located. The deposits shall be invested by the trustees in first mortgages or deeds of trust on real estate, bonds or securities of the United States, or of any State, county, district, city, or town, or loaned on personal security. An available fund, not exceeding 10 per cent of the deposits, shall be kept to meet current expenses and payments in excess of receipts. The circuit court of the county, on application of five depositors, may appoint two or more persons to examine into the investments and its business generally. Title and trust companies are authorized to do a general banking business, provided a resolution to that effect be adopted by the vote of two-thirds of the capital stock of such company, and a certified copy of such resolution filed with the secretary of State, who shall thereupon issue a certificate declaring such company to be a banking institution, when it will become subject to the provisions of law regulating banks of issue and circulation, discount and deposit.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. The mortgage is practically unused in this State, the deed of trust having taken its place. Liens are taken upon chattels by a deed of trust acknowledged and recorded as other deeds of trust.

Conveyances. Deeds in West Virginia must be under seal, for which a scroll is sufficient in the case of a private person, and must be acknowledged or proven before two witnesses; when acknowledged witnesses are unnecessary. Any deed is void as to creditors and subsequent purchasers for a valuable consideration until and except from the time it is duly admitted to record in the county wherein the property conveyed is situated.

Corporations may be formed under general laws, but can not be created by special acts. They may be incorporated for the following purposes: 1. For manufacturing, mining or insuring. 2. For constructing and maintaining lines of magnetic telegraph, telephones, lines of piping or tubing for the transportation of oils or other fluids, and carrying on the business properly pertaining to such works and improvements. 3. For establishing hotels and springs companies gas works, water works, cemeteries, or building and loan associations, and transacting the business properly pertaining thereto. 4. For universities, colleges, academies, seminaries, schools, or institutes, for the purpose of teaching any branch or branches of useful information or learning, or promoting religion, morality, military science or discipline; or the diffusion of knowledge, including library companies and literary and scientific associations. 5. For agricultural and industrial societies. 6. For benevolent associations, societies and orders, including orphan, blind and lunatic asylums and hospitals, lodges of free and accepted masons, independent order of odd fellows, improved order of red men, sons of temperance, good templars and knights of pythias, and all other associations, societies and orders of like character. 7. For gymnastic purposes. 8 For railroads and other works of internal improvement. 9. For banks of issue and circulation, and of discount and deposit, and for s vings institutions. 10. And for any other purpose or business useful to the public for which a firm or copartnership may be lawfully formed in this State. There must be at least five incorporators, who must pay in at least 10 per cent of the capital stock subscribed, and sign and acknowledge an agreement in form prescribed by the statute, which agreement must be accompanied by the affidavit of two of the incorporators that the said 10 per cent has been actually and in good faith paid in, and must be filed with the secretary of State, who thereupon issues the certificate of incorporation. No corporation, except for railroad or canal purposes, incorporated by this State shall have a larger capital than $5,000,000. Corporations of other States are permitted to do business in this State by complying with certain regulations.

Courts, Terms and Jurisdictions. The jurisdiction of the circuit court is from $50 up; the circuit court sits in each county regularly three times a year. The jurisdiction of justices extends to all civil actions, provided the amount of money or damages, or the value of property claimed does not exceed $300, exclusive of interest and costs, excepting actions for false imprisonment, malicious prosecution, slander, breach of marriage promises, or seduction. Only five days is required to elapse between the service of the summons and the return day thereof, but the defendant upon making oath that he has a just defense to the action may have as a matter of right a continuance for one week.

Days of Grace. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Depositions. In any pending case the deposition of a witness, whether a party to the suit or not, may, without any commission, be taken in or out of this State by a justice or notary public, or by a commissioner in chancery, or before any officer authorized to take depositions in the county or State where they may be taken, and if certified under his hand may be received without proof of the signature of such certificate. On affidavit that a witness resides out of this State or is out of it in the service thereof, or of the United States, his deposition may be taken before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State, or any justice, notary public, or other officer authorized to take depositions in the State wherein the witness may be; or if the deposition is to be taken in a foreign country, by or before such commissioner or commissioners as may be agreed upon by the parties or appointed by the court, or if there be none such by or before any American minister, plenipotentiary, charge d'affaires, consul-general, consul, vice-consul, consular agent, vice-deputy consular agent, commercial agent, or vice commercial agent, appointed by the government of the United States, or by or before the mayor or other chief magistrate of any city, town, or corporation in such country, or any notary public therein. Any person or persons taking such depositions may administer an oath to the witness and take and certify the depositions with his official seal annexed, and if he have none, the genuineness of his signature shall be authenticated by some officer of the same State or country under his official seal. Seasonable notice shall be given to the adverse party of the time and place of taking every deposition; and in a suit in equity the deposition may be read if returned before the hearing of the cause, although after an interlocutory decree, if it be as to a matter not thereby adjudged and be returned before a final decree. A deposition in a case at law taken on such notice under the three preceding sections may be read in such case, if when it is offered the witness be dead or out of this State, or one of its judges, or in any public office or service the duties of which prevent his attending the court, or be unable to attend it from sickness or other infirmity, or be out of the country in which the case is pending. But when the only ground of reading a deposition is that the witness is out of the county, on motion to the court before the commencement of the trial, it may, for good cause shown, require such witness to attend in person.

Descents and Distributions. Course of Descents. When any person having title to any real estate of inheritance shall die intestate as to such estate, it shall descend and pass in parcenary to his kindred, male and female, in the following course: 1. To his children and their descendants. 2. If there be no child, nor the descendants of any child, then to his father. 3. If there be no father, then to his mother, brothers and sisters and their descendants. 4. If there be no mother, nor brother, nor sister, nor any descendant of either, then one moiety shall go to the paternal, the other to the maternal kindred, in the following course: 5. To the grandfather. 6. If none, then to the grandmother, uncles and aunts on the same side and their descendants. 7. If none such, then to the great-grandfathers or great-grandfather, if there be but one. 8. If none, then to the great-grandmothers or great-grandmother, if there be but one, and the brothers and sisters of the grandfathers and grandmothers, and their descendants. 9. And so on in other cases without end, passing to the nearest lineal male ancestors, and for want of them to the nearest lineal female ancestors in the same degree, and the descendants of such male and female ancestors. 10. If there be no father, mother, brother or sister, nor any descendant of either, nor any paternal kindred, the whole shall go to the maternal kindred; and if there be no maternal kindred, the whole shall go to the paternal kindred. If there be neither maternal nor paternal kindred, the whole shall go to the husband or wife of the intestate; or if the husband or wife be dead, to his or her kindred in the like course as if such husband or wife had survived the intestate and died entitled to the estate. 2. Collaterals of the half-blood shall inherit only half so much as those of the whole blood. But if all the collaterals be of the half-blood the ascending kindred, if any, shall have double portions. 3. When the children of the intestate, or his mother, brothers and sisters, or his grandmother, uncles and aunts, or any of his female lineal ancestors, living with the children of his deceased lineal ancestors, male and female, in the same degree, come into the partition, they shall take per capita or by person; and where a part of them being dead and a part living, the issue of those dead have right to partition, such issue shall take per stirpes, or by stocks, that is to say, the shares of their deceased parents; but whenever those entitled to partition are all in the same degree of kindred to the intestate, they shall take per capita or by persons. 4. Bastards shall be capable of inheriting and transmitting inheritance on the part of their mother as if lawfully begotten. 5. If a man having had a child or children by a woman shall afterwards intermarry with her, such child or children, or their descendants, if recognized by him before or after the marriage, shall be deemed legitimate. 6. The issue of marriages deemed null in law, or dissolved by a court, shall nevertheless be legitimate. 7. Any person in ventre sa mere who may be born in ten months after the death of the intestate shall be capable of taking by inheritance in the same manner as if he were in being at the time of such death.

Distribution of Personal Estate. After payment of debts, etc., personal estate is distributed in the same manner as realty, with the following exceptions: 1. If the intestate was a married woman, and leave children surviving, her husband shall be entitled to one-third of the said surplus, and if she leave no children he shall be entitled to the whole thereof. 2. If the intestate leave a widow or children by the same or a former marriage, the widow shall be entitled to one-third of the said surplus, and if he leaves no children she shall be entitled to the whole thereof. To the State shall accrue all the personal estate of every decedent of which there may be no other distributee.

Divorce. The circuit court on its chancery side has jurisdiction for annulling or confirming marriages or granting divorces, when the parties or one of them shall have resided in the State one year next preceding the time of bringing suit. Suit shall be brought in the county in which the parties last cohabited, or at the option of the plaintiff, in the county in which the defendant resides or in the county in which the plaintiff resides. The wife may prosecute such suit in her own name and a decree may be had upon an order of publication. The bill in such suit can not be taken for confessed, but its allegations must be proven. A divorce from the bond of matrimony may be decreed for adultery, impotence existing at the time of entering into the marriage contract, where either of the parties is sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary, where prior to the marriage either party, without the knowledge of the other, had been convicted of an infamous offense, where either party willfully abandons or deserts the other for three years, where at the time of the marriage the wife, without the knowledge of the husband, was enciente by some person other than the husband, or prior to such marriage had been, without the knowledge of the husband, notoriously a prostitute, or where prior to the marriage the husband without the knowledge of the wife had been notoriously a licentious person. A divorce from bed and board may be decreed for cruel or inhuman treatment, reasonable apprehension of bodily hurt, abandonment, desertion, or where either party after marriage becomes a habitual drunkard. A charge of prostitution falsely made by a husband to his wife is deemed cruel treatment within the meaning of the statute.

Dower. The widow is endowed of one-third of all the real estate whereof her husband or any other to his use was at any time during the coverture seized of an estate of inheritance, unless her right to such dower shall have been lawfully barred or relinquished.

Executions. In the circuit court can be issued after the close of the term, or the court, after the fifteenth day of the term, may make a general order allowing executions to issue after ten days from the date of the judgment or decree, although the term be not ended. For special cause an execution may issue at any time. In a justice court executions may be issued immediately after judgment is rendered. An execution is a lien on the personal property of the debtor from the time it is delivered to the officer. In a justice court a stay bond may be given by the defendant, which will stay execution for a length of time dependent upon the amount of the judgment, viz.: Not over $50, two months; $50 to $100, four months; over $100, six months. The debtor may release property upon which an execution from the circuit court has been levied by giving a forthcoming bond, upon the forfeiture of which judgment may be obtained upon motion after ten days' notice, and an execution then issued, upon which no forth coming bond is allowed to be given.

Exemptions. Any husband or parent residing in this State, or the widow, or the infant children of deceased parents, may set apart and hold personal property to the value of not exceeding $200, to be exempt from execution or other process, except as hereinafter provided. And any mechanic, artisan, or laborer residing in this State, whether he be a husband or parent, or not, may hold the working tools of his trade or occupation to the value of $50 exempt from forced sale or execution. Provided, that in no case shall the exemption allowed any one person exceed $200. This exemption shall not apply to any claim for the purchase money of the personal estate in respect to which such exemption is claimed or to any proceeding for the collection of taxes or county or district levies. Such husband, parent, or infant children of deceased or insane parents may set apart a homestead of the value of $1,000, under certain regulations.

Garnishment. The plaintiff in an attachment, or a judgment creditor may, by an indorsement on the attachment order or by suing out a suggestion on his execution, as the case may be, designate any person as being indebted to or having in his possession the effects of the defendant or one of the defendants; and such person, upon service of the order and indorsement or suggestion upon him, is required to appear at the next term of the court, or if the action be before a justice upon the day ordered by the justice, and disclose under oath in what sum he is indebted to the defendant or judgment debtor, or what effects of the defendant or judgment debtor he has in his hands. The plaintiff or judgment creditor has a lien upon such indebtedness or property from the time of the service upon the garnishee.

Holidays. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Husband and Wife. (See Married Women.)

Interest. Legal rate is 6 per cent. Corporations may make special contract for a greater rate. Excess of interest above 6 per cent, if usury is plead, except in the case of corporations, can not be recovered.

Judgments. All judgments for money are liens upon the real estate of the debtor at, and after, their date, or if rendered by the circuit court, from the first day of the term at which rendered. To preserve the lien as against a purchaser, for value, without notice, an abstract of the judgment must be docketed in the office of the county clerk within sixty days after its date, or before a deed to such purchaser is recorded. A judgment of a justice, as against such purchaser, is a lien only when docketed. Judgment liens are enforced in chancery after two years from the date of the judgment, or after the return of an execution, "No property found."

Limitations. Saving certain exceptions in favor of persons under disability no person shall make an entry on or bring an action to recover any land, but within ten years next after the time at which the right to make such entry or to bring such action shall have first accrued to himself, or to some person through whom he claims. Personal actions for the recovery of money founded upon an award, or any contract other than a judgment or recognizance, shall be brought within ten years after the right to bring the same shall have first accrued if upon a bond or other contract in writing; if upon any other contract, within five years, unless it be an action for a settlement between partner and partner, or upon accounts between merchant and merchant, in which case it must be brought within five years from the cessation of dealing. Suits upon a recognizance, not a recognizance of bail, or upon a judgment shall be brought within ten years after the right to bring the same shall have first accrued; and upon a recognizance of bail, within three years. Every action upon a judgment rendered in another State or country shall be barred, if by the laws of such other State or country such action or suit would be there barred, and no such action shall be brought against any person who has resided in this State more than ten years upon a judgment or decree rendered more than ten years before the commencement of such action. A claim may be removed from the operation of the statute by a promise in writing to pay the same.

Married Women. A married woman may take by inheritance, grant, gift, bequest, or devise, and hold as her sole and separate property, free from the control and disposal of her husband and from liability for his debts, real and personal property as if a femme sole, and may convey and devise the same, but unless living separated and apart from her husband or he be non compos mentis, can sell and convey real estate, only when her husband consents thereto by joining in the deed or other writing. And a married woman may by power of attorney duly executed, her husband joining therein, acknowledged and certified as she is required to acknowledge and certify deeds, appoint an attorney in fact for her, and in her name, to execute and acknowledge for record any deed or other writing which she might acknowledge in person, and any deed, or other writing, so executed and acknowledged by such attorney in fact in pursuance of said power of attorney and while the same remains in force shall be as valid and effectual in all respects to convey the title and interest of such married woman in the real estate thereby conveyed, and to bear her right of dower therein as if she had in person and in the manner required by statute executed and acknowledged the same. She may carry on business in her own name, and a judgment at law may now be had against her; and such judgment is a lien upon the corpus of the real estate, and an execution thereon may be levied upon her separate personal property as though she were a femme sole.

Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. Mortgages are but little used in this State. Are executed and acknowledged in the same manner as deeds. A decree of a court of chancery is required to enforce them; hence, deeds of trust, under which the trustee sells the property when required by the cestui que trust, after default in payment have taken their place. Sale is made at public auction upon four weeks' notice by advertisement, and by posting a notice at the front door of the court house of the county in which the property is, if the property be over $300 in value, in the opinion of the trustee, and if it be in his opinion less than $300 in value, by posting such notice thirty days prior to sale at front door of court house and in three other public places in the county (one of which, in the case of real estate, shall be as near the premises to be sold as practicable). In all cases notice must be served on the grantor in the deed, his agent or personal representative, if in such county, at least twenty days prior to sale.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Every promissory note, or check for money, payable in this State at a particular bank, or at a particular office thereof for discount or deposit, or at the place of business of a savings institution, or savings bank, and every inland bill of exchange payable in this State, shall be deemed negotiable, and may, upon being dishonored for non-acceptance or non-payment, be protested, and the protest be in such case evidence of dishonor in like manner as in the case of a foreign bill of exchange; and every instrument which is made payable at a day subsequent to its date, and is otherwise in the form of a check, shall be deemed a bill of exchange. A bill or note which becomes due on a Sunday shall be payable, and may be protested, on the succeeding day; or, if that be Christmas day, or the first day of January, or the twenty-second day of February, or the thirtieth day of May, or the fourth day of July, or on Labor day, then on the succeeding Tuesday; and a bill or note which becomes due on a day after a Sunday which falls on either of the said named dates, or on a Sunday bearing either of said dates, shall be payable, and may be protested, on the succeeding Tuesday; and a bill or note which becomes due on a Christmas day, or the first day of January, or the twenty-second day of February, or the thirtieth day of May, or the fourth day of July, or on Labor day, or any national or State election day, or a day appointed or recommended by the Governor of this State, or the President of the United States, as a day of thanksgiving, or for the general cessation of business, shall be payable, and may be protested, on the succeeding day; and if such succeeding day be Sunday, then on the succeeding Monday; and a bill or note which becomes due on a Saturday shall be payable before 12 o'clock, noon, of that day, and if not then paid, shall be payable, and may be protested, on the following Monday; or if that be a day after a Sunday which falls on a date hereinbefore named, then on the next day. And no days of grace shall be allowed or counted on any negotiable instrument made after this act takes effect, except where it is otherwise provided in such instrument. The sending of notice of protest or dishonor of any bill, note or other negotiable instrument, by mail properly addressed to the last known post office of any party, shall be deemed equivalent to personal service of such notice upon him. Upon a duly protested negotiable note or bill of exchange, whether payable in or out of the State, an action of debt or assumpsit may be maintained and judgment given against all liable thereon, or against any one, or any intermediate number of them.

Power of Attorney should be acknowledged or proven in the same manner as deeds.

Probate Law. The county court, composed of three county commissioners, is the probate court, with jurisdiction for hearing proof and admitting wills to probate, appointing personal representatives and guardians, etc.

Protest. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Replevin. The action of replevin is abolished. The plaintiff, in an action of detinue, can have immediate possession of the property in controversy upon proper affidavit being filed and giving bond. The defendant can reclaim property so taken by plaintiff, pending the termination of the suit, by giving counterbond.

Taxes are assessed as of the first day of April in each year, and are liens on the real estate on which they are assessed from such time. In every odd year (1893-95, etc.) sales are held by the sheriff of each county of the lands delinquent for taxes of the two preceding years. One year after sale is allowed for redemption. All lands, upon which no individual will bid the amount of the taxes, etc., charged thereon at such sale, are knocked off to the State, and, after the time for redemption has expired, are sold in proceedings by the school commissioner of each county, and the proceeds pass to the free school fund of the State. There is a tax of 2½ per cent on collateral inheritances of $1,000 and over in value.

Transfer of Corporation Stocks. Such stocks are transferable on the books of the company under such regulations as the by-laws prescribe. Can not be transferred without consent of the board of directors, unless fully paid up, or satisfactory security given for payment of the residue.

Wills. To be valid, a will must be in writing, and unless wholly written by the testator must be signed or acknowledged by him in the presence of two competent witnesses present at the same time, who in the presence of the testator and of each other shall subscribe the same. If a will be attested by a person to whom, or to whose wife or husband, any beneficial interest in any estate is thereby devised or bequeathed, if the will may not be otherwise proved, such person shall be deemed a competent witness; but such devise or bequest shall be void, except, that if such witness would be entitled to any share of the estate of the testator, in case the will were not established, so much of his share shall be saved to him as shall not exceed the value of what is so devised or bequeathed. If a will charging any estate with debts, be attested by a creditor, or the wife or husband of a creditor, whose debt is so charged, such creditor shall, notwithstanding, be admitted a witness for or against the will. No person shall, on account of his being executor of a will, be incompetent as a witness for or against the will. Where a will relative to estate within this State has been proved without the same, an authenticated copy and the certificate of probate thereof may be offered for probate in this State. When such copy is so offered, the court to which, or the clerk to whom, it is offered, shall presume, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the will was duly executed and admitted to probate as a will of personality in the State or country of the testator's domicil, and shall admit such copy to probate as a will of personality in this State; and if it appear from such copy that the will was proved in the foreign court of probate to have been so executed as to be a valid will of land in this State by the law thereof, such copy may be admitted to probate as a will of real estate.

.... (Insert designation of officer.)

If such conveyance shall be executed in any other State, Territory, or district of the United States, it may be executed in the manner and acknowledged in the form prescribed in the preceding paragraph, or according to the laws of such State, Territory, or district; and the execution thereof may be acknowledged before any judge or clerk of a court of record, notary public, justice of the peace, master in chancery, or other officer authorized by the laws of such State, Territory, or district to take acknowledgments of deeds therein, or before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for such purpose; and if executed within the jurisdiction of any military post of the United States not within this State, it may be acknowledged before the commanding officer thereof. In the cases provided for in the preceding paragraph unless the acknowledgment be taken before a commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for that purpose, a clerk of a court of record, with its seal attached, a notary public with his seal attached, or the commanding officer of a military post, such conveyance shall have attached thereto a certificate of the clerk, or other proper certifying officer of a court of record of the county or district within which such acknowledgment was taken, under the seal of his office, that the person whose name is subscribed to the certificate of acknowledgment was, at the date thereof, such officer as he is therein represented to be, and that he believes the signature of such person subscribed thereto to be genuine, and if such deed be executed and acknowledged according to the laws of such State, Territory, or district, such certificate shall state that fact. If any such deed, the acknowledgment of which shall be taken by any such commissioner, clerk of a court of record, notary public or commanding officer of a military post, shall be executed and acknowledged according to the laws of such State, Territory, or district, the certificate of acknowledgment shall certify that fact. If any such conveyance be executed in a foreign country, it may be executed in the manner and acknowledged in the form prescribed in sections 2216 and 2217, or according to the laws of such country, and the execution thereof may be acknowledged before any notary public, or other officer authorized by the laws of such country to take the acknowledgment of deeds thereon, or before any minister plenipotentiary, minister extraordinary, minister resident, charge d'affaires, commissioner or consul of the United States, appointed to reside therein; such acknowledgment shall be certified by the officer taking the same under his hand, and if taken before a notary public, his seal of office shall be affixed thereto; and if such conveyance be executed and acknowledged according to the laws of such country, the certificate of acknowledgment shall certify that fact. All deeds and other written instruments heretofore executed and proved and acknowledged in accordance with the provisions of said sections 2217, 2218, 2219, and 2220, as amended by said subdivision 16, chapter 194, laws of Wisconsin, 1879, shall be entitled to be read in evidence and to be recorded, and all records of such deeds or other written instruments shall have the same force and effect as though they had been executed and properly acknowledged within this State.

Actions. (See Attachment.) The circuit and a few county courts have general civil jurisdiction; justices of the peace, of actions (except for some torts and about land titles) up to $200. In Milwaukee county there are two superior courts of practically concurrent jurisdiction with the two circuit courts. The practice is under a code. Distinctions between actions at law and suits in equity have been abolished as to form. Actions affecting real property must be commenced in the county where the land lies; non-residents must give security for costs on commencing actions, if security is demanded. In courts of record such security to the amount of $250 is almost always required, generally in the form of an undertaking signed by a resident of the county, who justifies in twice the amount of the undertaking. Process to begin action in all courts is by summons. In courts of record defendants must answer in twenty days. Arrest is allowed in certain cases. (See Arrests.)

Administration. All probate jurisdiction is vested in the county court of the county of decedent's domicile, or of his property situs, if a non-resident. Administrators, executors, and guardians are appointed on petition and notice, the widow and heirs being preferred over creditors, unless the former decline or fail to apply for thirty days. Security usually for twice the amount of personal property is required. Foreign administrators and executors can act here upon filing copies of their letters, without ancillary administration. Possession and income of all realty (except homestead, q. v.), as well as personalty, pertains by statute to the administrator, etc., pending disposition of the estate, but not unless debts to be paid and not sufficient personalty to pay them. All non-exempt property is applicable to debts. Debts must be proved by affidavit filed in county court, within a time prescribed by notice given upon issue of letters (not less than six months nor more than one year), unless time extended by court; else they are barred. This limitation does not bar contingent liabilities not fixed before said time expires if contingent claim is duly filed. The federal courts ignore this limitation and entertain actions against the administrator, etc., on such debts within six years if assets are still in hand. Any other creditor or the administrator, etc., may contest claims. In insolvent estates, all other debts prorate after full payment of administrative, funeral, and last sickness expenses, and debts preferred by United States laws. In solvent estates the same order obtains. Allowance to widow and minor heirs is made irrespective of solvency of estate. The residue (except homestead, q. v.) is distributed under the will or the law of descent. (See Descent.)

Affidavits (see Acknowledgments) may be taken before any judge or clerk of a court of record, commissioner, county clerk, notary public, justice of the peace, United States court commissioner, or register of deeds. They may be taken in any other State or territory, before any judge, court commissioner, master in chancery, notary public, justice of the peace, or other officer authorized to administer oaths; but must have attached a certificate of the clerk or other proper certifying officer of a court of record of the county or district in which it was taken, under the seal of his office, that the person whose name was subscribed to the jurat was, at the date thereof, such officer as he is therein represented to be, and that he believes the signature of such officer to be genuine. When taken before a notary public with an impression of his official seal affixed, no further attestation shall be necessary.

Aliens may acquire, transfer, and inherit property like citizens, except that non-resident aliens can not acquire more than 320 acres of land by purchase. Alien women are not barred of dower. (See Descent.)

Appeals. Appeals may be taken to supreme court direct from circuit and county courts having civil jurisdiction and from superior courts of Milwaukee county within two years from entry of judgment. Bills of exceptions must be served within sixty days after written notice of entry of judgment. The appellant must give security for costs of appeal. Additional undertaking is necessary to stay execution. Appeals from justice courts to circuit court and county courts with civil jurisdiction are permitted within twenty days after entry of judgment, and security may be required. The case is tried de novo in the appellate court if amount in controversy exceeds $15. Appeals as to wills and other matters of probate jurisdiction lie from county to circuit court, and thence to supreme court.

Arbitration. All persons, except those under disability, may, by agreement in writing, with two witnesses, submit any controversy except claims to real estate, to one or more arbitrators, and, if stipulated, judgment may be entered on the award.

Arrests are permitted in certain actions based on tort or fraud and in actions for fine or penalty, and for recovery of personal property unjustly detained or concealed: undertaking must be given for costs and damages from arrests. No female can be arrested on any action except for willful injury to person, character or property. When an order of arrest is granted, bail, in a sum stated, to appear in court or respond to the judgment may be given. The person so arrested may, upon application to court, have bail reduced or order of arrest vacated, if bail excessive or order unlawfully made.

Assignments for Benefit of Creditors (no form of voluntary assignment is prescribed by law) may be made by an insolvent debtor to such person, being a resident of this State, as he elects, who must give bond in a sum not less than the present value of the assets. The assignee must file list of creditors and inventory within twenty days, and notify creditors who may prove their claims by affidavit filed with assignee or with clerk of circuit court of county where debtor lives. Proof of claim must be so filed within ninety days after assignee gives notice, or creditor is barred from dividend ordered and paid before claim filed. That court has a general supervision of all proceedings and settles final accounts. The assignee or any creditor can contest any claim filed. Debts to employes for wages, etc., earned within three months are preferred by law, and the same for six months may be preferred by the assignment. All others must prorate, and other preferences avoid assignment. Exemptions are allowed to assignor (see Exemptions), except to partnerships and corporations, but individual partners are entitled to exemptions. Insolvent debtors, after properly noticed hearing, may be discharged from all liabilities. A debtor who has made a voluntary assignment, by filing, within one year thereafter, his application for discharge in the circuit court, where such assignment is filed, may be discharged from all debts of claimants who have participated therein, after notice and hearing. Upon payment of final dividend, judgment satisfying the balance due on all claims filed under the assignment is entered in favor of assignor. Such application shall have annexed thereto a sworn statement that he has not disposed of any property for his future benefit, or in any way fraudulently compounded with any of his creditors; opposing creditors may file written objections specifying grounds, and may then have a jury trial on hearing of application for discharge, and have the right to appeal. Foreign assignments are treated according to the rules of comity. A majority of creditors in number and amount of claims may procure removal of assignee, and appointment of a new one, and the circuit judge may, upon notice and after hearing, remove assignee for cause. The assignee must file verified itemized statement annually during continuance of trust; assignor and assignee may be fully examined as to all matters relating to state of business immediately before and after assignment. By chapter 334, laws of 1897, a radical change is made in the Wisconsin laws regulating assignments for benefit of creditors. After providing that an assignment with unlawful preferences shall be invalid as to them, but valid for all other purposes, and that such void preferences shall also be invalid as to creditors proving under the assignment, and that a judgment obtained, an attachment levied, or a garnishment made in collusion with a debtor shall be deemed a security given by him within the meaning of the law as to preferences the act of 1897 further provides that no assignment shall be void because of any defect, informality, or mistake in it, or in the bond, or in the list of creditors, and that no creditor shall, where a debtor has attempted to make an assignment, obtain any priority over other creditors by attachment, garnishment, or otherwise, in consequence of the assignment or any proceedings thereunder being declared void, but that all creditors shall prorate in the proceeds of the property thus attempted to be assigned, which shall be administered under the direction of the court by an assignee or a receiver. The law of 1897 then provides as follows: When the property of an insolvent debtor is attached, levied on, or garnisheed in favor of a creditor, the debtor may within ten days thereafter make an assignment of his property, and all such attachments, levies, garnishments, or other proceedings made or suffered within ten days before the assignment shall be dissolved, and the property attached or levied upon shall be turned over to the assignee or the receiver. When any insolvent debtor shall confess judgment, or do any act, or make any conveyance, or otherwise cause any of his creditors to obtain preference over the others, or if he shall not within ten days after levy of attachment, execution, or garnishment make an assignment of all his property for his creditors, or within such time institute bona fide proceedings to vacate the attachments or levies, then, or within thirty days thereafter, any two or more of his creditors whose claims, whether due or to become due, aggregate not less than $200, may make a petition to the circuit court in the county or circuit where the debtor resides, and at a hearing upon notice to the debtor and the creditor sought to be preferred, or their attorney of record, the court shall proceed summarily upon such petition to hear the parties and receive evidence, and if it shall appear to the court that the debtor is insolvent, and has been giving or is about to give a preference to any of his creditors, or has refused or neglected to make an assignment of his property, the court shall appoint a receiver who shall take possession of his property, including that attached or levied upon, and of all property conveyed in violation of this act, and shall have charge and control of the same and convert it into money, and distribute it pro rata among the creditors proving valid claims due or to become due, and the court shall order the debtor to file a correct inventory of his assets and a list of his creditors. Such receiver shall be subject to the general receivership laws of the State, and the court may order the debtor to do or to refrain from doing whatever is necessary to carry this act into effect. The provisions of the act do not apply to any payment or satisfaction, in whole or in part, of a past due debt made in the usual course of business without any intent on the part of the creditor to evade the provisions of this act. An insolvent person, within the meaning of the act, is defined to be one whose non-exempt property is insufficient in amount at a fair valuation to pay his debts, and the condition of the debtor at the time of making or attempting to make an assignment, or giving or attempting preferences shall determine his insolvency. This law has been construed by the Wisconsin supreme court not to affect a judgment note given before April 24, 1897, the time when the law was adopted.

Attachment (see Garnishment) may be had, on contracts, when indebtedness exceeds $50, for absconding from State or concealment in it, to avoid process; for fraudulent disposition or removal, actual or intended, of property; for fraudulent contraction of liability; for official defaults; or against a non-resident, or a foreign corporation. On torts, it may be had in the two latter cases. It may be had in justice court, when indebtedness exceeds $5, on the same grounds and also for residence of defendant over 100 miles away and in another county of this State. The writ issues only upon affidavit of the ground for it and of the debt or tort, and (except in justice court) a bond for $250 must go with it. The defendant may traverse or deny the ground for the writ, and if he succeeds on trial the writ is dismissed, but judgment (on proof of debt) given for plaintiff, less costs of attachment. Attachment may be had on a debt not due, if bond is given for thrice the debt; but on failure to sustain the writ, the action too fails. In case of traverse, allegations of affidavit must be strictly proved as questions of fact. The affidavit and the traverse of its allegations form an issue. Amendments of affidavits permitted. Attaching creditors do not prorate. (See Assignments for Benefit of Creditors.)

Banks. Banking laws and amendments are submitted to popular vote under a constitutional provision. Private banks may be organized under Sections 2,023d to 2,023g. State banks may be incorporated under the general banking laws of the State, collected and revised to 1898 as Section 2,024 of the Revised Statutes. Any persons, association, or corporation using the words "bank," "banking," or "banking house," are considered a private bank within the meaning of the laws of the State, and must make report under penalty to the State treasurer at the same time and in the same manner as required of State banks (2,023d). A statement of financial condition of banks must be published by the State treasurer in a newspaper published where the bank is located (2,023g). State banks may be formed by any number of persons who associate to establish offices of discount, deposits, and circulation under the State banking act; the aggregate capital stock shall not be less than $25,000 nor more than $500,000, and the bank must be located in a township containing not less than 200 voters, and is not allowed to use circulating notes exceeding in amount the amount of capital stock (Section 2,024, subd. 18). From banks of circulation, adequate security by deposit of bonds and public stock with the State treasurer is required before the issue of their bills; but federal legislation renders the careful provisions of the law in this respect practically a dead-letter. By recent acts the office of bank examiner has been created. A careful scrutiny of State banking is now provided for, the duties of the State bank examiner being in general analogous to those of the federal examiners of national banks. The State bank examiner must visit, without any previous notice, every bank in the State once each year, and at any other time he deems it necessary, and shall have free access to all records, books, securities, and papers, and may examine on oath any officer or employe as to the business of the bank. At least three times in the year every bank shall report to the examiner, upon a prescribed form, showing fully the condition of business, and the report shall be published in a newspaper in the county. No security but the individual liability of each stockholder to the amount of his stock is required from banks of deposit and discount only, but this liability remains for six months after disposal of stock, and by written declaration each stockholder may become individually liable for all the debts of the bank. The capital stock of a State bank in Wisconsin is not taxed, but the stockholders are assessed and taxed on the value of their shares of stock at the place where the bank is located and not elsewhere, and this provision applies to the stock of any national bank in Wisconsin. Shares of stock are deemed personal property and are transferable. The usual rules of interest and discount apply to State banks; 10 per cent is the highest contract rate, and 6 per cent the legal rate of interest.

Any State bank may change into a national banking association under the general banking laws of the United States on the written assent of stockholders, owning two-thirds of the capital stock, being filed in such bank. The organization may then be perfected by the directors under the laws of the United States, and thereafter all the property shall vest in the new association.

Savings banks may be organized by any number of persons not less than twenty to receive deposits and to loan for the benefit of depositors. They must file a certificate in writing stating the name of the association, of the corporators, and of the city, village, town, and county in which the savings bank is to be conducted. Not more than one-half of the deposits may be employed in loans on personal security and in purchase of the public stock or bonds of the United States, or of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, or of the authorized bonds of any incorporated city, village, town, or county in those States. All other loans must be secured by mortgage of unincumbered real estate lying in those States. No savings bank can invest any part of its deposits in the stock of any railroad company. Deposit in one year by any one person is limited to $1,000. No circulating notes or bills may be issued. Only the treasurer may receive salary, except when the deposits exceed $500,000 the president may receive a salary not exceeding $500. Any income must be divided semi-annually among the depositors to an amount not to exceed 6 per cent a year on their deposits. Surplus earnings above such amount must be divided once in three years.

It is made a misdemeanor by statute to issue a check with intent to defraud, when the maker has no funds on deposit.

Bills of Lading. Bills of lading, warehouse receipts, and vouchers are transferable by delivery, without indorsement or assignment, and any person to whom the same is so transferred shall be deemed and taken to be the owner of the property therein specified, so far as to give validity to any pledge, lien or transfer made or created by such person, unless such receipt, bill of lading, voucher or other document shall have the words "non-negotiable" plainly written or stamped on the face thereof. Fraudulently issuing duplicate receipts or bills is made punishable by imprisonment.

Bills of Sale. (See Sales.)

Chattel Mortgages must be filed in town or city clerk's office, or actual possession must be taken and kept by mortgagee, to make them good against third parties; and, when filed, they must be renewed by filing affidavit of amount unpaid within thirty days before the expiration of every two years from date. If on household furniture or exempt chattels (see Exemptions), they are invalid without the wife's signature before two witnesses. If on stocks of merchandise, the mortgagor every sixty days must file a verified statement of amount sold, payments made, and new stock added; if this statement is not so filed, the mortgage becomes due between the parties and invalid as to third parties fifteen days afterward. Foreclosure sales can not be had without mortgagor's consent, and the goods can not be removed from the county within five days after seizure. On satisfaction of mortgage, certificate of mortgagee may be filed and original mortgage removed from files. Interest is limited to 10 per cent per annum; and all fees for renewals, etc., limited to 14 per cent per annum. (Chap. 327, Laws 1895.)

Collaterals and Pledges. When goods and chattels shall be pledged or mortgaged for the payment of money, or the performance of any contract or agreement, the right and interest in such goods of the person making such pledge or mortgage may be sold on execution against him, and the purchaser shall acquire all his right and interest, and shall be entitled to the possession of such goods and chattels on complying with the terms and conditions of the pledge or mortgage, but the officer shall not take such property out of the possession of the pledgee or mortgagee when the judgment debtor is not entitled to the possession thereof, unless the judgment creditor or purchaser shall have first complied with the terms and conditions of such pledge or mortgage.

Commercial Travelers do not have to pay State or local licenses if selling only from sample in usual way to dealers; but all persons traveling about selling at retail to consumers (excepting manufacturers and mechanics selling their own production) shall pay license fees of thirty dollars and upwards.

Corporations, Associations, and Partnerships. Under the revision of 1893 it is provided that no corporation, joint stock company, express company, or common law partnership, incorporated or organized otherwise than under the laws of this State, except corporations or associations created solely for religious or charitable purposes, insurance companies, and fraternal or beneficiary corporations, societies, orders, and associations furnishing life or casualty insurance or indemnity upon the mutual or assessment plan, shall transact business, or acquire, hold, or dispose of property in this State until such association, company, partnership, or corporations shall have caused to be filed in the office of the Secretary of State a duly authenticated copy of its charter, articles of association or incorporation, or of co-partnership, and all amendments thereto which may be made while it shall continue to do business therein. Organizations complying with this rule shall be deemed to have appointed the Secretary of State their attorney, upon whom all process may be made arising out of business transactions in this State, and the Secretary of State shall mail a copy thereof addressed to such organization. Violation of this rule subjects the organization to a penalty of $5 00 for the first offense, and $1,000 for every subsequent violation, and invalidates all contracts made by any such organization or partnership failing to comply with this rule, but such contracts may be enforcible against it or them. Corporations organized in Wisconsin must file list of officers with register of deeds of county where corporation is located, and list of changes in officers as made. If not so filed process may be served on corporation by service on Register of Deeds.

Days of Grace are abolished by statute.

Deeds. (See Acknowledgments.) Deeds and mortgages must be sealed (with scroll or "L. S.") and have two witnesses and be duly acknowledged. An unrecorded deed or mortgage is void as against a bona fide purchaser without notice, but good as against a subsequent judgment or attachment. Deeds and like instruments for record must be acknowledged within the State before any judge, or clerk of court of record, court commissioner, county clerk, register of deeds, notary public or justice of the peace; without the State, according to either the local law or the Wisconsin law, before a notary with seal or other officer of such State, Territory or District duly authorized by the laws thereof to take such proof; clerk's certificate should be attached. (See Married Women.)

Depositions. The deponent shall be sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, relating to the action, proceeding, or matter for which his testimony is taken, and his evidence shall be taken in writing. The officer taking the same must insert therein every answer or declaration of the witness which either party requires to be inserted; in depositions taken by oral interrogatories, every interrogatory shall be reduced to writing. When completed, the deposition shall be carefully read to witness and he shall subscribe the same. The depositions shall in all cases be delivered or transmitted to the clerk of the court, the magistrate, or other person before whom the action, proceeding, or matter is pending, securely sealed. Objections which go to the form or order of a question should be noted in the deposition before it is answered. The party producing the deponent shall, in all cases, be allowed first to examine him, either upon verbal or written interrogatories, on all points which he shall deem material; and then the adverse party may examine the deponent in like manner; after which either party may propose such further interrogatories as the case may require. The deposition shall be written out by the justice or other officer by whom the same is taken, or by the deponent, or by some disinterested person in the presence and under the direction of the justice or officer. When a regular commission issues from a court of record, and interrogatories are filed, the following statutory rules prevail: Sec. 4115, R. S., 1878—The commissioner named in the direct interrogatories shall fix the time and place for executing the commission, and give the other commissioner, if any, one day's notice thereof, when he resides in the same place and when not, one day's notice in addition for every thirty miles of distance between the place of his residence and the place fixed for executing the commission. If the notice be by mail double time shall be allowed; but notice may be waived in writing or by appearance at the execution of the commission. If there be two commissioners, the place for executing the commission shall be fixed in the county where they reside, unless they agree upon another. The commissioner named in the direct interrogatories shall have charge of and return the depositions. RULE XVIII, Sec. 4—On the receipt of the commission by the commissioner named in the direct interrogatories, he shall fix a time and place for executing it, and notify the other commissioner, if any there be, under the provisions of Section 4115 of the Revised Statutes, unless such notice be waived in writing or by his appearance at the execution of the commission. At the time and place so fixed the commissioner or commissioners shall proceed to execute such commission in accordance with said section 4115, and sections 4, 5, and 6 of this rule, copies whereof shall be transmitted with the commission for their instruction. If either of the commissioners shall not attend at the time and place so fixed, the other may proceed to execute the same with like effect as if both were present; but he must certify in his return that the commissioner so absent had due notice of the time and place of executing the same, and that he failed to attend pursuant thereto. Sec. 5. The commissioner or commissioners shall proceed to execute same as follows: The commissioners, or one of them, shall publicly administer an oath to each witness named in the commission, that the answers which he shall make to each of the interrogatories propounded to him shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Each interrogatory, direct and cross, shall be propounded to him, and his answer thereto be correctly reduced to writing, and, with any exhibit thereto, be annexed to and returned with the commission. Each witness shall subscribe his name at the end of his answers to the interrogatories, and the commissioner or commissioners shall subscribe his or their names at the foot of each page of the testimony. If any exhibit is produced and proved, or referred to in the answer of any witness, it shall be marked as an exhibit by some convenient designation, either by letter or number, by the commissioners, or one of them, and be referred to in the testimony of the witness, and shall be annexed to and returned with the depositions. If the paper be a record or other document not in the control of the party or the commissioner, it shall be sufficient to annex a copy, stated by the witness in his answer to be a true copy thereof. The commissioner or commissioners shall certify in their return that each witness was duly sworn or affirmed before giving his evidence, and shall also state the time when the testimony was taken. The return of the commissioner or commissioners shall be indorsed on the commission. Sec. 6. When the answers to all the interrogatories and exhibits thereto, if any, shall have been so signed and annexed to the commission upon which the return shall be indorsed, the proper commissioner shall inclose the same in a suitable envelope, which shall be properly sealed, and direct the same to the clerk of the court from which the commission issued, at his place of office, with the title of the action indorsed thereon, and the package shall be immediately transmitted to him by mail or express.

Descent and Distribution. Realty (except homestead, q. v.), undevised, descends to: 1. Children and their issue, if all are in the same degree; else by right of representation. 2. Widow or husband surviving. 3. Parents, or survivor of them. 4. Brothers and sisters, or if deceased, their issue by right of representation. 5. Other next of kin in equal degree. All realty owned in husband's life is subject to dower, unless barred by wife's assent to deed, or by a jointure or provision by will accepted in lieu of it; and all owned by wife at death and not devised by her or descended to issue by a former husband is subject to a tenancy by the curtesy. Acceptance by widow of jointure or provision is presumed unless she gives notice of refusal within one year. A non-resident wife is dowable only of lands owned by husband at decease. Tenancy by curtesy is independent of issue. Personalty is distributed by rule—widow entitled to same share as a child. If no issue, all property goes to surviving husband or wife.

Evidence. There is no disqualification of a party as a witness, except as to transactions, etc., with a dead or insane person, for or under whom the opponent sues or defends, and usual rules in case of coverture or confidential relations.

Executions from justice court may be stayed by bond for periods varying with amount; from a court of record only by security on appeal. There is no lien on chattels till levy and sale is on twenty days' notice. On realty, lien begins with docket of judgment or transcript from justice, or record court, in circuit court clerk's office of the county where the land lies; all papers or certified copy may be filed in county where land lies for enforcement of judgment. Sale is had on six weeks' notice, and sheriff's deed absolute issues after fifteen months without redemption. Supplementary proceedings lie after issue of execution and before or after return unsatisfied. Execution is issued, as of course, in favor of judgment creditor or his assignee, within five years after judgment; after five years, only on authority from the court.

Exemptions. (See Homestead.) Exempt chattels are clothing, bedding, stoves, cooking utensils and other furniture to value of $200; library; two cows, ten swine, two horses or mules (or one of either and a yoke of oxen), ten sheep and their wool, and a year's food for all exempt live stock; a wagon, a sleigh, a dray, a plow and $200 worth of other farm tools or tackle for teams; a year's provisions for debtor and family; tools and implements, or stock in trade, or both, up to $200; sewing machines for family use; printing materials and presses of a printer or publisher up to $1,500 (except that as to claims of laborers and servants for services, only $400 shall be exempt); patents, owned by the inventor; three months' earnings (not over $60 a month), if the debtor has a family to support; and all insurance money on exemptions. Most of these exemptions avail residents only. Corporations have no exemptions. Partners, however many, may take exemptions as individuals from joint assets. None of above property exempt from execution or attachment in action for purchase money of the same property. If husband does not select exemptions, wife may.

False Pretenses may be committed by word or writing, and are punishable by fine or imprisonment.

Garnishment. (See Attachment.) This remedy lies, whenever attachment does, in any court, upon affidavit for it showing indebtedness and the debtor's lack of sufficient non-exempt assets to satisfy it. No undertaking is required. This is a common mode (as less costly than attachment) of testing an alleged fraudulent transfer or invalid assignment for creditors. All garnishees may be united in one summons, and be deemed severally proceeded against unless otherwise specified; money garnisheed must be paid into court; property garnisheed may be released on giving sufficient undertaking. Answer of garnishee is conclusive unless issue taken thereon. If so taken, security for costs may be demanded and trial had as in other actions, and examination of garnishee allowed. Garnishment may be released by proper undertaking in lieu thereof.

Holidays. First day of January, twenty-second day of February, fourth day of July, twenty-fifth day of December, thirtieth day of May, Thanksgiving Day, and general election day are legal holidays by statute, and whenever either of said days shall fall on Sunday the succeeding Monday is a legal holiday. A legal holiday known as "labor day" may be set apart by governor, and the first Monday of September is regularly so set apart.

Homestead. (See Exemptions.) Real estate of whatever value, not over one-quarter acre in a city or village, or forty acres for agriculture in the country, is exempt to the actually resident owner. So, too, of its insurance, when burned, or its proceeds when sold, and held not over two years for purchase of a new one. But it is subject to mechanics' and mortgage liens, created with the wife's assent, and it can not be conveyed without her signature (except that purchase money mortgage is good without wife's signature). On death of owner (unless widow is otherwise provided for to her satisfaction) it goes to her for life or widowhood; then, as other realty, to the heirs. (See Descent, etc.)

Insolvency. (See Assignments for Creditors.) An insolvent, independently of an assignment for his creditors, may procure a discharge as to creditors within (but not without) the State, by surrender of all non-exempt property, and on petition. The property is distributed to creditors through an assignee. On notice to creditors, and an examination of the debtor, in the absence of fraud, the discharge is granted.

Interest. The legal rate is 6 per cent; maximum contract rate, 10. Usury (except in bottomry and respondentia bonds) forfeits the whole interest if not yet paid; if paid, treble the unlawful excess may be recovered by suit within a year.

Judgments. (See Executions and Limitations of Actions.) Judgments in circuit court keep debts alive for twenty years, are liens on land for ten years, and bear legal interest. Judgments of foreclosure bear interest at rate stated in mortgage note, but shall not exceed the minimum rate of interest, i. e. 6 per cent. Transcripts of judgments recovered in justice court may be docketed in circuit court and thus become a lien. Judgments may be satisfied by attorney or judgment creditor within five years; afterward by judgment creditor only.

Limitations of Action are these: On sealed instrument, when cause of action accrues within the State, twenty years; when it accrues without the State, or on equitable cause of action, or a foreign judgment, ten years; on a municipal bond or other contract even when sealed, on any unsealed contract or liability at law, or trespass, trover, or replevin, six years; on action against a sheriff or other officer for violation of duty, three years; on action for a penalty or forfeiture, or for an injury to person or character, two years; on an action for equitable relief against fraud, within six years after discovery of the facts constituting the fraud; on an action for recovery of realty, ten years after the adverse possession begins, where occupant claims under a paper title; otherwise, twenty years. Absence from State, after cause of action accrued, suspends running of statute as does part payment, infancy, insanity, or imprisonment. In case of injury to person, no action can be brought unless notice in writing given within one year from time of injury, describing it and grounds on which claim is made, and there is a similar provision as to actions against railway companies for fires and injuries to animals.

Limited Partnerships. (See Partnerships.)

Married Women (see Chattel Mortgages, Homestead) have in general the same rights as other adults, except that they can not become liable as sureties without an express charge of the debt on their separate estate. A deed by a married woman without her husband's signature passes her entire estate in land, free of his tenancy by the curtesy. By statute she can deal with her husband in exchanging property, as with any other person. Women become of legal age at 21 years, but married women can make will at 18.

Mechanics' Liens. Any realty whereon labor or materials are used or furnished for any construction, repairs, or improvement is subject to a mechanic's lien thereon—limited to one acre in a city or village, and to forty acres elsewhere. The lien must be preserved by filing a petition in the circuit court, within six months after the date of the last item of work or materials, and by a suit to foreclose the lien within a year from the date of said item. Machinery may be removed in lieu of a sale of the land for the debt. The lien covers only the interest in the title of the person incurring the lien debt; but it is paramount to all other liens, securities, or transfers after date of first labor or materials furnished, even though such liens, etc., were made of record before the lien petition was filed. Mechanics' liens prorate from the proceeds, irrespective of order of origin or filing of their liens. A sub-contractor has the same right of lien, if he gives notice of his claim to the owner within sixty days after date of last item of work or materials. Liens may be assigned.

Mortgages. (See Chattel Mortgages, Deeds.)

Partnerships. There is no statutory regulation of general partnerships. Limited ones may be formed, to consist of general partners and special partners. The latter contribute a stated amount of capital and are liable for no losses beyond that. Public notice must be given of the formation of the firm, its members' names, their contributions of capital, etc.; the special partners must pay all their shares in cash, and must be strictly non-participating—else they become liable as general partners, but may examine into business and advise as to its management.

Probate Law. The jurisdiction of the county courts extends to probate of wills, granting of letters testamentary and of administration on the estates of all persons deceased, who were, at the time of their decease, inhabitants or residents of the same county, or had property in such county to be administered. Such jurisdiction also extends to appointment of guardians and trustees, and settlement and control of estates of minors and persons under guardianship. (See Administrators.)

Promissory Notes and Bills. By Chapter 356, Laws of 1899, the so-called Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act became the law in Wisconsin. Its general effect is to strengthen decidedly the negotiable character of commercial paper. The following are the principal changes in the Wisconsin law: 1. Protest may be made but is not necessary except in case of foreign bills of exchange. 2. If a place of payment is specified in the note it must be presented at that place. 3. The fact that a note is to be paid with exchange, with costs of collection or with attorney's fees, or bears a seal, does not affect its negotiability. 4. A holder who derives his title through a holder in due course and who is not himself a party to any fraud, duress, or illegality affecting the instrument, has all the rights of such former holder in respect to all parties prior to such holder. 5. An instrument obtained by fraud, duress, force, or fear, or based upon an illegal consideration, is defective instead of void, but if the maker did not know the nature of the instrument, and could not have obtained such knowledge by the use of ordinary care, the title of the holder is absolutely void. Warehouse receipts are negotiable unless expressed not to be. Municipal orders, bonds, etc., are not negotiable unless expressly authorized by law. Days of grace are abolished. Damages on foreign bills 5 per cent, with costs and charges of protest. One action may be brought against all parties liable on a note or bill. Negotiable paper maturing on Sunday or holiday becomes due on the next succeeding secular or business day. Acceptance must be in writing and signed by the drawer, and if acceptance is not written on the bill when requested the bill may be treated as dishonored. Notes, bonds, or other contracts based in part or wholly upon money staked, lost, or won on gambling are absolutely void. Sections 176 and 1675 to 1684, inclusive, of the Revised Statutes of 1898 are repealed.

Replevin. Specific personalty may be recovered by this action, on an affidavit by or for plaintiff showing his title or right of possession and defendant's wrongful detention or taking. The limit of jurisdiction in justice court is $200. All cases above that must be in courts of record. Security in double its value for return of property and payment of damages is required in the latter but not in the former courts; and the defendant can regain possession of the property pending the suit by due security in his turn. In case of contest, allegations of affidavit must be proved as questions of fact.

Sales are prima facie invalid, unless accompanied by immediate and continued change of possession. Unless the vendee proves his good faith this presumption is absolute. Installment leases and contracts for sale reserving title to vendor till full payment must be written, and filed like chattel mortgages. (See Chattel Mortgages.) "Futures" in grain, etc., are void if intended by both parties only as a wager on prices; else, valid.

Statute of Frauds. Instruments affecting title or possession of realty must be in writing signed by grantor or his agent. Agreements not to be performed within a year, and those of suretyship, must be in writing, expressing the consideration and signed by the party to be charged. Contracts of sale for $50 or over are void unless written or there is partial delivery or payment.

Supplementary Proceedings. (See Executions.)

Taxes are levied about December 10, and must be paid about January 20, or interest and costs are incurred. If taxes not paid, and land not previously redeemed, the land is returned delinquent to county treasurer and sold on third Tuesday of May. The tax certificate issued therefor bears 15 per cent interest, and after three years (unless sooner redeemed) a deed is issued to the purchaser, which is absolute and cuts off all prior title. By recent statute (Laws of 1899, Chap. 355) a tax of 1 per cent in case of direct heirs and 5 per cent in case of collaterals is levied on gifts and inheritances of personal property of the value of $10,000 or over.

Wills. Any person over twenty-one and a married woman over eighteen years, of sound mind, may make a will, which must be signed by testator, or in his presence and at his request, and also attested and subscribed by two witnesses in his presence and at his request, and in the presence of each other. Nuncupative wills under certain strict conditions are allowed. Revocation is by usual modes of destruction or by writing executed under the formalities of a will.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF WYOMING

RELATING TO

Prepared and Revised by E. W. MANN, Esq., Attorney at Law, Cheyenne. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. Parties commencing actions upon accounts for goods sold are required to furnish an itemized statement of such accounts to be attached to and filed with the pleadings. There is no provision in the law for a form of affidavit with which to make proof of a claim of that character, if the defendant makes default.

Acknowledgments must be made before a judge or clerk of a court of record, or before any county clerk, notary public, justice of the peace, or United States court commissioner, within this State. If made out of the State, before any officer authorized, by the State or Territory in which it is made, to take acknowledgments, before the clerk of any court of record, or before any commissioner appointed by the governor of this State for such purpose, provided that if such acknowledgment is not made before an officer having a seal, it must have attached thereto a certificate of the clerk of a court of record, or a county clerk of the same place, having a seal, certifying that the officer taking the acknowledgment is authorized to take the same, and that he believes that the signature appended to the acknowledgment is genuine. Every notary public, justice of the peace, and commissioner of deeds for Wyoming, who takes an acknowledgment to any written instrument to be recorded in any public office in Wyoming, shall add to his certificate the date when his commission or term of office expires. Conveyances must be signed in the presence of one subscribing witness. If any deeds, mortgages, or conveyances of lands, or of any interest in lands, be executed in any foreign country, government, kingdom, or empire, such deed, mortgage, or conveyance of land may be executed according to the laws of this State, and may be acknowledged before a consul general, consul, or vice-consul of the United States; and when so acknowledged the officer taking the acknowledgment shall certify the same over his hand and official seal, or the seal of the consulate to which he is attached, if there be any such seal; and in case he has no official seal, and there be no seal of his consulate, that fact shall be stated in the certificate; and no other or further authentication shall be required to entitle such instrument to record in this State. This provision shall also apply to powers of attorney executed in any such foreign country, government, kingdom, or empire.

Actions. The distinction between an action at law and a suit in equity is abolished and the district courts of the various counties have a general common law and equity jurisdiction. Justices of the peace have jurisdiction, except in cases where the title to land comes into controversy, to the amount of $200. Non-residents of the State are required to furnish security for costs if application is made for that purpose, or to pay the costs of the action as they accrue. (See also Courts and Suits.)

Administration of Estates. All probate jurisdiction is vested in the district court of the county of decedent's domicile, or in the case of a non-resident, of the place where his property or the greater portion thereof is situated. Administrators, executors and guardians are appointed on petition and notice, the surviving husband, or wife, having preference of appointment ordinarily. Administrators and executors are required to furnish security to an amount equal to double the value of the personal property and the rents, issues and profits of the real estate. Guardians are required to give bond in such sum as may be prescribed by the court. Foreign executors can act here upon filing proof of their appointment as executor, and of the admission of the will to probate in the foreign jurisdiction. Administrators and executors are entitled to possession of all real and personal property and the income of all realty, except the homestead, during the period of administration. Claims against the estate of a deceased person should be presented to the executor, or administrator, for allowance within six months from the date of the letters testamentary, or of administration, and if such claims are not presented for allowance within one year from the date of such letters, they are barred. The law prescribes a form of affidavit to be made for proof of claims. Property exempt under the State exemption laws is applied to the support of the surviving husband or wife, and minor children of the deceased, and cannot be applied in payment of debts due from the deceased. Expenses of administration, last sickness and funeral constitute preferred claims. If the estate of the deceased does not exceed in value $1,500, the court is required to assign and set apart for the use of the widow and minor children, if any, the whole of said estate, after the payment of the expenses of the last illness of the deceased, funeral charges and expenses of administration, and no further administration is required.

Affidavits. Affidavits may be made before any officer authorized to administer oaths.

Aliens. The State constitution provides that no distinction shall ever be made by law between resident aliens and citizens as to the possession, taxation, enjoyment, and descent of property.

Appeals. Appeals may be taken to the supreme court directly from the district court, regardless of the amount involved, within two years from entry of judgment. Bills of exception must be settled either at the term of court at which the action is tried, or not later than the first day of the next succeeding regular term of court. The plaintiff in error must pay a sufficient amount to the clerk of the supreme court to secure the costs of the proceedings in error. If it is desired to stay execution pending the appeal, then an undertaking for that purpose must be given. Appeals may be taken from the judgment of a justice of the peace to the district court of the proper county within fifteen days after the rendition of judgment. The appellant is required either to pay all the costs of the cause appealed up to the time of the transmission of the papers to the district court, or to give bond in double the amount of such costs to the effect that he will pay the same in case judgment is rendered against him therefor in the district court, and such undertaking may be included in the undertaking provided for in case the appellant wishes to stay execution during pendency of the appeal. The case is tried de novo in the district court.

Arbitration. The law provides that all persons who have any controversy, except those relating to the possession or title to real estate, may submit such controversy to the arbitrament, or umpirage, of any person, or persons, to be mutually agreed upon by the parties, and they may make such submission a rule of any court of record in the State. The law further provides for process to compel the attendance of witnesses before the arbitrators, and for the enforcement of the award of the arbitrators when one is made.

Arrest and Bail. Arrest of the defendant in civil actions may be made on grounds very similar in character to those upon which a writ of attachment may be issued against the property of the defendant. The order for arrest of the defendant shall be made by the clerk of court in which the action is brought, when there is filed in his office an affidavit of the plaintiff, his authorized agent or attorney, stating the nature of the plaintiff's claim; that it is just, and the amount thereof, as nearly as may be, and establishing one or more of the grounds for which an arrest is sought. The affidavit shall also contain the statement of facts claimed to justify the belief in the existence of one or more of such particulars. The order of arrest shall not be issued by the clerk until there is executed by sufficient surety of the plaintiff a written undertaking to the effect that the plaintiff will pay to the defendant all damages not exceeding double the amount of the plaintiff's claim stated in the affidavit which he may sustain by reason of the arrest if the order prove to have been wrongfully obtained. The defendant may be released upon payment by depositing with the sheriff, or in court, an amount equal to double the claim of the plaintiff, or by giving bail for that amount, as provided by law.

Assignments and Insolvency. An insolvent debtor may make an assignment in good faith to one or more assignees for satisfaction of creditors. No preference of creditors or payment of false or fraudulent claims is allowed. The assignment must be in writing, executed according to the laws of the State, and must be filed and recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the assignor resides, or has his principal place of business, if he be a non-resident of Wyoming. Within fifteen days after the execution of any such assignment the assignee shall file a certified copy of the assignment and schedule in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county in which the debtor resides, or does business, and shall, before entering upon the execution of his trust, make oath that he will faithfully execute the same, and shall at the same time file with the clerk a written undertaking to the State of Wyoming, with at least one sufficient surety, in a sum double the value of the property assigned conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of his trust. The assignee then proceeds to close up the estate, convert the property into money, and make distribution to creditors. The district court exercises a supervisory power over the acts of the assignee. The judge of the district court may remove an assignee for good cause shown, or appoint a new assignee in case of a vacancy in the position. Any creditor accepting from the assignee his dividend shall release the assignor from all further liability for the debt on which payment was made. Claims of creditors must be presented to the assignee within six months after the date of the first publication of the notice of the appointment of the assignee. Wages due to employes of the assignor for three months prior to the date of assignment constitute preferred claims against the estate and must be paid first.

Attachments may issue against the property of persons who are non-residents of this State or are about to become non-residents or a foreign corporation; or when the defendant has absconded with intent to defraud his creditors; or has left the county of his residence to avoid the service of summons; or so conceals himself that a summons an not be served upon him; or is about to remove his property or a part thereof out of the jurisdiction of the court with intent to defraud his creditors; or is about to convert his property or a part thereof into money for the purpose of placing it beyond the reach of his creditors; or has property or rights in action which he conceals; or has assigned, removed, disposed of, or is about to dispose of his property or a part thereof with intent to defraud his creditors; or has fraudulently or criminally contracted the debt or incurred the obligation for which suit is about to be or has been brought. In order to obtain an attachment, the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, must make affidavit showing the nature of the plaintiff's claim, that it is just, the amount which the affiant believes that the plaintiff ought to recover, and the existence of any one of the grounds for attachment mentioned above, or that the affiant has good reason to believe and does believe that some one or more of said grounds (stating which ones) exists. The plaintiff must also give an undertaking with sufficient surety, who must be a resident property holder in the State, and be approved by the clerk of the court by whom the order of attachment is issued, in a sum equal to double the amount of the plaintiff's claim, to the effect that the plaintiff shall pay the defendant all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment if the order prove to have been wrongfully obtained. Garnishee process may be had in aid of attachment. A creditor may bring an action upon a claim before it is due and have attachment against the property of the debtor when a debtor has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of his property with a fraudulent intent to cheat or defraud his creditors or to hinder or delay them in the collection of their debts; or is about to make such sale, conveyance, or disposition of his property with such fraudulent intent; or is about to remove his property or a material part thereof with the intent or to the effect of cheating or defrauding his creditors or hindering or delaying them in the collection of their debts; or where the defendant is about to become a non-resident of the State. An attachment authorized in case of a debt not yet due may be granted by the court in which the action is brought or by a judge thereof, but an affidavit and undertaking of the creditor similar to those required for attachment in case of a debt past due must be executed before the writ of attachment will be issued.

Banks. The legislature is prohibited from passing local or special laws chartering banks, insurance companies, and loan and trust companies. There is in the law a provision that shares of stock in National and other banks are subject to taxation, and certain provisions in the civil code in relation to a course of procedure for the purpose of preventing a banking corporation or its trustees or directors from making an improper disposition of the funds or other property of the bank, or violating any franchise of the corporation. All banks except National banks are required to make full statements at the end of each quarter, showing, under appropriate heads and in details, their resources and liabilities. The quarters end on the last days of March, June, September, and December, in each year. The statement is required to be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the bank does business and in the office of the auditor of the State. In the case of a corporation, the report must be published in a newspaper. It is unlawful for a bank to receive deposits when insolvent.

Provision is made under the State law for the organization, management, and control of banks, banking associations, savings banks, and loan and trust companies. It is made the duty of the State examiner to examine and report upon the condition of all banks incorporated under State law once a year.

Bills of Exchange. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Bills of Lading. There is no statute specially relating to bills of lading.

Chattel Mortgages. Chattel mortgages are required by law to be executed and acknowledged in the same manner as mortgages of real estate. They are required to be filed, but not recorded, in the office of the county clerk of the county where the mortgaged property is situated. The lien of the chattel mortgage continues until the indebtedness thereby secured, or the last installment thereof, becomes due, and for sixty days thereafter. After that time it continues in force as between the parties thereto, but it ceases to be valid as against the creditors of the mortgagee and as against subsequent purchasers, or mortgagees, in good faith. The chattel mortgage may be renewed by filing, during the period of sixty days, an affidavit setting forth the amount still due and unpaid of the original indebtedness. This affidavit, when filed in the office of the county clerk, continues the lien of the mortgage in force for a period of one year, and a similar affidavit may be filed within sixty days after the end of the said period of one year, and each year thereafter, by means of which the lien of the mortgage is continued in force. Chattel mortgages are foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged property, notice of which must be given by publication once each week for three successive weeks in a weekly newspaper published in the county in which the sale shall take place, or by posting notices in three public places in said county, if no newspaper is published therein. Contracts or leases providing for the sale of personal property dependent upon conditions are required to be in writing, signed by the vendee, or lessee, and filed in the office of the county clerk of the county where the property is.

Collaterals. There is no statute relating expressly to collaterals.

Contracts. Gambling contracts and contracts for alien labor are void under the statute, and contracts releasing employer from liability to employe for injuries. Under the statute relating to frauds and perjuries the following contracts, or some note, or memorandum thereof, are required to be in writing and subscribed by the party to be charged therewith: Every contract that by its terms is not to be performed within one year from the making thereof; every special promise to answer for the debts, default, or miscarriage of another person; every agreement, promise, or undertaking made upon consideration of marriage, except mutual promises to marry; every special promise by an executor or administrator to answer any demand out of his own estate; every agreement or contract for the sale of real estate, or the lease thereof, for more than one year; to charge any person upon, or by reason of a representation or assurance concerning the character, conduct, credit, ability, trade, or dealing of another, to the intent, or purpose, that such other may obtain thereby credit, money, or goods. Every contract for the sale of any goods, chattels, or things in action for the price of $50, or more, shall be void unless a note or memorandum of such contract is made in writing and be subscribed by the party to be charged thereby, or unless the buyer shall accept and receive part of such goods, or the evidences or some of them of such things in action, or unless the buyer shall at the time pay some part of the purchase money.

Conveyances. (See Acknowledgments and Mortgages.)

Corporations. Corporations may be formed by three or more persons for the purpose of carrying on manufacturing, mining, commercial, and other kinds of business, and also constructing wagon roads, railroads, telegraph lines, irrigating ditches, dealing in real estate, etc., and the incorporators are required to sign and acknowledge before some officer competent to take the acknowledgment of deeds duplicate certificates in writing, in which shall be stated the corporate name of said company, the object for which the company shall be formed, the amount of capital stock of said company, the term of existence (not to exceed fifty years), the number of shares of which the said stock shall consist, the number of trustees, and their names, who shall manage the concerns of the company for the first year, and the name of the town and county in which the operations of said company are to be carried on. One of the certificates must be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county wherein the business of the company is to be carried on and the other in the office of the secretary of State. If three or more persons desire to form a company the object of which shall be to aid in the industrial or productive interests of the country, but without any purpose of direct gain to itself, then, in such case, such company shall not have a capital stock, and the certificate of incorporation shall so state, giving the reason therefor. The number of trustees for a corporation is not less than three nor more than nine, and the trustees must be stockholders in the company. The capital stock of domestic corporations shall not be taxed.

Courts. Terms and Jurisdiction. The Supreme court holds two regular terms annually at the capital of the State. Its business is principally of an appellate character. District court is held twice a year in each organized county, except Big Horn county, where it is held once a year. Said court has full common law and chancery powers. It has also exclusive jurisdiction in all probate matters and the administration, settlement, and distribution of the estates of deceased persons. Justices of the peace have jurisdiction in civil actions where the amount in controversy, exclusive of costs, does not exceed $200.

Days of Grace. Except as otherwise provided by statute, the three days following the day on which a negotiable instrument becomes due by its terms, are allowed as days of grace, unless the last of such days is Sunday or a legal holiday, in which case the next preceding business day shall be the last day of grace allowed. Negotiable instruments payable either immediately, or on demand, and bank notes, cheques, certificates of deposit, and bonds are not entitled to days of grace.

Depositions. The Code of Civil Procedure makes provision for taking depositions upon commissions to which are to be attached interrogatories and cross-interrogatories, but the law is not very specific in regard to the method of taking depositions in this way. Definite provision is made for taking depositions in actions pending in the district court upon notice to be served upon the opposite party, or his attorney of record. The notice must be served in time to allow the adverse party sufficient time, exclusive of Sunday, the day of service, and one day of preparation to travel, with the usual route and modes of conveyance to the place named in the notice, which must state the time and place of taking the depositions. Depositions may be taken before any officer authorized to administer oaths. The officer taking the depositions must annex thereto a certificate showing that the witness was first sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; that the deposition was reduced to writing by some proper person, naming him; that the deposition was written and subscribed in the presence of the officer certifying thereto, and that the deposition was taken at the time and place specified in the notice. Depositions cannot be taken by a relative or attorney of either party to the case, or one who is otherwise interested in the event of the action or proceeding.

Descent and Distribution. In the case of parties owning property, dying and leaving no will, distribution of the estate is made as follows: If such intestate leave a husband, or wife, and children, or the descendants of any children, him or her surviving, one-half of such estate shall descend to such surviving husband or wife, and the residue thereof to such surviving children and descendants of children, as limited by law; if such intestate leave a husband, or wife, and no child, nor descendants of any child, then the real and personal estate of such intestate shall descend as follows, to wit: Three-fourths thereof to such surviving husband or wife, and one-fourth thereof to the father and mother of the intestate, or the survivor of them; provided, that the estate of such intestate, real and personal, does not exceed in value the sum of $10,000, and such intestate have a husband or wife and no child nor descendants of any child, then the whole thereof shall descend to and vest in the surviving husband or wife, as his or her absolute estate, subject to the payment of the debts of the intestate. Except in cases above enumerated the estate of any intestate descends and is distributed as follows: First, to his children surviving and the descendants of his children, who are dead (the descendants, collectively, taking the share which their parents would have taken if living.) Second, if there be no children, nor their descendants, then to his father, mother, brothers and sisters, and to the descendants of brothers and sisters who are dead (the descendants, collectively, taking the share their parents would have taken if living), in equal parts. Third, if there be no children nor their descendants, nor father, mother, brothers, sisters, nor descendants of deceased brothers or sisters, nor husband nor wife, living, then to the grandfather, grandmother, uncles, aunts, and their descendants (the descendants taking, collectively, the share of their immediate ancestors), in equal parts.

Divorce. Divorces are granted by the district court of the county where the parties, or one of them, reside, on the application of the aggrieved party in either of the following cases: 1. Adultery. 2. Physical incompetency at time of marriage, when same is continued to time of divorce. 3. Conviction of a felony and sentence therefor. 4. Willful desertion for the term of one year. 5. Habitual drunkenness. 6. Extreme cruelty. 7. When the husband for a period of one year has neglected to provide the common necessaries of life, and such neglect is not the result of poverty on his part which he could not avoid by ordinary industry. 8. When either party shall offer such indignities to each other as shall render his or her condition intolerable. 9. When the husband shall be guilty of such conduct as to constitute him a vagrant within the meaning of the law respecting vagrancy. 10. Conviction of one party of felony prior to marriage, when such fact was not known to the other party at the time of such marriage. 11 Pregnancy of the wife at the time of marriage by any man, not her intended husband, and without his knowledge. The party applying for the divorce must have resided in the State at least six months before commencing suit, unless the marriage was solemnized in the State, and the applicant shall have resided therein from the time of marriage to the time of filing the petition. No divorce is granted in any case where it appears that there was collusion between the parties to procure the same, nor when the party complaining is guilty of the same crime or misconduct charged against the other party.

Dower. Under the Territorial law formerly in existence and which has never been repealed, dower was abolished, and since the admission of Wyoming as a State no law has been enacted on that subject.

Execution may issue immediately after judgment rendered, and is returnable in sixty days from a court of record, and thirty days when issued by a Justice of the Peace. Provision is made for a stay of execution in justices' courts, for a period of thirty days on a judgment not exceeding $50, exclusive of costs, or a stay of four months on a judgment of $50 and not more than $100, exclusive of costs, and a stay of six months on a judgment in excess of $100, exclusive of costs. Provision is also made for a stay of execution in the district court for a period of six months from the time of the entry of judgment by the judgment debtor procuring one or more freehold sureties to enter into his recognizance, acknowledging themselves bail for defendant for the payment of the judgment, together with the interest and costs accrued, and to accrue. Provision is also made for a stay of execution in cases where an appeal or proceeding in error is taken to a higher court.

Exemptions. Household furniture, provisions, etc., for head of family residing with same, $500; tools, team, implements or stock in trade of mechanic, miner, or other person, kept for his trade or business, $300; library and instruments of professional man, $300; homestead actually occupied as such by head of family in country, 160 acres; in town, lot or lots in value $1,500; necessary wearing apparel of every person to the value of $150. Earnings of a judgment debtor to the amount of $50 where necessary to the use of a family supported wholly or in part by his labor. No property is exempt for a person removing or absconding from the State, and all persons claiming exemption must be actual, bona fide residents of the State. No article of property is exempt from attachment or sale on execution for its purchase price.

Fraud. A judgment may be vacated for fraud practiced by the successful party in obtaining it. It is not a ground for a judgment debtor to be excused for not answering in an examination in regard to his property. It is also a ground for attachment.

Garnishment. The laws relating to attachment and garnishment are similar in character and there is no provision for garnishment except when ground for attachment exists, and a bond must be furnished to obtain a garnishment in the same manner as to obtain an attachment. Garnishee process may be had in aid of execution after judgment, without such bond, and without affidavit, except such as may be necessary to lay the foundation for an order by the district judge for the examination of the judgment debtor or any person or corporation indebted to him.

Holidays. (See Notes and Bills of Exchange.)

Husband and Wife. The husband is not liable for the debts of the wife contracted before marriage, without an assumption in writing of such debts, but the estate of the wife is liable for debts of that character. Separate deed of the husband conveys no interest in the wife's lands. (See Married Women.)

Insolvency. (See Assignments and Insolvency.)

Interest. In the absence of express contract, all moneys, claims, or judgments draw interest at the rate of 8 per cent per annum. Any rate may be agreed upon in writing, not exceeding 12 per cent per annum. If any greater rate is agreed upon the lender forfeits all interest. Unsettled accounts draw interest after thirty days from date of last item.

Judgments are a lien on debtor's real estate within the county from the first day of the term at which judgment is entered, but judgments by confession and judgments rendered at the same term at which the action is commenced bind the debtor's real estate only from the time of entry, which lien continues for five years.

Liens. The law provides for liens of agistors and stable keepers, common carriers and warehouse men upon property entrusted to them to care for, and also for mechanics and material men for labor and materials furnished for the construction or repair of buildings, and also a lien for mechanics, artisans or other persons who may make, alter, repair or bestow labor upon any article of personal property at the request of the owner or party having possession thereof.

Limitations of Suits. On contracts not in writing, eight years, upon specialty or agreement in writing, five years; on all foreign judgments, or contracts made or incurred before debtor becomes a resident, within two years after he establishes residence in the State; recovery of lands, ten years. Revivor: Part payment or acknowledgment in writing.

Married Women. A married woman retains her property, both real and personal, may make a will, carry on business, sue and be sued, and retain her own earnings in the same manner as if sole. She may also vote and hold office. There is no right of dower under the State law.

Mortgages must be attested by one witness, acknowledged and recorded in the manner provided by law for the execution and recording of deeds, and are foreclosed by action at law, or by advertisement for six weeks. Real property sold under foreclosure of mortgage, either by decree of court or by advertisement, may be redeemed in six months from date of sale, upon payment of the amount for which the property was sold and ten per cent interest thereon.

Notes and Bills of Exchange are subject to a State law which substantially enacts the law merchant. The 1st day of January, the 22d day of February, the 30th day of May, the 4th day of July, the day appointed by the President of the United States or the governor of the State as a fast or Thanksgiving Day, the 25th day of December and the day in the spring appointed by the governor of the State as Arbor Day, and all days on which regular State and county elections are held are legal holidays.

Powers of Attorney. When executed for the purpose of enabling the attorney in fact to convey real estate, powers of attorney must be executed with the same formalities as a deed, and they should be recorded in the office of the county clerk of the county in which the land conveyed by virtue of such instrument is situated.

Probate Law. (See Administration of Estates.)

Protest. Protest must be made by a notary public or any other officer authorized to administer oaths. It must be made by an instrument in writing giving a literal copy of the bill of exchange with all that is written thereon, or annexing the original, stating the presentment and the manner in which it was made, the presence, or absence of the drawee, or acceptor, as the case may be, the refusal to accept or pay, or the inability of the drawee to give a binding acceptance, and in case of refusal the reason assigned, if any, and finally protesting against all the parties to be charged.

Replevin. The action for replevin lies both in the district court and in the justice court for the purpose of obtaining the possession of specific personal property. In order to obtain a writ of replevin, it is necessary to file an affidavit showing a description of the property claimed, that the plaintiff is the owner of the property, or has an interest therein, and if the ownership, or interest is special or partial, the fact should be stated; that the property is wrongfully detained by the defendant and that it was not taken on process issued against the plaintiff, or if taken under such process that the property was exempt from execution, and that it is not held for any tax legally assessed, or levied against the plaintiff. In the district court the plaintiff is not required to give a bond until after the property has been taken by the sheriff, and if after the property is so taken the plaintiff fails to give the required bond within five days, then the property is returned to the defendant. The defendant may within forty-eight hours after the property is taken, regain possession of it by giving an undertaking as provided by law, conditioned for the re-delivery of the property if adjudged. In the justice court the plaintiff is required to file a bond, or undertaking, to the defendant in not less than double the amount of the value of the property, as stated in the affidavit of the plaintiff, before beginning his action.

Suits. There is but one form of action, and the code of procedure is very similar to that of Ohio.

Taxes become due and payable on the third Monday in September in each year, and the taxpayer should pay the entire amount of his taxes after that time and before the thirty-first day of December following. In all cases where the tax is not paid on the thirty-first day of December succeeding the levy thereof, the amount of the tax charged against any taxpayer so failing to pay such tax shall become delinquent from that day. A penalty of 10 per cent on the amount unpaid is added to all taxes when they become delinquent. Delinquent taxes draw interest at the rate of 25 per cent per annum until paid or collected by distress and sale. Taxes upon real property are made a perpetual lien thereupon, and taxes due from any person upon personal property are a lien upon any real property owned by such person. Both personal and real property may be sold for taxes in the manner provided by law. Real property may be redeemed from tax sale at any time within three years after the sale, by payment of the amount for which it was sold, 15 per cent of the same, interest on the whole amount at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, and subsequent taxes, with 10 per cent per annum interest thereon, unless such subsequent taxes have been paid by the person redeeming.

Transfer of Corporation Stock. The stock of a corporation is transferable in such manner as shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the company, provided such by-laws be just, reasonable, and not in conflict with the law of the State.

Wills. Any wills to be valid must be in writing, or typewritten, witnessed by two competent witnesses, and signed by the testator, or by some person in his presence, and by his express direction, and if the witnesses are competent at the time of attesting the execution of the will, their subsequent incompetency, from whatever cause it may arise, shall not prevent the probate and allowance of the will. No subscribing witness to any will can derive any benefit therefrom unless there be two disinterested and competent witnesses to the same, but if without a will such witness would be entitled to any portion of the testator's estate, such witness may still receive such portion to the extent and value of the amount devised. Wills are admitted to probate in the court of the proper county upon petition being filed, and after notice by publication for not less than ten, nor more than thirty, days from the production of the will. Every custodian of a will, within thirty days after receipt of information that the maker thereof is dead, must deliver the same to the district court having jurisdiction of the estate, or to the executor named in the will.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared by Messrs. TAYLOR & HANNINGTON, Barristers, Nelson, B. C.

(See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Absconding Debtors. Where plaintiff's claim is a debt exceeding $100, a judge of the supreme or county court may order a writ of attachment to issue against the real and personal property of an absconding debtor. Plaintiff must first file an affidavit, showing the cause of action, and that he has good reason to believe, and does believe (stating reasons), that the debtor has left the Province and gone to some other place to which the debtor is believed to have fled (or that deponent can obtain no information as to whither he has fled), with intent to defraud the plaintiff of his just dues or to avoid arrest or service of process, and was at the time of his so departing possessed of real or personal property, credits or effects not exempt by law from seizure, to his own use and benefit in the Province; which affidavit must be verified by the affidavit of two other credible persons, that they are well acquainted with the absconding debtor and have good reason to believe, and do believe (stating reasons), that such debtor has departed from the Province with intent to defraud the plaintiff, or to avoid arrest or service of process. In the writ of attachment, when issued, is also incorporated a summons to defendant, upon which, after service, the plaintiff may proceed to judgment in the usual way. After seizure of defendant's property under the attachment, he is entitled to have the same restored to him at any time before execution is issued, on his disclosing a good defense, accounting for his delay and putting in special bail. The affidavits upon which the attachment is ordered may be sworn beyond the Province (see Affidavits), but the subject matter of the claim must be within the jurisdiction.

Accounts should be stated with items and dates, and where against insolvent estate or estate of deceased person should be verified by affidavit or solemn declaration, accompanied by such vouchers as the nature of the case admits of, and stating what securities, if any, are held for the claim. (See Affidavits, Assignments.)

Acknowledgment of Deeds, Etc. (or proof by subscribing witness), for registry in British Columbia, if taken within the Province, may be before the registrar or deputy registrar of titles, a stipendiary magistrate or justice of the peace, a judge or registrar of a court having a seal, or a notary public. If without the Province and within British Dominions, before any judge, clerk, or registrar of a court having a seal, a notary public, any magistrate of any town or district within such Dominions having a seal of office, or a commissioner appointed for taking acknowledgments out of the Province. If taken or acknowledged without British Dominions, may be before any British ambassador, charge d'affaires, minister, consul, or consular agent appointed to reside in the country where the acknowledgment or proof is taken; any judge of any court of record having a seal, or any notary public practicing in such country, certified to be such by a British ambassador, charge d'affaires, minister, consul, or consular agent, or by the governor or secretary of the State, Province, or Territory. The fact of the taking of such acknowledgment must appear by a certificate under the hand and official seal of the officer taking the same, endorsed upon or attached to the instrument. Such certificate must show that the person making the acknowledgment or proof (being either personally known to the officer or his identity proved by the oath or affirmation of a competent witness) has appeared before the officer (stating when) and acknowledged that he is the person mentioned in the instrument as the maker thereof and whose name is subscribed as party thereto, that he knows the contents thereof and executed the same voluntarily, and that he is of the full age of twenty-one years. In the case of execution by a married woman, the certificate, in addition to the aforegoing must show that such married woman was first made acquainted with the contents of the instrument and the nature and effect thereof, and that she acknowledged, on examination apart from and out of the hearing of her husband, that she knows the contents and understands the nature and effect thereof; that she executed the same voluntarily, without fear or compulsion or undue influence of her husband, and that she is of full age and competent understanding and does not wish to retract the execution of such instrument. Deeds and instruments by corporations should be executed and acknowledged by the secretary; and the certificate of acknowledgment must state, in addition to such of the above matters as are applicable, that such secretary acknowledged that he is the person who subscribed his name and affixed the seal of the corporation, as the secretary, to such instrument, and that he was first duly authorized to subscribe and affix the said seal to the same. Forms of acknowledgment:

Actions are commenced by a writ of summons, and conducted, in the supreme court, under the Judicature Act and Rules, and in the county courts under a system of practice closely analogous thereto. A defendant served with a supreme court summons in the Province must enter an appearance within eight days, inclusive of the day of service. Where served out of the Province (for which a judge's order must be had) the time limited for appearance is fixed by the judge, regard being had to the distance from British Columbia. Service beyond the jurisdiction may be also ordered in county court actions. Where the writ is specially endorsed for a debt or liquidated demand (or in the county court where a "default summons" is issued for a similar demand), in default of appearance final judgment may be signed and execution issue at once, without further proof of claim. If the defendant appears to a specially endorsed writ in the supreme court (or in the county court in an action for recovery of a debt or liquidated demand), the plaintiff may, notwithstanding the appearance, apply to a judge for leave to sign final judgment forthwith, such application being founded on an affidavit proving the claim and showing that there is no bona fide defense; if the defendant thereupon fails to show a defense or pay the amount claimed into court pending the result of the action, judgment may be forthwith entered against him, and execution issue as in other cases.

Administration of Estates of Deceased Persons. There are no separate courts of probate, but county courts have, within their respective districts, concurrent jurisdiction with the supreme court, to grant administration or otherwise act in probate matters, where the personal estate of the deceased does not exceed $2,500. In larger estates the supreme court has sole jurisdiction. Persons taking out administration must furnish security for the due performance of the trust by furnishing a bond with two sureties, in double the amount of the personal estate. Creditors rank equally upon estates of deceased persons (subject to any security they may hold), there being no priority of specialty debts over simple contract debts. The executor of a deceased testator, unless so empowered by the will, has no authority to deal with real estate or the rents therefrom, or to apply the same in payment of debts, and the courts have no power to confer such authority; but the real estate of a person dying intestate may be sold, leased, encumbered, or otherwise disposed of, by the order of a judge of the supreme court, on the motion or petition of any heir, personal representative, creditor, or other person interested. Where a person dies intestate as to personal property, or having appointed an executor resident out of the Province, administration may be granted to the official administrator. Claims against the estates of deceased persons should be presented to the executor or administrator, verified by affidavit or declaration made before a proper officer. (See Accounts, Affidavits.) The personal estate is primarily liable for the debts of the deceased, and must be exhausted before the real estate is available therefor. (See also Distribution, Probate, Succession Duties.)

Affidavits, Affirmations, and Declarations may be sworn or made abroad, for use in British Columbia, before a commissioner authorized to administer oaths in the supreme court of judicature in England; a judge of any of the superior courts of England, Ireland, or Scotland; a judge of any of the county courts of England or Ireland, within his county; a notary public, certified under his hand and official seal; the mayor or chief magistrate of any city, borough, or town corporate in Great Britain or Ireland, or in any British colony without Canada, or in any foreign country, certified under the common seal of such city, borough, or town corporate; a judge of any court of record or of supreme jurisdiction in any British colony or dependency without Canada, or in any foreign country; if made in any British possession in India, before any magistrate or collector, certified to have been such under the hand of the governor of such possession; if made in Canada, before any judge, prothonotary, notary public, or commissioner for taking affidavits in, or the clerk of a court of record in Canada or any Canadian Province; or before any stipendiary magistrate in the Territories of Canada; or before any British consul, vice-consul, or consular agent, exercising his functions in a foreign place. (See Evidence.)

Agents and Factors. The general law of agency (outside of particular statutes) is the same as in England and in the United States. Under the Provincial Act, an agent entrusted with the possession of goods or of the documents of title thereto (i. e. bills of lading, warehouse receipts, etc.,) is deemed to be the owner thereof for the following purposes: 1. To make a sale thereof and receive payment therefor, notwithstanding that the purchaser has notice that he is dealing only with an agent. 2. To entitle the consignee of goods consigned by such agent to a lien thereon for any money or negotiable security advanced by him to or for the use of such agent, or received by the agent for the use of the consignee, as if the agent were the true owner of the goods. 3. To give validity to any contract by way of pledge, lien, or security, bona fide made with such agent, either for an original or continuing advance or loan made upon the security of the goods or documents of title. 4. To make such contract binding upon the owner, although the person claiming the lien or pledge had notice of the agency. (See also Powers of Attorney.)

Aliens have the same capacity as natural-born British subjects to take, hold, enjoy, recover, convey and transmit title to land and real estate of every description in British Columbia.

Appeals. (See Courts.)

Arbitration. In general, if no other mode is provided, a reference is to a single arbitrator. If to two arbitrators, the two may appoint an umpire. If either party neglect to appoint an arbitrator within seven days after notice so to do, a supreme court judge may appoint one for him, on motion by the other party, after notice. Arbitrators have power to administer oaths and enforce attendance of witnesses by subpœna. An award may, by leave of the court, be enforced in the same manner as a judgment or order of the supreme court. An appeal from an award lies to the supreme court, and must be brought within two months.

Arrest. In actions in the supreme or county court, the defendant may be arrested in the first instance on a writ of capias, where the claim is for debt or damages amounting to $100 or upward. Such writ issues on a judge's order, upon the plaintiff filing an affidavit showing a cause of action against the defendant to the amount of $100 or upward, or that he has sustained damages to that amount, and that there is probable cause for believing that the defendant is about to quit the province unless forthwith apprehended. The amount of bail is fixed by the judge, or defendant may regain his liberty on making deposit of the amount claimed, together with costs, pending the result of the action. A defendant may be arrested after judgment recovered for $100 or upward, on the plaintiff showing, by affidavit, the fact and amount of the judgment, and satisfying the judge that the defendant is about to quit the Province with intent to defraud his creditors generally, or the plaintiff in particular, or has parted with his property or made some secret or fraudulent conveyance thereof to prevent its being taken in execution. A defendant may be discharged from arrest after judgment on satisfying the judge (after notice to the plaintiff) that he bona fide has no means or ability to pay the amount of the judgment or any part or further part thereof; such discharge will not be ordered where there is evidence of mala fides on his part, either since the judgment (as by concealing his property) or in originally incurring the liability upon which the judgment is founded. When a debtor is imprisoned on a writ of capias, the plaintiff must pay to the sheriff, in advance, $3.50 per week for the debtor's maintenance while imprisoned. (See Courts, as to examination of judgment debtor after judgment.)

Assignments for Benefit of Creditors. Preferential assignments are void. A deed executed by any person, conveying property to a trustee for the purpose of paying all the creditors of such person, ratably and without preference or priority, their just debts, shall be good and valid if its construction and effect accord with its expressed purpose; and if executed by the trustee or one of the trustees within seven days after execution by the debtor shall not be set aside or defeated on any account except actual fraud. A description of the property conveyed as "all my personal estate, credits and effects which may be seized and sold under execution, and all my real estate," is sufficient to vest in the trustee all the real and personal property, rights, credits and effects, vested or contingent, of the debtor, save such as are by law exempt from seizure under execution. An assignment for the benefit of creditors has no effect until deposited for record in the registry office of the district in which the debtor resides or has his principal place of business. When so deposited it binds all lands of the debtor in the province, and takes priority over all judgments and executions not completely satisfied by payment, excepting registered judgments. (See Judgments.) Notice of the assignment must be published by the trustee in the B. C. Gazette and a daily newspaper, within fourteen days after its execution by the debtor, and a meeting of creditors called within ten days after the date of the assignment. Creditors must furnish particulars of their claims, proved by affidavit or declaration (See Affidavits. Accounts), stating what securities, if any, are held for their claims, together with such vouchers as the nature of the case admits of. On petition of any creditor (supported by affidavit) a trustee may be removed by a judge of the supreme court, and another appointed; and such judge, with the consent of a majority in number, representing three fourths in value of the creditors, may expunge any condition or stipulation from the assignment or vary any trust declared or created thereby. Wages. All persons employed by the debtor at the time of, or within one month before, the assignment are entitled to be paid three months' wages or salary in full (if owing) in priority to claims of general creditors, and may rank on the estate for any balance as ordinary creditors.

Attachment. (See Absconding Debtors, Courts, Garnishee.)

Attorneys. (See Solicitors.)

Banks and Banking are not within the jurisdiction of the Provincial legislature, but are dealt with by the Canadian Federal Parliament, and the law is the same for all the provinces. (See Nova Scotia, same subject.)

Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes. The law on this subject is governed by the Canadian Federal Parliament, and is the same for all the provinces. (Canada Bills of Exchange Act, 1890.) Bills and notes are negotiable, and the general law is almost identical with that of England, and much the same as in most of the United States of America. Three days' grace are allowed on all bills and notes, except when payable on demand. Presentment for payment should be made when due, and notice of dishonor given or mailed within one day, in order to hold the indorser or drawer, but these steps are not necessary in order to hold the acceptor of a bill or maker of a note. Unpaid bills and notes bear interest at 6 per cent from the time of maturity, whether so expressed or not. A bill or note maturing on a bank holiday (i. e., Sunday, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Christmas Day, Birthday of a Sovereign, Dominion Day (July 1st), or any day appointed by proclamation as a general holiday, such as Thanksgiving Day) is payable on the first banking day following; and when Christmas, New Year, Dominion Day, etc., falls on a Sunday, the following day is observed as a bank holiday. (See Protest.)

Bills of Lading and Warehouse Receipts are transferable by indorsement and delivery, and the indorsee or consignee is entitled to the same rights and subject to the same liabilities in respect of the goods represented thereby as if the contract had been made with himself. Banks may take bills of lading and warehouse receipts as collateral security for advances made at the time, and the security is not affected by the renewal of any bill or note given therewith. Upon default, in payment of the amount secured, the goods represented by such collateral security may be sold, after notice. Stoppage in transitu may be exercised. (See Agents.)

Bills of Sale and Chattel Mortgages. Every bill of sale, whether absolute or conditional, and every schedule or inventory annexed, or a true copy thereof respectively, and of every attestation of the execution, together with an affidavit of the time of such bill of sale being made or given and a description of the residence and occupation of the person making or giving the same (or the person against whom process shall have issued if given under execution of process), shall be registered within twenty-one days after execution thereof in the office of the county court registrar of the district wherein the goods affected are situate; non compliance with these requirements renders the bill of sale void as against creditors, sheriff's officers, or subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith. Where a bill of sale is given subject to any defeasance, condition, or declaration of trust, the same must be written on the same paper as the bill of sale, and before it is registered. A bill of sale expires in five years from registration, unless previously renewed by filing an affidavit, declaring it to be still a subsisting security, and showing the amount still due thereon and secured thereby, and the names, residences, and occupations of the parties thereto, as stated therein, with the date of its primary registration.

Chattel Mortgages. (See Bills of Sale.)

Collateral Securities. (See Bills of Lading and Warehouse Receipts.)

Collection, Solicitors' Commission on. In the absence of special agreement a solicitor may charge his client a commission on ordinary collections, where no legal proceedings are taken, as follows: Up to $250, 10 per cent; larger amounts, 10 per cent on amount up to $250 and 5 per cent on balance. On difficult collections larger commissions are sometimes charged, according to circumstances.

Commissions Issued by Foreign Courts to Take Evidence in British Columbia. Upon application to a judge of the supreme or county court he may order the evidence required to be taken before the person named in and in the manner directed by the commission, and may command the attendance of witnesses, production of documents, etc. Such an order may be enforced in the same manner as an order made in a cause pending in the province.

Commissions to Take Evidence may be granted in suits pending in the supreme or county courts, where the witness to be examined is dangerously ill, or resident beyond the province, or about to quit the Province. The commission, when issued, contains full instructions to the commissioner as to its mode of execution. The depositions of witnesses examined under such commissions may be read in evidence at the trial only where, at the time of the trial, the witness is dead or out of the Province, or unable, through sickness or other infirmity, to attend.

Companies may be incorporated by special act of the legislature, or (except railway and insurance companies) under the general "Companies Act, 1897," in the latter case by the execution (by not less than five persons) and filing of a memorandum of association, according to the requirements of the act. There are no statutory provisions fixing the residence and number of directors, except where no provision is made by the rules of the company itself. Extra-provincial companies incorporated in Great Britain and Ireland, or in any province of Canada, may be licensed to do business in British Columbia. Extra-provincial companies incorporated elsewhere than as above mentioned, before doing business in British Columbia, must be registered. The Government fees are the same for incorporation, license, or registration, and vary according to the amount of capital: For $10,000 capital the fee is $25; for $25,000, $40; $50,000, $52.50; $100,000, $77.50; $200,000, $127.50; $300,000, $177.50; $400,000, $227.50; $500,000, $257.50; $1,000,000, $402.50. In each case, whether of incorporation, license, or registration, there must be added to the above from $20 to $30 for the advertising required by statute. Extra-provincial companies can only be licensed or registered in the province where by their charter they have authority to carry on business in British Columbia. Where this is lacking the best course is to be reincorporated in this province, the cost being the same as above stated. Extra-provincial companies registered or licensed in British Columbia have the same privileges and are subject to the same liabilities as if incorporated in the province. Any extra-provincial company carrying on business in British Columbia without having been licensed or registered is liable to a penalty of $50 per day for the time during which business is so carried on. In order to be licensed or registered, an extra-provincial company must petition therefor under the common seal of the company (to registrar of joint stock companies) and file with such petition: 1. A verified copy of the charter and regulations of the company. 2. An affidavit or declaration that the company is still in existence and authorized to transact business under its charter. 3. A copy of the last balance sheet of the company, and auditor's report thereon. 4. A duly executed power of attorney, under the common seal, empowering some person, therein named and residing in the city or place where the head office of the company in this province is situated, to act as its attorney, and to sue and be sued, plead or be impleaded in any court, and generally on behalf of such company and within the province to accept service of process and receive all lawful notices, and to do all acts and to execute all deeds and other instruments relating to the matters within the scope of the power of attorney and of the company to give to its attorney (and in case of registration, to issue and transfer stock). Forms of such power of attorney will be provided by the registrar.

Mining Companies (no others), whether incorporated, licensed, or registered, may entitle themselves to issue their shares below par, as "fully paid up and non-assessable," and holders of such shares are not liable for assessments beyond the amount actually paid thereon. In such case the words "Non-personal Liability" must appear on the corporate seal, and on all certificates, prospectuses, contracts and documents of the company. In other cases holders of shares in limited companies are liable to contribute to the difference between the amount actually paid thereon and the face value of their shares, but no further. A company may acquire and hold real and personal estate, by gift, purchase, as mortgagees or otherwise, and deal therewith as fully and freely as private individuals. Companies may be wound up under the Canadian Federal Winding-up Act (Revised Statutes of Canada, 1886, Ch. 129).

Deeds given by Companies. (See Acknowledgments; see also Powers of Attorney.)

Conditional Sales of Goods. Receipt notes or hire receipts must be filed within twenty-one days with the Government agent of the district (or if on Vancouver Island with the Registrar-General), and a copy left with the vendee, otherwise they are void as against subsequent purchasers or mortgagees. Vendors must furnish full information respecting balance due, terms of payment, etc., within five days after demand therefor by proposed purchaser or person interested. Where the vendor takes possession for breach of condition, he must retain the article so taken for twenty days, before re sale, during which time the vendee may redeem, on paying the amount in arrears with interest and expenses; and where the value exceeds $20, five days' notice of sale must be given, which may run concurrently with the twenty days above mentioned.

Contracts. (See Frauds, Statute of.)

Corporations. (See Companies.)

Costs of Attorneys. (See Solicitors, Commissions.)

Costs, Security for, must be given in supreme court actions, if demanded, where the plaintiff resides outside British Columbia, or is an extra-provincial corporation, unless the plaintiff is the owner of real estate in the province. (See Companies.) The amount is fixed by a judge in each case, but $150 is the least amount usually ordered in supreme court actions. In county court actions security to the satisfaction of the registrar must be given, before issue of summons, in all cases where the plaintiff is a non-resident of the Province. In the last mentioned case the registrar usually requires a cash deposit of $25.

Courts and Their Jurisdictions. Small debts courts (presided over by police and stipendiary magistrates) have jurisdiction within their districts, concurrently with the county courts and supreme court, in actions of debt, where the demand does not exceed $100, but have no jurisdiction in tort nor where the title to land comes in question. After judgment execution issues against goods only, but where the judgment exceeds $50, it may be transferred to the county court, and execution issue thereout against the real estate of the judgment debtor. After judgment in small debts courts, garnishee or attachment may be obtained against debts due to the judgment debtor by third persons. (See Garnishee.) The judgment debtor may also be examined on oath as to his property and assets liable to be taken in execution, and committed to prison for non-attendance at the examination, or non-disclosure, or on the ground of his having obtained credit by false pretenses or without reasonable expectation of being able to pay, or having transferred or concealed his property in fraud of creditors. The limit of imprisonment in such case is twenty days, and such imprisonment does not extinguish the debt. An appeal from the decision of a small debts court lies to the nearest county court or to a judge of the supreme court, and notice of appeal must be given within forty-eight hours. County courts have jurisdiction, concurrently with the supreme court, in personal actions for debt or damages, up to $1,000; in ejectment where the annual value of the premises does not exceed $300; in replevin where the goods do not exceed $1,000 in value and the title to land does not come in question; equitable jurisdiction (including trusts, foreclosure, specific performance, injunctions, accounts, etc.) up to $2,500; jurisdiction in probate matters where the personal estate does not exceed $2,500. County courts have no cognizance of actions for malicious prosecution, libel, slander, criminal conversation, seduction, breach of promise of marriage, or against justices of the peace for anything done by them in the execution of their office; but such actions may be removed to the county court, when brought in the supreme court, on the defendant showing that the plaintiff has no means to satisfy any judgment for costs that may be recovered against him. By consent of parties, jurisdiction may be conferred on the county courts to try any action, and by the mining Acts county courts are given unlimited jurisdiction in the mining districts, concurrently with the supreme court, over all questions arising out of mines and mining transactions. Provision is made for garnishee or attachment of debts owing to the judgment debtor by third persons, either before or after judgment (see Garnishee); for the examination on oath of, and discovery by, either party before trial; for the examination on oath of the judgment debtor, after judgment, as to his property and assets, in which case an order may be made for the payment of the judgment by installments or otherwise, or the judgment debtor may be committed to gaol, for not more than three months, on the same grounds as in similar applications in small debts courts (supra). (See also Actions, as to "default summons" and "speedy judgment.") In the county court, as in the supreme court, execution may issue only against goods, where the judgment does not exceed $100, but the judge may order defendant's lands to be sold where judgment is over $100, for a greater amount (see Execution). An appeal lies, with or without special leave according to the nature of the judgment, to the supreme court, from any judgment or order of a county court, whether interlocutory or final. The supreme court has jurisdiction over all actions, civil and criminal, arising in the Province, and is vested with all the powers of the courts of common law, chancery, and probate. Courts of assize, for criminal trials, are held in the various districts at specified intervals. Civil causes may be set down for trial at any time. Provision is made for garnishee or attachment of debts due to the judgment debtor by third persons (after judgment only); for examination on oath of and discovery by either party before trial; for examination, after judgment, of judgment debtor as to his property and assets, and for his commitment, on the same grounds as in similar applications in small debts courts (supra); and for "speedy judgment" where there is no bona fide defense to an action for a liquidated demand and an appearance is entered by the defendant in order to gain time (see Actions). An appeal lies to the full court from any order or judgment of a judge. The full court for the hearing of appeals sits at Victoria and at Vancouver alternately. Appeals from interlocutory judgments or orders must be brought within eight days, and from final judgments or orders within three months; security for the costs of appeal must be given, the amount of which is fixed by a judge. An appeal lies from the judgment of the full court to the supreme court of Canada, at Ottawa, and to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, England. (See also Actions, Arrest, Costs, Evidence, Execution, Garnishee, Judgments, Probate, Replevin.)

Days of Grace. (See Bills of Exchange.)

Deceased Persons, Claims Against. (See Administration.)

Deeds, Mortgages, and Registration. Deeds, mortgages, and other transfers and charges affecting lands need not necessarily be under seal, except in the case of bodies corporate, but it is advisable to so have them. They must be registered in the registry office of the district wherein the lands to be affected lie, in order to be valid as against bona fide subsequent purchasers or mortgagees. Priority of registration creates priority of title, and purchasers, for valuable consideration, of registered real estate or registered interest therein are not affected by notice, express, or implied, of any prior unregistered title affecting the same, save only leasehold interests in possession for a term not exceeding three years. Want of consideration alone will not invalidate a registered voluntary conveyance executed in good faith. A will can not be registered until probate thereof has been granted. The execution of instruments requiring to be registered must be first proved or acknowledged before the proper officer. (See Acknowledgments.) Short, condensed forms of deeds, leases, and mortgages are provided by statute, the use of which is not obligatory, though advisable, where practicable. Deeds given by Companies, see Acknowledgments. (See also Land Registry, Leases, Judgments.)

Depositions. (See Commissions to Take Evidence.)

Descent of Real Property. The real property of a person dying intestate descends directly to the heirs, and is only made available for creditors of the deceased by special application to the court. (See Administration.) Undevised real estate is subject to the widow's dower. (See Dower.) The order of descent is as follows: 1. To the lineal descendants of deceased, and those claiming under them, per stirpes. 2. If no lineal descendants, then to the father, unless the estate is derived through the mother, when she takes, if living; in such case if the mother be dead, then to the father for life, reversion to brothers and sisters of intestate, and their descendants, equally, and if no brothers or sisters or their descendants, then to the father absolutely. 3. If no lineal descendants and no father (or no father entitled to inherit), then to the mother for life, reversion to the brothers and sisters of the intestate and the descendants of those dead, equally; if no brothers or sisters or their descendants, then to the mother absolutely. 4. If no father or mother living, the collateral relatives (brothers and sisters) of intestate take equally, those that are dead being represented by their descendants. 5. If no heir under the aforegoing, and estate is derived through the father, it descends to the brothers and sisters of the father, and the descendants of those dead, equally; if the estate is derived through the mother, then to her brothers and sisters, and the descendants of those that are dead, equally. 6. If no brothers or sisters of the father or descendants of such (where estate is derived through him), it descends to the brothers and sisters of the mother and their descendants; similarly, where the estate is derived through the mother and there be none of her brothers and sisters or descendants of them, it descends to the brothers and sisters of the father and their descendants. 7. If estate is derived through neither father nor mother, it goes to the brothers and sisters of them both, and the descendants of such as are dead, equally. 8. Relatives of the half blood take equally with those of the whole blood in the same degree, and their descendants inherit in the same manner as the descendants of those of the whole blood; but where the intestate obtained the inheritance by descent, devise, or gift from an ancestor, all those who are not of the blood of such ancestor are excluded. Descendants in all cases share per stirpes (or by representation), however remote the degree of consanguinity. 9. Where deceased leaves a husband or wife and no children, one-half the real and personal property vests in such husband or wife absolutely.

Distress for Rent. (See Rent.)

Distribution of Personal Estate. The surplusage of the personal estate of a person dying intestate is distributed as follows: 1. One-third to the wife, and residue in equal shares to the children and the legal representatives of such as are dead; where any child has been advanced by the intestate during his life time, he only takes such share as shall make the portion of all equal. 2. If no children nor representatives of dead children, then one-half to the wife and the residue to the next of kin of the intestate, and their representatives, equally. 3. If no wife, the whole is distributed equally among the children and their representatives; of neither wife nor children, then among the next of kin of the intestate and their representatives. 4. Where intestate leaves no wife nor children, but a mother and brothers or sisters, such brothers and sisters (and the representatives of such of them as are dead) share equally with the mother. Where decease leaves wife or husband and no children, one-half the real and personal estate vests in such wife or husband absolutely. One year must elapse after the death before the personalty may be distributed among the relatives of deceased. (See Administration.)

Divorce. The supreme court has jurisdiction to grant a judicial separation (divorce a mensa et thoro) on the application of either husband or wife, on the ground of adultery, or cruelty, or desertion, without cause, for two years or upward. It may also decree a dissolution of the marriage—on the application of the husband, on the ground of adultery; on the application of the wife, on the ground of incestuous adultery, bigamy with adultery, rape, sodomy, or bestiality, adultery coupled with such cruelty, as without adultery would have entitled her to a judicial separation; or adultery, coupled with desertion, without reasonable excuse, for two years or upward. Payment of alimony to the wife may be ordered by the decree dissolving the marriage or granting a separation, or it may be sued for separately, where the wife has either obtained or is entitled to such a decree. Where a marriage has been dissolved either party may marry again. A wife justifiably living apart from or deserted by her husband may obtain an order protecting her earnings and those of her infant children from his debts, obligations, or control.

Dower and Tenancy By the Curtesy. The widow of a deceased person is entitled to dower out of any land which he shall not have absolutely disposed of in his lifetime, or by will. Unless a contrary intention appears by the will a devise to the wife of any land which would ordinarily be subject to dower bars her right to dower out of all lands of the deceased. Dower is subject to any conditions or restrictions declared by the will. A bequest of personal estate does not bar dower unless a contrary intention is declared, and a legacy bequeathed to the wife in lieu of dower takes priority over other legacies. Partial estates and interests in the land, and charges created by the husband, and debts, incumbrances, etc., to which the land is subject, take precedence over the right to dower. Land may be absolutely disposed of and the wife's right to dower barred by the husband, by deed, without the wife joining in the execution. Not more than six years arrears of dower may be recovered.

Tenancy by the curtesy in lands belonging to the wife may be barred by her, as dower may be by the husband, but unless so barred the right will attach.

Employers' Liability. By statute, employers are liable to their workmen for personal injuries or death caused: 1. By defects in the condition, construction, or arrangement of ways, works, machinery, plant, buildings, stages, scaffolds, premises, etc., of the employer, where such defect arises or continues by reason of the negligence of the employer or his responsible agent. 2. By the negligence of any person entrusted by the employer with superintendence, while such person is exercising such superintendence. 3. By the negligence of any person in the service of the employer, to whose orders the claimant was bound to conform and did conform, where the injury has resulted from such conformance. 4. By the act or omission of any person engaged by the employer, made or done in obedience to the rules or instructions of the employer, where the injury has resulted from some impropriety or defect in such rules or instructions. 5. By the negligence of any person in the service of the employer who has charge of any signal, points, locomotive, engine, machinery, or train upon a railway, tramway, or street railway. In no case can the workman recover where he has been aware of the defect and has inexcusably failed to notify the employer, or some person superior to himself in the employer's service, unless he is aware that the employer or superior knows of the defect. Notice of the injury must be given within twelve weeks, and an action commenced within six months after the injury occurs. Damages are limited to $2,000, or three years' wages, whichever is the larger. Workmen can not contract to waive the benefit of the statute unless there is some other consideration than the employment, and the court is of opinion that such consideration is ample and adequate, and the contract reasonable, and not improvident on the part of the workman. The statute does not effect the common law principles relating to employers' liability, but is in addition thereto.

Evidence. A person is not incompetent to give evidence by reason only of interest or crime. Persons charged with any offense or crime, and their husbands or wives are competent, but not compellable witnesses, and parties to civil causes and their wives are both competent and compellable witnesses at the trial. The evidence of a plaintiff in an action for breach of promise of marriage must be corroborated, as must also that of a child of tender years. An affirmation or declaration may be substituted for an oath, where the witness alleges conscientious scruples against taking an oath. An admission or representation by a partner concerning partnership affairs is evidence against the firm. (See also Commissions, Powers of Attorney.)

Execution. In the supreme court where judgment is for non-payment of a sum of money or costs, or for the recovery of land, execution against goods, or for delivery of possession of the land, as the case may be, may issue forthwith. On judgments of a different nature than above specified, and on judgments (other than default judgments) in the county court, unless otherwise ordered, fourteen days must elapse before execution. Execution may issue out of the supreme or county court without leave at any time within six years after judgment, and after that period by special leave. There is no execution against lands, but where a judgment has been recovered exceeding $100, the judgment may be registered against lands of the defendant, and a judge may order the same sold by the sheriff to satisfy the judgment. Goods taken in execution may be sold five days after the seizure. Executions are in force for one year, after which they must be renewed for another year, if against goods, and so from time to time; judgments registered against lands affect the lands from time of the registration of the judgment, and bind the same for two years, after which they may be renewed for a further period of two years, and so from time to time. (See Judgment.) An execution binds goods from the time of actual seizure thereunder. Lands sold under judgment may be bid in by the plaintiff, or by a mortgagee. In case of the sale of goods or lands under execution, a judge may order three months' arrears of wages to be paid out of the proceeds, to the employees or workmen of the judgment debtor (if so much be due). Where judgment is in the supreme court, and rent is due by the judgment debtor for the premises on which goods taken in execution lie, the judgment creditor must, before removing the goods so seized, pay the rent due, up to one year's arrears. Under similar circumstances in the county court, an additional levy is made under the execution sufficient to satisfy four weeks' rent where the tenancy is weekly, the rent of two terms of payment where for any other term less than a year, and one year's rent in other cases. Small debts courts may not issue execution against lands, but where the judgment exceeds $60 it may be removed to the county court and registered against lands, which may then be sold by judge's order in the usual way. (See Courts.) A judgment debtor may be examined on oath after judgment in any court, as to what property he has which is liable to be taken in execution. (See Courts; also Exemptions, Garnishee.)

Executors and Administrators. (See Administration, Distribution, Probate, Succession Duties.)

Exemptions. The goods and chattels of any debtor, at his option, to the value of $500, are exempt from forced seizure or sale by any process of law or equity (save distress for rent or taxes). This does not extend to goods taken in satisfaction of a debt contracted for or in respect of such identical goods. Lands, duly registered as a homestead, are exempt to the value of $2,500. (See Homesteads, Garnishee.)

Factors. (See Agents.)

Frauds, Statute of. Leases, or estates in land, not in writing and signed by the party creating the same, have the force of estates at will only, except leases not exceeding three years. The following must also be in writing: Promise by an executor or administrator to answer damages out of his own estate; promise to answer for the debt, default or miscarriage of another person; agreement made upon consideration of marriage or upon any contract or sale of lands or of any interest therein; agreement which is not to be performed within one year; declaration or assignment of trust; acknowledgment of debt, to bar the operation of the statute of limitations (except where such acknowledgment takes the form of a payment on account of principal or interest); ratification or promise made after full age to pay a debt contracted during infancy; representation or assurance concerning the character, credit, ability, etc. of another person, in order that such person may obtain credit. The consideration for a guarantee need not appear in the writing; a guarantee given to or for a firm ceases upon a change in the persons composing the firm, unless a contrary intention appear, expressly or by implication. No contract for the sale of goods valued at $50 or upwards is binding, unless the buyer accept and actually receive part of the goods sold or give something in earnest to bind the bargain or in part payment, or sign a memorandum of the sale. (This includes goods not in esse at the time of the contract.) An acknowledgment given by one of two or more joint debtors, does not bind the other or others, so as to bar the statute of limitations, as against him or them.

Garnishee. In all courts of the Province, debts owing to the judgment debtor may be attached by the judgment creditor, upon an ex parte application supported by affidavit showing that judgment has been recovered and is still unsatisfied, and to what amount, and that any other person is indebted to the judgment debtor, and is within the jurisdiction of the court. In the supreme court and small debts courts this can only be done after judgment recovered; in the county court, where the plaintiff's claim is a debt or liquidated demand, debts due to defendant may be attached before judgment, as well as after. In small debts courts, wages due defendant are exempt from garnishee up to $30, where defendant is married or the mainstay of others, and $20 in other cases, except where the plaintiff's claim is for board or lodging. In the county court a similar exemption may be allowed by the judge, not exceeding $10.

Grace, Days of. (See Bills of Exchange.)

Guarantee of Debts of Third Persons. (See Statute of Frauds.)

Hire Receipts (See Conditional Sales.)

Holidays, Bank. (See Bills of Exchange.)

Homesteads. Lands may be registered as a homestead, up to the value of $2,500, upon the owner filing in the registry office a notice thereof and a declaration disclosing assets equal to that amount, or to the value of the homestead, where it is worth less than $2,500. Where so registered, a homestead is exempt from seizure or sale under execution (except for taxes), for liability incurred after such registration; or, where its value exceeds $2,500, it is exempt to that amount. The exemption is forfeited by any fraud in the registration thereof. Where the owner of a registered homestead dies intestate, leaving a wife and infant children, it passes wholly to the wife during her widowhood or the minority of the children, and can not, during that period, be sold for the debts of the deceased incurred subsequent to the registration. (See Exemptions.)

Husband and Wife. (See Divorce, Dower, Married Women.)

Infants. Infancy continues till the completion of the twenty-first year, both in males and females. Infants may sue by their next friend, and defend by their guardian. In the county court, they may sue for money due them for wages or piece work, up to $500, in the same manner as if of full age. Ratification after full age of a promise made or debt incurred during infancy, must be in writing. (See Statute of Frauds.) Infants are liable for necessaries supplied to them. Infants, with the sanction of a judge of the supreme court, may make valid marriage settlements, as if of full age; provided that they shall be, in such case, of not less age than twenty years, if males, and seventeen, if females.

Insolvency. There is, at present, no general insolvency or bankruptcy law in force in the Provinces of Canada. (See Assignments.)

Insurance, Life. A policy holder may, by will or by a declaration on, or attached to, the policy, appropriate his life insurance to the benefit of his wife and children or any of them, or apportion the same among them. In such case, on maturity of the policy, the amount is payable to the persons so named, free from claims of the creditors of the insured. If the insurance has been effected and premiums paid with intent to defraud creditors, they are entitled to receive thereout an amount equal to the premiums paid, without interest. These provisions extend mutatis mutandis to insurance similarly effected by a wife, for the benefit of her husband or children.

Interest. The legal rate of interest is 6 per cent, where no other rate is stipulated, but any rate may be agreed upon between the parties, there being no usury law at present in force in Canada; banks, however, can not lawfully recover more than 7 per cent on loans. Unpaid bills of exchange and promissory notes bear interest at 6 per cent from maturity, whether so expressed or not. Interest may not be compounded, except by special agreement. Where interest is, by any written instrument except a mortgage, made payable at a rate or percentage per day, week, month, or any period less than a year, the contract must expressly state the yearly rate or percentage to which such other rate or percentage is equivalent, otherwise interest is not recoverable at a rate of more than 6 per cent per annum.

Joint Debtors. The plaintiff may join as parties to the same action any one or more or all of the persons severally or jointly and severally liable on any one contract, including parties to bills of exchange and promissory notes. The action is not defeated by non joinder or misjoinder of parties or causes of action, but the defect may be remedied by amendment. (See Parties to Actions.)

Judgments of the supreme and county courts bind lands and interests therein of every description for two years from the time of registry thereof in the land registry office of the district wherein the lands lie, and affect lands acquired by the judgment debtor after, as well as before, registration of the judgment. Judgments must be registered before lands can be sold thereunder. (See Execution.) Registration may be renewed from time to time for a further period of two years. Foreign Judgments: Judgments recovered in any court outside of British Columbia are foreign judgments, and this includes judgments of courts of the other Provinces of Canada. A final judgment of a foreign court having jurisdiction over the parties and subject matter of the suit is conclusive between the parties, on the merits; and in an action brought in British Columbia upon such a judgment no defence can be given which might have been given in the original action, if the defendant was served with or had notice of the process in such original action, and an opportunity to answer it. Suit can be brought in British Columbia upon a foreign judgment within the time limited for actions upon judgments by the laws of such country.

Landlord and Tenant. (See Rent.)

Land Registry. Registry offices are established for registration of bills of sale, powers of attorney, assignments, etc., judgments, deeds, mortgages and all instruments affecting lands in the various districts of the Province. On the registry of any document affecting lands a certificate of title is issued by the registrar to the person entitled thereto. Instruments are not ordinarily copied or recorded at full length, but their effect is briefly entered by the registrar in the proper index, and the instrument returned to the person applying for registration. Title deeds to property in this Province should be carefully preserved, as it is the duty of the registrar to require production of the documents establishing a complete chain of title, upon application to him for registry. Documents requiring registration must be first proved or acknowledged. (See Acknowledgments; see also Deeds and Mortgages, Judgments.)

Leases must be in writing, and signed by the lessor, except leases for terms not exceeding three years. They need not be under seal, except in the case of incorporated companies, but it is advisable to so have them. Leases for three years or more should be registered, and must be first proved or acknowledged. (See Acknowledgments, Land Registry.) A short form of lease, as well as of deeds and mortgages, is provided by statute, the use of which is not obligatory, though advisable where applicable.

Licenses must be taken out for nearly every trade or occupation, whether the licensee is domiciled in the Province or not. Within municipalities, application should be made to the city or municipal clerk, elsewhere to the Government agent of the district. Municipalities may exact a license fee from commercial travelers for firms or houses selling goods at retail and not having a permanent place of business in the Municipality.

Liens, Mechanics'. Unless otherwise agreed in writing, every contractor, sub-contractor, and laborer doing or causing work to be done upon any building, wharf, bridge, mine, or other work, has a lien thereon and on machinery and fixtures therein, and on the materials furnished therefor and the lands and premises occupied thereby, for the price of such work. The lien must be registered within thirty-one days after the work is completed, or the claimant has ceased to work thereon, and an action in the county court to enforce the same must be begun and a lis pendens filed, within thirty days after registration of the lien. Where the work to be done is to exceed $500, the owner and contractor (if any) must first file a statement containing particulars of the proposed work, cost, names of owner and contractor, and interest of owner in the land. Where the contract price of the work exceeds $500, contractors or sub-contractors are not entitled to receive any payment until they have delivered to the owner a pay-roll, receipted in full by each laborer, and posted a copy thereof upon the premises; if the owner makes payment without requiring this to be done, the liens of unpaid laborers attach to the property, notwithstanding. The proceeds of a sale to realize liens are distributed as follows: 1. Costs of the proceedings. 2. Six weeks' wages, if due, to all laborers employed on the work; or if the proceeds are insufficient therefor, then pro rata among them. 3. After payment of laborers in full sub-contractors' claims are paid, or balance divided among them, pro rata. 4. Payment of any balance due to the contractor, and if anything remain it is paid to the owner. Mechanics have a lien on any chattel, for money, skill or materials bestowed thereon, and, if unpaid for three months, may sell such chattel in satisfaction, after two weeks' advertisement in a newspaper.

Liens of Woodmen. Any person performing labor or services in connection with any logs or timber in the Province, has a lien thereon for the amount due him, taking precedence over all charges except Government tolls thereon. The lien must be filed within thirty days after the last day of such labor or services, and proceedings to enforce the same taken in the supreme or county court (according to their respective jurisdictions) within thirty days after filing the lien. Such proceedings may be by ordinary action alone, or a writ of attachment may be issued and the logs seized and held thereunder, pending judgment, unless security is given or the amount claimed is paid into court. In either case, after judgment, the logs may be sold to satisfy the judgment. Several lienholders may be joined in one action, and the proceeds of sale distributed among them to the amount of their respective liens.

Limitations of Actions. Actions upon simple contracts notes, bills, accounts, libel, trespass to lands, detinue, replevin, and for seamen's wages, must be brought within six years; for assault, battery, wounding, or false imprisonment, within four years; and for slander and penalties fixed by statute, within two years from the time the cause of action respectively arose. Actions upon judgments, bonds, mortgages, or instruments under seal, or to recover lands must be brought within twenty years. Where the plaintiff is under any disability, such as infancy, coverture or lunacy, or the defendant is beyond seas, the limitation does not begin to run until the removal of the disability. Acknowledgments to bar the statute of limitations must be in writing. (See Frauds, Statute of.) Part payment of principal or interest has the effect of such acknowledgment, but payment by one joint contractor or co-debtor will not prevent the statute running in favor of the other or others. Arrears of dower, rent, or interest charged on land can not be recovered for more than six years. Foreign Limitations: An action can not be maintained in British Columbia, on a cause of action arising beyond the Province, where it is barred by any statute of limitations of the country in which it arose.

Married Women, Acknowledgments by. (See Acknowledgments.)

Married Women, Property and Status of. A married woman may acquire, hold, and dispose, by will or otherwise, of any property, real or personal, as her separate property, in the same manner as if she were a femme sole, independently of her husband, and without the intervention of a trustee. She may contract in respect to her separate property, and sue and be sued without joining her husband, either in contract, tort, or otherwise; any damages or costs recovered by her are her separate property, and if recovered against her are payable out of her separate property. Husband and wife may sue each other, except in tort, and give evidence against each other. All property belonging to a woman at her marriage, or acquired by her thereafter, including her earnings from any employment or occupation, is held by her as her separate property, free from the control of her husband. After her marriage she continues liable for contracts entered into or wrongs committed before marriage, and may be sued therefor; and her husband is liable therfor, and for wrongs committed by her after marriage only to the extent of any property (if any) acquired by him through her. A married woman may act as executrix or trustee, free from her husband, either alone or jointly with any other person, and may insure her own or her husband's life for her own benefit. A husband may convey property directly to his wife, and she may convey her property without his consent or concurrence. The separate personal property of a wife dying intestate is distributed between her husband and her children in the same proportion as the personal property of a husband dying intestate is distributed between his wife and children. (See Distribution; also Divorce, Dower.)

Mechanics' Liens. (See Liens.)

Mining Laws. Mineral Quartz Mines. Every person or corporation, before engaging in prospecting or mining for any minerals or ore, other than coal, must take out a free miner's certificate, and the same must be constantly kept in force thereafter or all rights (short of a Crown grant) will be forfeited. Certificates may be taken out by individuals for one or more years, on payment of the fee therefor, but certificates of joint stock companies can only be taken out or renewed for one year at a time. All certificates expire May 31st in each year. Fees therefor: For individuals, $5 per year; for corporations with capital not exceeding $100,000, $50; with capital exceeding $100,000, $100 per year with proportionate rates for portions of a year. Individuals, to obtain certificates, must be over eighteen years of age. Free miners may enter, prospect, and mine upon waste lands of the Crown, and upon private lands (except in municipalities) not occupied by any building, or falling within the curtilage of a dwelling-house, or used as an orchard, or actually under cultivation, or lawfully occupied for mining purposes (other than placer mining), or for an Indian, or military, or naval reservation. The foundation of the right of a free miner to so enter and mine is the fact that the right to the minerals does not ordinarily pass by the grant, but is reserved to the Crown and its licenses; and such right to minerals found in lands of other persons exists only where they have been so reserved. A full size mineral quartz claim is 1,500 x 1,500 feet, but fractional claims may be located. In locating a claim the requirements of the act as to legal posts, notices, recording, etc., must be strictly complied with, and any omission may invalidate the location. A claim properly located and recorded is held for one year, and thence from year to year, on performance of the statutory assessment work or improvements of not less than $100 per year, and payment of the annual fee of $2.50 for certificate; or payment to the Crown of $100 may be substituted for the assessment work in any year. Not more than one claim may be located by or for the same person on one lode or vein, but others may be acquired by purchase. A claim after location and record may be purchased from the Crown for $500, by the locator or his assigns, when a grant will issue, without the necessity of performing assessment work; or, after improvements to the value of $500 have been made thereon the holder is entitled to a "certificate of improvements," upon complying with the statutory requirements as to declaration, notices, survey, etc., three months after which, if no adverse proceedings are taken, he may obtain a Crown grant, or absolute title to the claim. All transfers of mining property or interests must be in writing and duly recorded. Mining Partnerships may locate a claim for each partner, and each partner must hold a free miner's certificate. The partnership name and name of each partner must appear on the location and record. A majority in interest of the partners may control the work, etc., on the claims and appoint a foreman or manager, who represents and has power to bind the partners. When a partnership is recorded with "limited liability" it is liable only for indebtedness contracted by the manager or duly authorized agent. Placer Mining claims are 100 feet long, varying in breadth according to whether "creek," "bar," "bench," "dry," or "hill" claims. The statutory requirements as to location and record must be strictly observed. Claims may be recorded for one or more years on paying the fee of $2.50 per year, and leases may be obtained, for not more than ten years, but no Crown grant can be had in placer-mining grounds. All transfers must be in writing and recorded. Water rights, for flumes, etc., may be obtained by grant for not more than ten years. The provisions as to mining partnerships are practically the same as above stated respecting quartz mining. Coal Mining. A license may be obtained for one year (renewable for further terms of one year as long as prospecting is actually carried on) to prospect for coal or petroleum over a tract of land not exceeding 640 acres, after performance of the statutory requirements as to location posts, publication of notice, etc., a fee of $50 per year. If coal is discovered the licensee may obtain a lease for five years, at 10 cents per acre annually, after having the land properly surveyed. At the expiration of the term, if mining has been continuously carried on, a Crown grant of the lands may be obtained at $5 per acre. All coal raised, whether under lease or grant, is subject to a royalty to the Crown of 5 cents per ton, petroleum 1 cent per barrel. Mines are subject to government inspection and regulation.

Parties to Actions. All persons may be joined as plaintiffs, in whom the right to any relief claimed is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative, and judgment given for such of them as may be found entitled to relief. All persons may be joined as defendants against whom the right to any relief is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative. Neither every plaintiff nor every defendant need be interested in the whole relief claimed, and the court may at any time add, substitute, or strike out parties. Where plaintiff is in doubt against what person he is entitled to relief, he may join two or more as defendants, in order to determine the liability as between them. No action fails by reason of misjoinder, but the defect may be remedied by amendment at any stage of the proceedings. Partners may sue and be sued in the firm name, and service on one partner is service on the firm; but where, to the plaintiff's knowledge, the partnership has been dissolved before the action, the writ of summons must be served on every person sought to be made liable. Infants may be parties, by their guardians or next friends, and lunatics by their committees or guardians. Trustees and executors may sue and defend without joining the persons interested in the estate; and where there are numerous persons having the same interest in the subject matter of an action, one may sue or defend on behalf of all. (See Joint Debtors.)

Partnerships are either general or limited, the latter consisting of one or more general partners associated with one or more special or silent partners, who contribute to the firm capital. General partners are each liable for all the partnership debts; special partners are not liable beyond the amount contributed by them to the capital, but are not allowed to transact business and sign for the partnership, or bind the same in any way, though they may examine the state and progress of the partnership concerns and advise as to the management. Special partners interfering further than this thereby become general partners, and are liable accordingly. In case of insolvency of a limited partnership, no special partner may claim as a creditor until all other creditors are paid in full. After the death of any partner, his estate is still liable for partnership debts incurred while he was a partner, but no further, and subject to the prior payment of his separate debts. An admission or representation by a partner concerning partnership affairs is evidence against the firm, and notice to one partner is notice to the firm. On a person being admitted a partner to an existing firm, he does not become liable for the firm's antecedent debts, nor is a retiring partner liable for partnership debts incurred after his retirement, though he still continues liable for such debts incurred while he was a partner. Partnership property can not be taken under execution against one or more members individually, but the interest of such member in the partnership property and profits may be charged, and applied under the direction of a receiver, in satisfaction of the judgment. No majority of partners can expel any partner, unless under an express agreement to that effect. Where no time of duration has been fixed, a partnership may be determined by notice by any partner at any time, and such notice must be in writing where the partnership has been constituted by deed. A partner may assign or encumber his interest in the partnership, but the assignee is not entitled to an account (except on dissolution), or inspection of the partnership concerns, nor to any part in the management, but only to the assignor's share of profits. A partnership is dissolved (subject to agreement) by effluxion of time, where entered into for a fixed term; by the termination of any specific undertaking for which alone it was entered into; by notice, where no time is fixed; by death or bankruptcy of any partner, or on his share being charged in execution for his separate debt; by the happening of any event making the partnership business unlawful; by the court, on application of any member, for fraud, improper conduct, lunacy, incapacity, breach of agreement, etc., on the part of any partner, or when the business can only be carried on at a loss, or for other good cause. Partners may sue and defend in the firm name, and service on any member is service on the firm; but where, to the knowledge of the plaintiff, the partnership has been dissolved before action, the writ of summons must be served on every person sought to be charged. Persons forming limited partnerships for trading, mining, or manufacturing business, within the Province, must register a certificate and publish notice thereof, and any renewal, change in members or objects, or dissolution must be similarly registered and published, otherwise the partnership is treated as a general one. General partnerships must also be registered and a certificate filed on their formation, dissolution, or any change in firm name or membership, or removal of any member from the Province, otherwise a penalty is recoverable against the parties.

Personal Property, Distribution of. (See Distribution.)

Powers of Attorney affecting lands should be filed with the registrar general at Victoria, the execution having first been proved or acknowledged in the same manner as a deed. (See Acknowledgments.) Every power of attorney, whether the principal is within the Province or not, continues in force, so as to protect third parties acting thereunder, until its revocation, or the death, bankruptcy, insolvency, or marriage (if by a female) of the principal shall have been filed. A confirmation by the principal of any instrument executed or act performed, purporting to have been executed or performed by such principal by his attorney, is conclusive evidence of the authority of such attorney, without production or proof of any power of attorney. A corporation may, by writing under its corporate seal, duly proved or acknowledged (see Acknowledgments), empower any person, either generally or specially, as its attorney to execute deeds on its behalf, within or without the Province, and deeds so executed by such attorney on behalf of the company, and under his seal, are binding on the company.

Promissory Notes. (See Bills of Exchange, Protest.)

Protest. Inland bills and notes (i. e., those both drawn and payable within the Dominon of Canada, or else drawn within Canada upon some person resident therein) need not be noted or protested, in order to hold the drawer (of a bill), or indorser, but notice of dishonor must be given; a foreign bill or note must be protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, otherwise the drawer (of a bill) and indorsers are discharged from liability. Protest must be made or noted on the day of dishonor, but if noted on that day may be extended subsequently; but where the bill or note is presented through the post and returned by post dishonored, it may be protested at the place to which it is returned, not later than the day after its return (holidays excepted). A bill or note may not be protested for non payment before 3 P. M. Delay in noting or protesting is excused, when caused by circumstances beyond the control of the holder, and protest (as well as notice of dishonor) is dispensed with, where the person to be notified or made liable can not be reached by reasonable diligence; or where protest or notice is waived, expressly or impliedly (which may be before or after dishonor). A protest need not be under seal. Protest or notice is not necessary, in order to hold the acceptor of a bill or maker of a note, whether inland or foreign. Expenses of protest may be recovered by the holder. (See Bills of Exchange, Joint Debtors.)

Real Estate, Descent of. (See Descent.)

Registration of Titles. (See Land Registry.)

Rent may be recovered by action, or by distress on the goods and chattels of the tenant. Distress can not be made later than six months after determination of the lease, and must be during the continuance of the landlord's title or interest, and the possession of the tenant in arrears. Where goods are fraudulently removed, to prevent distress, they may be followed by the landlord, and distrained within thirty days, except where they have been bona fide sold to a third person, for valuable consideration. Goods of lodgers are exempt from distress; cattle, stock, and growing crops are among the goods which may be taken. Goods taken may be secured and sold on the premises, or elsewhere, but can not be sold before five days after distress and notice thereof to the tenant, nor until they have been appraised by two sworn appraisers. If the tenant dispute the legality of the seizure he may replevy the goods within the five days, and institute an action of replevin to determine the title. (See Replevin.) Tenants neglecting to quit possession after determination of their term are liable to forfeit double rent thereafter. In such case also, a judge of the county court, on application of the landlord, may order a writ of possession to issue, under which the tenant is ejected by the sheriff. Where rent is unpaid for seven days after it is due, or the tenant is guilty of a breach of any covenant or condition of his tenancy, and such default or breach, under the terms (express or implied) of the tenancy, gives the landlord a right of re-entry, should the tenant, on demand made in writing, refuse to pay the rent or quit possession, the landlord may apply to the county court for a writ of possession, which will issue unless sufficient cause is shown by the tenant against the same. Where such proceedings are taken only for non-payment of rent, the tenant is entitled to retain possession, on payment of the arrears, with costs of the proceedings. Not more than six years arrears of rent may be recovered against a tenant, by action or otherwise. A tenant may deduct from his rent taxes paid by him on the property of which he is tenant. (See Taxes; also Executions, Leases.)

Replevin. When goods, chattels, papers, or any other personal effects have been unlawfully distrained, taken or retained, the person complaining thereof may bring an action of replevin to determine the rights, and have the property restored to him under a writ of replevin, pending the result of the action. Before obtaining the writ, or a return of the property thereunder, he must furnish a bond to the sheriff, in double the value of the property, conditioned to prosecute the action with the effect and without delay, and to return the property, if so adjudged. The sheriff then replevies or seizes the property, and restores it to the complainant, pending the result of the action, which is carried on in the same manner as other actions. The sheriff may break open any building, etc., in which the goods have been concealed, in order to take them. County courts have jurisdiction in actions of replevin, where the property does not exceed $1,000 in value, and the title to land does not come in question, otherwise the action must be brought in the supreme court.

Solicitors, Costs, and Misconduct of. Misconduct, such as retaining money collected for clients, refusal to deliver a bill of costs, etc., should be reported to the secretary of the British Columbia Law society, Victoria, B. C., whose function it is to prosecute or otherwise deal with the offender. Solicitors may be suspended, fined, struck off the rolls, etc., for misconduct, and the law in this behalf is strictly enforced. If a solicitor delivers an untaxed bill of costs which is considered excessive, the client should, within one month after its delivery, apply to a judge for an order to have it taxed. After the lapse of a month, taxation will only be ordered on special circumstances shown, and on terms of the client paying the amount of the bill into court, pending taxation, or otherwise. Should one-sixth of the amount of the bill be struck off on taxation, the solicitor must pay the costs of the taxation and application therefor; if not so much is struck off, such costs are paid by the client. The decision of the registrar on taxation is subject to appeal to a judge. A solicitor may not sue for his bill until after one month from its delivery, in order to give the client an opportunity to have it taxed as above.

Succession Duties on Estates of Deceased Persons are not charged on estates of less net value (after payment of all debts) than $5,000, nor on estates of less value than $25,000, where the property passes to the father, mother, husband, wife, child, grandchild, daughter-in-law, or son-in-law of the deceased. Save, as above mentioned, duty is charged as follows: Up to to $100,000, 1¼ per cent of net value; up to $200,000, 2½ per cent of total net value; for excess of $200,000, 5 per cent. Property passing under a will or intestacy, or by deed, grant, or gift made in contemplation of death, is subject to the duty. Where duty is payable executors and administrators are required to file, on oath, an itemized inventory of the estate and its value, and a statement of the persons to whom it will pass, and their relationship to deceased; they must also give a bond for a sum equal to 10 per cent of the sworn value of the estate, conditioned for the payment of the duty, when determined. The registrar of the county court fixes the amount of duty and his decision is subject to appeal. If the duties are not paid within two years after the death they are liable to bear interest thereafter at 6 per cent.

Taxes are levied by the Provincial Government, and also by the various cities, towns, and district municipalities, within their respective limits.

Provincial. An annual poll-tax of $3 is levied on male persons over eighteen years of age. All lands, improvements on lands, personal property and income in the Province (except land and improvements in municipalities, which are taxed by the municipality) are subject to provincial taxation, with the following principal exemptions: Property of the Dominion or Provincial Government, churches, cemeteries, schools, gaols, hospitals, literary societies, public roads, municipal property, industrial farms, lunatic asylums, scientific institutions, Imperial military and naval pay, salaries and pensions, incomes up to $1,000, personal property up to $300, salaries of clergymen, household effects of every kind, books and clothing, mineral timber or other lands, to the extent of any royalty paid to the Crown thereout. The rate of taxation is 4·5 of 1 per cent on real estate, ¾ of 1 per cent on personal property; on income up to $10,000, 1¼ per cent; up to $20,000, 1½ per cent; over $20,000, 1¾ per cent; if paid before June 30th a rebate is given of ¼ on real estate, ½ on personal property, and 1·5 on income. Taxes for business licenses are also levied by the Province in unincorporated districts.

Municipal Taxes. Cities and other municipalities levy taxes only on land and improvements thereon, and by way of business licenses and road tax. Land is assessed at its actual cash value and improvements at 50 per cent of the value. Municipal taxes on land and improvements are subject to a rebate of 1·6, if paid before December 1st. Commercial travelers for firms not having a permanent place of business in the municipality and selling goods at retail are subject to a business license tax in municipalities, the amount of which is fixed by the respective municipalities, but may not exceed $50 for six months. Provincial and municipal taxes may be recovered, if unpaid, by action, or by seizure and sale of the property of the delinquent. Real estate sold for taxes may be redeemed within one year in municipalities, and two years elsewhere, on payment of the amount paid therefor by the purchaser at such sale, with interest. Taxes constitute a lien on property, prior to all other liens, save that of the Crown, (if any). Lands and improvements may be assessed against either the owner or occupant, but if the tax in such case is paid by the occupant, he may deduct the amount from his rent. Lands and goods seized for taxes are not entitled to the protection of the Homesteads and Exemptions Act.

Wills must be in writing, and signed at the foot by the testator, or by some other person in his presence and by his direction; and such signature must be made and acknowledged by the testator in the presence of two or more witnesses, present at the same time, who shall attest and subscribe in the presence of the testator. No form of attestation is necessary. Any property or interest in property may be disposed of by will, and a will speaks from the time of the testator's death, not from its execution. Infants can not make a valid will. (See Infants.) Soldiers in actual service and seamen, while at sea, may make verbal or nuncupative wills of personal property only. A will is not invalid on account of the incompetency of an attesting witness. A gift to an attesting witness is void, but does not otherwise affect the will, or the competency of such witness to prove the execution. An executor may be a witness. A will is revoked: By marriage (except where made in exercise of a power of appointment; by a subsequent will or codicil, or some writing declaring an intention to revoke the same, and executed in the manner required for a will, or by the destruction of the will. Alterations made after the execution of a will are nugatory, unless executed the same as a will, or signed by the testator and witnesses in the margin or opposite or near to such alteration, or beneath a memorandum subscribed to the will referring to such alterations. A revoked will can only be revived by re-execution or by a duly executed codicil showing an intention to revive it. Unless a contrary intention appears, where a devise lapses by reason of the prior death of the devisee, or of such devise being contrary to law, it will form part of the residuary devise, if any. Where real estate is devised without any words of limitation, such devise will pass the fee simple or other the whole estate of the testator therein, unless a contrary intention appear. Gifts to children or other issue, who have died leaving issue at the testator's death, do not lapse, but descend to such issue. A will must be duly proved in a court having jurisdiction in probate, before it can be registered.

Actions. In the county court a defendant served with a writ for a liquidated claim or debt must within ten days from service upon him file a dispute note, otherwise judgment by default may be signed against him and execution may be issued against his goods six days after judgment. In the queen's bench the defendant has sixteen days to file his defense if served within the Province and four weeks if served outside same, otherwise judgment may be signed and execution issued immediately, provided the plaintiff's claim is a liquidated one. If the defendant enters a defense to such a claim, the plaintiff may apply for leave to sign final judgment after filing an affidavit made by himself or any other person who can swear positively to the cause of action, and stating that in his belief there is no defense to the action. Every debt or chose-in-action arising out of a contract is assignable at law by any form of writing.

Bills of Exchange. (See Notes.)

Bills of Lading and warehouse receipts are transferable by indorsement and delivery of the bill or receipt by the shipper or owner of the goods to the indorsee. By statute the consignee or indorsee is not only entitled to the property in the goods, but has vested in him all rights of suit and is subject to the same liabilities in respect of such goods as if the contract had been made with himself. Banks are permitted to take bills of lading, warehouse, and cove-keepers' receipts as security for advances made at the time, and power is given to sell the goods after notice upon default in payment. Stoppage in transitu is allowed.

Collaterals. There are no statutory provisions on this subject in Manitoba.

Contracts. All persons are capable of contracting except minors, persons of unsound mind, and persons deprived of civil rights. All contracts may be oral, except such as are required by statute to be in writing, namely: 1. No agreement for the sale of personal property of the value of $50 or upward shall be good unless the buyer shall receive part of the property sold or give something to bind the bargain or in part payment unless some memorandum in writing of such agreement is signed by the parties to be charged or their agent. Wagering contracts and claims for intoxicating liquors sold over a bar and consumed on the premises are void. All fraudulent conveyances of lands or personal property made with the intent to defeat, delay, or hinder creditors in the recovery of their claims are void as against such creditors.

Corporations are created by act of parliament or under the general acts relating to the incorporation of joint stock companies by letters patent, or under the "Manitoba Joint Stock Companies Act." Shareholders are limited in liability to the amount of their shares subscribed, and when paid in full they are discharged from any further liability. Insolvent companies are wound up and assets distributed under the provisions of the winding-up act, by the court of queen's bench. In the case of incorporated banks, shareholders are liable for double the amount of the stock. Foreign corporations are required to register and obtain licenses from the provincial government, when they shall have the same powers and privileges in Manitoba as if incorporated for the purposes mentioned in their acts or charters so far as they are within the jurisdiction and control of the legislature of Manitoba.

Courts. The court of queen's bench is the supreme court of Manitoba, and has an original and appellate jurisdiction both at law and in equity. There are four terms a year for the hearing of appeals from a single judge. County courts have jurisdiction up to $400 in contract and $250 in tort, except claims in the nature of seduction, breach of promise of marriage, and a few others which are confined exclusively to the queen's bench. An appeal lies from the county court to a single judge of the court of the queen's bench, when the amount in dispute is not less than $20 and not more than $50; and to the court of queen's bench en banc when the amount in question exceeds the sum of $50.

No acknowledgment is necessary if the due execution of the instrument is proven as above. It is not necessary for a wife to join in a conveyance by the husband of lands held in his own name, as dower does not attach during the lifetime of the husband. The Torrens system of land transfers has been introduced in the province, but registration under the act is optional with the owners. When once brought under the operation of the act, however, all subsequent transfers or conveyances must be in the manner laid down and according to the forms prescribed by the statute.

Depositions. The court or a judge may at any time order a commission to issue for the examination of witnesses (under oath) who are outside the jurisdiction of the court, by interrogatories or otherwise.

Her property is not liable for any of the ordinary o necessary expenses of the family, unless specially charged by her. widow is entitled to dower in the real estate of her husband which he die possessed of, and which he has not disposed of in his lifetime or by hi will. In such cases the share of the wife is declared by statute to b one-third absolutely. A man may convey land to his wife, and vic versa, without the intervention of a trustee.

Mortgages are executed in the same manner as deeds and ar governed by same laws as to registration in the local registry office and as to priorities. Tacking prohibited by statute. Foreclosure or sal proceedings taken in the queen's bench; there is no redemption aft final order for foreclosure or sale. Chattel mortgages and bills of sa must be filed with the clerk of the county court, within whose county th goods are situate, before they have any effect as against executio creditors, or purchasers for value without notice or subsequent chatt mortgages. They require to be renewed within thirty days of the exp ration of two years from the date of filing, by filing a statement verifie by the affidavit of the mortgagee or his agent, showing the amount due upon the mortgage and exhibiting his interest therein; unless renewed, they are absolutely void as against the creditors of the mortgagor.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Bills of exchange, promissory notes, and checks are the ordinary forms of commercial paper used in this Province. It is not necessary that notes or bills of exchange be made payable at a bank or other particular place within the Province. Three days of grace are always allowed except when payable on demand. In case a bill or note falls due on a bank holiday (i. e., Sunday, New Year's Day, Christmas Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, 24th May, 1st July, and Thanksgiving Day), it must be presented on the following day; when properly presented and protested, and notice given, the indorsers are liable; otherwise they are relieved. The production of the protest in any court within the province proves presentment and notice of dishonor without further evidence. No stamp duty is now required on commercial paper within the Dominion of Canada

Probate Law. The Province is divided into three judicial districts—the eastern, central, and western,—each of which has a surrogate court to which applications for probate or administration are made. Ancillary probate or administration may be had by producing the foreign probate or administration or exemplification thereof (a certified or notarial copy is not sufficient), purporting to be under the seal of the court by which the same has been granted, and the necessary affidavits. Ancillary probate or administration is limited to Canada, the United Kingdom, or any British Province. Executors are not required to give security, but an administrator must furnish, usually, two sureties, each in double the value of the estate. Where an applicant can not find sureties he may apply to have the official administrator appointed.

Suits. (See Actions, Courts.) There is only one superior court, the court of queen's bench, which has all the powers possessed by the various courts of law and equity at Westminster, together with the probate and divorce, admiralty and ecclesiastical courts of England, as they stood on the 15th day of July, 1870. All suits must be commenced by statement of claim entitled in and under the seal of the court from which issued, and such statement must be served on defendants within six months from date. Provision is made for substitutional service of process by publication or otherwise.

Taxes. Lands may be sold for taxes, when in arrears for two years or upward, by the treasurer of the municipality within which the lands lie, and may be redeemed at any time within two years from date of sale, upon payment of the sum paid by purchaser, with 10 per cent interest if redeemed within one year, or 20 per cent interest if redeemed within two years from date of sale. If not so redeemed purchaser may apply to the land titles office for absolute title, but owner has a farther six months from date of service of notice of such application upon him to redeem through the district registrar.

Wills. Every person over the age of 21 years, of sound mind, may dispose of his real and personal estate by will. Subsequent marriage operates as a revocation. A married woman may dispose of her separate estate by will without the consent of her husband, and may alter or revoke the same in like manner as if she were a femme sole. Her will must be executed in like manner as other wills. Every will other than an nuncupative will must be in writing, and every will other than an holograph will and a nuncupative will must be executed and attested as follows: 1. It must be subscribed at the end thereof by the testator or some person in his presence and by his direction must subscribe his name thereto. 2. The subscription must be made or acknowledged by the testator in the presence of two attesting witnesses present at the same time. 3. The said witnesses shall attest and subscribe the will in the presence of the testator, but no form of attestation shall be necessary. An holograph will wholly written and signed by the testator himself is valid in this Province. Such a will is subject to no particular form and requires no attesting witness or witnesses. Any soldier being in actual military service or any mariner or seaman, being at sea, may dispose of his personal estate by parol, according to the common law. Bequests to a witness or the wife or husband of a witness are absolutely null and void, although such person is competent to prove the will. No will made outside of this province is valid as a will in Manitoba unless executed in accordance with the laws of the Province.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

RELATING TO

Prepared and Revised by ALEXANDER P. BARNHILL, Esq., Barrister at Law, Princess St., St. John, N. B (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Acknowledgments. Before the registry of any deed, conveyance, mortgage, certificate of discharge of mortgage, assurance, lease, or power of attorney, or other instrument affecting any interest in or title to land, the execution of the same shall either be acknowledged by the person executing the same or be proved by the oath of a subscribing witness. If such acknowledgment is to be taken or made out of the Province, it may be taken or made before: Any notary public certified under his hand and official seal; the mayor or chief magistrate of any city, borough, municipality or town corporate, certified under the common or corporate seal of such city, borough, municipality or town corporate, or the seal of such mayor or chief magistrate; any judge of the high court of Great Britain or Ireland; any judge or lord of session in Scotland; any judge of a court of supreme jurisdiction in any British colony or dependency; any British minister, ambassador, consul, vice-consul, acting-consul, pro-consul or consular agent of her Majesty, exercising functions in any foreign place; the governor of any State; the handwriting and certificate of any such judge or lord of session being authenticated under the seal of a notary public, and the taking of any such acknowledgment before such minister, ambassador, consul, vice-consul, acting consul, pro-consul, consular agent or governor being certified respectively under his hand and seal of office. If the proof of the fied respectively under his hand and seal of office. If the proof of the execution of such instrument be taken out of the Province the same shall be taken before: Any commissioner for taking affidavits and administering oaths under chapter 36 of the consolidated statutes; any notary public, certified under his hand and official seal; the mayor or chief magistrate of any city, borough, municipality, or town corporate, under the seal of such mayor or chief magistrate; any judge of the high court of justice of Great Britain or Ireland; any judge or lord of session in Scotland; any judge of a court of supreme jurisdiction in any British colony or dependency; the handwriting of any such judge or lord of session being authenticated under the seal of a notary public; any British minister, ambassador, consul, vice-consul, acting consul, pro-consul, or consular agent of her Majesty exercising his functions in any foreign place; the governor of the State; such proof being certified under the hand and seal of office of such minister, ambassador, consul, vice-consul, acting consul, pro-consul, consular agent, or governor.

Administration of Estates. In case of any deceased person being at the time of his death an inhabitant of any county in the Province or not being an inhabitant of the Province leaving assets in any county thereof, the judge of probates of such county may take probate or grant administration and shall in either case have exclusive jurisdiction over all the estate of such deceased person in the Province. Letters testamentary or of administration are granted on application to the judge by petition of the party entitled by law or one or more of the creditors of the deceased. Probate will not be granted (except it be made to appear that the estate is being wasted, or for other good reason) until after the lapse of fourteen days after the death of deceased. Caveats must declare the interest of the caveator and give his address, or the address of his attorney. Before administration is granted a bond is taken from the applicants with two sureties to the satisfaction of the judge. Unless further time is allowed by the judge it is necessary to file an inventory of the estate within three months, and an account of the administration must be rendered within eighteen months. Where the witnesses to a will reside out of the Province a commission may be had to take their testimony. If the personal estate is insufficient to pay the debts of the deceased the executor may within ten years from his appointment, or a creditor after one year and before expiration of the ten years, obtain a license or order from the judge for the sale of the real estate or any part thereof. Where an infant's estate does not exceed $5,000, the judge of probate may appoint a guardian for the person and estate of the infant. Claims against an estate for debts due by the deceased must be certified by affidavit. (See Succession Duty.)

Affidavits. Affidavits sworn out of the Province before any person appointed commissioner for taking affidavits in and for the courts in the Province of New Brunswick or before any of the several officials and persons authorized to take acknowledgments out of the Province (see Acknowledgments) are valid in all matters in which they would be valid if sworn before a competent official within the Province.

Aliens. Real and personal property of any description, except British ships, may be held and transmitted by aliens as by subjects. May be naturalized after residence of three years.

Arrest. In the supreme and county courts. Any person not having privilege may be arrested and held to bail or committed to prison on mesne process in any cause of action within the jurisdiction of the supreme or county courts. Where the cause of action is a debt certain an affidavit must first be made of the debt and that the arrest is not made for the purpose of vexing and harassing the debtor, or if for other than a debt certain a judge's order must be obtained on an affidavit setting out the cause of action. Where the affidavit is made without the Province it may be sworn before any person authorized to take affidavits for use in this Province in the country or place in which such affidavit is made. After judgment defendant making default may be committed to prison for a term not exceeding one year by order of the court or judge, if it be shown that defendant has the means or obtained credit under false pretenses, or has fraudulently disposed of his property, or is about to leave the Province. If a defendant arrested on mesne process at a hearing before a commissioner of which notice has previously been given to the plaintiff discloses the actual state of his affairs on oath and the commissioner is satisfied that the disclosure is a full one and that the defendant has not transferred any property intending to defraud the plaintiff, or since his arrest given any preference to any other creditor, the defendant may be discharged. In the city court of Saint John and in magistrates' courts arrest may be had in the first instance for debt where the amount is not less than $2 and does not exceed $80, and after judgment defendant may be again arrested on execution, but if he has no property and there has been no fraud or preference he may be discharged by commissioner on hearing after notice. In case judgment is under $400 and it is shown that debtor is in position to pay by installments the judge may, in his discretion, order payment by installments. Disobedience of the order renders debtor liable to attachment as for contempt of court. (See Courts.)

Assignments in Trust for Benefit of Creditors. An act of the legislative assembly, intended to prevent preferences by an insolvent, provides that all transfers and payments made by an insolvent with intent to give any creditor an unjust preference, or to prejudice any creditor, are void as against the creditors injured. In case an assignment be made, or suit brought within sixty days after the transfer or payment, the presumption is against the validity of such transfer or payment, whether the same be made voluntarily or under pressure. The above provisions, however, do not apply to bona fide sale or payments in ordinary course of trade or business, nor to a transfer in consideration of any present actual bona fide payment in money or by way of security for any advance of money, or which is made in consideration of any present sale and delivery of goods or other property, provided same is bona fide and for fair value. Assignments are made in the first instance to the sheriff, or to some resident of the debtor's county named by a majority of the creditors having claims of $100 and upward. A new assignee may be substituted on vote of like majority. All judgments and all executions not completely executed by payment are superseded by an assignment. Claims against estate must be proved within three months after notice to prove is given. Claimants must furnish particulars of the claim proved by affidavit and such vouchers as the nature of the case admits of, and the affidavit should also state that the claimant holds no security for the claim or any part thereof, and if negotiable paper is held, should state that it is not under discount. If security is held, or the paper is under discount, state all facts fully.

Chattel Mortgages and Bills of Sale. Every mortgage or conveyance of goods and chattels which is not accompanied by an immediate delivery and an actual and continued change of possession of the property mortgaged is void as against subsequent purchasers or creditors, unless the same or a true copy thereof is filed with the registrar in the county in which the maker resides, or if non-resident of the Province in the county in which the things are, within thirty days from the execution thereof, with an affidavit of the subscribing witness of the due execution and an affidavit of the mortgagee or his agent that the mortgagor is justly and truly indebted to the mortgagee in the sum mentioned in the mortgage, and that it was executed in good faith and for the express purpose of securing payment and not for the purpose of protecting the property mentioned therein against the creditors of the mortgagor, or of preventing them from obtaining payment of any claims against him. Future advances may be secured where agreement therefor is recited in the mortgage. Every sale of goods and chattels not accompanied by an immediate delivery and followed by an actual and continued change of possession, must be in writing and accompanied by an affidavit of a subscribing witness thereto of the due execution and an affidavit of the bargainee or agent authorized in writing to take the conveyance, a copy of which authority shall be attached to the conveyance that the sale is bona fide and for good consideration, and not for the purpose of holding or enabling the bargainee to hold the goods against the creditors of the bargainor, and the conveyance must be registered as in the case of a chattel mortgage.

Conditional Sale of Chattels. Receipt notes, hire receipts, and orders for chattels given by bailee of chattels where the condition of the bailment is such that the possession passes without ownership being acquired until payment of the purchase money, shall only be valid against subsequent purchasers for value without notice in good faith in case of manufactured goods which, at the time possession is given to the bailee, have the name and address of the manufacturer, bailor, or vendor plainly attached thereto, and no such bailment shall be valid as against such subsequent purchaser, unless it is evidenced in writing signed by the bailee or his agent, and a copy of such writing is filed with the registrar of deeds of the county in which the bailee resides, within ten days from the execution of the receipt note or other instrument evidencing the bailment.

Corporations. Five or more persons may obtain letters patent for incorporation for ordinary business purposes by petition to the lieutenant governor on payment of a small fee regulated by amount of capital stock.

Courts. Magistrates courts and other like inferior courts, including city courts, have jurisdiction in actions for tort to real or personal property, and in actions of debt for small amounts, the highest jurisdiction in tort being $32 and in debt $80. The county court has jurisdiction to the amount of $200 for damages and $100 for debt. Supreme court has jurisdiction in all matters, as well as concurrent jurisdiction with other courts. Security for costs may be required in all courts where plaintiff resides out of the Province.

Days of Grace. Where a bill or note is not payable on demand three days of grace are allowed. If the last day is non-juridical the next day is allowed.

Descent and Distribution of Property. Real estate of an intestate is divided equally to and amongst his children or their representatives, or, if no children, then to the next of kindred and their representatives, including those of the half blood and their representatives; but children advanced by settlement or portions not equal to the other shares shall have so much of the surplusage as shall make the estate of all equal, reserving the widow's right of dower. The surplusage of the personal estate of the intestate shall be distributed by the judge of probate in manner following, that is to say, one-third of it to the widow, and the residue in equal portions to and amongst his children and such persons as legally represent them. Any child receiving any advancement of real estate in the life time of the intestate in excess of his share of the real estate shall have the value of such excess taken into account in the distribution of the personalty. If there be no children nor any legal representatives of them, one moiety of such surplusage shall be allowed to the widow, and the residue be distributed equally amongst the next of kindred of the intestate in equal degree, and those who legally represent them, but there shall be no representation among collaterals after the brothers' and sisters' children; and if there be no widow, all such surplusage shall be distributed equally amongst the children, and if no child, to the next of kindred, in equal degree, of the intestate and their representatives; and if after the death of the father any of his children shall die intestate, without wife or children in the lifetime of the mother, every brother and sister and their representatives shall have equal share with her. (See Married Women.)

Divorce. All jurisdiction in matters of divorce is vested in a court of record called "The Court of Divorce and Matrimonial Causes." The causes of divorce from the bond of matrimony and of dissolving and annulling marriage are frigidity or impotence, adultery, and consanguinity within degrees prohibited. In case of divorce for adultery the issue of the marriage are not bastardized or affected with any disability by reason thereof, and dower and curtesy are not barred unless expressly so adjudged.

Dower. Besides common right of dower the widow is entitled in equity to dower out of any lands to which her husband was beneficially entitled at the time of his death, whether such interest be wholly equitable or partly legal and partly equitable, and where the husband had right of entry or action in any land in which his widow would have had dower had he recovered possession thereof, she shall be entitled to dower out of the same if such dower be sued within the period within which such right of action or entry may be enforced.

Executions. In the supreme and county courts execution may issue upon signing final judgment and bind property, real and personal, from the time it is delivered to the sheriff to be executed. In inferior courts may issue against goods and chattels or the body. Memorials of execution duly registered are good for five years when they may be reregistered with like effect. (See Assignments in Trust.)

Exemptions. Wearing apparel, bedding, kitchen utensils and tools of trade or calling to the value of $100, are exempt from levy and sale under execution.

Garnishee. A judgment creditor for an amount exceeding $80, exclusive of costs, may garnishee debts due and owing judgment debtor, except wages not exceeding $20.

Holidays. In all matters relating to bills of exchange, notes, etc., the following are the legal holidays: Sundays, New Year's, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Christmas Day, the Birthday (or the day fixed by proclamation for the celebration of the birthday) of the reigning sovereign, or if such birthday is Sunday then the following day, the first day of July (Dominion Day), and if that day is a Sunday then the second day of July, and any day appointed as a holiday for Canada by proclamation, and the day next following New Year's Day and Christmas Day when those days respectively fall on Sunday.

Judgments in the supreme and county courts bind lands of the debtor from the time execution is delivered to the sheriff to be executed. (See Executions and Assignments in Trust.)

Liens. Mechanics, machinists, builders, laborers, and all other persons doing work upon or furnishing materials to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of any building, or erection or erecting, furnishing or placing any machinery at any time in, upon or in connection with any building, erection or mine, have a lien for the price of the work, machinery or materials upon the building or mine and the lands occupied thereby to the extent of the interest of the employer or purchaser therein. The lien of wage earners is for wages not exceeding thirty days or a balance equal to wages for thirty days. A claim for lien specifying particularly the name and residence of claimant and employer or purchaser, the time at which the work was done, the nature of the work and materials, description of the property and period of credit, if any, verified by affidavit, may be registered. Claim for wages must be registered within thirty days after last day of labor and other claims may be registered before the commencement or during the progress of the work or within thirty days from completion thereof, or from supplying or placing machinery. Registered lien is good for only ninety days, unless proceedings are taken to realize within that time, in which case lien may be continued.

Limitations. Actions on judgments of courts of record, recognizance bonds or other specialties, or for recovery of real property, must be brought within twenty years. In assault, battery, wounding, imprisonment, or words, within two years. All other personal actions within six years.

Married Women. The married woman's property act of 1895 provides that a married woman shall be capable of acquiring, holding, and disposing, by will or otherwise, of any real or personal property as her separate property in the same manner as if she were a feme sole, without the intervention of a trustee, and that she may contract and sue and be sued as a femme sole. The separate personal property of a married woman, dying intestate, goes to her husband to the exclusion of the next of kin if no children, but if she leave children, her surviving, by a former husband, the surviving husband is entitled to one-third and her children, including the surviving husband, are entitled to the remaining two-thirds. Those by the surviving husband only, the husband is entitled to one-half and the children to the other half.

Mortgages. Mortgages must be proved or acknowledged in the same manner as deeds. (See Acknowledgments.) And to be effectual against creditor and bona-fide purchasers must be recorded. Are foreclosed by bill in equity or under a power of sale, if any therein. May be discharged by a certificate of the satisfaction of the mortgagee, his representatives or assigns, acknowledged or proved and duly registered; or the mortgagee may acknowledge satisfaction on the margin of the registry book against the registry of the mortgage in the presence of the registrar.

Notes and Bills of Exchange governed by statute of the Dominion of Canada, embodying mercantile law and legal decisions in the form of statutes. Notice of dishonor mailed to place at which the note on its face purports to have been made is sufficient.

Protest. Protest is required in case of non-acceptance or non-payment of a foreign bill appearing on its face to be such. In case of inland bill subject to due notice of dishonor, it is not necessary to note or protest.

Replevy. Upon giving a bond to the sheriff in double the value of the goods or chattels unlawfully taken or detained, an action to replevy the same may be brought. Claimant may file a claim of property within forty-eight hours.

Succession Duties Act. A succession duty is levied by the Province upon certain estates of deceased persons. The Act does not apply to estates which do not exceed $5,000, or any property given for religious, charitable or educational purposes, or property going to father, mother, husband, wife, child, daughter-in-law or son-in-law, where the estate does not exceed $50,000. Save as above estate are subject to a duty as follows: (1) Estate above $50,000, passing as above, $1.25 on each $100 up to $50,000, and $2.50 on each $100 of excess. (2) Where estate above $200,000, five per cent. (3) Where estate exceeds $10,000, so much as passes to grandfather, grandmother or other lineal ancestor, except father or mother, or to any descendant of a brother or sister of the father or mother of the deceased, or any descendant of such brother or sister, 5 per cent. (4) Where the estate exceeds $5,000, so much as passes to any person in any other degree of collateral consanguinity than above mentioned, or to a stranger, 10 per cent. No duty is exacted where the value of property passing to any one person does not exceed $200. If the beneficiary resides out of the Province, the amount of duty is double the amounts above mentioned.

Transfer of Corporation Stock. Stock is deemed personal estate. No share is transferable until all calls due have been fully paid or where the holder is indebted to the company if the directors object. Shares of deceased member may be transferred by his representative. No transfer unless made under execution or decree of court is valid until entry upon the transfer book of the company.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF NOVA SCOTIA

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. BORDEN, RITCHIE & CHISHOLM, Barristers, Halifax. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Accounts. An account does not carry interest except by special contract in writing or custom of trade. A creditor may notify a debtor in writing that an account will bear interest after demand made, and in such cases payment of interest may be enforced.

Acknowledgments. (See Deeds.)

Actions. In the supreme and county courts actions are commenced by writ of summons. A defendant served in Nova Scotia must enter an appearance to the writ within ten days after service, inclusive of the day of such service. If service is effected out of the Province, the time for appearance is stated in the order granting leave for service out of the jurisdiction, and is limited, having regard to the locality of the place of service. Where the action is for debt or liquidated demand for money and the writ is specially indorsed, final judgment may be signed on default of appearance without further proof of claim; and execution may be issued against goods of defendant forthwith and against his lands after judgment has been recorded one year. If the defendant appears, the plaintiff delivers a statement of claim; the defendant delivers a statement of his defense within ten days, and the plaintiff delivers his reply. The action is then at issue and may be set down for trial. If the defendant appears to a writ specially indorsed, and has no defense to the action, the plaintiff may apply to a judge for final judgment, on notice to the defendant, such application being based upon an affidavit, proving the claim and averring that there is no defense. After judgment is obtained execution may issue. The jurisdiction of the supreme court is from $80 upward; of the county court, from $20 to $400. The county court has no jurisdiction in any action: 1. Where the title of land is brought in question. 2. In which the validity of any devise, bequest, or limitation is disputed, except in certain specified cases. 3. Criminal conversation or seduction. 4. Breach of promise of marriage. Plaintiff resident without the Province may be compelled to give security for costs, either by payment into court, or by bond of persons resident within the jurisdiction of the court and property qualified.

Administration of Estates. Letters of administration are granted by the probate courts of which there is one for each county of the Province. Administration shall be granted to some one or more of the persons hereinafter mentioned, and they shall respectively be entitled thereto in the following order: 1. The widow or next of kin, or both, as the judge of probate may think fit. 2. If the persons so entitled as above do not take out administration within ten days after the return day of the citation, the judge of probate may commit it to one or more of the principal creditors.

Affidavits. Affidavits may be sworn abroad for use in Nova Scotia, before any judge of a court of record, British consul, a vice-consul exercising his functions, notary public, certified under his hand and official seal, or a commissioner authorized to administer oaths out of the Province, duly appointed by the government of the Province.

Aliens may take, hold, convey, and transmit real estate, and trust companies or corporations having a legal status in any foreign state may hold real estate by way of mortgage or otherwise in furtherance of any trust they may assume in connection with any enterprise or undertaking within the Province of Nova Scotia, with full power to such companies or corporations to convey and transfer the same.

Appeals. An appeal lies from the county court to the supreme court sitting in banco. The cases wherein the sum or matter in dispute amount to $250 or upward an appeal lies to the supreme court of Canada. An appeal lies from a judge of the supreme court sitting in court or chambers to the supreme court in banco; from this latter court to the supreme court of Canada as above; and finally by special leave to the Privy Council in England. Security has to be given before leave to appeal will be granted.

Arbitration. The usual practice is for each party to appoint an arbitrator and these two appoint a third or umpire. Where they cannot agree on an umpire the court or a judge may appoint one upon the application of either party, provided he has given the other party seven clear days notice to appoint such umpire. Such arbitrators when appointed by order of court or otherwise have power to enforce attendance of witnesses by subpœna and punish for disobedience of subpœna. They may also administer oaths to the witnesses. Obedience to an award duly made may be enforced by a judge of the supreme court.

Arrest. Where plaintiff, by affidavit, proves to the satisfaction of a judge or commissioner that plaintiff has a good cause of action to an amount which brings action within the jurisdiction of county or supreme court as the case may be, and swears to his belief that he will lose the amount unless the defendant is arrested before he leaves the Province and that he believes defendant is about to leave the Province, the judge without inquiring into the ground of belief, will make an order directing that such defendant be arrested and held to bail. When the amount is less than $80 an order for arrest may be obtained from a magistrate, but in that case plaintiff's affidavit must show why he believes the defendant is about leaving the jurisdiction.

Assignments. (See Insolvent Laws.)

Attachment. In suits against absent or absconding debtor, the writ of summons shall be in the usual form, and shall describe the defendant as absent or absconding. The plaintiff may sue out a writ of attachment to take defendant's property or he may issue a summons to any agent having money or credits due defendant, on making an affidavit showing a cause of action for an amount within the jurisdiction of court, stating the amount of debt or damage sustained, and that defendant is about to leave the Province. The sum so shown should be indorsed on the writ of attachment. The sheriff shall levy for the amount indorsed on the writ with $120 for probable costs. Goods exhibited to sheriff as defendant's goods are appraised by sworn appraisers; defendant's goods are not bound by the attachment until levy is made. Perishable goods may be sold under an order of the court, unless defendant's agents give security for the value within three days after their appraisement; the affidavit may be sworn out of the Province if the court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of the claim.

Banks. The subject of banks and banking is one which, by the Canadian constitution, is committed to the Parliament of Canada. The legislature of the Province has no power to deal with the subject.

The legislation respecting banks and banking is contained in the act of the Parliament of Canada (53 Vict., C. 31) passed in the year 1890 and cited as the bank act. The provisions of the act apply to the thirty-six banks mentioned in schedule A to the act. The act continues the charters or acts of incorporation of said banks until July, 1901, subject, however, to forfeiture by reason of insolvency or non-performance of the conditions of the act.

The provisions for the incorporation of banks are largely similar to the provisions of law respecting the formation of other corporations. A bank can not commence business without previously obtaining permission from the treasury board to do so. The capital stock of a bank may be increased by resolution of the shareholders and approval of the treasury board. A full statement of the affairs of the bank showing the liabilities and assets must be laid before the shareholders at their annual meeting. A bank must hold not less than 40 per cent of its cash reserves in Dominion notes; if not it incurs a penalty of $500 for each violation. No bank can issue a note for less than $5, or for any sum which is not a multiple of $5. The payment of the notes is a first charge on a bank's assets. Existing banks must make a deposit with the minister of finance equal to 5 per cent of the note circulation. Notes of the bank are payable at par throughout the Dominion of Canada. Banks are authorized to hold real estate, to make advances in aid of building ships, and taking security therefor; and to take warehouse receipts as collateral security, and similar business. They are obliged to make returns to the finance minister showing their assets and liabilities, and giving the names of their shareholders in detail. Several penalties are provided for the enforcement of the various provisions of the act. The stock of a bank is transferable at its head office.

Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes. The law is much the same as in the United States. A demand draft is without days of grace. A sight draft is entitled to three days of grace. Notice of dishonor is necessary to hold the indorser but not the maker. A bill or note falling due on a legal holiday (Sunday, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, Good Friday, birthday of sovereign or any day made a holiday by royal proclamation) is payable on the following day. The subject of bills of exchange and promissory notes is by the constitution within the powers of the federal parliament, and consequently, the law on the subject is the same in all the Canadian provinces.

Bills of Lading are now negotiable. Every bill of lading in the hands of a consignee or indorsee for valuable consideration representing goods to have been shipped on board a vessel or train, shall be conclusive evidence of such shipment as against the master or other person signing the same, notwithstanding that such goods or some part thereof may not have been so shipped, unless such holder of the bill of lading has actual notice at the time of receiving the same that the goods had not in fact been laden on board, or unless such bill of lading has a stipulation to the contrary; but the master or other person so signing may exonerate himself in respect to such misrepresentation by showing that it was caused without any default on his part, and wholly by the fraud of the shipper, or of the holder, or of some person under whom the holder claims. Every consignee of goods named in a bill of lading to whom the property in the goods therein mentioned passes upon or by reason of such consignment or indorsement, shall have transferred to and vested in him all right of suit and be subject to the same liabilities in respect of such goods as if the contract contained in the bill of lading had been made to himself.

Bills of Sale. Every bill of sale of personal chattels, and every schedule annexed or referred to in such bill of sale, must be filed, at the time of the execution thereof, with the registrar of deeds of the county or district in which the maker resides, accompanied by an affidavit by the grantor of the execution of the bill of sale and the bona fides thereof, unless such bill of sale is given to secure the grantee: (a) Repayment of any advances to be made by him under an agreement therefor; or (b) against loss or damage by reason of the endorsement of any bills or promissory notes; or (c) against loss or damage by reason of any other liability incurred by the grantee for the grantor; or (d) against loss or damage by reason of any liability to be incurred, under an agreement by the grantee for the grantor; otherwise as against the sheriff or other persons levying on or seizing such property comprised therein; under the process of law such bill of sale will only take effect and will only have priority from the time of such filing.

Chattel Mortgages. (See Bills of Sale.)

Collaterals. Bills of exchange, promissory notes, warehouse receipts, and bills of lading, etc., may be given as collateral security.

Corporations are formed by special charter, act of Parliament, or under joint stock companies acts. Foreigners can form a joint stock company for the purpose of carrying on business in Nova Scotia. Stockholders are liable for the full amount of the stock subscribed. This latter does not apply to banks, as stockholders under the bank act are liable to double the amount of the stock subscribed.

Court Jurisdiction. (See Action.)

Days of Grace. Where a bill is not payable on demand, the day on which it falls due is determined as follows: Three days, called days of grace, are, in every case, where the bill itself does not otherwise provide, added to the time of payment as fixed by the bill, and the bill is due and payable on the last day of grace. When the last day of grace falls on Sunday or legal holiday in the Province, then the next day following shall be the last day of grace.

Deeds. All deeds, judgments, and attachments affecting lands shall be registered in the office of the registrar of deeds appointed by the governor in council for the county or district in which the lands lie. Deeds within the Province may be proved upon the oath of a subscribing witness to the execution thereof taken before the registrar, a judge of the supreme court, a notary public, a justice of the peace, or upon the personal acknowledgment by the parties under oath of the due execution thereof. Deeds may be proved out of the Province, as well in foreign countries as in British dominions, by the oath of a subscribing witness or the acknowledgment by the parties under oath. Such oath to be administered by a commissioner appointed to take affidavits without the Province, by a judge of any court of record, by the mayor of any city, by a justice of the peace, or by a notary public, residing respectively at or near the place where the deed is proved, and such attestation with the date shall be certified in writing on the said deed by such public functionary; and in the case of such oath being taken before a justice of the peace, his certificate shall be authenticated under the hand and seal of a notary public; and where a deed is proved in a foreign country, the oath may be administered by and the attestation with the date certified under the hand and seal of any public minister, ambassador, or consul from the court of Great Britain, or vice consul residing at or near the place where the deed is proved. All deeds and mortgages shall be under seal and executed in the presence of at least one witness, and unless registered shall be void against any subsequent purchaser or mortgagee for valuable consideration, who shall first register his deed or mortgage of such lands.

Depositions. In an action, the court or a judge, upon sufficient cause shown by affidavit, may order a commission to issue for the taking of the deposition of witnesses residing outside the Province, in such manner as the court or a judge may direct. Parties to a cause may consent in writing to examine witnesses residing abroad.

Descent of Real and Personal Estate. Real Estate. When a person dies intestate, any real estate to which he may be entitled at the time of his death shall descend as follows: 1. In equal shares to children and issue of deceased children according to the right of representation. If no child living, to his other lineal descendants, who shall share equally if in same degree, otherwise according to the right of representation. 2. If no issue one-half to father, one-half to widow in lieu of dower; if no widow the whole to father. 3. If no issue or father, one-half to widow, other half in equal shares to mother, brothers, and sisters, and the children of deceased brother and sister, by right of representation; if no widow, whole to mother, brother and sister, and children of any deceased brother or sister, by right of representation. 4. If none of foregoing in equal shares to his next of kin of him in equal degree, excepting where two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors shall be preferred, but in no case shall representatives be admitted among collaterals of the brother's and sister's children. 5. If person deceased unmarried and under age, estate inherited from either parent goes to children of same parent and issue equally, if of same degree, otherwise according to right of representation; if no children of same parent, to all the issue of the other children of the same parent equally, if in same degree; otherwise according to right of representation. Degrees of the kindred computed by civil law, and kindred of half blood inherit equally with whole blood in same degree. Personal property descends in the same way, except that after the payment of debts, funeral expenses, etc., one-half of the residue goes to the widow, if any, provided that the intestate shall leave no lawful issue; and if the intestate shall leave no kindred, the whole of such residue shall go to his widow. The widow is allowed all her paraphernalia, wearing apparel, etc., sustenance for family for ninety days after death of husband.

Divorce. The judge in equity for the time being is the judge ordinary of the court for divorce and matrimonial causes. The jurisdiction of the court extends to all matters relating to prohibited marriages and divorce, and it may declare any marriage null and void for impotence, adultery, cruelty, or kindred within the degrees prohibited; provided, that no contract shall hereafter be deemed null and void by reason of pre-contract. The court may direct the examination of the witnesses orally, may declare, by definitive sentence or otherwise, the marriage between the parties to the suit to be null and void from such time as the court may deem proper, and costs and allimony in its discretion. Court may enforce judgment by execution. An appeal lies from this court to the supreme court in banco. After the suit has been finally determined either of the parties may marry again.

Dower. A wife is entitled to dower out of all lands (with a few exceptions, of which her husband was seized at and after their marriage) in which she did not bar dower during his lifetime; but a husband can only be tenant by the curtesy of such of his wife's land as she died seized of.

Execution. Writ of execution (fieri facias) may issue upon a judgment or order for the payment of any moneys or transfer of real or personal property, and, if unexecuted, shall remain in force for one year only from its issue, but may be renewed at any time before date of expiration from date of renewal, and so on from time to time. A writ issued against personal property from the time of its delivery to the sheriff, a levy may be made under it at any time, and after levy and due advertising the property shall be sold. Execution against lands may issue at any time within six years from the signing of judgment. A judgment does not bind real estate of the debtor until it has been registered in the registry of deeds for the county of district in which said lands lie, for one year, and after such period the judgment creditor may order execution to be levied on said lands. The sheriff having made such levy, he shall give thirty days' notice of sale in the "Royal Gazette" newspaper, and by posters, when he shall sell the lands at public auction.

Exemptions. The necessary wearing apparel, bedding and bedstead of the debtor and his family, and the tools and implements of his trade and calling, one stove and his last cow, cooking utensils, six each of knives, forks, cups, plates, saucers, spoons, chairs, one shovel, one table, teapot, jug, spinning wheel, weaving loom, ten religious volumes, food and fuel for thirty days, two sheep and feed for same, one hog and feed for same, and cow, for thirty days, shall be exempted from execution.

Frauds. Leases or estates in land or mining areas not in writing have the force of estates at will, except as to leases under three years. Interest in land or mining areas shall be assignable only by deed or note signed by the party assigning the same. The declaration or creation of a trust in land or mining areas, or the assignment thereof, must be in writing signed by the party granting or assigning the same, or by his last will. No action shall be brought whereby to charge any executor or administrator upon any special promise to answer damages out of his own estate, or whereby to charge any defendant upon any special promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, or whereby to charge any person on an agreement made upon consideration of marriage, or upon any contract or sale of lands or any interest therein, or in any mining areas, or upon any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof, unless the agreement upon which the action shall be brought, or some memorandum or note thereof, shall be in writing, signed by the party to be charged therewith, or some other person authorized by him. Promise to be answerable for the debt of another not invalid for want of statement of consideration. The ratification of a contract by an infant must be in writing to maintain an action. No contract for the sale of goods for the price of forty dollars or upwards shall be good unless the buyer accept part of the goods so sold, and actually receive the same, or give something in earnest to bind the bargain or in part payment, or that some note or memorandum of the said bargain may be made and signed by the party to be charged therewith or their agents thereunto authorized.

Garnishment. The court or a judge, upon the ex parte application of any person who has obtained a judgment for the payment of money, upon affidavit of himself or solicitor stating that judgment has been recovered, and it is still unsatisfied and to what amount, and that any other person is indebted to such debtor, and is within the jurisdiction, order that all debts owing from such third person (the garnishee) to such debtor shall be attached to answer the judgment.

Holidays. Sundays, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Christmas Day, the birthday of the reigning sovereign, the 1st day of July (Dominion Day), and if that day is a Sunday, then the 2d day of July, and any day appointed by proclamation for a public holiday.

Husband and Wife. (See Divorce and Married Women.)

Insolvent Law. The Legislature of Nova Scotia, in 1898, passed an act respecting assignments of, and preferences by, insolvent persons, which act came in force on July 1, 1898. It provides that all confessions of judgment, gifts, conveyances, transfers, etc., given by persons in insolvent circumstances with intent to hinder or delay any of his creditors, or to give a preference to some of them over others shall be void. Any preference made within sixty days before action brought to impeach the transaction shall be presumed to be an unjust preference. The property and assets of any estate of which an assignment is made shall not be removed from the Province without the order of the court. In distributing an estate the employés of the insolvent are entitled to three months' wages in full and to rank with other creditors for the balance of wages if any. The remuneration of assignee is to be fixed by the creditors, and if more is voted by the creditors, then by a judge. Copies of assignment must be filed in registry of deed of county where insolvent resides, and notice of the assignment must be published in Royal Gazette and local newspaper.

Interest. Legal rate, 6 per cent. A contract may be made in writing for any rate not exceeding 7 per cent, when the security is real or chattel real, or for any rate where the security is personal property or personal responsibility.

Judgments. (See Executions.)

Limitations on all contracts not under seal, six years; judgments and contracts under seal, twenty years. No arrears of dower, rent, or interest can be recovered after six years.

Married Women's Property Act. Under this act married women may acquire, hold, and dispose of, by will or otherwise, any real or personal property as their separate property, in the same manner as if they were femme sole, and without the intervention of any trustee. Married women, by registered consent of husband, may carry on separate business. Married women having separate estate may sue and be sued as femme sole.

Mechanic's Lien. Every mechanic, machinist, laborer, builder, contractor, or other person doing work upon or furnishing materials to be used in the construction of any building, road, railway, wharf, pier, bridge, mine, well, excavation, sidewalk, pavement, drain, or sewer has a lien for the price of his work thereon to the extent of the owner's interest. A claim for lien must be filed in the Registry of Deeds for the registration district in which the lands lie, within thirty days after the completion of the work or the supplying of materials, else the lien will cease. Proceedings to enforce registered liens must be commenced within ninety days after the completion of the work, services, or furnishing of supplies, etc. Unregistered liens shall cease to exist on the expiration of time limited for registration, unless in the meantime an action is commenced to realize the claim.

Mortgages must be under seal. A mortgage is foreclosed by an action in the supreme court, and is discharged by a release in which reference is made to the registry of the mortgage, and same must be under seal, executed and recorded as an ordinary deed, and a marginal note made on the registered mortgage that the same has been redeemed.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. (See Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes.)

Powers of Attorney must be under seal. Where conveyances of land are executed under power of attorney, it must be registered with the conveyance.

Probate Law. (See Administration and Descent of Property.)

Protest. Delay in giving notice of dishonor is excused where the delay is caused by circumstances beyond the control of the person giving notice. Where an inland bill (one which on the face of it purports to be both drawn and payable within Canada, or drawn upon some person resident therein) has been dishonored, it may be noted and protested for non-acceptance or non-payment, as the case may be. Where a foreign bill has been dishonored for non-acceptance it must be duly protested for non-acceptance. If it is not so protested the drawer and endorsers are discharged.

Replevy. An order for replevin may issue after plaintiff makes affidavit that he is entitled to property, that it is detained unjustly, and setting forth the value of it. The sheriff, before replevying, may require a bond from plaintiff to save him harmless, before proceeding to replevy.

Taxes are levied on real and personal property by the municipalities and collected by them. Outside the city of Halifax a tax is levied on income.

Wills must be in writing, signed at the foot or end thereof by the testator or by some other person in his presence and by his direction, and such signature shall be made or acknowledged by the testator in the presence of two or more witnesses, present at the same time; and such witnesses shall attest and shall subscribe the will in the presence of the testator and in the presence of each other; but no attestation shall be necessary. Executors are competent witnesses. Wills of minors are invalid.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF ONTARIO

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by R. E. KINGSFORD, Barrister at Law, Toronto. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

The law throughout Canada is uniform on the following commercial matters: 1. Currency and coinage. 2. Banking, incorporation of banks, and issuing of paper money. 3. Savings banks. 4. Bills of exchange and promissory notes. 5. Interest. 6. Legal tender. 7. Bankruptcy and insolvency. 8. Patents. 9. Copyrights. There are other matters exclusively within the jurisdiction of the Dominion, but they are not commercial. The Provinces can not legislate on the above matters, although they have general jurisdiction in matters of property and civil rights. The laws in the different Provinces on the subjects within their jurisdiction vary. There is an analogy between this division of jurisdiction between the Dominion and the Provinces and that between the United States and the respective States. The difference between the two systems is that all unenumerated powers in Canada belong to the Dominion. In the United States all unenumerated powers belong to the respective States.

Actions. All actions are commenced by a writ of summons indorsed with a statement of the nature of the claim made, or the relief or remedy sought. If the claim is for a liquidated demand in money arising out of contract, express or implied, for example, on a bill of exchange, promissory note, check, account, or any simple contract debt, the writ is specially indorsed with the particulars of the claim or amount sought to be recovered. A defendant, if served within Ontario, must enter an appearance within ten days after service, inclusive of the day of service. If served out of Ontario, further time is given, according to distance. If the writ is specially indorsed, and the defendant does not appear, judgment may be signed in default of appearance without any further proof of claim, and execution issued forthwith. Should the defendant enter an appearance, pleadings will have to be served, and the action take its ordinary course. If the defendant in a specially indorsed writ appears merely for time, the plaintiff may at once give notice and apply for final judgment, after filing an affidavit setting forth the facts, made by himself or any other person, or agent, who can swear positively to the debt or cause of action, verifying the cause of action, and stating that in his belief there is no defence, and that the same was entered only for the purpose of delay. The court, upon such application, has power to order immediate and final judgment to be signed.*

Inferior jurisdiction is exercised by the division or county courts. Division courts are held in the different counties throughout the Province, and have jurisdiction in: 1. All personal actions where the amount claimed does not exceed $60, or $100 when agreed to by the parties. 2. Claims and demands of debt, account, or breach of contract, or covenant or money demand where the amount or balance claimed does not exceed $100. 3. Claims for debt or money demand not exceeding $200 and interest, where the amount, or original amount, is ascertained by the signature of the defendant or person whom, as executor or administrator, he represents. No costs are recoverable in the division court as a general rule, only court fees, which are not large. County courts have jurisdiction in: 1. All personal actions where debt or damages claimed do not exceed $200. 2. In all suits relating to debt, covenant, and contract to $600, if ascertained by act of the parties or signature of the defendant, or in any similar case to any amount, if the parties by writing submit to the jurisdiction of the court. 3. Recovery of land where its value does not exceed $200. 4. Partnership accounts where stock or capital is not over $1,000. 5. Legacies not above $200 out of an estate not exceeding $1,000. 6. Claims on mortgages where sum claimed does not exceed $200. 7. Actions for redemption or equitable relief where sum does not exceed $200. 8. Contestation of creditors' claims on an estate where amount of claim does not exceed $400. They can not try: 1. Title to land where the value of the land is over $200. 2. The validity of any devise or bequest over $200 where the estate is over $1,000. 3. Actions for libel or slander, or crim. con. or seduction, or against a justice of the peace. In all these latter cases and in all actions above the limit of the county court, the high court of justice for Ontario has jurisdiction. If suits are brought in the wrong court, the parties may be deprived of costs. Priority of judgments is regulated only by the time of the delivery of the writ of execution into the hands of the sheriff, and not by the time of obtaining the judgments, and judgment creditors share equally with other creditors, gaining no priority or advantage, except that their costs are added to their claim. (See Assignments.)

Affidavits. Affidavits made in the United States or any foreign country, to be used in any of the courts in Ontario, may be made

* Attorneys in the States sending claims for collection to Ontario are recommended to read carefully this summary of the jurisdiction of the Ontario courts over claims in Ontario, as mistakes and disputes constantly arise, owing to American attorneys not being aware that the costs on claims vary with the amount of the claim. In division courts no costs at all are allowed, only court disbursements, and, therefore, litigant in that court, even if successful, has to pay his own costs. The tendency of legislation has been to extend the jurisdiction of the inferior courts.

before a notary public, certified under his hand and official seal, or before a commissioner residing in such foreign country, duly authorized to take affidavits, etc., to be used in Ontario.

Affirmations. Any oath, affidavit, affirmation, or solemn declaration in attestation of the execution of any written instrument or deed, or allegations of fact, or of any account rendered may be made before any judge, notary public, or commissioner. Accounts and statements are usually verified in this way when required to be sent in to assignees, trustees, executors and administrators of estates.

Aliens. Every kind of real and personal property may now be held, bought and sold by aliens as freely as though they were natural-born subjects. Although not resident in Ontario, they may be sued if they are served with notice of process. Any person not resident within the Province who brings an action in its courts, is bound, upon application made therefor, to give to the opposite party security for the costs which may be incurred in the action, generally to the extent of $400. In the county courts, security is required to the extent of $200. In cases where debt is ascertained by the signature of the defendant, the security required is $50. (See also Judgments.)

Arrest. One foreigner can not follow another into Ontario and have him arrested for a debt contracted abroad, but any creditor whose claim is $100 or over may obtain the arrest of his debtor upon showing by affidavit that the debtor is about to leave the Province, with intent to defraud his creditors. A married woman is not liable to arrest for debt.

Assignments. There is no insolvent or bankruptcy act in force in Canada now. In Ontario voluntary assignments by debtors supersede judgments, except judgments for alimony duly registered in Registry office against the lands of the defendant. A preference made by a debtor which has the effect of defeating any creditor is presumed to be fraudulent and void if attacked within sixty days, or if followed by an assignment within sixty days. If attacked after sixty days, the intent to prefer must be proved. If proved, the transaction is set aside, unless it is proved to have been made under pressure by the preferred creditor.

Attachment. A resident in Ontario who, being indebted to any other person, departs or absconds from this Province with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid arrest or service of process, and at the time of his so departing is possessed to his own use of any real or personal property, is deemed an absconding debtor, and his property may be seized and taken by a writ of attachment, for which a judge's order must be obtained upon affidavits setting forth the necessary facts.

Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes. No stamp duty is required to be paid on bills, notes or checks. Three days of grace are allowed. In case a bill or note falls due and is payable on a legal holiday, it must be presented the day after such holiday. The legal holidays as fixed by statute, in all matters relating to bills or notes, are Sundays, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Christmas Day, the birthday of the Sovereign (24th of May), Dominion Day (1st of July), Labor Day (3d of September), and any special days appointed by proclamation for public holidays, fasting or thanksgiving. The legal rate of interest is 6 per cent. If a bill is dishonored abroad, in addition to interest and expenses of noting and protest, holder is entitled to re-exchange with interest to date of payment.

Bills of Sale and Chattel Mortgages must be filed in the office of the clerk of the county court of the county where the goods are situated, within five days from the date of execution. Renewal statements filed during the last month of each year of their currency are required to preserve their effect.

Claims against Estates of Deceased Persons. Where a person dies intestate, letters of administration may be granted by the surrogate court. In administering the estate, no difference is made as to judgment or other debts; all are to be paid ratably. Claims are enforced by suing the executor or administrator. Wills are proved in the surrogate court of the county where the testator had his last place of abode. Real and personal property both devolve upon an administrator. Security is required before administration granted. (See Descent.)

Commissions are granted by order of a judge for taking the depositions of a witness in a foreign country, or when dangerously ill, though resident in the Province, or about to quit the Province. The court gives full directions as to the execution of the commission.

Corporations are created by act of Parliament, special charter, or under the general acts relating to the incorporation of joint stock companies by letters patent. Shareholders are liable only to the amount of their shares, and when these shares are paid in full, they are discharged from any further liability, except that the directors of the company remain personally liable to the company's servants for wages incurred or earned while such directors have been in office, to the amount of one year's wages. Provision has been made for the winding up of joint stock companies.

Costs, Security for. (See Aliens.)

Courts—County, Division, and High Court of Justice. (See Actions.)

Deeds. All deeds should be in duplicate, so that one may be registered while the other is returned certified. Common forms of deeds may be used, but the statute provides a short form, with covenants and bar of dower. All deeds should be under seal. A wafer, sealing wax, or other adhesive substance will answer for a seal, but a scroll is not a seal. In conveying the estate of a married woman it is usual, although not absolutely necessary for safety, that the husband should be a party to the deed, but no acknowledgment or separate examination of the wife, apart from her husband, is required. Proof of all deeds, mortgages, etc., for registration, is made by an affidavit by the subscribing witness, in any foreign country—before the mayor of any city, borough, or town corporate, certified under the common seal, or before any British consul or vice-consul resident in such country, or before a judge of a court of record, or a notary public, certified under his official seal. When different parties sign before different subscribing witnesses, each such witness must make a similar affidavit as to the execution by the parties whose execution he attests, or the deed can not be registered. One credible person, male or female, who can read and write, will suffice as a witness. (See Lands Titles.)

Descent. Real estate descends like personalty. A widow is entitled to elect whether she will take her dower or a distributive share of the estate, according to the rules of devolution of personal estate.

Distress. (See Exemptions.)

Evidence. In all civil proceedings no person is disqualified as a witness on the ground of interest, as a party or otherwise. Husbands and wives are competent and compellable witnesses, save as to communications made during their marriage and proceedings consequent upon adultery. In actions by or against representatives of any deceased person, or by or against a lunatic, an opposite or interested party to the suit can not have judgment upon his own evidence as to any matter occurring before the death, unless such evidence is corroborated. An affirmation or declaration may be made by a witness if the presiding judge be satisfied that an oath would not in conscience have any binding effect.

Exemptions. The following goods and chattels of a judgment debtor are exempt from seizure under writs of execution, or distress warrants for rent or taxes: The bed and bedding, and the necessary and ordinary wearing apparel of the debtor and his family; certain chattels, not exceeding in value $150; necessary fuel and food, not exceeding in value the sum of $40; stock in all not to exceed in value $75, and feed therefor for thirty days; tools and implements of, or chattels ordinarily used in, the debtor's occupation, to the value of $100; bees reared and kept in hives to the extent of fifteen hives; lands acquired under the free grant and homestead act are exempt from seizure and sale for debt for a period of twenty years from location of land being made by locatee or his widow, heirs, or devisees.

Hire Receipts and Sale Notes. Except in the case of household furniture, to be valid as against subsequent purchasers or mortgagees without notice, these documents must be registered like a chattel mortgage with the clerk of the county court. If the document is not registered the article must be stamped with the name and address of the manufacturer, so that an intending purchaser may ascertain whether the article is paid for. If there is a seizure made by the vendor for breach of condition on a conditional sale the vendor must allow twenty days before a re-sale, during which time the purchaser may redeem.

Insolvency. There is no insolvency act in force. (See Assignments.)

Interest. Six per cent is the legal rate. Banks can not recover more than 7 per cent on mortgages. Parties may agree between themselves as to any rate of interest; but, where no rate has been agreed upon, the legal rate only is recoverable.

Judgments. Foreign judgments are all judgments recovered against any person outside of the Province, even though it be in any other Province of the Dominion. A defendant sued in the courts of the Province on a foreign judgment of a court, to the jurisdiction of which he was subject, can not set up as a defense thereto any defense which he set up, or might have set up, to the original action if he was personally served with the process in such original action, or appeared or pleaded thereto. In the case of actions on judgments obtained in the Province of Quebec, if the service was not personal any defense may be set up which might have been made to the original judgment.

Lands Titles System. Lands in Ontario may be within the "lands titles system" of transfer, which is by certificate instead of deed. A mortgage is called a charge. Each holder of land gets a certificate from the office for the county—on that certificate are indorsed all transfers. Where papers are sent to the United States for execution, under this system, special directions will be required.

Limitations. All actions upon simple contracts, notes, bills, accounts, and all instruments not under seal and money demands, must be commenced and brought within six years from the time the cause of action arose or accrues. When the plaintiff is under any disability, such as infancy, coverture, or lunacy, the statute of limitations begins to run from the removal of the disability. Non-resident plaintiffs have no longer time than if they were resident. As against a non-resident defendant the action may be brought within time limited after return of defendant to Ontario. All actions to recover land and real estate must be brought and commenced within ten years from the time when the right of action first accrued.

Married Women. A married woman can acquire, hold, and dispose of, by will or otherwise, any real or personal property, including any property acquired by her in any employment which she carries on separately from her husband, or by the exercise of any literary, artistic or scientific skill, as her separate property, and as though she were a femme sole, without the intervention of any trustee. She may enter into any contract, and be sued, either in contract or tort, and be liable as if a femme sole, and her husband need not be joined as a party. All damages and costs recovered against her in an action shall be payable out of her separate estate. No husband or wife shall be entitled to sue the other for tort in a civil action. A married woman may devise or bequeath her property by will. A wife is entitled to dower out of all the lands of which her husband was seized at and after their marriage in which she has not barred her dower. Where the net value of the whole real and personal estate is $1,000 the widow is entitled to the whole of it. Where the net value of the estate is over $1,000 the widow has an absolute right to $1,000, and also her share of the residue. She may, however, claim under the old law and take her chance of doing better under it. The husband can only be tenant by curtesy out of such lands as his wife may die seized or possessed of. Woman attains her majority at twenty-one years.

Mechanics' Liens. Every mechanic, machinist, laborer, builder, contractor, or other person doing work upon, or furnishing materials to be used in the construction of, any building, or erecting, furnishing or placing machinery on or in connection with any building, has a lien for the price of the work, on such building, and the lands therewith, to the extent of the owner's interest. A statement of claim must be filed in the registry office of the county where the lands lie, within thirty days after the completion of the work, or the supplying of the materials, else the lien will cease. Proceedings to enforce the lien must be taken within six months from the completion of the work, in the high court of justice. Special laws are made as to reduction of legal expenses in these cases. Mechanics are entitled to a lien upon a chattel for work done thereon, and may sell the chattel after three months if the work is not paid for. If the chattel is delivered to the owner, the lien ceases.

Mortgages on Lands should be executed and proved like deeds. (See Deeds.) A mortgage must be registered in the registry office of the county within which the lands are situated. It may be discharged by a certificate signed by the mortgagee, or his assignee, or representative entitled to receive the money, and such certificate should be registered in same registry office. After maturity the mortgagee is not entitled to charge the mortgagor any interest by way of bonus for the privilege of paying off the mortgage. The execution of a certificate is proved in the same manner as a deed or a mortgage. The usual remedies of a mortgagee are sale or foreclosure, or action upon the covenant.

Partnerships. All partnerships, for trading, mining, or manufacturing purposes, must be registered in the county registry office. The declaration must set out the full names, occupation, and residence of the partners, the business they propose to carry on, and for how long their partnership has existed or is to exist. This declaration must be filed within six months after the formation of the partnership. A penalty of $100 may be imposed in case of non-compliance with the act. A similar declaration shall be filed when and so often as any change in the partnership takes place.

Preferences. (See Assignments.)

Promissory Notes. (See Bills of Exchange.)

Proof of Claims. (See Affirmations.)

Succession Duties. 1. Aggregate value $100,000 or over and passing to or for father, mother, husband, wife, child, grandchild, or other lineal descendant, or daughter-in-law or son-in-law of deceased, $2 50 per $100. 2. Aggregate value $100,000, passing as aforesaid, $5 per $100. 3. Value exceeding $10,000, so much thereof passing to or for grandfather, grandmother or any other lineal ancestor of deceased, except father and mother, or to any brother or sister of the deceased, or to any descendant of such brother or sister, or to an uncle or aunt or to any descendant of such uncle or aunt, $5 per $100. 4. Value exceeding $10,000 and passing to or for any person in any other degree of collateral consanguinity than as above, or to or for any stranger in blood, $10 per $100.

Taxes. The rate for the year is fixed by the council of each municipal corporation, and lands are charged therewith. Lands may be sold for taxes when they are in arrears for three years. The owner may redeem within one year after sale on repayment of amount to purchaser at tax sale with 10 per cent added.

Wills must be in writing, and signed, but need not be sealed, by the testator or by some person in his presence and by his direction; such signature to be made or acknowledged by the testator, in the presence of two witnesses, both present at the same time, who shall sign their names as such witnesses, in the presence of the testator. A common form of attestation clause is as follows:

"Signed and declared by the above-named A. B., as and for his last "will and testament, in the presence of us, both present at the same time "who, at his request and in his presence, have hereunto subscribed our "names as witnesses.

"C. D., of Toronto, clerk. (Signed) "A. B."

"E. F., of Hamilton, merchant."

The gift to a witness, or to the husband or wife of a witness, is invalid. A will to pass personal property need only be in conformity with the law of the country in which the testator had his domicile. To pass real estate, however, the will must be valid and effectual for such purpose according to the law of the country where the real estate is situated. A will, no matter how long executed before the death of the testator, is construed as if it had been executed immediately before his death. Hence, property acquired between the date of the will and the time of the testator's death may pass by the will.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

RELATING TO

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. M. & D. C. McLeod, Charlottetown. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Acknowledgments. All deeds executed in the Province must, before registry, be either acknowledged by the party, or proved on oath by subscribing witness before a commissioner for proving deeds, or before the registrar. Deed executed abroad may be acknowledged by the parties, or proved on the oath of witness before the mayor of any city of the country where the deed is executed and certified under common seal of such city, or before any British consul, vice-consul, or consular agent, or before a judge of a court of record, or a notary public, certified under his official seal, or before a commissioner authorized by the government of the Province to take affidavits abroad in a court of record in the Province or to take acknowledgments of deeds abroad, or may be proved on the oath of subscribing witness before a justice of the peace in country where executed, the handwriting and official character of the justice to be certified under hand and seal of a notary public. (See Husband and Wife.)

Actions. (See Courts.)

Administration of Estates. Estates of intestates and testators are usually administered in surrogate court. Court of chancery may administer in certain cases. Administrators and executors are required to file inventory within three months, and to render an account within six months, and after that (unless further time is granted) may be cited to do so. Creditor may have administration, in case next of kin refusing. In estates under $800, executor or administrator must advertise in the Royal Gazette for one month, and in larger estates for three months, for creditors to prove their claims under oath within one year from date of advertisement. Claims should be proved against the estate within eight months after letters testamentary have been taken out, as after that time the executor, on being sued, may plead specially that he had no notice of the debt, and that he has applied the assets in his hands in payment of the debts proved against the estate and of which he had notice. If the personalty is insufficient to pay debts, executor or administrator may, by leave of the surrogate, sell the real estate.

Affidavits. Affidavits to be made abroad, to be used in this Province for any purpose for which affidavits might be used if made within the Province, may be sworn before a judge of a court of record, or of a superior court, or of a county court, or before a British consul, vice-consul, or consular agent, or before the mayor of any city or town, or before a notary public, provided the signature and official character of person before whom taken be certified under the hand and seal of a notary public, or under hand of a judge, clerk, or prothonotary of a court of record or of a superior or county court, and the seal of such court: or under hand of the mayor of any city or town, and the corporate seal of such city or town; or under the hand and official seal of a British consul, vice-consul, or consular agent. The person before whom oath taken may certify to his own official character and qualification under his hand and official seal. If there be any erasure or interlineation in jurat, the affidavit can not, as a rule, be used. The local government, under statutory powers, have appointed commissioners in London, New York, Montreal, Quebec, Chicago, Boston, and Philadelphia for taking affidavits for the supreme court and for taking acknowledgments of deeds.

Aliens. Previous to confederation (A. D. 1873), aliens might hold real estate not exceeding 200 acres. Now, by Dominion statute, aliens may hold real and personal property of every description the same as natural-born British subjects, and succession may be traced through aliens; but an alien is not eligible for any public office. Aliens may be summoned to defend suits in this Province in certain cases. (See Courts.)

A Married Woman is capable of acquiring, holding, and disposing of any real or personal property in the same manner as if she were a femme sole, and may enter into contracts, and may render herself liable in respect and to the extent of her separate property.

Appeals. Appeals lie from probate and county courts to supreme court, decision of which in such appeal is final. Appeal lies from supreme court (i. e., in actions originating in such court) to the supreme court of Canada at Ottawa.

Arbitration. If in any suit in supreme court matter in dispute consists wholly or in part of matters of mere account, which can not conveniently be tried in ordinary way, court or judge may order such matter wholly or in part to be referred to an arbitrator appointed by the parties or to an officer of the court.

Arrest. A resident debtor can not be arrested by process out of supreme court, except by judge's order, to be made on affidavit on proof of debt, and showing facts and circumstances to satisfy judge that there is good and probable cause for believing that debtor, unless forthwith apprehended, is about to quit the Province with intent to defraud creditor or creditors. Non-resident debtor, if found in the Province, may be arrested upon an affidavit of debt being made showing that he is a non-resident. Capias from county court may issue for any sum over $8 and not over $150, upon an affidavit being made of amount of debt and of belief that debtor is about to depart from the Province to evade payment of his debts.

Assignments and Insolvency. An assignment made by debtor unable to pay in full to a creditor with intent to give such creditor a preference is void. Such assignment if impeached within sixty days is presumed to have been made with such intent, whether same was made voluntarily or under pressure; if impeached after expiry of sixty days intent must be proved. Statute has provisions for making assignments to official assignee for payment of creditors rateably without preference.

Attachments. The property of an absent or absconding debtor may be attached upon affidavit being made of the debt and of the fact that debtor is so absent or absconding. Property of a resident debtor, except debts, etc. (see Garnishment), can not be seized or attached until after judgment.

Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes. No stamp required. No days of grace are allowed on bills payable on demand, or on presentation, or in which no time for payment is expressed. Three days of grace allowed on bills payable at sight, or at a fixed period after sight, or after date, or on or at a fixed period after the occurrence of a specified event certain to happen. If last day of grace falls on legal holiday, then day next following not being such holiday shall be last day of grace. In all matters relating to bills and notes, following days are legal holidays: Sundays, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Christmas Day, Queen's Birthday (24th of May or other day fixed by proclamation), 1st of July (and if 1st falls on Sunday, then 2d of July), any day appointed by proclamation for a public holiday, general fast, or general thanksgiving, day following New Year's or Christmas if these days fall on Sunday. Foreign bills must be protested, but inland bills do not require protest.

Chattel Mortgages and Deeds of Trust. Absolute bills of sale or transfer of chattels are void (except as between grantor and grantee) unless grantee forthwith upon execution thereof take actual possession of chattels and grantor ceases to have possession. Chattel mortgage requires to be registered and to have an affidavit indorsed made by the grantee or his agent to the effect that grantor is really indebted to the grantee in the amount expressed in the mortgage, or that a consideration of nature and amount therein expressed really and truly exists, and that to the best of his knowledge and belief the mortgage was not executed for the purpose or with the intent of protecting the property therein described from creditors of the grantor, or of defrauding the creditors of the grantor or any of them. Statutes of Elizabeth (13 Eliz: chap. 5, and 27 Eliz. chap 4) are in force. Under the former all conveyances and dispositions of property made with an intention of defrauding creditors are declared to be null and void against them.

Courts. For the recovery of debts county courts have jurisdiction where debt does not exceed $150. Judge tries all cases without a jury, and no solicitors' or attorneys' fees are allowed. Sixteen circuits are established throughout the Province, at each of which a court is held in August, October, December, and March. A judgment in the county court can not affect land or title to land. Supreme court has jurisdiction in all actions at common law (except that no action can be brought for debt when amount is under $32). All actions are commenced by writ of summons. When claim is for a liquidated amount or debt, summons may be specially indorsed, and if defendant (resident in Province) fails to appear within eight days after service judgment by default may be entered and execution may issue in fourteen days after last day for appearance. Summons may be served on a British subject residing out of the Province in respect of a cause of action arising within jurisdiction or in respect of the breach of a contract made within the jurisdiction. Proceedings in like cases may be brought against any person residing out of Province though not a British subject, but instead of a summons being served upon him he is served with a notice of the summons having been issued. In these cases time for appearance will be regulated according to distance from Province. Upon a minute of a judgment in supreme court being filed such judgment binds all interest in land then held by defendant and also such as he may acquire until judgment is paid. Such judgment will take priority over a subsequent deed or mortgage, and against a previous deed or mortgage, but registered subsequently. A chancery court also exists having full equitable jurisdiction

Depositions. Depositions cannot be used on trial of a cause unless same are taken under a special commission issued out of court in that cause for the purpose of taking evidence.

Descent and Distribution of Property. In cases of intestacy land (subject to widow's right of dower) is divided among all children or their legal representatives in equal shares, and in case there be no children or their representatives then to the next of kin in equal degree, but no representation admitted among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children. If after death of a father, any of his children die intestate without wife or child in the lifetime of the mother, every brother and sister of the intestate shall have an equal share with her. When a brother and sister of the whole blood and a brother and sister of the half blood shall be such next of kin, the distribution shall be confined to the brother and sister of the whole blood. When the next of kin shall be a brother or sister and a grandfather or grandmother, distribution shall be confined to the brother or sister or the representatives of them. The father may be heir to his child dying without issue, and shall be preferred as heir to such child before a brother or sister of such child. Personal estate (after payment of all debts) is distributed as follows: One-third to widow and residue in equal proportions amongst children and those legally representing them; if no children or representatives, then one-half to widow and residue amongst next of kin. No representation among collaterals after brothers' and sisters' children.

Executions. Goods of defendant are bound by an execution out of supreme court from time same is placed in sheriff's hands. An execution from county court does not affect defendant's goods until same are actually levied on. Land may be sold under an execution issued out of supreme court after six months notice of such sale in manner provided by statute.

Exemptions. The wearing apparel and bedding of debtor and his family, and the tools and implements of his trade, one cooking stove and one cow, in all amounting to $50, are exempt from seizure under county court execution. The goods exempt from seizure under an execution out of supreme court are the necessary wearing apparel and bedding of debtor and family and the tools and instruments of his trade or calling, $16 in money and his last cow.

Garnishment. All sums of money, whether liquidated or unliquidated, payable to a debtor for any cause of action other than personal torts or wrongs, can be attached by a creditor either before or after judgment.

Holidays. (See Bills and Notes.)

Interest. Parties may contract to pay interest at any rate agreed on. If no rate mentioned, bills and notes carry interest after maturity at 6 per cent.

Judgments. (See Courts.)

Limitations. On simple contracts, suits must be commenced within six years from time the debts fall due, or from the date of the last payment on account of such debt. A promise or acknowledgment in writing, signed by the debtor, is sufficient to take simple contracts out of the statute, and time will then begin to run from the date of such written promise or acknowledgment. Actions to recover any sums of money secured by any mortgage, judgment or lien, or otherwise, chargeable out of any land, must be brought within twenty years next after a present right to receive the same shall have accrued to some person capable of giving a discharge for the same, unless in the meantime some part of the principal money or interest thereon shall have been paid or some acknowledgment of the right thereto shall have been given in writing by the person by whom the same shall be payable, or his agent, and in such case within twenty years from the last of such payments or acknowledgments.

Probate. (See Administration.)

Replevin. When goods or chattels have been unlawfully distrained for rent, or taken or detained, an action of replevin will lie, by which the goods are returned by the sheriff to the party from whom they have been taken, on his entering into a bond with sureties that he will prosecute for damages. This action is seldom adopted, except in cases of illegal distraint for rent.

Taxes. Commercial travelers not permanently residing in the Province are subject to a tax or license fee of $20 a year. Such commercial travelers selling intoxicating liquors are subject to a tax of $200.

Wills. Wills must be signed in presence of two witnesses present at the same time, who shall in presence of the testator and in the presence of each other sign their names as witnesses. A witness to a will can take no benefit under it, but an executor named in will may be a witness.

SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS OF QUEBEC

RELATING TO

BANKING AND COMMERCIAL USAGES.

Prepared and Revised by Messrs. McGibbon, Casgrain, Ryan & Mitchell, Advocates, Montreal. (See Card in Attorneys' List.)

Acknowledgments. The proof in respect of debt is made by vouchers, deeds, private writings, examination of debtor, affidavit of the plaintiff, and verbal testimony, according to the nature of the case.

Actions may be brought in the courts of the Province by any party, whether a resident or not, who has a civil right to enforce, or who seeks a remedy for an injury suffered. The inhabitants of the Province may be sued there for the fulfilment of obligations contracted by them in foreign countries, even in favor of a foreigner (Civil Code, Art. 28). But every person not a resident in the Province who institutes any civil proceeding in its courts may be compelled by the defendant, if the latter is diligent, to file within a reasonable delay, fixed by the court, a power of attorney authorizing the institution of the action, and to give the opposite party security for the costs which may be occasioned by that party through the proceedings, which are liable to amount from $20 to $150. The names in full of the plaintiffs and their places of residence and occupation, and the residence of the defendant must be given in writs, as also the partnership name when a firm is concerned. The initials of the defendant are sufficient when the action is based upon a promissory note or other such paper when the first name is not signed in full. In the matter of corporations, the principal place of business should be mentioned, and under what laws incorporated.

Affidavits can only be taken in connection with judicial proceedings, or in cases specially provided by statute; otherwise, officer receiving them is criminally liable. Taken within the Province, to be used in its courts, must be sworn to before some officer of the court. Commissioners of the superior court can receive affidavits for use in the circuit court. Like force is given to all foreign affidavits taken before the mayor or chief magistrate of any city, borough, or incorporated town in Great Britain, the colonies, or any foreign country, under their hand and official seal, or before any British consul or consular agent in a foreign country to which he is appointed.

Aliens have a right to acquire and transmit property in the same manner as British subjects. Although not resident in Canada, they may sue or be sued in its courts for the fulfilment of obligations contracted toward or by them, even in foreign countries, provided a legal service can be effected upon them within the Province. (See Actions.) They can not, however, hold any public office nor exercise the franchise. (See Actions, Corporations.)

Assignment and Insolvency. A trader can not give one or more creditors a preference over his other creditors by chattel mortgage, bill of sale, or otherwise. Creditors may, in their own name, impeach the acts of their debtor in fraud of their rights, as for instance, a payment made by an insolvent debtor to a creditor knowing his insolvency is deemed to be made with intent to defraud, and the creditor may be compelled to restore the amount so paid. No abandonment of property can be made in the absence of capias or a demand of assignment. Every trader who has ceased his payments may be required, by any unsecured creditor, for a sum of $200 or upward, or any creditor holding a judgment for $80 or upward, to make an abandonment of his property for the benefit of his creditors in the office of the prothonotary of the court for the district within which the said debtor resides or the capias issued. He must file in court a statement, notice of which must be given to all his creditors by mail, and published in the Quebec official Gazette. The court appoints a curator, after taking the advice of the creditors, at a meeting called for that purpose (in the event of the majority of the creditors in amount and number agreeing, the court is bound to appoint their nominee, but if they do not, the court has the right to appoint another), and the property is sold for the benefit of the creditors, amongst whom its proceeds are divided ratably, after payment of privileged claims. This abandonment only discharges the debtor to the extent of the amount which his creditors have received on account of their claims. The winding-up of insolvent banks, insurance companies, and trading corporations is regulated by a Dominion statute of 1882 and amendments.

Attachment and Capias. A person may, even before judgment, upon affidavit, seize the property of his debtor, whether in the hands of such debtor himself, or of third parties, or arrest his person, on the ground of secretion of property, absconding with intent to defraud, and, in the case of insolvency, of his refusing to assign. A capias for the arrest of a debtor can not be issued for a sum less than $40, but his property may be seized for a debt of $5. To justify a capias, the debt must be a personal one, and contracted within the Province. A previous order from a judge is required if the capias is demanded for unliquidated damages. Women, priests, and septuagenarians are not liable to be capiased.

Banks. (See Corporations, Interest.)

Chattel Mortgages do not exist in Quebec. (See Deeds and Mortgages, and Liens and Privileges.)

Corporations are created by Act of Parliament, special charter, or under the general act relating to the incorporation of joint stock companies by letters patent. Shareholders are only liable to the amount of their shares, and when these shares are paid in full, they are discharged from further liability, except as to debts due to the company's servants. The shareholders in a bank, however, are, in the event of insolvency, liable to an amount equal to the par value of the shares held by them, in addition to any amount not paid upon such shares. Provision has been made for the winding up of joint stock companies under the winding-up act. (Dominion.) Aliens can hold stock and are eligible for directors in any joint stock company; but the majority of the directors of a bank must be British subjects, and the majority of every company must be resident within the Dominion. Foreign commercial corporations may transact business, sue, and be sued here. They may be forced to pay a small provincial tax, if they have a place of business in the Province. Foreign insurance companies are required to deposit with the government a certain amount in bonds or cash before they are permitted to do business in the Dominion.

Courts. The circuit court has original jurisdiction where the amount demanded is less than $100; the superior court where it is that sum or upward. An appeal can be taken to the court of review and court of queen's bench in all cases over $100. An appeal can also be had from the court of queen's bench to the supreme court of Canada, and to her majesty's privy council, in England, in all cases over $2,500; and in cases for smaller amounts, if future rights are involved, or if a fee due to Her Majesty is claimed by the action.

Deeds, Mortgages, and Registration. Mortgages and deeds affecting the title of lands held under the French system must be passed before a notary public. Where the lands are held in free and common socage, such deeds may be passed, either before a notary, or before two witnesses, one of whom makes affidavit to the signatures, in order to prove their authenticity. To take effect from the time they were made, they must be registered within thirty days; otherwise, they do not take effect, as regards third parties, until registered. Mortgages can only be granted on real estate; they can not be given on movables or chattels, except as provided regarding shipping; effects may, however, be pledged by being placed in the hands of a creditor to secure his debt. Judgments give liens only on the real property against which they are registered.

Execution may, in all cases, be issued after fifteen days from the rendering of the judgment. In summary matters the delay is only eight days. It may, however, be taken before the expiration of these delays upon causes which would justify a seizure before judgment. Except for taxes, executions can not issue against immovables unless the judgment is for a sum amounting to or exceeding $40, including costs.

Exemptions. 1. The bed, bedding, and bedsteads in use by him and his family. 2. The ordinary and necessary wearing apparel of himself and his family. 3. Two stoves and their pipes, one pot-hook and its accessories, one pair of andirons, one pair of tongs, and one shovel. 4. All the cooking utensils, knives, forks, spoons, and crockery in use by the family, two tables, two cupboards or dressers, one lamp, one mirror, one washing stand with its toilet accessories, two trunks or valises, the carpets or matting covering the floors, one clock, one sofa and twelve chairs, provided that the total value of such effects does not exceed the sum of $50. 5. All spinning wheels and weaving looms intended for domestic use, one axe, one saw, one gun, six traps, such fishing nets, lines, and seines as are in common use, one tub, one washing machine, one wringer, one sewing machine, two pails, three flat irons, one blacking brush, one scrubbing brush, one broom. 6. Fifty volumes of books, and all drawings executed by the debtor or the members of his family for their use. 7. Fuel and food sufficient for the debtor and his family for three months. 8. One span of plough horses or a yoke of oxen, one horse, one summer vehicle and one winter vehicle, and the harness used by a carter or driver for earning his livelihood, one cow, two pigs, four sheep, the wool from such sheep, the cloth manufactured from such wool, and the hay and other fodder intended for feeding the said animals; and moreover, the following agricultural tools and one plough, one harrow, one working sleigh, one tumbril, one hay-cart with its wheels, and all harness necessary and intended for farming purposes. 9. Books relating to the profession, art, or trade of the debtor to the value of $200. 10. Tools and implements, or other chattels ordinarily used in his profession, art, or trade to the value of $200. 11. Bees to the extent of fifteen hives. 12. Consecrated vessels and things used for religious worship. 13. Family portraits. 14. Immovables declared by a donor or testator or by law, to be exempt from seizure, and sums of money or objects given or bequeathed upon the condition of their being exempt from seizure. 15. Alimentary allowance granted by a court, and sums of money or pensions given as alimony, even though the donor or testator has not expressly declared them to be exempt from seizure; they may, however, be seized for alimentary debts. 16. All vessels, boats, and other fishing craft, tackle, nets, seines, lines, or other fishing apparatus, and provisions belonging to any fisherman, and necessary for his subsistence and that of his family and for his fishing operations; such effects may, however, be seized and sold for their purchase price, but not between the first day of May and the first day of November. 17. Pay and pensions of persons belonging to the army or the navy. 18. Contingent emoluments and fees due to ecclesiastics and ministers of worship by reason of their current services and the income of their clerical endowment. 19. Salaries of public officers, with the exception of those of public officers and employes of the Province, whether permanent or not, are seizable for: (a) One-fifth of every monthly salary not exceeding $1,000 per annum. (b) One-fourth of every monthly salary exceeding $1,000, but not exceeding $2,000 per annum, and (c) One-third of every monthly salary exceeding $2,000 per annum. 20. Salaries of city or town clerks in incorporated cities or towns, except as to the proportions mentioned in paragraph 9. 21. All other salaries and wages, at whatever time and in whatever manner payable for. (a) Four-fifths when they do not exceed $3 per day. (b) Three-quarters when they exceed $3 but do not exceed $6 per day, and (c) Two-thirds when they exceed $6 per day. Note.—The things mentioned in paragraph 11 and following are not only exempt from seizure, but absolutely unseizable.

Foreign Judgments are enforced by way of action at law. If they were rendered out of the Dominion of Canada, any defense set up, or that might have been set up, to the original suit may be pleaded to the suit upon such judgment; but, if the first judgment was rendered in any of the other Provinces of the Dominion in a suit in which the defendant had been served personally, or had appeared, no defense that might have been set up to the original suit can be pleaded to the suit on such judgment. In suits against corporations, service upon the proper officers, according to the law of the place where such service is made, is held to be personal service. If the service have not been personal, or if in the absence of personal service the defendant have not appeared, any defense which might have been set up to the original suit may be made and pleaded to the suit upon such judgment.

Husband and Wife. In default of an antenuptial contract of marriage, which must be in notarial form, there takes place between the consorts, by the mere operation of law, community of property, which is in the nature of a partnership, and of which the husband is the head and has the sole control. Immovable property belonging to either consort before marriage, or inherited from father, mother, or other ascendant during marriage, remains the private property of such consort, and is excluded from the community. A married woman can not become a public trader without the authorization, expressed or implied, of her husband. If so authorized, a wife, who is a public trader, may obligate herself for all that relates to her commerce, and in such case she also binds her husband, if there be community between them. Separation as to bed and board, which does not dissolve the marriage tie, is obtained from the tribunals for cause. It involves separation as to property, if community existed before. Divorce is only granted by a special act of Parliament.

Interest. Any interest may be charged which the parties may lawfully agree upon. If there is no agreement, or if the rate per month is not mentioned, the law fixes the rate of interest at 6 per cent. So when the interest agreed upon is for a period less than a year, without mention of what the legal interest would be.' Corporations, except home and British insurance companies, and those constituted for religious, educational, and charitable purposes, in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, can not receive more than 6 per cent, and those mentioned more than 8, under severe penalties. Banks are not subject to any penalties for usury, but can not exact more than 7 per cent. Note.—A bill regarding usury was submitted to the Dominion Parliament at its last session, but has not yet become law.

Judgments are valid for thirty years. In regard to movables, executions thereon may issue in eight or fifteen days and sale effected in short delays. The registration of a judgment against the immovable property of the debtor operates as a mortgage claim thereon in the creditor's favor. It takes about a week to obtain judgment in either the superior or circuit court if the action be not contested.

Liens and Privileges. In cases of insolvency, the unpaid vendor of a thing has two privileged rights: A right to revendicate it, and a right to preference on the proceeds of the sale; but these rights must be exercised within thirty days from the date of delivery. But if the debtor is not insolvent, the creditor can only revendicate subject to the following conditions: 1. That the sale is not made on credit. 2. That the thing sold is still intact and in the same condition. 3. That the thing sold has not passed into the hands of a third party who has paid the price. 4. That the revendication be exercised within eight days of the delivery, thirty days in case of insolvency. He has also the right to demand the dissolution of the sale, by reason of nonpayment of the price, if the thing sold remain in possession of the buyer; but in case of insolvency, this right can only be exercised during the thirty days next after delivery. Sale is complete by the consent alone of the parties, although no delivery be made. The seller is not obliged to deliver the thing if the buyer does not pay the price, unless a term has been granted for the payment of it, nor, in the latter case, if the purchaser, since the sale, has become insolvent. A promise of sale, accompanied by actual delivery, is equivalent to a sale. The right of stoppage in transitu may be exercised when the goods are in possession of third parties as agents for their delivery.

Limitation of Actions. Judgments and registered titles to and claims against real property can only be prescribed by thirty years, but possession under a translatory title as proprietor, and in good faith, of an immovable for ten years, covers defects of title. Actions in restitution of minors for lesion, in rectification of tutors' accounts, and in rescission of contracts for error, fraud, violence, or fear, are prescribed by ten years. After the same delay architects and contractors are discharged from warranty of work done or directed. Actions on bills of exchange, promissory notes, accounts, and generally all claims of a commercial nature, are prescribable by five years. Prescription of corporate movables takes place after the lapse of three years, reckoning from the date of possession, in favor of a possessor in good faith. There are also certain short prescriptions of two years, and one year, and statutory limitations. Prescription may be renounced or interrupted.

Married Women can not become public traders without the authorization of their husbands. A wife, who is a public trader, if separate as to property, obligates herself for all that relates to her commerce to the extent of her own property. If there be community of property between them, she also binds her husband, and the property of the community is liable for the debts of the business carried on by her.

Notes and Bills of Exchange. Commercial paper includes negotiable instruments for the payment of a specific sum of money, payable absolutely and at all events. It is transferable by indorsement and delivery, or, when payable to bearer, by delivery either with or without indorsement. When a particular place of payment is mentioned, not necessarily a bank, presentment must be made there, and if not paid, the note must be protested for non-payment in order to hold the endorsers. If payable at a bank, presentment may be made either within or after usual banking hours. When payable generally, i. e., when no place of payment is mentioned in the instrument, presentment must be made to the party primarily liable, either personally, or at his domicile, or office, or usual place of business. If he be dead, or absent from the Province, presentment may be made at his last known residence or place of business. In the case of insolvency, all current paper of the insolvent becomes immediately due and exigible. The place of payment of a draft may be fixed by the acceptor in his acceptance. The commercial law of Quebec is founded mainly on the French law, but a great many details thereof come from the old English law. Three days of grace are allowed on bills and notes payable with a term or at sight, but no grace is allowed where they are payable on demand. If the day on which they would otherwise become due is a legal holiday, the delay is of right extended to the next day. Payment must include interest from the last day of grace and all expenses of noting and protesting and notices legally incurred. In the case of bills payable elsewhere than in Canada and Newfoundland, damages are also allowed equal to the costs of exchange and re-exchange. Indorsers and other parties secondarily liable are only held by protest and notice. Bills of lading and warehouse receipts are by statute made transferable by endorsement and delivery, but they can not be transferred as security for an antecedent indebtedness.

Partnerships must be registered in the office of the county registrar and prothonotary of the superior court. The same rule applies to joint-stock companies and to persons carrying on business alone under a name other than their own. The laws applicable to commercial partnerships are derived from the French and English commercial laws. The property of the partnership is to be applied to the payment of the creditors of the firm, in preference to the separate creditors of any partner; and in case such property be found insufficient for the purpose, the private property of the partners or of any one of them is also to be applied to the payment of the debts of the partnership; but only after the payment out of it of the separate creditors of such partners or partner respectively. Partnerships may be limited or general. If limited, the following declaration must be registered: 1. The name or firm of the partnership. 2. The general nature of the business to be carried on. 3. The names of all the general and special partners, distinguishing which are general and which special, and their usual place of residence. 4. The amount of capital contributed by each special partner. 5. The period at which the partnership commenced and that of its termination. The general partners in a limited partnership are jointly and severally liable for the debts of the partnership, but the special partners are only liable to the extent of the amount they contributed. If the above statement is not registered all the partners are jointly and severally liable. In general partnerships all the partners are jointly and severally liable. An agreement by which one of the partners shall not be liable for the losses of the partnership is null as toward third parties, but binding between the partners themselves. If a partnership be dissolved, or a judicial demand be made for such dissolution, the court or a judge, upon demand of one of the partners, after notice given to the others, has power to appoint one or more liquidators. The liquidator must give the security fixed by the court or judge and be sworn to faithfully perform his duties before he can act. He is subject to the summary jurisdiction of the court or judge. He liquidates the business with the consent of the partners, or in default of such consent, with the approval of the court or judge after notice to the partners.

Wills. Wills may be made in three different forms: 1. In authentic form, to wit, proved before a notary public and two witnesses, or before two notaries public. The original will, made in authentic form, remains with the notary, who furnishes certified copies thereof. 2. In holograph form, to wit, they must be wholly written and signed by the testator, and require no witnesses; and a will so made in a foreign country disposing of property in the Province of Quebec would be valid here. 3. In the form derived from the laws of England, to wit, before two witnesses, who attest and sign the will immediately in presence of the testator and at his request. Wills made in authentic form need no probate, but those made in the other forms must be probated. Any one can dispose absolutely, and without restriction, of the whole of his property, movable or immovable, by will. Executors appointed under a will have possession of the estate of the testator, and are allowed a year and a day to carry out the provisions of the will. They can be given the most absolute powers by the testator, and their seizin may be extended beyond the year and the day allowed.
