Changing Demands in 1957

GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT in current dollars has continued to rise to new highs and for the year 1957 may total $436 billion, 5 per cent above 1956. The bulk of the increase reflects higher prices and real output is up only slightly. Pressure on productive resources has eased as the labor force has continued to grow and industrial capacity has been significantly enlarged. Most recently, industrial production has contracted somewhat, and demands for bank credit have declined. In mid-November a number of the Federal Reserve Banks reduced their discount rates.

The economy has been operating at expanding or advanced levels of activity for three years. In 1955 expansive forces were widespread, culminating in intensive utilization of manpower and industrial resources and in strong upward pressures on prices. In 1956 a sharp advance in business expenditures for fixed capital was a major influence in maintaining pressure on resources and prices, despite large reductions in consumer outlays for new automobiles and houses.

This year, business outlays for fixed capital have leveled off. Business inventory policies have been cautious; additions to stocks have been much smaller than in 1955 or 1956. Net foreign investment has declined from the exceptionally high level reached early this year. Exports have come down from the peak they attained during the Suez crisis, while imports have been fairly stable.

Consumer outlays for goods and services this year have about kept pace with growth in incomes after taxes. Expenditures for nondurable goods and services have risen considerably further, while purchases of durable goods and new houses, taken together, have not varied much.

An upsurge in Federal defense outlays that began in the spring of 1956 continued to mid-1957. Since midyear, defense spending has been reduced. State and local spending has maintained its steady growth.

Recently, the impact of lower business and defense demands has shown up primarily in durable goods lines and in minerals. In manufacturing, output of durable goods in October was down 7 per cent from the end of 1956, while output of nondurable goods was little changed. Easing in demand for durable goods is also indicated by the reduced level of manufacturers' new orders in recent months and by a continued decline in unfilled orders. Industrial capacity has been expanded and the margin of unutilized capacity has widened. Materials and finished goods are in easier supply than they were earlier in the period of general expansion.

While prices of scrap metals and other basic industrial materials have declined this year, prices of some of the more highly fabricated materials have increased. Average prices of all industrial materials have shown little change. Meanwhile, prices of finished goods have edged up and farm products have been higher than in 1956. At the consumer level, prices have increased further this year, with some tendency to level off in recent months.

Stability of aggregate real output, growth in the labor force, and sizable increases in output per manhour have been reflected in some easing in the labor market. Unemployment in October, at 2.5 million, was moderately above a year earlier and, after seasonal adjustment, amounted to 4.6 per cent of the labor force. Nonfarm employment, seasonally adjusted, declined somewhat after August and in October was only a little above a year earlier. Manufacturing employment was down 450,000 over the year and the average workweek was more than one hour shorter. In nonmanufacturing activities, employment has not changed much since midyear and in October was 600,000 above a year earlier.

BUSINESS INVESTMENT

Business investment outlays this year are likely to equal the record amount spent in 1956. Expenditures for producers' durable equipment and construction, which rose sharply in 1955 and 1956, have remained at a high level, as the chart shows. Inventory accumulation has been less than half as large as in either of the preceding two years.

Corporate profits after taxes in the first half of 1957 were about the same as a year earlier, with sales up and profit margins down. Retained earnings were smaller, however, and, notwithstanding substantial growth in depreciation reserves, internal funds available to corporations were little larger than in 1956.

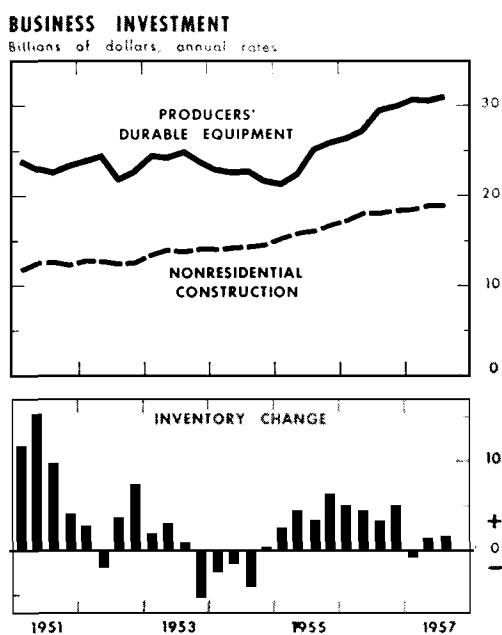

To finance the record volume of fixed investment outlays in 1957, corporations, particularly in the utilities industry, have relied heavily on the capital markets. In the first 10 months of this year new issues of corporate securities were 30 per cent larger than in the corresponding period of last year. On the other hand, business borrowing from banks has been considerably less than last year, partly because inventory accumulation has been smaller. Since midsummer such borrowing has changed little although a substantial seasonal rise ordinarily occurs. Corporate liquidity, as measured by the ratio of cash and Government security holdings to current liabilities, declined further to midyear, the latest date for which figures are available.

Fixed investment. Outlays for plant and equipment by nonfarm businesses, as measured by the Commerce Department-SEC Survey, have leveled off this year after expanding by more than two-fifths from early 1955 to late 1956. Expenditures by farm operators for construction and equipment are also little changed from last year. Investment outlays of nonprofit institutions, such as churches, schools, and hospitals, have continued to rise.

Construction costs and prices of machinery and other equipment have risen somewhat further, and the physical volume of fixed investment is apparently down some from its high of late 1956 and early 1957. While about half of business spending for fixed capital is for replacement and modernization of facilities, additions to capacity this year, as in 1956, have been substantial and widespread. According to present estimates, generating capacity of electric utilities will rise 7 per cent. Increases in capacity for major industrial materials range from an estimated 2 per cent for primary aluminum and 5 per cent for steel ingots to 14 per cent for synthetic rubber.

Business spending for fixed capital has shown diverse tendencies this year, in contrast to 1955 and 1956 when nearly all major industries increased their capital spending. As may be seen in the chart on the following page, expenditures in public utilities have advanced steadily; in manufacturing they rose slightly and then leveled off; in transportation, including railroads, they have changed little. In the commercial group, outlays have declined throughout the year and in the current quarter are estimated to be one-tenth below their high of late 1956.

Nonfarm businesses plan to reduce their spending for plant and equipment 7 per cent in 1958, according to the survey taken in late September and October by the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company. The anticipated decline is concentrated in manufacturing industries, where outlays are scheduled to fall

NOTE.—Department of Commerce and Securities and Exchange Commission quarterly estimates of outlays by nonfarm business, adjusted for seasonal variation. Estimates for third and fourth quarters of 1957 are based on expenditures anticipated by business.

16 per cent. Railroads and mining also show large percentage reductions. Further small increases are planned by the electric and gas utility and petroleum industries.

The main influence on business decisions to reduce plant and equipment programs is a widespread decrease in rates of capacity utilization. According to the McGraw-Hill Survey, manufacturing industries were operating at 82 per cent of capacity in September, compared with 86 per cent at the end of 1956 and 92 per cent in December 1955.

Inventories. The rise in book value of nonfarm business inventories has slowed markedly. The increase from December to September was $2.3 billion, after seasonal adjustment, compared with $5.2 billion a year earlier. Higher costs of replacement have continued to account for much of the increase in value of inventories, and physical accumulation has been small.

Most of the increase since last December has been in value of manufacturers' inventories, where half of it has been in finished goods. Since July, the level of such stocks has changed little. Accumulation in the first half of the year was largest in durable goods lines, particularly in the primary metals, transportation equipment, and machinery industries.

Distributors' stocks declined early this year but have increased moderately since spring. In September, stocks were little larger than at the year-end, and in a number of lines they were smaller. In October, dealers' stocks of new automobiles were reduced further from advanced levels.

Sales by manufacturers and distributors have declined in recent months and stock-sales ratios have continued to rise. In durable goods lines, particularly in manufacturing, ratios were higher in September than in most recent years, but in nondurable goods lines they have continued to fluctuate in a narrow range.

RESIDENTIAL CONSTRUCTION

The number of new private nonfarm dwelling units started in recent months has been moderately above the low reached early this year, after allowance for seasonal factors. About one million private units are likely to be started in 1957, compared with 1.1 million in 1956 and 1.3 million in 1955. Vacancy rates have continued low, and new houses have been selling rather well at higher prices.

Expenditures for private nonfarm residential construction, after a two-year decline, have risen moderately since the spring. Activity has continued to be supported by a shift toward somewhat larger and more expensive units and by expansion in outlays for additions and alterations.

Throughout the period of decline, the number of housing starts financed under conventional arrangements remained large, while the number financed under Federally underwritten programs declined sharply. As other interest rates rose, the rates permitted on FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgages became less attractive to investors.

To facilitate purchases of houses, the Federal Housing Administration in December 1956 raised the maximum permissible interest rate on FHA-insured mortgages from 4½ per cent to 5 per cent. Since then the number of applications for mortgage assistance received monthly by the FHA has increased appreciably. In addition, the FHA this year reduced the required downpayment and increased the maximum interest rate to 5¼ per cent. At the same time, however, it placed a limit of 1 to 2½ per cent on the discounts that builders or sellers may pay lenders on FHA mortgages.

CONSUMER EXPENDITURES

In contrast to a leveling off or decline in some important areas, consumer spending has been an expansive force this year. In September and October, however, retail sales fell below their summer peaks, with widespread incidence of influenza probably contributing to the decline.

Consumer outlays for goods and services in 1957 will probably show a rise of 5 per cent, the same as in 1956. Owing to advances in consumer prices, less than half of the increase will represent a gain in real consumption. On a per capita basis, real consumption has changed little since the spring of 1956.

Nondurable goods and services. Consumer expenditures for nondurable goods and services accounted for most of the rise in gross national product from late 1956 to the summer of 1957. In the third quarter spending for nondurable goods was 6 per cent above a year earlier. A 7 per cent increase in outlays for food reflected higher prices and population growth. Nearly all of the 4 per cent rise in outlays for clothing and shoes represented a gain in real takings, as prices were up only slightly. Spending for nondurable goods, which was especially strong in the spring and early summer, receded somewhat in early autumn.

Expenditures for services have continued their steady growth and for the year may be up 6 per cent. Consumer demands have been strong for such services as shelter, utilities, medical care, and education, and prices of services have maintained their persistent advance.

Durable goods. The value of consumer purchases of durable goods so far this year has remained near the level of late 1956. This stability is in contrast to a sharp expansion in 1955 and to a downward adjustment in 1956.

Sales of domestically produced new automobiles to consumers and business may total 5.9 million units in 1957, as compared with 5.8 million in 1956 and 7.4 million in 1955. In addition, imports are about double the number of last year. List prices averaged about 7 per cent higher for 1957 models than for 1956 models. With dealers' margins apparently holding up at least as well as last year and with purchases of accessories expanding further, consumer outlays increased much more than the number of units sold. Manufacturers have raised list prices on the recently introduced 1958 models, but the increase is considerably smaller than the one last year.

Consumer purchases of automobiles have been facilitated by widespread use of credit, at a somewhat higher cost. Nearly two-thirds of the new cars purchased this year have been financed by instalment credit, a proportion slightly below the postwar high of 1956. Terms have continued liberal and, with an increasing proportion of new car contracts stipulating maturities of 36 months, the average maturity has lengthened further. Downpayments on new cars have not been significantly liberalized. The amount of instalment credit extended for purchasing new and used automobiles has risen further, reflecting an increase in the average amount of the contract. Repayments have also continued to grow and the volume of auto instalment debt outstanding is likely to rise about as much as it did in 1956.

Consumer purchases of furniture and household equipment this year have remained at the advanced level reached in the spring of 1956. Prices of household durable goods, particularly furniture and floor coverings, have risen since then and the physical volume of purchases has apparently declined somewhat. Purchases of major appliances, such as refrigerators, freezers, washing machines, and driers, have declined from a year ago, while demands for the smaller appliances have apparently been strong. Sales of television sets have about matched last year's performance.

PERSONAL INCOME AND SAVING

Personal income for 1957 is estimated at $343 billion, about 5 per cent larger than in 1956. The advance that began in 1954 continued to midsummer, as the chart shows, but a decline occurred in October.

Through August, wages and salaries rose more slowly this year than last, and then came down. In October the total, at an annual rate of $240 billion, was close to the June level and 3½ per cent above a year earlier. Recent declines in wages and salaries have reflected reductions in employment and hours of work in manufacturing industries, mainly in durable goods lines. Increases in wage rates in manufacturing

PERSONAL INCOME

Billions of dollars, annual rates

NOTE.—Department of Commerce monthly estimates, adjusted for seasonal variation.

have averaged less this year than in 1956. Wage and salary payments in such activities as finance and services have continued to expand.

Government transfer payments have been considerably larger than in 1956 because of broadened coverage and increased benefits under social security programs. Income of farm proprietors in the first 10 months of 1957 was slightly larger than in the same period of 1956. Nonfarm business and professional income rose to a new high at mid-year and has since shown little change. Dividends and interest income have continued to increase.

Consumer spending for goods and services has increased about as much as personal disposable income, and personal saving in 1957 may equal the 1956 total of $20 billion. The ratio of saving to disposable income, however, may be down slightly.

Saving in financial forms by individuals was larger in the first three quarters of 1957 than in the corresponding period of 1956. Growth in time deposits was particularly marked. Net purchases of corporate securities were also larger than in 1956 or in most other recent years. A major offset to growth in financial saving in these forms was the fact that redemptions of United States savings bonds exceeded purchases by a larger amount than in 1956.

Mortgage debt of individuals has grown less than last year, reflecting the smaller volume of residential construction and the larger volume of repayments. Short-term consumer instalment debt outstanding, mainly for financing purchases of durable goods, has increased about the same amount as in 1956.

GOVERNMENT PURCHASES

Federal Government purchases of goods and services expanded markedly in the year ending June 1957 as spending for national security programs increased. Federal purchases of goods and services for other purposes changed little. Despite an increase in tax receipts resulting from expansion in incomes, the Federal cash surplus was smaller and the Federal Government's fiscal operations exerted less restraint on the economy than in fiscal year 1956.

The estimates of Federal expenditures for fiscal year 1958 contained in the Midyear Budget Review released in August indicated reductions in military outlays from the advanced rates reached in the spring, and such expenditures have come down somewhat. The major impact of these reductions has been in the aircraft industry, where overtime work has been curtailed and employment has declined. Civilian employment in the Defense Department and the size of the armed forces have also been reduced. More recently, some upward revision in the estimate of military spending has been officially announced. The defense program is being re-examined in the light of recent scientific and other developments abroad.

State and local government expenditures for goods and services have expanded steadily. This growth reflects a large and continuing rise in employment, higher salaries, and enlarged expenditures for schools, highways, and other construction.

National Summary of Business Conditions

Released for publication November 15

Industrial production and factory employment declined in October, while the value of construction activity increased slightly to a new high. Retail sales showed a moderate decrease. From mid-October to mid-November, wholesale prices changed little. Bank credit contracted, and yields on U. S. Government securities generally turned down. In mid-November discount rates were reduced at several Federal Reserve Banks.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION

The Board's seasonally adjusted index of industrial production in October was 142 per cent of the 1947-49 average, two points below September and four points below a year ago. Output of durable goods and minerals declined further, while activity in the nondurable goods industries was maintained at the record September level. Utility output of electricity declined slightly but remained above the year-ago level.

Steel mill operations decreased contraseasonally in October, by one point, to 81 per cent of capacity. In early November, the operating rate fell to 78 per cent and ingot production was about one-fifth below a year ago. Production of construction materials was reduced in October reflecting cutbacks in clay and glass products as well as in lumber. Activity in industries manufacturing producers' equipment generally declined further and was about 8 per cent below the spring peak. Auto assemblies were curtailed in October, in part by work stoppages, but production schedules for November indicate a marked recovery from the reduced levels of the September-October change-over period. Television and furniture output continued to decline.

Over-all activity in nondurable goods industries was maintained, despite small reductions indicated in output of textile, apparel, and rubber products. Minerals production declined as output of coal and metals declined further.

CONSTRUCTION

Private housing starts in October were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of one million units. For six consecutive months starts have been around this figure. Value of new construction activity advanced somewhat to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $48.3 billion. Such outlays have been rising since midyear, reflecting increases in private residential building and in some fields of public construction. Industrial construction has declined appreciably from the record level maintained from mid-1956 through May of this year.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment in nonfarm establishments declined somewhat further in October, reflecting mainly reductions in manufacturing industries. At a seasonally adjusted level of 52.5 million, nonfarm employment was 300,000 below the record level of August, but about 140,000 above October of last year. Weekly earnings of factory workers dropped by about $1.00, to $82.16, reflecting a half-hour reduction in the average workweek. Unemployment changed little from September, but was moderately higher than a year ago.

DISTRIBUTION

Seasonally adjusted retail sales declined 2 per cent in October. The decrease, which was fairly general, apparently was influenced by the incidence of Asian influenza. Sales at food stores and automotive outlets changed little. At department stores, sales declined substantially in October, but were recovering in early November.

COMMODITY PRICES

The general level of wholesale commodity prices was relatively stable from mid-October to mid-November. Prices of feed grains declined but livestock and meats recovered somewhat. Average prices of industrial commodities changed little in this period, although some basic materials continued to decline. Steel scrap was down sharply further, and there were decreases in tin, rubber, and cotton textiles.

Consumer prices rose very slightly further in September. Decreases in some fresh foods were more than offset by continuing advances in some other goods and services.

BANK CREDIT AND RESERVES

Total credit at city banks declined nearly $1 billion over the four weeks ending November 6.

INTEREST RATES

Weekly average market yields for long-term U. S. Government  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent bonds and for longest Treasury bills; latest shown are for week ending Nov. 8.

Business loans and security loans each went down about $400 million. Holdings of U. S. Government securities declined steadily following bank purchases of new Treasury issues in late September and early October. Holdings of other securities increased as banks purchased new Federal National Mortgage Association notes in late October.

Average member bank borrowings from the Federal Reserve exceeded excess reserves by about $300 million in the four weeks ending November 13. Over the period, reserves supplied mainly through Federal Reserve purchases of U.S. Government securities and reductions in required reserves were greater than reserves absorbed by a decline in float and currency outflows.

SECURITY MARKETS

Yields on U. S. Government securities generally turned down between mid-October and mid-November. The yield on three-month Treasury bills dropped from a peak of 3.67 per cent in mid-October to below the Federal Reserve discount rate. On November 15, four Federal Reserve Banks reduced the discount rate from 3.5 per cent to 3.0 per cent. From mid-October to mid-November, yields on State and local government bonds were stable and yields on corporate bonds increased. Common stock prices declined somewhat further.

Federal Reserve data. Loans to banks are excluded. Securities other than U. S. Government are included in the total but not shown separately. Weekly figures, latest shown are for Nov. 6.

NOTE.—There are maintained in the Treasury—(1) as a reserve for United States notes and Treasury notes of 1890—$156,039,431 in gold bullion; (2) as security for Treasury notes of 1890—an equal dollar amount in standard silver dollars (these notes are being canceled and retired on receipt); (3) as security for outstanding silver certificates—silver in bullion and standard silver dollars of a monetary value equal to the face amount of such silver certificates; and (4) as security for gold certificates—gold bullion of a value at the legal standard equal to the face amount of such gold certificates. Federal Reserve notes are obligations of the United States and a first lien on all the assets of the issuing Federal Reserve Bank. Federal Reserve notes are secured by the deposit with Federal Reserve agents of a like amount of gold certificates or of gold certificates and such discounted or purchased paper as is eligible under the terms of the Federal Reserve Act, or of direct obligations of the United States. Each Federal Reserve Bank must maintain a reserve in gold certificates of at least 25 per cent against its Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation. Gold certificates deposited with Federal Reserve agents as collateral, and those deposited with the Treasurer of the United States as a redemption fund, are counted as reserve. Gold certificates, as herein used, includes credits with the Treasurer of the United States payable in gold certificates. Federal Reserve Bank notes and national bank notes are in process of retirement.

NOTE.—For description of statement and back figures, see BULLETIN for January 1948, pp. 24-32. The composition of a few items differs slightly from the description in the BULLETIN article; stock of Federal Reserve Banks held by member banks is included in other securities and in capital and miscellaneous accounts, net, and balances of the Postal Savings System and the Exchange Stabilization Fund with the U. S. Treasury are netted against capital and miscellaneous accounts, net, instead of against U. S. Govt. deposits and Treasury cash. Total deposits and currency shown in the monthly Chart Book excludes foreign bank deposits, net, and Treasury cash. Except on call dates, figures are rounded to nearest $100 million and may not add to the totals.

<sup>1</sup> Monthly and weekly yields are averages of daily figures for U. S. Govt. and corporate bonds. Yields of State and local govt. general obligations are based on Thursday figures; and of preferred stocks, on Wednesday figures. Figures for common stocks are as of the end of the period, except for annual averages.

<sup>2</sup> Consists of fully taxable, marketable 2½ per cent bonds due or first callable after 12 years, through Sept. 30, 1955, and those due or callable in 10-20 years, beginning Oct. 1, 1955.

<sup>3</sup> Consists of the 3½ per cent bond of 1978-83 and, beginning Feb. 1, 1955, the 3 per cent bond of February 1955.

<sup>5</sup> Standard and Poor's Corporation. Preferred stock ratio is based on 8 median yields in a sample of noncallable issues—12 industrial and 2 public utility. For common stocks, the earnings/price ratio is now computed for the 500 stocks in the price index, but figures prior to June 1957 are based on the 90 stocks formerly included in the daily price index. The dividend/price ratio has not yet been converted to the broader base.

<sup>6</sup> Includes bonds rated Aa and A, data for which are not shown separately. Because of a limited number of suitable issues, the number of corporate bonds in some groups has varied somewhat.

<sup>1</sup> Ledger balances of member firms of the New York Stock Exchange carrying margin accounts, as reported to the Exchange. Customers' debit and free credit balances exclude balances maintained with the reporting firm by other member firms of national securities exchanges and balances of the reporting firm and of general partners of the reporting firm. Balances are net for each customer—i. e., all accounts of one customer are consolidated. Money borrowed includes borrowings from banks and from other lenders except member firms of national securities exchanges. Data are as of the end of the month, except money borrowed, which is as of the last Wednesday of the month beginning June 1955.

<sup>2</sup> Figures are for last Wednesday of month for weekly reporting member banks, which account for about 70 per cent of all loans for this purpose. Column 5 includes some loans for purchasing or carrying U. S. Govt. securities (such loans are reported separately only by New York and Chicago banks). On June 30, 1956, reporting banks outside New York and Chicago held $51 million of such loans. On the same date insured commercial banks not reporting weekly held loans of $28 million for purchasing and carrying U. S. Govt. securities and of $384 million for other securities. Noninsured banks had $33 million of such loans, probably mostly for purchasing or carrying other securities.

NOTE.—Statistics beginning Mar. 31, 1956, reflect the expanded coverage and the new classification of agencies now reported in the Treasury Bulletin. The revised statement includes a larger number of agencies, and their activities are classified according to the type of fund they represent. Funds are combined in the table above, but are shown separately in the table on the following page. Classifications by supervisory authorities are those in existence currently. Where current Treasury compilations do not provide detailed breakdown of loans, these items have been classified by Federal Reserve on basis of information about the type of lending activity involved.

A few major activities and several minor ones, first reported for June 30, 1956, are not included for later dates, because they are not reporting on a quarterly basis.

*Adjusted totals; these reflect exclusion of data for agencies reporting other than quarterly, the latest data for which are shown at the bottom of the table on the opposite page.

<sup>1</sup> Figures for trust revolving funds include interagency items. For all types of funds combined, loans by purpose and agency are shown on a gross basis; total loans and all other assets, on a net basis, i. e., after reserve for losses.

<sup>4</sup> Effective Jan. 1, 1957, the production credit corporations were merged in the Federal intermediate credit banks, pursuant to the Farm Credit Act of 1956, approved July 26, 1956 (70 Stat. 659). Thereafter operations of the banks (including the corporations) are classified as trust revolving transactions.

<sup>9</sup> Figures prior to 1951 are for the Panama Railroad Company. The Panama Canal Company, established in 1951, combined the Panama Railroad Company with the business activities of the Panama Canal (not reported prior to that time).

Electric power. Figures are for Class A and B electric utilities (which account for about 95 per cent of all electric power operations) and are obtained from reports of the Federal Power Commission, except that quarterly figures on operating revenue and profits before taxes are partly estimated by the Federal Reserve to include affiliated nonelectric operations.

Telephone. Revenues and profits are for telephone operations of the Bell System Consolidated (including the 20 operating subsidiaries and the Long Lines and General departments of American Telephone and Telegraph Company) and for two affiliated telephone companies, which together represent about 85 per cent of all telephone operations. Dividends are for the 20 operating subsidiaries and the two affiliates. Data are obtained from the Federal Communications Commission.

All series. Profits before taxes refer to income after all charges and before Federal income taxes and dividends. For detailed description of series, see pp. 662-666 of the BULLETIN for June 1949 (manufacturing); pp. 215-217 of the BULLETIN for March 1942 (public utilities); and p. 908 of the BULLETIN for September 1944 (electric power).

NOTE.—For loans acquired, the monthly figures may not add to annual totals, and for loans outstanding, the end-of-December figures may differ from end-of-year figures, because monthly figures represent book value of ledger assets whereas year-end figures represent annual statement asset values, and because data for year-end adjustments are more complete.

NOTE.—Monthly figures for the period January 1940–August 1956 are shown on pp. 1043–1054 of the BULLETIN for October 1956.

A discussion of the composition and characteristics of the data and a description of the methods used to derive the estimates are shown in the BULLETIN for January 1954, pp. 9–17. Estimates of instalment credit extended and repaid are based on information from accounting records of retail outlets and financial institutions and often include charges incurred under the instalment contract. Renewals and refinancing of loans, repurchases and resales of instalment paper, and certain other transactions may increase the amount of both credit extended and credit repaid without adding to the amount of credit outstanding.

<sup>1</sup> Data on extensions and repayments for retail outlets and commercial banks have been adjusted to avoid duplications resulting from large transfers of other consumer goods paper. As a result, the differences between extensions and repayments for these institutions do not equal the changes in outstanding credit.

<sup>2</sup> The indexes of employment and payrolls, wholesale commodity prices, and consumer prices are compiled by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Nonagricultural employment covers employees only and excludes personnel in the armed forces. The consumer price index is the revised series, reflecting, beginning January 1953, the inclusion of some new series and revised weights; prior to January 1953, indexes are based on the "interim adjusted" and "old" indexes converted to the base 1947-49=100.

<sup>1</sup> These figures are not estimates for all department stores in the United States. They are the actual dollar amounts reported by a group of department stores located in various cities throughout the country. In 1956, sales by these stores accounted for about 50 per cent of estimated total department store sales.

<sup>4</sup> The first three ratios are of stocks and/or orders at the end of the month to sales during the month. The final ratio is based on totals of sales and receipts for the month.

NOTE.—For description and monthly figures for back years, see BULLETIN for October 1952, pp. 1098-1102.

Tables on the following pages include the principal available statistics of current significance relating to international capital transactions of the United States, foreign gold reserves and dollar holdings, and foreign central banks. Figures on international capital transactions of the United States are collected by the Federal Reserve Banks from banks, bankers, brokers, and dealers in the United States in accordance with the Treasury Regulation of November 12, 1934. Other data are compiled largely from regularly published sources such as central bank statements and official statistical bulletins. Back figures for 1941 and prior years, together with descriptive text, may be obtained from the Board's publication, Banking and Monetary Statistics.

<sup>2</sup> Preliminary. n.a. Not available.<sup>1</sup> Short-term liabilities reported in these statistics represent principally deposits and U. S. Govt. obligations maturing in not more than one year from their date of issue, held by banking institutions in the United States; small amounts of bankers' acceptances and commercial paper and of liabilities payable in foreign currencies are also included.<sup>2</sup> Includes International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, International Monetary Fund, and United Nations and other international organizations. Excludes Bank for International Settlements, reported under Other Europe.<sup>3</sup> Represents funds held with banks and bankers in the United States (and in accounts with the U. S. Treasury) by foreign central banks and by foreign central governments and their agencies (including official purchasing missions, trade and shipping missions, diplomatic and consular establishments, etc.).<sup>4</sup> Beginning Apr. 30, data include certain accounts previously classified as "private."<sup>5</sup> These data are based on reports by banks in the Second (New York) Federal Reserve District and include funds held in an account with the U. S. Treasury. They represent a partial breakdown of the amounts shown in the "other" categories in tables 1a-1c.<sup>6</sup> Based on reports by banks in all Federal Reserve districts.

NOTE.—Statistics on international capital transactions of the United States are based on reports by banks, bankers, brokers, and dealers. Beginning with the BULLETIN for June 1954 (as explained on p. 591 of that issue), tables reflect changes in reporting forms and instructions made as of Mar. 31, 1954, as well as changes in content, selection, and arrangement of material published. For discontinued tables and data reported under previous instructions, see BULLETIN for May 1954, pp. 540-545.

<sup>1</sup> Rates shown represent mainly those at which the Central bank either discounts or makes advances against eligible commercial paper and/or government securities for commercial banks or brokers. In certain cases other rates for these countries are given in the following note.

<sup>2</sup> Discounts or advances at other rates include: Japan—various rates depending on type of paper or transaction and extent of borrowing from central bank, including 8.40 per cent for discount of paper related to domestic commercial transactions (rate shown is for advances on commercial paper and miscellaneous collateral); Chile—rates in excess of 6 per cent are applied to rediscounts in excess of 50 per cent of the rediscounting bank's capital and reserves; El Salvador—3 per cent for agricultural and industrial paper; Indonesia—various rates depending on type of paper, collateral, commodity involved, etc.; Costa Rica—5 per cent for paper related to commercial transactions (rate shown is for agricultural and industrial paper); and Peru—4 per cent for industrial paper and mining paper, and 3 per cent for most agricultural paper.

<sup>3</sup> Since Nov. 1, the discount rate is set each week at 1/4 per cent above the latest average tender rate for Treasury bills.

<sup>4</sup> Since May 16, this rate applies to advances against commercial paper as well as against government securities and other eligible paper.
